

L.B. Named Beauty Queen of U.S. Cities

By MARY ELLIS CARLTON

Long Beach — the Queen of Beaches, mecca of international beauty queens and new home of the Queen Mary — has added still another queen title to its growing list of royal attractions.

It has been named 1967 beauty queen of America's metropolitan cities.

Still very much in the news for purchase of the Queen Mary, Long Beach will make national headlines again next month when presented this year's top "City Beautiful" award by Keep America Beautiful Inc., the national agency concerned mainly with litter prevention.

In a telegram announcing Long Beach as winner of the nationwide competition, Reuben L. Perin, KAB president, said:

"Your city's program — spearheaded by the Long Beach Beautiful committee of the Chamber of Commerce — has promoted a cleaner, more attractive community, a litter-conscious citizenry, a general improvement of commercial and residential properties and has impressed upon the residents that litter-prevention and beautification are everybody's responsibility."

Mrs. George P. Taubman Jr., chairman of Long Beach Beautiful, will accept the award on behalf of Long Beach at KAB's annual awards luncheon Nov. 9 in New York City.

Long Beach is the only metropolitan area receiving such an award.

Other local leaders attending the New York conference will be Jack O'Neil.

LBJ's Freeze Seems Aimed at the House

Thaw Due As Budget Wins OK

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson has ordered a temporary freeze on federal spending commitments — except for national defense and vital health and welfare programs — pending an end to the budget battle with Congress.

The White House, confirming this Saturday, described the presidential order as a holding action and not a spending cut.

Johnson signed the memorandum to all government agencies on Wednesday.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara next day was the first to publicly announce a response. He said the Pentagon would refrain from commitments on all future military construction projects not necessary for the Vietnam war effort.

The Defense Department announced also a halt in bid openings for civilian rivers and harbors projects handled by the Army engineers.

Tiled Texan

Q. On the way back from a recent vacation trip, my car broke down in Vega, a small town in Texas, and I was forced to sell it. I received $5 on the spot and was to get another $15 when I sent the pink slip. I've misplaced the address of the buyer, the Final service station. Could ACTION LINE get the address for me? A.T., Long Beach.

A. Yes. ACTION LINE talked with the buyer who says he's "been waitin'" for the title to arrive and will be glad to get it. His name and address is being mailed to you.

Minnie Not Mini

Q. What has become of the whale skeleton that used to be on display at Colorado Lagoon? When and where was the animal caught? D.T.B., Long Beach.

A. The tale of the whale is a tale of a tale — though ACTION LINE will not vouch for its absolute veracity on all points. The official version is that Minnie Whale showed up one day in 1897 about 150 yards off the foot of Alamitos Avenue (the 63-foot mammal apparently lay for some time nearly immobile there and probably was mortally ill). After a time, two venturesome youths, Arthur Hewitt and Lewis Lang, gathered up their courage and a heavy rope, swam out to the whale and looped the line around its tail. Then a house movers' team hauled the leathargic leviathan close to the beach, where the next ebb tide left all 60 tons of Minnie high and dry. The animal was a great tourist attraction for several days. Then she died and, in short order, residents downwind began grumbling. So Minnie's flesh was removed and buried or burned. The dry bones subsequently were wired together and have been displayed over the years at half a dozen locations around town including Lincoln Park and Colorado Lagoon. The bones, dismantled and crated, now repose in storage in the Fire Department's former headquarters at 341 Pacific Ave., where nobody knows quite what to do with them.

Home in Indiana

Q. My mother, who will be 100 years old in January, is in a home somewhere near Cedar Lake, Ind. I've lost contact with her and would like to send her some warm clothing, roses, and candy and fruit for her birthday and Christmas. Please help me locate which home she is in. E.S., Long Beach.

A. Your mother resides at the Lake County Home in Crown Point, Ind. George Vlahos, assistant director of the home, tells ACTION LINE her health is relatively good. She has to sit most of the time but she is lucid, talkative and is looking forward to her 100th birthday. We are sending you the information about your mother including her address, and the name of a nearby florist.

SOMETHING FISHY IN THESE NUPTIALS

When Jack Tyre, 26, and Corna Day, 29, decided they'd get married underwater, the idea seemed great. But the couple found they had one problem—no minister. So Tyre gave the Rev. Michael Maxon (left) a month of instruction in the fine art of scuba diving and on Saturday all three—attended by best man and matron of honor—descended into the sailfish tank at Marineland of the Pacific to exchange their wedding vows. The couple, both members of the Underwater Motion Picture Association, exchanged a dry-land kiss (right) after the ceremony ended. Marineland's fish boycotted strange wedding.

DISNEYLAND—THEN DEATH

Mother Accused of Slaying Tots

By BARBARA KNESIS

An attractive Japanese mother was booked Saturday on suspicion of murdering her two young children hours after she was found unconscious in an Anaheim motel room with their bodies.

Anaheim investigators said the children, Dennis Yamasaka, 3, and his sister, Noreen, 11 months, died of external suffocation, but added drugs may have been a factor.

Detectives theorized the woman, Mrs. Ann Yamasaka, 30, of 16928 S. Mariposa St., Gardena, despondent over her health, had taken an overdose of drugs in an apparent suicide attempt after the double slaying.

SHE WAS rushed to Orange County Medical Center's intensive care unit and listed in serious condition. Officials there said it may be several days before she regains consciousness if at all.

The bodies of the youngsters were found shortly after 11 a.m. in a room at the Mecca Motel, across the street from Disneyland. They had checked in Friday with their mother.

The children, still in their night clothes, were tangled in the covers of a king-size bed, according to Mrs. Laura Kimes, the maid who discovered them.

L.B. HEAT TOPS U.S.; MORE DUE

Sun-baked Long Beach Airport recorded the highest temperature in the nation Saturday with 97 degrees, two degrees warmer than downtown Long Beach.

Only aptly named Thermal topped the downtown temperature with a sizzling 96.

High today in downtown Long Beach is forecast as 94, but a fog and low clouds flowing back from the ocean are predicted tonight. Lower temperatures are forecast for Monday.

NORTH OF HANOI U.S. Jets Blast N. Viet Fuel Dump

By EDWIN Q. WHITE

SAIGON (AP)—U.S. Air Force jets attacked a new target in North Vietnam Saturday, a fuel storage area 43 miles north of Hanoi that had been on the Pentagon's restricted list. Pilots reported their bombs made an entire hillside erupt into a dark orange fireball.

In other raids on North Vietnam, American F4 Phantoms encountered MIG interceptors after a raid on a Communist air field. The North Vietnamese sent up at least three MIG17s and two MIG21s, and the MIGs and Phantoms fired air-to-air missiles at each other in a 20-minute dogfight 20 miles west of Hanoi.

The Air Force said one missile fired by a Phantom exploded close to a MIG17 and damaged the Soviet-built jet.

A BROADCAST dispatch from Hanoi declared North Vietnam's airmen and ground gunners shot down nine U.S. planes Saturday, but there was no official comment in Saigon.

The official N. Vietnam news agency said that of the nine planes downed, three were felled over Hanoi and one over the reportedly raided port of Haiphong.

In New York meanwhile, U.N. Secretary-General Thant told reporters Saturday he still has contacts with all sides in the war in Vietnam and was in touch with some of them in the past three weeks.

That was the upshot of an exchange that started with a question whether he had been encouraged to renew his peace initiatives by remarks made about Vietnam in the General Assembly's current general policy debate.

"When you say initiatives," he replied, "It depends on what you mean. I still maintain some sort of contact with all sides — I would say all sides."

Simi Brush Fire Held in Check

CAMARILLO (AP) — A wind-whipped brush fire which roared through the Santa Susana Mountains bordering the Simi Valley was contained after blackening 60 acres Saturday.

A fire official said 12 Ventura County fire units, plus four from Los Angeles County with more than 100 men battled the blaze and halted it before any houses were damaged.

The fire had threatened the Rocketdyne testing site and several homes in the Susana Knolls area, just east of Santa Susana.

PEOPLE IN THE NEWS

First Family Sees Friend Married

President Johnson and the entire first family turned out Saturday for the wedding of Mary Slater, one of the President's four executive secretaries, to Marine Capt. Barry Nathan Beck in Annapolis, Md.

Beck, a Vietnam veteran who now commands a special Marine ceremonial platoon in Washington, and the 20-year-old Miss Slater, were married in a double-ring ceremony at the Naval Academy chapel.

Beck, 24, a native of Red Oak, Iowa, graduated from the academy in 1964.

President and Mrs. Johnson arrived from Washington by limousine accompanied by daughter Luci and her husband, Patrick J. Nugent.

Lynda Bird and her fiancé, Marine Capt. Charles Robb, had driven down by car and were on hand to greet the presidential party.

Some 250 guests witnessed the 15-minute ceremony performed by Naval Academy Chaplain Charles L. Greenwood.

STOWAWAY

For the entire flight across the Atlantic Saturday, there was something nestling in one hold of a Boeing 707 jetliner that shouldn't have been there.

It was a young man — Kenneth Postore, a 20-year-old long-haired, mustachioed New Yorker.

Postore slipped aboard the Boeing at Kennedy Airport. He eased himself through the hatch door of "lower 41," housing for the jet's complex electrical and radio equipment.

Luckily, officials said, the hold was fully pressurized and heated.

At London, Postore slipped out of his cocoon without being seen and strolled to the immigration desk.

"He was none the worse for his ride," said a Pan American official. "The radio hold is spacious." He was even more comfortable on the way back. He rode in a seat in the rear cabin of another Panam jet.

FATAL LOVE

Anthony Joseph Pucci, operator of a wholesale fish market in Oakland, loved his pet kitten, Cina. Because of the unspoken love between the genial Pucci and the tiny cat, the fish dealer is dead today.

Pucci's wife, Teresa, said the cat disappeared and her husband, 46, spent hours scouring the neighborhood for the missing feline. A neighbor spotted Cina on a tree limb. Pucci rushed home from his business and, shaken by the kitten's frightened yowling, climbed a dead tree nearby to attempt a rescue.

The fish dealer's weight was too much, however, and the tree toppled. Pucci fell 20 feet and struck a large boulder. He died about two hours later.

KIM PHILBY CASE

Briton Tipped Russians on Our Korean Strategy

LONDON (AP) — A British diplomat in Washington tipped off the Russians to U.S. strategy in the Korean war and provided other information at the height of the cold war, the London Sunday Times said.

Continuing its probe of the Harold "Kim" Philby spy case, the Times said the secrets were passed by Donald Maclean, who in 1951 fled to Moscow. Philby, also an official at the British Embassy then and a double agent for the Russians, fled to the Soviet Union four years ago.

The Times said its information came from a secret intelligence report in Washington, compiled by the State Department in 1956 to assess the damage done by Maclean and his fellow-defector, Gwy Burgess.

"For the first time, the report reveals the magnitude of Maclean's espionage achievements," the paper reported.

government line has always been that Maclean passed the Russians atomic secrets of only marginal value.

But, the Times said: "In fact, the U.S. intelligence report reveals that Maclean had knowledge of secret Anglo-American exchanges on the North Atlantic pact and the Korean war."

"It also shows, for instance, that Maclean had full knowledge of the critical American determination to localize the conflict, and therefore of its decision not to carry the war against the Chinese into Manchuria or to blockade the China coast."

The Times said Maclean's deep involvement as a spy explains why Philby risked his own position to tip off Maclean that British intelligence was after him.

The Sunday Telegraph, meanwhile, reported that Philby now is working in Moscow as principal adviser to the British section of Soviet intelligence, and not merely as a journalist, as reported by some British correspondents in Moscow.

The Telegraph said Philby's movements in Moscow have been carefully watched by western intelligence agents, and he has been seen making regular visits to the Moscow headquarters of the Soviet Committee for State Security, known by its Russian initials as the KGB.

PHILBY'S JOURNALISTIC work, the Telegraph said, is a cover for his intelligence activities and explains his source of income and comfortable circumstances in Moscow.

The Sunday Observer, which began serializing the memoirs of Philby's American ex-wife Eleanor, reported that British security now is making a thorough investigation of all those still in government service who come from the generation penetrated by the Communists in the 1930s, and now are of an age to hold top civil service jobs.

WIFE BEHIND

Dr. Boris Dotsenko, the Soviet nuclear physicist who is seeking permission to live in Canada, disclosed that he left behind a wife from whom he found himself "bitterly different" and their 10-year-old daughter. He said he would like the child to join him in Edmonton, Alberta, Can.

Dotsenko said reluctantly he joined the Soviet Communist Party while secretly nourishing a "very firm belief in God."

The 40-year-old scientist said he has renounced his Soviet citizenship, resigned from the Communist Party and applied to divorce his wife. He has also, he said, submitted an application to have his daughter, Irina, join him or, failing that, to be allowed to contribute to her support in the Soviet Union.

MONEY MAKER

The man who has made more money than any other living American is retiring at the age of 69.

He is Henry J. Holtzclaw who rose from a machinist's helper to director of the Treasury Department's Bureau of Engraving and Printing.

In the 14 years Holtzclaw was director, the bureau has printed $126 billion in paper money and about $4 trillion in currency, treasury securities, postage stamps and other government items.

Mrs. Sukarno Exits

America for France

NEW YORK (AP) — Dewi Sukarno, 27, wife of the deposed Indonesian president, left Kennedy Airport Saturday night for Paris where, she said, she plans to study painting.

The wife of 66-year-old Sukarno was accompanied by a nurse and her seven-month-old daughter, Kartika Sari. Mrs. Sukarno said she had not seen her husband since she left Indonesia 11 months ago. She added she did not expect him to leave Indonesia and join her in Paris.

KIRSCHKE TRIAL

It's an Endurance Contest

By SHERM WILLIAMS

Tense. His cheeks hollowed, his craggy face gaunt and pale, he lit up the pipe. A curved, folksy pipe. He held the match until it burned his fingers.

This was Jack Kirschke, on trial for the April 8 double murder of his wife, Elaine Terry, and her lover, a pilot with a mistress and a wife and, somehow, time for dalliance with others.

It was recess at the very beginning of the pretrial hearings last August and the television cameras, lights glaring white, bored in. Kirschke, not the prosecutor who pointed his finger at the accused, but now the man charged with murder, lit his pipe and let the match burn to his fingers.

He smiled. A thin, forced smile that told of strain and unhappiness. He spoke. And the match burned to his fingers.

JUDGE KATHLEEN PARKER issued no order. No more statements to newspapers, to television reporters, or radio announcers.

The pipe and the smile disappeared. The pipe has never reappeared, but in recent days, as the prosecution bore down on Jack Kirschke, somehow the smile emerged again and this time not as a travesty on mirth, but instead sometimes — but not always — an obvious act of enjoyment.

What has happened in those intervening days?

An endurance contest. By court order, the attorneys aren't allowed to talk to the reporters, but they can talk to the bailiffs, or for that matter, anyone else.

"AN ENDURANCE contest," Assistant Atty. Gen. Albert W. Harris said, talking to someone else in describing the trial. So far, in 22 days of actual trial, a total of 34 prosecution witnesses have been called and at least eight more are on tap.

Defense Attorney Albert C. S. Ramsey won't say how many he intends to call.

How long will it last? Up to two months, according to the present rate and with guesses based on the number of names Ramsey has extracted from prosecution witnesses.

And what are Kirschke's chances? Only the jury knows.

What has happened, as though an onion was being peeled layer by layer to its core, is a fascinating panorama of yacht club life; the intimate details of how a deputy district attorney lives; just what a nationally known fashion designer does and what she earns; and the story of a man who, perhaps, died just the way he wanted to die — Orville William Drankhan — in the arms of one of the many women in his life.

Stories. A novel at least. Perhaps a trilogy of those involved.

ELAINE TERRY KIRSCHKE, nationally known dress designer. George Jacobs on the stand telling of her work. He owns George Originals, a five-story building and produces a half million dresses a year, according to testimony. His wife works on the switchboard.

The witnesses. Each a story. A halting parade that began with young, clean cut, James A. Miller, a reserve deputy sheriff who courted and won the girl who lived upstairs from the Kirschkes' and whose father-in-law heard Mrs. Kirschke's "ecstatic moans" on occasion.

Harris, methodically asking details of Miller, how Miller peered into a window, saw the lower, nude half of Elaine Kirschke's body and immediately decided she was dead.

Ramsey, the devil's advocate, thrusting question after question at Miller, then suddenly getting the unexpected answer as to why the bridegroom knew the fashion designer was dead. He had been a mortician and he recognized the ugly fact of post mortem lividity.

Inspector Garold E. McIntire, who investigated the murders then on the homicide detail, but now kicked back to the petty theft detail, the picadors in his neck, with Ramsey poised for the kill, head down in the witness stand and referring to his notes.

A LONG BEACH police criminologist who inspected the Kirschke apartment with a jeweler's loupe, found no fingerprints anywhere of anyone who lived in the house or visited it, except fingerprints on two wine glasses of Elaine Kirschke and her lover. Not one print of the man of the house — the man on trial for murder.

The youthful autopsy surgeon who said the way to cut open a stomach is to slit it along one side, then "lay it open like a book," but who confessed (perhaps as an attribute to his trade) that his sense of smell wasn't good and he couldn't tell if there was booze in Mr. Drankhan's belly by sniffing the contents.

Neighbors, investigators and relatives, all were commanded to the witness stand to say what they knew. Harris methodically laying out his case and Ramsey, whose day in defense is yet to come, fighting back, worrying each piece of testimony as would a fox terrier grab and shake at a proffered stocking.

THE TALL, DISTINGUISHED special agent for the Attorney General's office who borrowed a 1963 Volkswagen from an assistant attorney general to recreate the prosecution's theory of a run from Naples to Las Vegas only to find out the assistant attorney general had been — to say it roughly — hoodwinked and that it was a 1961 model instead.

The same tall distinguished special agent admitting that the second Volkswagen he took for a second try on the same run, had an odometer that didn't work and a speedometer that couldn't be checked for accuracy.

Greying, distinguished and somewhat charged, the special agent looking at his elegant wristwatch after he told of checking the speedometer by mileage checkpoints with his watch, and having Ramsey, a Machiavellian grin on his face, point at the watch and note disparagingly, "No numbers."

ST. CLAIR L. McCLARY, former Attorney General's special agent who announced in rolling tones on the stand that he is now chief of police of Filmore, Calif., and who checked the parking tickets at Los Angeles International Airport in an effort to shake Kirschke's alibi that he arrived at the airport at 8:26 p.m., then left to drive to Las Vegas between 11 p.m. and midnight.

McClary testified in round sure tones that he checked every 50-cent parking stub for the Bonanza Airlines parking lot and came up with only five for 8:26 and each was for a departure between 9 and 10 p.m. No, he said, he didn't check any other parking lot, or anything other than the 50 cent tickets.

Ramsey quickly drew in big red squares on a map of the parking lot to show two other lots adjacent to the Bonanza terminal and the signs in the airport parking lot — not in evidence — told what McClary didn't say. You can only park three hours for 50 cents at the airport, and that means that more than half of Kirschke's alibi time is uncovered.

HOW DOES IT STAND? Only the jury knows, and if the jurors are doing what Judge Kathleen Parker told them to do, they aren't matching notes as yet.

Harris, who according to his opening statement, was going to show the public and pleasant face of Jack Kirschke and then the private and different aspect of the former prosecutor, moved a list of Rotarians through the witness stand this week.

Monday he and Ramsey will conduct legal arguments over whether statements of neighbors (about what Mrs. Kirschke told them of her relations with her husband) should be admitted into testimony.

If they are, Harris will try to show the hidden side of the nervous, craggy-faced man who somehow, sometimes, seems to be second banana in his own murder trial.

A few witnesses after that, it will be Ramsey's — and Kirschke's — turn.

What will Ramsey do? Ask him and the man they call the "Silver Fox" of the courts gives a pixie smile, punches you lightly in the ribs and says, "Just wait and see!"

U.S. Jets Rip Reds' Oil Dump

contact with them since the Assembly convened Sept. 19, he answered: "Well, with some sides directly involved."

But he declined to say which ones.

American jet squadrons, which have struck lately at bridges only 10 miles from Red China's frontier, have stepped up their raids in an effort to paralyze enemy supply lines before the imminent northeast monsoon shrouds North Vietnam in rain and fog.

Even as the jets roared in and out on their strike missions, there was speculation among military and diplomatic sources that after foul weather limits air operations, Washington will call one and possibly several bombing halts.

Reasoning was, that the allies could win a maximum number of points internationally at a minimum cost to the war effort.

THERE WAS no major ground action reported in South Vietnam Saturday following Friday's fierce clash in the Mekong Delta.

The latest fuel dump target to come off Washington's restricted list — the second in three days — was the Cu Van petroleum products storage area 43 miles north of Hanoi. F105 Thunderchief pilots who attacked the storage area said the large fireball sent black smoke rising to 2,000 feet. On Thursday U.S. warplanes hit a previously restricted fuel dump six miles north of Haiphong.

U.S. Special Forces Green Berets and their Montagnard troops have staged a parachute assault along the Cambodian border, and set up a "fighting camp" within seven miles of an airstrip inside Cambodia being used by North Vietnamese forces, it was disclosed Saturday.

The assault was made Thursday against only light resistance in a hill area 110 miles north of Saigon.

tain a copy of these words, but to no avail. Can you help? B.W., Rossmore.

A. The song you probably are seeking is "Johnny I Hardly Knew Ye," an Irish anti-war lament much older and of a much different sentiment than the Civil War's bouncy, optimistic "When Johnny Comes Marching Home." The latter, published in 1863, is certainly derived from the bitter Irish song. The tunes are almost identical. But, instead of the home-the-conquering-hero theme,

Action Line

"Johnny I Hardly Knew Ye" tells of a young wife barely recognizing her husband, a virtual basket case, on his return from the wars. A climactic verse notes: "You haven't an arm, you haven't a leg — You're an eyeless, boneless, chickenless egg — You'll have to be put with a bowl to beg — Oh, Johnny, I hardly knew ye." The lament, whose roots may go back to the 18th Century, has been recorded by a number of folk singers in recent years. Copies of both songs are being sent to you.

Gone to Pot

Q. I'm enclosing a couple of leaves from some strange plants that have started to grow in the planter in my backyard. I suspect the plants are marijuana. Can you find out for me? M.B., Bellflower.

A. Martin Kline, criminologist for the Long Beach Police Department, checked your sample and says they are definitely not marijuana. "They look like peach tree or peppermint leaves," he added. Marijuana can be recognized by its fast growth, and linear, serrated leaves which grow in clusters of odd numbers. The flowers are greenish. A picture of the plant will be sent to you. Others also have had problems recognizing marijuana. In Torrance, a little old lady found a pretty plant growing in her garden. She gave it attention and it grew right over her garden wall. One day, two policemen descended upon the plant and tore it from the ground. The little old lady learned the seedling she had nurtured was the largest marijuana plant Torrance officers ever had seen.

SOUND OFF!

Several of us in the Lakewood area would like to thank some telephone company employees for service beyond the call of duty. Recently a telephone cable was cut in our neighborhood. The telephone men came around and told us about it being out. We appreciate their courtesy, because in case of an emergency we wouldn't have had to waste valuable time trying to phone from our homes. saw them swimming in the motel pool.

The children's father, Robert Yamasaka, told police his wife left their Gardena home with the children after he went to work Friday.

According to Det. Gerald Daley, the woman left her husband a note saying she was leaving him. She then took a taxi to the Mecca Motel.

Later that evening, however, she changed her mind and called her husband.

DALEY said Yamasaka immediately drove to Anaheim to see if he could locate his wife. When he was unsuccessful, he returned home.

Yamasaka told officers his wife had been complaining about her health for the last year, but doctors could find nothing wrong with her.

She was under a psychiatrist's care, he told police.

The youngsters' last hours, ironically, had some happy overtones.

A young motel employee said he had taken the family across the street to Disneyland.

"They spent most of the day there," the youth recalled. "The woman didn't look like she was having fun when I took her home, though."

POLICE, summoned to the sprawling motel shortly after noon, went about their investigation quietly, so quietly, that none but the maids seemed to be aware of the death drama behind the red door of room 102.

Motel guests, giggling and chatting, walked in front of the room without even a glance in the direction of a big black van parked in front, bearing the name of Anaheim Investigation Unit.

But the housekeepers, working nearby, looked up often and shook their heads back and forth.

"I guess she felt she owed the children one last fling," one of them commented, as she walked into a neighboring room to begin her cleaning chores.

Purple Hearts to Come Harder

New York Times Service

SAIGON — The U.S. Marines have decided to stop giving the Purple Heart Medal for minor wounds in order to end a drain of manpower from the Vietnam war.

A Marine fighting in the northern section of South Vietnam is eligible to leave Vietnam altogether after he receives his third Purple Heart.

Informed sources said Marine officers felt that too many men were receiving three Purple Hearts for superficial wounds and being lost to combat forces.

Headquarters of the Third Marine Amphibious Force in Da Nang therefore recently reminded subordinate units of the terms of a standing instruction from the Navy Department which said that the Purple Heart Medal should be awarded for wounds directly or indirectly caused by "hostile action" and which "require the attention of a medical officer."

In practice a Purple Heart has been awarded for wounds which broke the skin or even some which were mere contusions, Marine officers privately confirmed.

"It's ridiculous," said one Marine combat officer. "There's no reason for a man to get out of the war for three little scratches."

WWI-VINTAGE VETS Railway Regiment Bivouacs in L.B.

By GEORGE LAINE

The French had a phrase for it — "Quarante hommes ou huit chevaux."

Literally translated, it meant that the railroad cars could accommodate 40 soldiers or eight horses. The horses may have loved it. The soldiers didn't.

"They really used to gripe about the way they were shoved into those boxcars," recalled Roy Roepke, of 1200 W. La Veta Ave., Orange, a member of the 31st Railway Engineers during their 19-months duty in France during 1917-18.

The regiment held its annual reunion Friday and Saturday at the Edgewater Inn, with 118 of the original 1,735 members attending. All are more than 70 years of age.

"I remember how they used to get into the boxcars," Roepke recalled. "About five or six would get in and then one of them would holler out 'We're all filled up.'"

"Then some lieutenant or captain on the loading dock would yell at them 'Well, you'd better move back because about 35 more are getting in that car.'"

"And they did." The railroaders — representing about 15 states — came back from World War I to take on the less deadly problems of U.S. railway expansion. Some of them went high in their work. It wasn't like moving troops, hospital trains, big railway guns or supplies, but they did it with the same diligence, the same attention to duty. They included everything from superintendents to gandy dancers and most of them have a gold watch from one railroad or another.

The vets held a memorial service Saturday morning — after a Friday tour of Long Beach Harbor and a peek at Marineland of the Pacific — and a business meeting and topped their Long Beach weekend off with a banquet.

The business meeting saw the organization elect new officers. Bill Finn of Freeport, Ill. — a retired Illinois Central engineer — is the new president. Walter Rasche of Tacoma, Wash. — who used to pilot Milwaukee Railway trains — is the first vice president. M. C. Hammond, of 1035 E. Third St., Long Beach — who was a Santa Fe engineer for several decades — is the second vice president. And K. J. Nelson, of Great Falls, Mont. (a former Northern Pacific engineer) is the new treasurer.

The convention selected Kansas City, Mo., as the site for the 1968 convention, adding they hoped they'd have half the fun they had in Long Beach.

Long Beach Named First Among Cities for Beauty

assistant to the city manager; Mrs. Dorothy Buerger, supervisor of art education, Long Beach Unified School District, and chairman of the school program for Long Beach Beautiful; and Mrs. Sherrill Henderson, executive secretary for the C of C's Long Beach Beautiful program.

Luncheon speaker will be Senator Clinton P. Anderson of New Mexico, whose state has been named winner of KAB's 1967 state award.

San Diego County, for the second time, is recipient of this year's county award. One of four youth awards recognizing outstanding contributions to the nation's antilitter campaign will go to San Bernardino.

With three awards, California outranked all other states in the national competitions.

Long Beach will be represented also on the youth aspects of its program when Mrs. Taubman appears on a panel at KAB's National Conference on Youth Litter Prevention Activities, an important segment of KAB's two-day annual meeting Nov. 9-10.

In a personal interview, Allen H. Seed Jr., executive secretary of Keep America Beautiful, cited these litter-prevention activities among reasons why Long Beach was singled out as winner of the metropolitan award.

Organization of the city into 17 geographical areas, each with a chairman and planning committee to direct clean-up efforts at grass-roots level... incorporating a litter prevention program into all levels of the school curriculum... establishment of a 16-member "litter patrol" for the downtown business area.

ALSO, PROCUREMENT by the city government of hundreds of additional litter containers for placement on streets, in parks and along the beaches — increasing the number of such trash receptacles by 50 per cent.

He noted also that total community involvement — including city officials, the Chamber of Commerce, the Independent Press-Telegram, civic and youth organizations, schools, business interests, neighborhood improvement associations, clubs and the general citizenry — was also a key factor.

His summation: "Long Beach is proving that civic pride can become a way of life when all elements of a community cooperate."

After learning about the award, Mayor Edwin W. Wade said, "We are very proud to be honored by Keep America Beautiful. The tireless efforts of our 'first lady' of beautification, Mrs. George P. Taubman, and the Chamber's Long Beach Beautiful committee have indeed been the inspiring and motivating force that has brought this recognition to our city."

C OF C PRESIDENT Gene Bishop described the award as a great honor, adding "It also reflects an important and growing sense of civic pride and sense of individual responsibility for the social and economic health of our community... also that the physical appearance and character of a city is a reflection of its citizens."

Ernest LaBelle, newly appointed executive vice president of the chamber, sees it as an encouraging barometer of future progress:

"One thing we must recognize is that with great suddenness, Long Beach has become a celebrity among cities. It started with our extensive shoreline development, our off-shore drilling technology and, most recently, purchase of the Queen Mary."

"We have been thrust into international prominence. The appearance of our community, the decisions we make with respect to new developments and improvement of existing areas through our recently formed area committees will be noticed and watched by other cities — in fact, by all the free world — to a greater degree than ever before.

THE STORY of Long Beach's young but fast-growing civic beautification program is an exciting one.

The first groups — sponsored by the women's division of the Chamber of Commerce and organized by Mrs. Taubman six years ago — could have met in a small hotel room.

Now with 70 active members and hundreds of participants, and auditorium size required for general meetings of Long Beach Beautiful, now a committee of the main C of C.

In addition to accomplishments cited, the committee has worked in an advisory capacity with city officials in the removal of railroad tracks and subsequent landscaping of Ocean Boulevard, the widening and landscaping of Ocean Boulevard and beautification of Long Beach's offshore islands, so unique in design they have attracted the attention of news media across the nation.

Coming next: a well-planned total environment for Long Beach's newest attraction, the Queen Mary.

Among those sharing top responsibility with Mrs. Taubman on the Long Beach Beautiful committee are Ed Lovell, co-chairman; Mrs. Buerger, chairman, of

Bonnie Prince Charlie Becomes a Cambridge Freshman

CAMBRIDGE, Eng. (AP) — The heir to the British throne becomes a college freshman at 4 p.m. today.

The student prince is not likely to be called His Royal Highness Prince Charles Philip Arthur George at Cambridge University's Trinity College.

Officially he will be called Prince Charles by his tutors. Charles by his fellow students, and unquestionably a few other things by the less reverent among his future subjects.

ON THE EVE of his arrival from London, he was being referred to as "Charlie Boy" by Cambridge's men-in-the-street and early arrivals among the university's 9,000 other undergraduates.

That name was implied nearly 19 years ago, after his birth Nov. 14, 1948, to Princess Margaret, in-formed that her sister's first-born was a boy to be christened Charles, said: "Ah, yes, and from now on I suppose I'll be known as 'Charlie's Aunt.'"

The son of Queen Elizabeth II will become the first heir to the throne to live in a Cambridge dormitory.

His grandfather King George VI and his great-grandfather King Edward VII were Cambridge freshmen, but not dormitory residents.

Prince Charles, however, is not the first heir to the throne to bunk in a college dormitory. King Edward VIII did that at Oxford. He was the one who abdicated to become Duke of Windsor.

SINCE the last heir attended college things are more relaxed.

As a freshman, Prince Charles technically is not allowed to wander beyond three miles of Great St. Mary's Church in the center of Cambridge, unless he has permission from his tutor, Dr. Denis Martin.

He will have to get such permission when he travels to London for his expected presence in the House of Lords at the time his mother opens Parliament later this autumn.

He can't have an automobile, either.

To help things along, "English Boy Ltd.," a unique model agency for unique models, was formed to guide the careers of Britain's prettiest boys and to provide a clearing house for followers of fashion who wished to employ them.

"They are models to model yourself on, not just models to model clothes," said Trisha Locke, the miniskirted girl who runs the agency with a baronet and a nother rather beautiful boy.

The boys themselves are invariably slender.

"The average chest is 30," she said.

Most of them have girl friends.

"EXCEPT THE GIRLS usually aren't as pretty as they are," Trisha added.

Their clothes are extraordinary.

"Because their taste is so far ahead of everybody else's," the girl explained, reaching for a red telephone ringing at one of its regular intervals.

Two telephones and a tiny psychodically painted office over an avant-garde boutique off King's Road in Chelsea, which has replaced Carnaby Street for London's trend-setting set, are the agency's only inanimate assets.

The secret of its considerable success is the tribute of gaily, sometimes weirdly, dressed boys who drift up to lounge on cushions in a corner, drink coffee from an automatic machine and check their assignments.

Jess Down sat on a gray cushion that set off his turquoise jacket and pale green boots.

"It's an honorable way of financing anything else you might want to do," he said, though he seemed unsure of what else he might want to do. Perhaps film acting, low tunic and garlands of beads should be mistaken for flower power gear. "I just want to turn people on the long hair, that you shouldn't judge a book by its cover."

PRETTY BRITISH BOYS NEW THING IN FASHION TRENDS

By JOAN DEPPA
LONDON (UPI) — Boys will be boys, but beautiful.

So spoke the fashion pundits in 1967, the year of the peacock male — and a variable multitude of the gorgeous creatures have appeared in the British Isles to fulfill their prophecy.

To help things along, "English Boy Ltd.," a unique model agency for unique models, was formed to guide the careers of Britain's prettiest boys and to provide a clearing house for followers of fashion who wished to employ them.

Mainland China Turmoil: Saga of Frustration

By JOHN K. FAIRBANK

Director, East Asia Research Center
Harvard University

China's Red Guards and revolutionary rebels are expressing several kinds of frustrations. From outside the Bamboo Curtain we can hardly see what is happening in China from day to day as one kind of Maoist tries to knock off another kind of Maoist. But if we look back and recall something of the experience of the Chinese people over the past century, we can get an idea of their present crisis. Half a dozen tidal waves of change have swept across China. Each has contributed to today's frustrations.

First of all, the old China was mostly peasants, and the Red Guards come from a politically passive peasant background. The rather small literate upper class of scholars, officials, merchants, big landowners, city dwellers and minor functionaries all together were only about one-fifth of the people. The peasants who tilled the soil were highly civilized, polite and cultured, but illiterate, limited in their horizon, rather superstitious, very set in traditional ways, quite outside of politics.

Mao Tse-tung has been their champion and taskmaster, trying to make all peasants into modern citizens. But their transformation into political activists is incomplete and has run into many difficulties. Many Red Guards are just in from the country, from the new generation who have been told they are no longer peasants but have literacy, education, and political opportunity open to them.

These youth who have moved from the villages into the city are exhilarated by the concept of "liberation" from their earthbound past but they are extraordinarily ignorant, relatively inexperienced in political life, and dependent on their peer group, emotionally geared to going along with the gang and operating in swarms. These youth are a highly unstable element in the body politic.

THE FRUSTRATION of the Red Guard generation is imposed partly by their sheer numbers. China has something like 150 million teen-agers, in itself a sufficiently appalling figure. Population has been growing at a moderate rate but on an enormous base, so that some 15 million youths now enter their teens every year. Industries and cities are not growing fast enough to absorb them all, and so most young people must stay on the farms or in the villages as usual.

This is what nearly all peasant children used to do, but Chairman Mao's revolution has changed their hopes and aspirations. Mao and his colleagues have been sitting on a teen-age powder keg and, if he had not set it off by organizing the Red Guards, it might have blown up in some other fashion.

A third factor that complicates both the peasant ignorance and the over-supply of teen-agers is China's basic poverty. The rice economy that feeds two-thirds of the people is a system for using large amounts of land power and irrigation water on relatively small plots of land.

This sets up a vicious circle in which many poor people of low productivity are needed to plant, weed and harvest the rice crop so that they can all keep alive on a rather modest living standard, using bamboo instead of steel, cloth for shoes instead of leather, grain instead of meat, and so on.

Travelers still see people pulling carts with heavy loads like animals. Nowadays the carts have ball-bearing wheels, a great improvement. This kind of capital-poor poverty in a modern world where people realize it can be overcome naturally sets up frustrations. The Chinese Communists' primary claim to leadership lay in their program for economic growth, but economic miracles have not been easy.

A FOURTH ELEMENT that heightens the Chinese frustration is their tremendous national pride inherited from 2,000 years of history as a unified empire dominating East Asia. It is hard for us to realize how China-centered the world has always been to the people who lived there. Suppose that we could telescope our own Judeo-Christian and Greco-Roman pasts in the eastern Mediterranean together with the long history of the medieval Christian church and the rise of nations in Western Europe and bring them all into the United States as part of our national history in our homeland.

We would have to think of George Washington as the successor of the pharaohs of Egypt and the Roman emperors, whose monuments we would see close at hand as those of our direct ancestors. The Athenians and the early Christians, the French and the British would all have been part of our America at an earlier time. This is really impossible for us to imagine, yet something like it must color Chinese thinking about themselves.

The Chinese Communists took over as modernizers, able to catch up with the outside countries and bring in the new world of science and progress by the Marxist shortcuts. The demand for catching up with the West had become overwhelming. It has provided a sanction for any amount of sacrifice and hard work over the last 18 years.

Revolution has become a sacred and overriding cause, but Chairman Mao, as the chief revolutionary, has seen it bog down and almost grind to a halt. His Long March veterans from the 1930s have been in power almost 20 years, entrenched in a new establishment, forming a new ruling group, dominating the provincial party machines, sitting on top the ardent younger generation. This produced Chairman Mao's frustration and it is he who opened Pandora's box and let the Red Guard genie out of the bottle.

MAO'S SOLUTION was to kill two birds with one stone. Give the restive teen-agers an experience of making revolution by having them purge the party bureaucrats and revisionists who were "taking the capitalist road." The Red Guard gangs, helped by the army, would renovate the party apparatus from outside it. This was a dangerous and desperate move, most uncommunitarian, and it backfired. Instead of killing his two birds with his one stone, the party chairman roused them both to fratricidal conflict.

LBJ to Stick to Policies Despite Popularity Dip

By MAX FRANKEL
New York Times Service

WASHINGTON — President Johnson vowed Saturday he would not play for popularity in the opinion polls by abandoning any of his major policies at home or abroad.

Surveying his low estate in the polls before an audience of party contributors, the President said he was getting much advice on how to escape his troubles "cheaply and fast." But his plan, he added, was to hold firm in Vietnam, to keep asking for a tax increase, to go on fighting discrimination and working for the poor.

"I have made my choice," Johnson asserted.

"and I pray that I — and we — will have enough of that bravery, unselfishness and wisdom Jack Kennedy said we would need to see it through." As a politician, the President said, he valued popularity and support as much as any man and he knew he could increase it — temporarily — by abandoning some of his policies, especially "by renouncing the struggle in Vietnam or escalating it to the red line danger."

He said he would do neither, though he also knew better than anyone except the soldiers in Vietnam, that this was a rough road to travel.

"But the road does lead to a free Asia — and a more secure America," he added. "I believe the American people will follow its course — not blithely, not cheerfully — for they lament the waste of war; but with a firm determination to see it through."

Johnson did not discuss the factors that would go into his decision on whether to stand for reelection next year. But few men around the White House doubt that he will run. They found his speech this evening consistent with his privately expressed view that he was doing the right and responsible things and that he could in the end so persuade the nation's voters.

But the speech that he gave at the President's ball, a $1,000-a-couple fund-raising dinner and dance at the Washington Hilton Hotel began with a candid acknowledgment of the turn against him in the opinion polls.

Those polls have recently shown that Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., was preferred by a majority over Johnson as the Democratic party's candidate for President next year. They have also shown Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, a Republican, as running at least even and in some cases ahead of Johnson.

Moreover, general support for the President's policy in Vietnam has slipped in the polls from 73 per cent of the public last July to 58 per cent last month.

Without directly challenging the accuracy of the polls, the President recalled their fallability with a reference to the Literary Digest, which had wrongly forecast that Alf M. Landon would defeat President Franklin D. Roosevelt in 1936. And he alluded to Harry Truman's definition of presidential stoicism: "If you can't stand the heat, get out of the kitchen."

Only LBJ Has Skill to Lead—Ted Kennedy

DES MOINES (UPI) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy declared Saturday that Americans must reelect President Johnson because no Republican presidential possibility can match his ability and training to lead the country.

"There is no Republican on the horizon with the skill, and the training, and the heart to take on the burdens of the presidency in a time of peril, as has been done by Lyndon Johnson," the Massachusetts Democrat said.

"When our President is measured against his opposition, instead of everybody's favorite ideas, the strength of our party comes out," the youngest brother of President John F. Kennedy told Iowa Democrats at a Jefferson-Jackson day dinner.

Kennedy's Des Moines speech was his second in Iowa Saturday. Earlier in the afternoon in Cedar Rapids, he paid tribute to America's young people as he dedicated a high school named after his late brother. He also appeared at a reception in Cedar Rapids in honor of second district Congressman John C. Culver, his former roommate at Harvard.

At Des Moines, Kennedy said, "the voters are going to give President Johnson a vote of gratitude and confidence next November."

Kennedy's pro-Johnson speech backed up repeated statements by another Kennedy brother, Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-New York, that he would not try to challenge Johnson for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1968.

Edward Kennedy told the Iowa Democrats at the $25-a-plate dinner that no President can please everyone and that to criticize a President is an inalienable American right.

Johnson's Freeze Aimed at Congress to $10 billion for the 1968 fiscal year that began July 1.

Chairman Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., of the House Ways and Means Committee has fixed this as the price Johnson must pay to get the higher taxes he is requesting.

The President's reply has been to urge Congress repeatedly to go ahead and pass his requested 10 per cent income tax surcharge, then do the cutting as it acts on pending appropriations bills.

With 10 appropriation bills still pending, the White House said the administration simply does not know how much money will be provided.

For that reason, a spokesman said, Johnson decided federal agencies should postpone spending commitments until the budget situation has been clarified.

Since the freeze on new commitments obviously is a temporary action that undoubtedly will be lifted when, or before, the tax-spending impasse is broken, there is no way to measure its impact across the short or long range.

THE COMMITMENTS freeze is the latest maneuver in the tug of war between Congress and the executive which began Aug. 3, when Johnson asked Congress to impose a 10 per cent surcharge on individual and corporate income taxes — hopefully to become effective by Oct. 1.

The President argued then and has said again and again — the latest instance only Friday — that the tax increase is needed to meet part of the costs of the Vietnam war and head off spiraling inflation, which Johnson says would take far more from the nation's earners than would the tax surcharge. He contends also that runaway interest rates would accompany the inflation in prices.

In a Friday talk, the chief executive said government experts estimate prices could jump by four to five per cent if there is no tax increase — nearly double what they figure the advance would be if the tax is voted.

Australian Journalist Interviews Pat Walker About Reducing

Del Cartwright, Sydney's TV Personality, Journalist and Lecturer

Question: Are Australian women harder or easier to reduce than American women?
Answer: There is no difference... women are women the world over and their figure problems are the same.

Question: How does your reducing program compare to your competition in America?
Answer: We really have no competition in America. Mostly the reducing field is cluttered with individually owned or franchised salons, using outdated, obsolete equipment and methods. Of course, there are the gym-operations where the women do physical workouts... and I have never considered them as competition.

Question: Do you use equipment that you buy or rent?
Answer: No, it took years and a half million dollars to develop our computerized equipment... Actually, we can afford to say that we have the only reducing equipment of its kind.

Question: What are the ages of your patrons?
Answer: A very wide range of ages... from 8 to over 80!

Question: How much can a woman lose with your program?
Answer: That depends, of course, on how much she needs to lose. If she is terribly overweight, she loses a lot...

If her problems are minor, her loss is according to her needs.
Question: It has always been a fear to most women that reducing will make her look older... drawn and haggard.
Answer: Many methods of reducing will cause a woman to look older... strenuous diets, pills, etc... But not with our program! She looks younger and feels younger, too!

Question: We've had Reducing Companies here in Sydney in the past that offered wigs, clothes, make-up... everything as added incentive to come to them... Do you offer any of these things?

Answer: No, we do not. We offer one thing only. That is specially reducing. The intelligent woman knows what she has come to us for and that is what she buys.

Question: What would you say to a woman who comes to you after she has bought or tried every kind of reducing and home device and none have worked for her?
Answer: I would advise her for having had the intelligence to recognize the fact that she had figure problems and tried to do something about them. They make wonderful Pat Walker patrons because they truly appreciate the fact that at last their reducing battle is over.

Question: How often do you visit here in Australia?
Answer: At least 4 times each year... I have been in Honolulu 22 times this year!

Question: What does the average man feel about reducing?
Answer: Many think a woman can just stop eating to reduce... or work out with bar-bells... or merely exercise. But then, there are more men NOW that know that a woman needs specialized help...

It's a smart man who encourages his wife to reduce, because he shares her pride and enjoys her new outlook on life!
Question: When a woman reduces with your program and loses a lot of weight, does she become flabby?
Answer: Definitely not! Firming and toning are important parts of our program.

Question: We have had a few Reducing Companies in Australia that were really pathetic. They promised everything and produced practically nothing.
Answer: Well, you aren't alone, Miss Cartwright, because America has had their share, too. In fact, a few still exist.

A. TEEN ACTION LINE did some campaigning for you and talked with the former governor at the Beverly Hills law office of Ball, Hunt, Hart and Brown. "I'd be happy to talk to the students. I spoke to them when I was campaigning for re-election, and they asked intelligent and tough questions," he said. Details will be sent to you. Ex-Gov. Brown can provide an insider's view of political strategy and decision-making. He was graduated from San Francisco College of Law in 1927, and has served one term as district attorney for the Bay City, two terms as state attorney general and two terms as governor.

Commercial Lingers On

Q: I'm a music major in junior college and have admired the music on a credit card company's television commercial. Would it be possible to obtain the music so I can arrange it into a light jingle for a brass ensemble as a music assignment? J. W., Anaheim.

A. Campbell M. Brown, manager of advertising and planning for California Bank Card Association, said the music was written specifically for the commercial and is owned by the credit card company. To obtain permission to use the music, write to Brown at 20 Battery St., San Francisco 94111. The company will make the necessary legal arrangements.

Action Line

A. March to your counselor and ask to join the high school Reserve Officers Training Corps. Three of Long Beach's five high schools — Millikan, Jordan and Poly — have Army ROTC units, while Wilson and Lakewood have the district's new Navy ROTC. Q: Where can I find pictures and information about poodles and pugs, R.D., Los Alamitos.

A. Mrs. Russell C. Wagner, co-owner of Mingodell Kennels, 12441 E. Carson Blvd., Artesia, 425-0973, said she will supply you with pictures and information on these two popular dog breeds. She'll send you photographs of purebred dog show winners and some of her own snapshots.

Read with Speed

Q: How can a few friends and I take a speed reading course in the Long Beach-Lakewood area? M.S., Long Beach.

A. The Long Beach School District does not offer speed reading classes for junior and senior high school students. In special cases, students 16 and older may take speed reading classes in the summer at Long Beach City College. "They must have exceptional ability and qualify for the class," a school spokesman said. Both the Liberal Arts and Business and Technology campuses of city college provide speed reading courses for college students. Teen-agers and adults can take speed reading classes at the private owned Reading Development Center, 5479 Abbeyfield Ave., Long Beach. Small group instruction is given two hours a week by accredited teachers at a cost of $45 a month. Approximately 25 hours of instruction is needed for a student to go from a reading speed of 275 words per minute to 1200 words. "We help our students develop speed and maintain 70 to 100 per cent comprehension," explained Dr. Gerhard Kohn, director. For information, call 597-2405.

SOUND OFF!

I'm a student at Wilson High School and wear sideburns one inch below my ear. Recently, I was approached by the assistant principal of the 11th grade and ordered to shave them off. A green ditto sheet approved by the school board was given to me to explain the logic of the order. Unfortunately, I'm unable to accept this directive on such dogmatic terms. I fail to comprehend what effect having well trimmed, long sideburns has upon the degree of education received by me or any of my classmates. My sideburns attract appreciatively less attention than the uniforms of the girls' drill team and pepsters which are even shorter than any dresses allowed under the dress regulations. Certainly, the relation between a man's intellect and appearance is negligible. After all, the greatest Renaissance man, Leonardo da Vinci, wore long hair, a beard and a moustache. P.T., Long Beach.

Unsolicited Credit Cards Attacked

From Our National Bureau

WASHINGTON — The credit card, sometimes deemed better than cold cash, is under attack.

When it arrives in the mail unsolicited, it can be a bother, said Rep. Joseph E. Karth, D-Minn., who called on Postmaster General Lawrence O'Brien to initiate special precautions.

He proposed these measures:

1. All unsolicited credit cards be sent by registered mail.

2. Return postage should be guaranteed if the enclosed credit card is refused or undeliverable.

3. Envelopes containing credit cards should bear notice that the credit device is enclosed and may be refused.

Karth noted that the credit card has made a tremendous impact on American business since 1958.

This year, more than 140 million cards will be issued or renewed, he noted.

While many consider the cards convenient and beneficial in many ways, they can be annoying or disastrous, said Karth.

"For example, over a million credit cards are lost each year, and about 300,000 are stolen — a substantial portion of them from mail boxes," he said.

The intended recipients thus are victimized by those who steal the cards and charge catastrophic debts on them, said the congressman.

Karth pointed to last fall when banks in the Chicago area mailed several million credit cards, many of them to people who were unaware they were coming.

"As we move toward the time of the so-called cash-less society, where more and more transactions are handled by credit cards and computerized central billing, we must find ways to protect the customer," said Karth.

Smog War May Require Use of A-Power, Seaborg Says

California may be forced to turn to nuclear power to generate its electricity in order to combat air pollution given off by conventional, fossil fuel burning power plants, Dr. Glenn T. Seaborg, chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, believes.

Dr. Seaborg said if nuclear power is not used, generating steam plants will have to be fueled with cleaner burning, higher cost fuel coming from a shrinking supply.

"If there were no alternative source of electric energy available," he remarked, "I could predict some rather dire economic consequences for California's future."

The alternative is nuclear power stations, he said. AN ADDED benefit of nuclear power, he said, is that "it does not contribute to the air pollution problem, because a nuclear power plant does not create combustion products and is a clean source of power."

He predicted that California will have nuclear power plants as common as the steam plants of today. "The fullest use of this enormous power potential will not depend solely on the work of a few scientists, or the AEC, or the power industry," he said. "It may depend to a greater extent on the understanding and cooperation of the power consuming public."

The biggest question, he said, is safety, because of California's geographical and seismological conditions. Dr. Seaborg stressed that in a state that is 800 miles long and 300 miles wide there are areas where earthquake faults do not prohibit nuclear plant construction.

He said the AEC and the U.S. Geological Survey are cooperating in a survey of California terrain and its fault history to find safe areas of nuclear power sites.

In addition, the AEC is supporting a research program to develop a reactor design which can reliably compensate for some of the geological and seismologi-cal conditions such as exist in California.

SUCH DESIGNS are being built into the proposed $444 million Bolsa Island nuclear power and desalting plant planned for an artificial island off Sunset Beach. Technicians are core drilling for bottom samplings at the proposed island site. Engineers claim the Bolsa Island project will be designed and built to withstand damage from the largest earthquake that could be expected at that location.

Dr. Seaborg said the dual purpose nuclear plant off the coast is an example of what can be done to harness nature for the benefit of man.

"Complete reliance on fossil fuel generating power plants may not leave much of an alternative in the future when limited fossil fuels grow more costly and air pollution restrictions grow more stringent," Dr. Seaborg warned.

Nuclear plants may be more aesthetic than a fossil fuel plant, since there will be no need for a coal pile or large fuel storage area at the plant site. He envisions nuclear power plants without tall stacks to mar the surroundings.

There are now 16 nuclear power plants in operation in the United States, 17 more under construction, and 49 being planned. It is estimated that by the year 2000, half of all electrical power in the United States will come from the atom.

Humphrey Due
FRESNO (UPI) — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey will arrive in Fresno Monday to speak before a student forum at state college, visit an antipoverty center, and appear at an airport rally.

TO MAKE AN ISLAND

This drilling platform a half-mile off Bolsa Chica State Park marks the approximate center of a proposed 40-acre man-made island on which the world's largest sea water conversion plant will be constructed. Corings are being examined to determine the stability of the ocean bottom for the island's foundations. The nuclear-fueled generating plant will produce more electricity than the Hoover Dam facilities.

Hippiedom Goes Way of All Flash

By ART VINSEL

blow king to beggar and queen to seer (blow friend to fiend: blow space to time —when skies are hanged and oceans crowned the single secret will still be man
 —e. e. cummings

Joyfully mourning members of San Francisco's Haight-Ashbury community today marked the end of a three-day observance of the death of Hippiedom.

A new term is circulating on this day of official silence: Freebie, short for Free Man.

Promising a new movement to fulfill the intent of the old, hundreds of former hippies observed a festive funeral beginning at dawn Friday.

CROWDS OF them, some tearful, paraded through the streets carrying a pine box coffin to signify the death of the community — conceived more than a year ago.

At dawn Friday, the vanguard gathered on a hilltop in tiny Buena Vista Park to commemorate all creation, greeting the sun with bells, candles and chants.

Into the coffin went beads, buttons, clipped hair, shaved whiskers and even a matchbox full of marijuana — all burned later on a crackling funeral pyre.

Representatives of the established authority opposed by the hippie community — ironically — were among officiants as the wooden casket blazed away in the Golden Gate Park panhandle.

"Free Men . . . Free Men . . . Free Men . . ." the faithful chanted, dancing around the bonfire while red pumper trucks rumbled to the scene.

"Don't let them in . . . don't let them in . . . don't let them in," hippie types cried as firemen, some blushing embarrassedly, began dragging hoses to extinguish the funeral pyre.

COLORFUL CHARACTERS — who sang Happy Birthday on the first anniversary of federal law against the drug LSD — danced in a ring around the bonfire.

A smiling Catholic priest joined hands and romped with them.

"Now it's time to put on the warpaint of the future," cried a boy wearing an Indian headband and smearing a mixture of soot and water onto his bare chest in the well-known nonviolence symbol.

As he yelled, the authoritarian firemen were spraying water onto the coals of their own — or their society's own — creation, causing several ex-hippies to sit down on the steaming planks in protest.

But is the Haight-Ashbury movement really dead, despite plans for reconstruction and resurrection — like that of the mythical Phoenix, which rose from its own ashes into life again?

It is difficult to tell.

The famed Psychedelic Shop has closed forever, and owners Jay and Ron Thelin say the hippie movement is virtually dead.

"Nebraska needs you more," says a sign in a window of the shop.

DOZENS OF Haight-Ashbury's newly dead stood outside Friday reading various farewell messages in windows as incense and sounds of a jazz group filtered from inside.

Several pushed through the door before a shaven face appeared. The man slammed the door shut from the inside, closing it on Haight Street and its watching wanderers.

But it may not be over, after all, according to a large proclamation spray-painted in green on a concrete wall nearby.

"The world is coming," it says.

Hosmer Urges Nuclear Minefields in Vietnam's DMZ

INDEPENDENT-PRESS-TELEGRAM—A-13
Long Beach 12, Calif., Sunday, Oct. 1, 1967

From Our National Bureau
WASHINGTON — Sowing of nuclear mines along Vietnam's demilitarized zone was suggested Saturday by a congressional authority on atomic matters.

Rep. Craig Hosmer, R-

Calif., suggested the mining in a memorandum to the House Republican Conference, of which he is nuclear affairs chairman.

He suggested that atomic mines could be buried deeply enough so their detonation would not allow the escape of radioactive products. The blast alone, which raises the surface of the ground several hundred feet, would be sufficient to eliminate intruders from north of the zone.

Hosmer, ranking House minority member of Congress' Joint Atomic Energy Committee, said the nuclear devices could be arranged so they would be set off only by invasion from the north.

"They would not be fired if the north refrained from hostile invasion. They would be fired if it failed to refrain," he said.

The congressman quoted Defense Secretary Robert McNamara as saying such mines would be non-provocative, purely defensive weapons if put along the Turkish-Soviet border as suggested by the Turkish defense minister.

"If nuclear land mines are not deemed provocative to the Soviets right on their own border with Turkey, why should they be provocative along the demilitarized zone of Vietnam through which North Vietnamese are actually invading at such a high cost to U.S. Marine Corps defenders," Hosmer asked.

The land mine system, which Hosmer estimated could be installed for $30 million, would be appropriate for the defense barrier recently ordered by Mc-Namara, the congressman said.

12,684,133 Reds
MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Communist Party, which runs the Soviet Union, had 12,684,133 members last Jan. 1, when the nation's population was 234,401,000. About 20 per cent were women.

Snippy the Horse Zapped by UFO?

ALAMOSA, Colo. (AP) — The mysterious demise of Snippy the horse — whether at the hands of celestial vapors in a flying saucer or earthbound critters — has summoned forth tales of other strange happenings in Colorado.

A judge in Denver reported sighting orange-red, ring-shaped objects, flying faster than jets, about three hours after a Houston man telephone a woman here that unidentified flying objects were heading from Texas toward Colorado.

An amateur painter in southwest Colorado said she has had one visit — and was promised another this month — by a strange-looking man who said he was "not of this universe" but wanted to buy her painting of a UFO. He said he would come back, since he didn't bring along any Earth money the first trip, she reported.

Reports of UFO sightings in southern Colorado's San Luis Valley — where Snippy died — are not uncommon. One woman said eight were sighted one evening last week. Other recent reports tell of a football-shaped object following a car and a cigar-shaped craft hovering over a field.

But until the death of Snippy, whose mutilated carcass was found in a remote area near here, all the reports indicated the objects — through weird — kept their distance.

Snippy's owners, Mr. and Mrs. Berle Lewis, said they believe a flying saucer was responsible. Every trace of flesh had been stripped from the animal's head and neck, and they said high radiation readings were recorded at the scene.

Officials of the Air Force financed UFO study at the University of Colorado, apparently not wanting to kick a dead horse, didn't say what they thought, but they are aware of the situation. It was a year ago Saturday, incidentally, when that project got its contract to proceed. A report is expected late in 1968.

Friday night, Mrs. Harry King of Alamosa said she got a telephone call from a Milton Graves of Houston, Tex., telling her two UFOs had been seen over Houston shortly after 6 p.m., another appeared to be headed toward Colorado.

About three hours later, Denver Superior Court Judge Charles Bennett said he, his mother and his wife saw three ring-shaped objects flying in triangular formation over Denver. They were accompanied by a loud, humming noise, he said.

The painter is Mrs. Charles Blundell, who operates a gift and souvenir shop near Pagosa Springs in southwestern Colorado. She said a pallid-complexioned, slightly-built man of about 35 came to her shop about four months ago and tried to buy her painting of a blue, crescent-shaped UFO she and her family saw in December 1966 at the San Dunes National Monument near here.

The man told her he didn't have any Earth money with him, but would return in October. She said he drove away in a car bearing Arizona license plates. "I hope he doesn't return,"

Spain Will Elect Solons on Tuesday

MADRID (AP) — Spanish voters elect 104 Congressmen Tuesday in the first direct at-large congressional election since the civil war ended in 1939.

The election is under a new organic law voted by the Cortes (Congress) this year and is a basic part, too, of the changeover which must come when Gen. Francisco Franco dies or hands over the reins.

Only heads of families and married women may vote. They will select about 18 per cent of a new Cortes of 563 members.

The remainder are chosen in union elections, by municipal and provincial governments, or are congressmen by right of position or appointment by Gen. Franco.

Huntington Seeks Two Beach Areas

Support of a plan to bring two state beaches under city control will be sought Monday when Huntington Beach Councilmen meet with legislators.

The get-together is set for 6:30 p.m. in Sheraton Beach Inn.

The two beaches are Bolsa Chica State Beach and the Huntington State Beach. Both lie within city limits but are operated by the state.

The city's thinking is it could develop the strand faster than financially strapped state officials, a city spokesman said.

FREAK EXPLOSION ROCKS CELEBRATION

A man rushes to the aid of one of two badly-hurt persons in the town of Madison, Tenn., a suburb of Nashville. The town was marking an "old-timer's" day and several persons were assigned to fire an old cannon. A keg of gunpowder blew up, hurling this man 40 feet.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Hint of a break in the 16-day-old strike by a technicians union against the American Broadcasting Co., was reported Saturday night.

A spokesman for the National Association of Broadcast Employees and Technicians said the union was "hopeful" progress toward a settlement might be made when talks between the two sides resume today.

Negotiators for ABC and the union met for about four hours Saturday at a Manhattan hotel in the presence of a federal mediator. It was the first joint meeting in five days.

Dor Wilson, union spokesman, said the association had summoned to New York its bargaining committee members from San Francisco, Los Angeles, Chicago, Washington and Cleveland to join the talks.

Gas War Escalates

A gasoline price war throughout Southland appeared to be intensifying Saturday, with prices in Long Beach area stations down to 26.9 cents a gallon for regular and 29.9 for ethyl.

Some dealers said their prices had been down for a week or more, but most reported they put the cuts into effect in the previous 24 hours. Usual prices at major oil company outlets are 33.9 for regular and 36.9 for ethyl.

Anthony Pascale, 18, of Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., minutes after the 8:02 a.m. accident.

Coroner's deputies said John R. Routley, 17, of 153 Yorktown Lane, Costa Mesa, and Kenton Morse, 18, of Sylmar, were found dead on the shoulder of Interstate 5, six miles north of Oceanside.

Pascale told officers he dozed at the wheel and remembered hearing a "bump."

Engineer Set to Talk on S.F.

Rail Firm Bait's Trap for Phantom Bomber

HAMBURG, Germany (UPI) — West German railways Saturday baited a trap for the "phantom" saboteur by offering to meet his demand for $75,000 if he will cease his bomb attacks on trains and stations in northern Germany.

In statements given to the country's newspapers, the federal railways called on the mysterious extortionist to make contact with them.

"We are willing to pay him if we can be freed from the threat of more injuries and destruction," a railway spokesman said. "We must protect our passengers' and employees' safety."

But police sources said the offer was a trap. They said they had asked the railway management to make it in hopes of luring the saboteur, who styles himself "Phantom Roy Clark," into a misstep and catching him before he carries out his latest threat — blowing up the Hamburg or Bremen railroad stations.

West German press, radio and television were asked not to reveal the strategy, although police said they saw no harm in letting it be known abroad.

The "phantom" has plagued West German railways since he wrote his first extortion letter in 1959. Similar letters threatening to blast trains and stations followed over the years.

He was dismissed as a harmless crank until Dec. 8, 1966, when he telephoned a Hamburg newspaper to announce he had planted a bomb in the main station's baggage lockers. Fifteen minutes later a blast wrecked a bank of lockers.

Since then the "phantom" has been making good his threats, which come in jagged-scrayled, block-printed letters full of mistakes in grammar and spelling.

LBJ Salutes Initiative of U.S. Newspaperboys

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson saluted the nation's newspaperboys Saturday and said they are gaining training and experience which will help prepare them for future positions of leadership.

The President received Paul Link, 15, a Washington newspaperboy, at the White House, greeting him as representative of the 750,000 American newspaperboys.

National Newspaper Week opens today.

Next Saturday has been designated as National Newspaper Boy Day.

Link has been a newspaperboy for more than three years. In a chat with the President, he described his route in suburban Vienna, Va.

'MISTAKEN' STEELHAULER Driver Killed in Trucker Strike

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — A driver of a double-trailer truck apparently "mistaken" for a steelhauling vehicle was killed Saturday by a rock thrown from a highway overpass in Michigan.

It was the first fatality in a continuing wave of violence — shootings, arson, sabotage of trucks and harassment of non-striking truckers — that has accompanied a seven-week strike by independent owner-operators of steelhauling rigs in eight states.

The trucker killed was Fredrick E. Beck, 40, of Carlisle, Mich., a driver for the Wayne Soap Co., Detroit.

State police said he was killed instantly when he was struck in the throat by one of two rocks thrown from an overpass on U.S. 23 about six miles south of Flint, Mich.

The state police said his rig apparently was "mistaken" for a steelhauling vehicle.

Michigan state police immediately assigned extra patrols to all routes which trucking companies informed them their rigs would travel. Gov. George Romney had said earlier in the week police would escort trucks if the violence continued.

Beck's death followed two incidents of roadside sniping on Interstate 75 near Monroe, Mich. Neither of the drivers was hit by the gunfire.

PENNSYLVANIA state police Saturday reported five shootings, three on the Pennsylvania turnpike and one each at Erie and Butler in the western part of the state. The troopers provided escort for 201 trucks, state Police Commissioner Frank McKetta said. Three arrests were made at Greensburg, Pa.

The strikers' attorneys had warned them Thursday to cease all harassment aimed at drivers of vehicles not carrying steel. The attorneys acted after it was reported the FBI was investigating the strike to determine if federal laws were violated.

In Pennsylvania, about 380 National Guardsmen from units in the eastern part of the state were ordered to weekend training in western areas where incidents of violence had been most frequent. They were bivouaced in the western cities of Canonsburg, New Castle, Scottsdale and Connellsville.

Ford Forced to Recall Its Mustangs

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The federal government prodded the Ford Motor Co. for a month before the automaker recalled 78,000 of its 1967 Mustangs to check for a defect that could cause a steering wheel to come off, it was learned Saturday.

The National Highway Safety Bureau told Ford on Aug. 28 that it knew of two incidents in which the Mustang steering wheels either came off in a driver's hand, or worked loose.

The company's investigation turned up nine other cases. But a recall notice was not issued until Monday, Oct. 2.

In between, Dr. William Haddon Jr., chief of the Auto Safety Bureau, sent Ford at least eight requests urging it to take action.

Under the auto safety law passed by Congress last year, the industry is required only to notify dealers of defects within a reasonable time after they are discovered. If they fail to take action, the government can issue a defect announcement.

When it finally issued its recall notice, Ford said it did not expect to find any loose steering wheels during the inspection, because a steering wheel not tightly installed probably would work loose shortly after it had left the assembly line.

The file on Haddon's correspondence with Ford showed that his agency learned about loose wheels on two Mustangs. He asked Ford on Aug. 28 what it planned to do.

This was followed by another telephone call to Ford on Sept. 1 and another on Sept. 12 asking for results of an investigation promised by Ford.

Then, on Sept. 22, Haddon wrote another letter asking Ford what steps it was taking to notify the public. Ford's reply was that the incidents still were under investigation.

On Sept. 26, Haddon asked Ford if it had uncovered any new incidents. The company said it had found nine other cases of defective steering wheels. Each of the cars were built at its Metuchen, N. J., plant, Ford said.

Mrs. JFK's Cambodia Visit Could Ease Strained Ties

INDEPENDENT PRESS-TELEGRAM—A-17
Long Beach 12, Calif., Sunday, Oct. 9, 1967

By D. J. OESTREICHER
United Press International

The forthcoming trip to Cambodia by Mrs. John F. Kennedy is an unusual undertaking that could have a dramatic impact in one of the key nations on the Southeast Asia chess board.

Mrs. Kennedy likes to travel, and it is not unusual for her to be making a trip to the Orient. It is unusual that she has selected Cambodia, a country about the size of Oklahoma that angrily broke relations with the United States more than two years ago and has not yet resumed them.

Adding to the unusual nature of the trip is that Mrs. Kennedy's host when she arrives in the Cambodian capital of Phnom Penh next month will be Prince Norodom Sihanouk, a ruler who accused the Central Intelligence Agency of plotting to oust him at a time when John F. Kennedy was President.

It is also interesting to note Mrs. Kennedy's announced travel plans to the Far East do not include a stop in South Vietnam. When she steps into the pleasant November weather of Phnom Penh, Mrs. Kennedy will be about 125 miles from Saigon and less than 50 miles from American troops in South Vietnamese war zones.

THE STATE DEPARTMENT in Washington hasn't reacted for the record to Mrs. Kennedy's plans, but it is known she will be making the journey as a private citizen and will not be accompanied by any American officials. There will be none on hand when she lands at Phnom Penh. The U.S. embassy there has been closed for months.

Privately, U.S. officials say they will be extremely pleased if Mrs. Kennedy's trip produces a warming in Sihanouk's attitude toward the United States government. As South Vietnam's next door neighbor, Cambodia could play an important role in American efforts to remove Communist aggression from the area.

Sihanouk has shown some defrosting tendencies in recent weeks, and most of his criticism lately has been directed at Communist China instead of the United States. Mrs. Kennedy's trip might advance what seems to be a movement toward normalization of relations between Washington and Phnom Penh.

Sihanouk, 44, and Cambodia are caught in the middle of the Asia power struggle.

Cambodia, with Vietnam and Laos, was part of the French colonial empire in Indochina which collapsed after the French army defeat at Dien Bien Phu in 1954. It was occupied by the Japanese in World War II and abhors foreign domination.

Cambodian neutrality was guaranteed by the United States and the Soviet Union in the Geneva Agreements of 1962. In the years that followed Sihanouk accepted military and economic assistance from the United States, Red China, the Soviet Union, France and any other nation offering it.
IN 1963, AS THE American military commitment to Vietnam intensified, Sihanouk backed away from Washington and began accusing U.S. and South Vietnamese troops of violating the Cambodian-Vietnamese frontier.

Sihanouk formally severed ties with the United States on May 3, 1965, claiming long months of bitterness.

Ex-Killer Submarine Now Research Craft

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A U.S. Navy submarine, once famed for its fighting prowess, has found a new role as a non-combatant with the fleet. The U.S.S. Archerfish, a fleet type submarine of World War II vintage, now taxis scientists around the world to investigate and chart the ocean depths. She is the only oceanographic research submarine in the Navy and the only one with an all bachelor crew. Her captain, Lt. Cmdr. John P. Woods, of Columbus, Ohio, said his crew of six officers and 65 men reach homeport about once a year. "Wives like to see their husbands a little more often than that," said the handsome, blond Annapolis graduate.

THE ARCHERFISH, now unarmed, was once a scourge of the Japanese Imperial fleet. The highlight of her wartime career came in 1944 when she sank the carrier Shinano outside Tokyo Bay. The enemy ship was the largest craft ever built until the United States constructed the Forrestal class carriers 10 years later. The 1,807-ton Archerfish was put in mothballs, called back briefly for the Korean conflict and then put in mothballs again until 1958, when it was outfitted for Operation Sea Scan. It has been scanning the sea ever since.

Dominguez Channel Spurs Area Growth

By JIM MCCAULEY
From Our L.A. Bureau

There is a $30.1-million reason why the Dominguez-Carson area is likely to be the No. 1 growth area in Southern California.

The reason: Dominguez Channel. It took 19 years and $30.1 million to finance and construct the 18-mile watercourse from its headwaters in the Inglewood area to its sea outlet in Wilmington.

Final phase of the project, a $4.3 million unit between Avalon Boulevard and Vermont Avenue, was accepted by the County Board of Supervisors last May 31.

Historically, the waters which now flow through Dominguez Channel have been a flood threat for centuries. This stalled development of the area till flood-control engineers could assure adequate drainage.

Much of the drainage area was a slough decades ago.

The channel now drains a 70-square-mile area in the southwest portion of Los Angeles County. It serves the communities of Inglewood, Hawthorne, Lennox, Lawndale, Gardena, Torrance, Los Angeles, Carson-Dominguez and Wilmington.

Even before the last phase of the channel construction was completed, growth had spurred along the channel route. Opened up for development were many acres previously marginal because of recurring floods.

In bygone eras, the winter and spring rains left water standing for months in many square miles of the Dominguez Channel area. It often was mid-summer before storm waters slowly seeped into the sea from the flat drainage area.

It was in 1948 that Los Angeles County Flood Control District first began improvement of the Dominguez drainage area. Improvements were sped by successful passage of storm-drain bond issues in 1952 and 1958.

The first sections of the channel to be improved were upstream near Los Angeles International Airport, where the channel is only eight feet wide.

By the time the channel reaches San Pedro Bay, it extends 200 feet in width. The channel bottom has been lined with clay to prevent salt water from seeping into the coastal water basin.

In the days of the old slough, only weeds, insects and other pests occupied the bottomlands that were drained by the Dominguez Channel.

Now a multi-million-dollar industrial complex has been constructed. More than 10 major industries and 90 smaller ones have located near Dominguez Channel. In addition to storm run-off waters, the channel also carries to the sea industrial waste fluids — subject to their meeting the standards of the State Water Quality Control Board.

The old Dominguez Slough may never be the same.

City Poverty Agency Plans Election to Involve the Poor

By CHARLES SUTTON

The city's anti-poverty agency, trying to heighten the level of low-income participation in the poverty program, began preparations this week for the election of nine new neighborhood representatives to the agency's 45-member board of directors.

Twenty election aides, hired on a temporary basis to seek out potential candidates and drum up election interest among the poor, already have begun work in the four target areas: the central district, the Redondo Avenue-Anaheim Street area, downtown and West Long Beach. A fifth area, North Long Beach, which included the low-income housing project at Carmelitus, is not included because its quota on the board of the Economic Opportunities Commission is filled.

ANY AREA with pockets of poverty is entitled to five neighborhood representatives on the board. There are five such areas in the city, according to 1960 census figures.

Anti-poverty officials originally had planned to conduct a poll similar to the ill-fated county poverty election of last year, in which less than 1 per cent of the eligible low-income voters turned out to choose seven community representatives to the governing board of the county poverty agency.

But local officials dropped the plan and decided instead to hold four special election meetings.

The four gatherings, which will be in the nature of Town Hall meetings, will be held in the four target areas Nov. 1, according to Charles Euse, a program assistant with the agency.

THE COUNTY election was one of a series of poverty election disasters throughout the nation, and led national poverty war director Sargent Shriver to suspend temporarily all community poverty elections in the country.

It apparently also swayed a large number of communities to consider more limited selection procedures for giving the poor a share of the seats on their poverty boards.

Euse said poverty officials here, in drawing up rules for the election, decided not to limit the candidates and the voting to the poor alone. Thus, while the agency and its aides will concentrate on trying to get the poor to run and vote in the election, middle-income residents of the four

MALCOLM EPLEY

ON SUNDAY morning, they're good scrambled. Local wags have been trying somehow to relate Howard Hughes' "spruce goose" to his current surge of property acquisition in Las Vegas. The plywood plane, hidden in a building in L.B. Harbor, is big enough for a casino. . . . Returnees from Las Vegas say that we're only hearing about the big purchases by Hughes, whereas he's buying anything that he can get his hands on, even small lots. . . . Howard sure loves to keep 'em guessing.

At the commissioning of USS Catskill at the shipyard Friday, Capt. E. L. West, the ship's commander, minced no words. He said that the c.o. was supposed to make some remarks at an event of this kind but that he disagrees with the tradition. He made some, but they were few. . . . Catskill is a "mine countermeasures support ship" whose business is to search out and destroy enemy mines. It has been reconverted since World War II days, when some local men sailed on it.

JUST AS predicted, E. Seventh St. traffic has surged back to what it was before San Diego Fwy. was opened and temporarily relieved the Seventh situation. . . . City traffic Engineer Bob Dyer thinks the congested situation on the S.D. Fwy. of a morning and evening has caused new diversions to Seventh. Probably things will never be much better until the cross-town fwy. is built, heaven knows when.

I guess nobody will argue that you can't grow tomatoes in a big way around here. All season I've been getting reports of success with the fruit, and even had a little myself. . . . Latest account is from Mrs. Thomas L. Patterson, 3456 Gavilota. She put a small plant in her yard, watched in amazement as it grew to be a giant and produced 244 tomatoes.

IF YOU WANT to excite the maritime experts around here, call the Queen Mary a "boat." A boat is a small vessel, which hardly describes the Mary. It would be hard to mis-use the word more flagrantly. . . . Mamie Krythe, the local author, is among those who will ride the QM back to Long Beach after the delivery at Southampton. Her last royalty check from a recent book took care of the fare nicely. She's lucky, but she earned the luck.

Not everybody wants the QM to shoot off its big mouth at noon around here. Suggestion from a reader that the ship's mighty whistle be sounded daily brought a cry from Reader V.M.H.: "Do you realize that hundreds of people in this already noisy city try to sleep in the daytime because of their 'hours of work'?" . . . Even so, the noon-day whistle idea has a lot of support from people who don't think it would make that much trouble and would make a great local tradition.

A WORTHY project for bringing basic skills education to the needy at L.B. City College Business and Technology Dept. has hit a snag. Many of the students are ready and willing to learn, but they have no money to buy books. . . . It looks like a chance for some service organization to make some points. Person to contact is Dena Hart, State Dept. of Employment, 555 E. Pacific Coast Hwy. A trust fund is being set up with a full accounting assured.

Deer hunters are still having a time up north. One shot a domestic goat on the outskirts of the Sierra hamlet of Markleville, dressed it out and put it in a freezer. When the law caught up he claimed he was sure all the time it was a deer. . . . Truckee paper, Sierra Sun, carried a headline: "Area Deer Hunt Opener Said Poorest Ever; Few Human Casualties."

It's that time again. People with old Christmas cards are asking about where to send them. My list is a little old and I'd like to start a new one. Meanwhile, don't send any to ME, please.

L.B. Turns Back the Ol' Clock

Good Ol' Days, one of the major promotions staged yearly by Downtown Long Beach Associates, will be held Thursday through Saturday of this week.

Warren Harper, J. C. Penney Co., chairman of the event, says it will be four days of fun, featured by varied entertainment, plus some real old-fashioned bargains offered in the stores.

"Transportation" is the theme this year with large displays of the Queen Mary and Douglas Aircraft. Old means of transportation will be seen with a big display of stage coaches, buckboards and surreys. Automobiles from the old days will line the streets along with most of the 1968 models.

Other free attractions include Hollywood stunt stars in action, the Coyote Gulch Flea Circus, Turn of the Century Musical review, band concerts, a "Monster Show," costume contests, dance exhibitions, mechanical circus and free rides on a steam train.

Details and many pictures will be provided in a special section of The Independent, Press-Telegram which will appear Wednesday.

Airport Report Explains the Problems

Of the nearly 500,000 takeoffs and landings recorded during the past year at Long Beach Airport, less than one-half of one per cent were by jet planes, according to director of aeronautics Nicholas Dallas.

Most of the jet flights involve Douglas Aircraft Co., which currently is averaging about two takeoffs a day, according to a company spokesman.

Dallas is preparing a special report on Long Beach Airport activity for presentation to the City Council.

Dallas' figures, which will be part of a special report to the City Council on airport activity, were disclosed this week in the wake of a protest meeting held by Los Altos residents Sept. 29 to protest against the "noise and nuisance" of Long Beach airport traffic.

Spokesmen for the two hundred protesting residents plan to collect 5,000 signatures for presentation to the council in two weeks, they said.

Dallas, in his preliminary report, said local flights —defined as those staying within the local airport area and including pleasure flights, instructional and business flights — totaled 232,965 takeoffs and landings in 1966.

The so-called "itinerant" operations, which include scheduled and non-scheduled airlines and visiting aircraft of all types, made 246,127 takeoffs and landings during the year, he said.

The latter category included 6,383 takeoffs and landings by the scheduled carriers, primarily Western Air Lines and Pacific Air Lines, as well as 64 international flights by Lufthansa and Trans International Airlines.

Dallas said that every effort is being made by the city to bring the larger transports into the airport during daylight or early evening hours.

During the four months of June through September, he said, only 20 flights arrived between the hours of 10 p.m. and 6 a.m., and only nine of these were between midnight and 3 a.m.

Both the city and the airlines prefer the day or early evening arrivals, Dallas said, pointing out that it is "most undesirable" from everybody's standpoint to have planes arriving at 2 or 3 a.m.

The majority of the European flights by Lufthansa and TIA are scheduled to arrive in Long Beach between 7 and 9 p.m., with the plane departing the following day between 9 and 11 a.m., Dallas said.

One problem, however, is that flights can be delayed by weather or other causes on the comparatively long trip from Europe, and thus occasionally arrive after midnight.

"All efforts are made to minimize flights after midnight," Dallas said.

The airport, directly or indirectly, provides jobs for thousands of people who live in Long Beach, not to mention the 43,000 employees of Douglas Aircraft Co., Dallas pointed out.

The city also is faced with the problem of meeting the demands for air service, from residents and businessmen of Long Beach.

DIVERS TEST SWIMMER DELIVERY VEHICLE USED AT UNDERSEAS WORK SITES

OPEN COCKPIT

Underwater Taxi for Divers

By JACK O. BALDWIN
Marine Editor

An "open air" underwater taxi for shuttling SCUBA divers to and from submerged work sites is under development by North American Rockwell's Ocean Systems Operations, the Long Beach-based company revealed this week.

The divers would ride in the open, fully flooded cockpit of the blimp-shaped submarine.

Provisions for plugging into the sub's air supply would enable the divers to conserve the air in their own tanks, according to Nathan Friedland, Ocean Systems program development manager.

The sub, 15 feet long and four feet in diameter, will carry from two to six men at a speed slightly in excess of five knots.

Operating depth of the diver transport is limited only to the capability of the divers to withstand underwater pressures.

"Use of the sub overcomes the useless waste of a diver's energy — and the air supply he must carry with him," Friedland claims.

"Transporting the divers to the work site quickly will enable the men to spend more time actually at work," he said.

Friedland noted that a diver is limited in the amount of time he can withstand the cold waters.

Tests currently are being conducted using an Apollo Water Impact Test Facility in Downey.

The tests, conducted under 18 feet of water, are being made to determine size, shape, color, and illumination of instruments to be installed on the prototype model.

Job Hunters Give Poor a Chance

By BILL DUNCAN

W. G. Spurling is chief of an organization that has its own private war against poverty and all that breeds poverty and deprivation.

Spurling, a tall, lean young man, quit Douglas Aircraft to become president of a unique corporation in Long Beach's central district called the Council of Organizations at 906 E. Pacific Coast Highway.

Its sole purpose: Building a better tomorrow.

For $15 a year dues and heaping proportions of understanding, support and loyalty anyone can join the war. The Council of Organizations is privately supported by contribution and donations.

ported by contribution and donations.

WHAT'S IT doing? Finding jobs for the unemployed. The unemployment ratio in the city's central district is estimated at about 8 per cent of the male inhabitants (no precise figures are available). What's more, 40.6 per cent have incomes of less than $4,000 and 27.9 per cent earn less than $3,000.

The Council of Organizations is meeting the problem head on. It has a program to retrain semi-skilled persons as well as putting the skilled into better jobs.

"We have found," Spurling said, "that the only way to solve the problem is to create jobs."

Yet They All Serve the Public

AMONG THE many legislative proposals that must be rated as dead for this year are a batch of bills in Congress for some form of tax sharing.

Tax sharing, sometimes called revenue sharing, is the generic name for returning a certain percentage of federal tax revenues to the states (and in some instances to cities also) with a minimum of strings on how the money could be spent.

The idea has been a conversation piece among politicians and economists since 1960, when it was first proposed by Walter W. Heller, former chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers. As was to be expected, it has been enthusiastically endorsed by the National Governors Conference. Gov. George Romney headed a committee that acclaimed it.

JUST WHO has done it in all these years is a subject of some dispute. Daniel P. Moynihan blamed the liberals (of whom he is one) in a recent speech at the national board meeting of Americans for Democratic Action.

"Let us be frank," said Moynihan. "The original, determining opposition to this proposition of revenue sharing has come from liberals, not conservatives in Washington, and we should be ashamed of ourselves."

On the other hand, a fair case can be made that one formidable block is the House Ways and Means Committee, not exactly a citadel of liberal thought.

The chairman of the committee, Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., has suggested that tax sharing will not contribute to decentralization, "but on the contrary might well cause state and local units to become more and more dependent on the federal government."

A Republican member of the committee, Rep. Thomas B. Curtis of Missouri, observed that the Heller Plan rests on the fallacy that the federal government has the surplus to return to the states. It does not, he says; and if it did, it should still impose controls.

Bills to put into effect some form of tax sharing have been authored by such dissimilar types as conservative Rep. Melvin R. Laird, R-Wis., chairman of the Republican Conference, and Sen. Joseph D. Tydings, a liberal Democrat from Maryland.

Regardless of their origin, all the bills are firmly stalled while the House Ways and Means Committee stands deadlocked with the administration over proposed spending cuts demanded by the legislators as a prerequisite for action on the tax increase.

THE IMPASSE may be broken, but still tax sharing is unlikely to become a reality soon because of mutual distrust between various levels of governments.

Many members of Congress share Rep. Curtis' doubts that the states can be trusted with federal money unencumbered by federal guidelines.

For their part, as evidenced by the Governors Conference, most state officials believe Congress and the federal bureaucracy incapable of imposing reasonable rules.

And just for good measure, the National League of Cities distrusts the states as an instrument for passing money along to metropolitan areas.

These mutual suspicions are responsible for a good deal more mischief than indefinite delay in considering the controversial schemes for tax sharing.

Three years ago someone in the Johnson administration invented the phrase "creative federalism" as a theoretical concept. It will remain just that — only a slogan and a theory — until each of the levels of government earns and gets more respect from the others.

Eastern States 'Raid' California Business

From Our National Bureau

WASHINGTON — California, the Cinderella of states, is getting increasing trouble from her jealous sisters in the midcontinent.

From the northwest angle to the Mississippi delta and from the Blue Ridge to the Rockies, states have been intensifying efforts to woo industrial prince charming away from the golden state.

Next month alone, delegations from Indiana, Kentucky and Mississippi are going a-courtin' to California's very hearth-side with blandishments calculated to steal some of the affections of her industry.

All will be carrying bouquets of tax advantages, cheap land, transportation benefits and lower wages.

Typical is the foray planned by a 20 man delegation from Indiana, headed by Gov. Roger Branigin and Lt. Gov. Robert L. Rock and made up of representatives of Hoosier developers, transportation firms and utilities.

They plan to call on various California-based firms and to wine and dine their executives at a headquarters in Los Angeles' posh Century Plaza Hotel on Nov. 13 through 15.

Charles W. Kirk Jr., executive director of the Indiana Commerce Department, said particular emphasis in ana, there is no ready pool of skilled workmen in such areas. Getting around this factor is "a big job" in the selling effort, Kirk confesses.

The overall Midwest effort cannily is not aimed at getting industries to move their operations lock, stock and panned corporate headquarters from sun-kist shore to snow-nipped prairie.

Rather, it is aimed at persuading corporate executives that satellite plants can be more economically and efficiently located in the heartland. Because of the freight costs, the midwesterners argue, it is advantageous to ship components rather than the finished product to markets east of the Rockies.

The midwestern hard-sell campaign in California follows years of resentment there at California's growth, often at the expense of midcontinent industry and brainpower.

It follows a coalition of midwestern interests formed for political action to get more for the Midwest at the inevitable expense of California.

The coalition was most dramatically effective last year in competition for the location of a multimillion-dollar atom smasher to be built by the Atomic Energy Commission. Californians snugly figured the state had it in the bag, which it did until the midwestern entente turned on some powerful political heat. The research plum wound up in Illinois.

The midwestern effort to siphon industry from California could hardly cause California to revert to a citrus and prune economy, but it could chip away at growth spawned by the state's existing manufacturing complex.

This growth is needed by California to cope with the constant migration of people attracted there by her natural charms.

State leaders must be alert in their planning and salesmanship to keep this growth from slipping eastward, for eternal vigilance is the price of prosperity.

BAXTER OMOHUNDRO

the California pitch is on freight costs from California manufacturing points to midwestern and eastern markets. But cheaper land and lower taxes are stressed to manufacturers in Southern California areas where land is increasingly dear and taxes continue to rise.

Kirk admits that although labor costs are lower in some parts of Indi-

Galbraith Hits Hawks In Satire

PAST MASTER as an irony-monger, Harvard economics Prof. John Kenneth Galbraith smelted some gems for his California Democratic Council audience here last week — and otherwise proved his non-ferrous mettle to those liberal minds.

Vietnam was the main topic because CDC had come to the Arena to slap a peace delegation against President Johnson in the 1968 primary.

The public at large, said Dr. Galbraith, is rapidly coming to see the liberals were right in opposing Vietnam involvement. For a long while, he said, those critics of involvement were dismissed as eccentric; they lacked "a clear view of reality or the depth of perception that comes from the regular reading of Time magazine."

Students were opposed — "the special bias of people of fighting age."

Professors and teachers were mostly opposed — "but their minds are disorganized by too much reading."

Far Eastern experts — "but they were too close to the problem."

The church — "but Christianity has always had those unfortunate reservations on human slaughter."

Writers, artists and boys with beards — "but their political judgment was marred by poor personal hygiene."

Ordinary citizens — "but they could not grasp the deeper subtleties of democracy in Saigon."

DR. SPOCK WAS opposed, "but he knew only about babies," Dr. King, who "knew only about civil rights," George Keenan, "only an historian and diplomat," James Gavin, "never anything but a general, ambassador and businessman" — all "very limited people. None could see things with the clarity of Walt Rostow, Dean Rusk and Congressman Gerald Ford."

Explaining the mess is very difficult, Dr. Galbraith said. How, for example, do you explain that our casualties now exceed even the South Vietnamese draft calls? And that the morale and efficiency of the South Vietnam Army, despite "a certain ingenuity in avoiding combat remains well below the Egyptian minimum?"

U.S. domestic programs "of high urgency and great promise" have been put on a stand-by basis because of the war, he charged and the administration responded with two remedies "... unequalled in their economy. It unleashed a study and called for prayer."

The lesson of history, that Western powers cannot prevail against nationalism, "we are now trying to prove wrong in Vietnam."

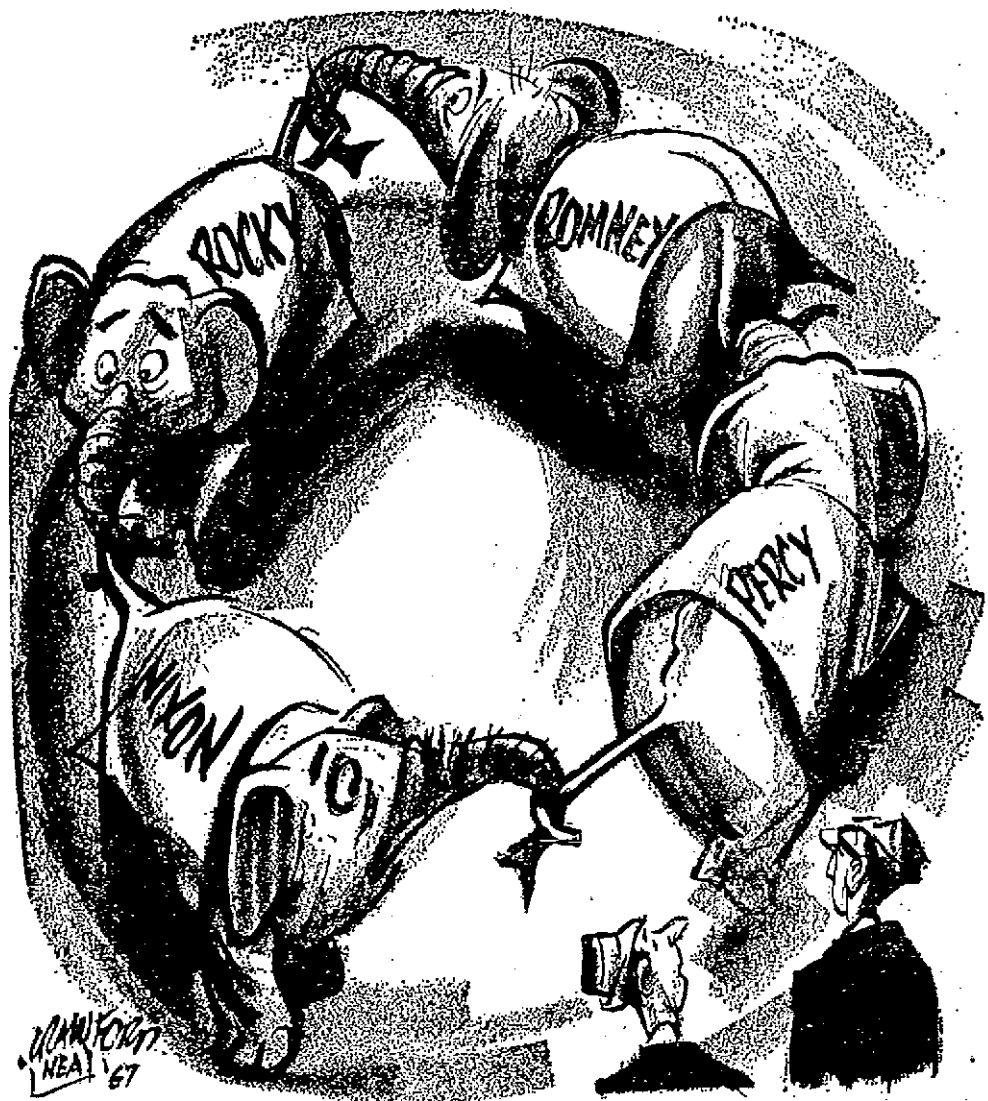

AS A FIRST step, the speaker suggested, "Abandon the notion of a rollback of the Viet Cong ... let no more American lives be invested in so quixotic an enterprise. If we are to be skeptical or wars of national liberation, we must begin by being skeptical of our own."

Secondly, by stopping the bombing, "showing that we are not forcing submission at gunpoint, perhaps we can have negotiations." If we can't have negotiations, he said, we should defend ourselves in areas that are now secure.

"This is not a perfect alternative," said Galbraith. "A 15-year armistice, which is what we got in Korea, was not perfect either. But it is the course which will invite the agreement of the largest number of our fellow citizens."

Finally, Galbraith urged full use of allies which the war situation throws together in America — "Where Vietnam is concerned I am in an admirably ecumenical frame of mind ...

'It's a Little Hard to Tell Who's Leading'

'Fallout' From Gas Just Starting

From Our L.A. Bureau

IT DOESN'T take much hind-sight to see that the wrong people are being chlorinated from the escaping gas in the chemical industry complex west of Long Beach.

Escaping gas killed two persons and felled 70 others last month—one of eight escaping gas incidents in less than 13 months.

The ensuing fallout is only beginning to envelop some of the planners, promoters and politicians who jointly made possible such an environment.

One needs no credentials as an urban planner nor a chemist to conclude:

—Los Angeles County had no business allowing a family residential area to be zoned within whiffing distance of a chemical-industrial area, where lethal gas attacks are a probability rather than a possibility. Yet, long after the area had been established as a chemical-industry complex, the county allowed new homes to develop within two blocks of the plants.

—The San Diego Freeway, the main artery between Long Beach and Santa Monica, was allowed to pass within one block of the hazardous American Chemical Corp. plant. The hundreds of autoists stalled by the September gas attack when the freeway was closed must have wondered what type of gas the freeway planners were on the day they adopted the route.

—It is incredible when lives are at stake that no workable secondary source of power was available when lightning ripped the American Chemical plant, triggering the fatal gas attack.

—It well could be that it is a coincidence that eight gas attacks could occur within 13 months in the same Los Angeles County area. But all public officials charged with protecting public safety should be forced to say coincidence eight times.

—It is obvious that the multimillion-dollar chemical industry is a vital part of the Southern California economy. But one certainly can question any zoning or planning program that puts freeway autoists or residential householders in jeopardy of being gassed.

It would seem to be a cardinal rule of sound planning to isolate hazardous industries from people. This repeatedly has been violated in some sections of Southern California, including the gassy chemical-refinery complex west of Long Beach.

Smoggy siftings:

REVERSED ROLES — Los Angeles County firemen are battling 500 these days. One week they got thrust into the villain's role when county supervisors moved to force unincorporated areas into fire-protection districts, a step that would wipe out the La Habra Heights Volunteer Fire Department. The next week firemen were heroes when it was suggested firemen might take over administration of the Sierra Madre Mountain Search-Rescue Team, the outfit fired by the sheriff's department.

SNAIRED — Many of the delegates showed up late to the opening session of the annual transportation and logistics forum in Los Angeles last week. The reason: poor transportation connections.

MEDICAL MECCA — The controversial stung of the Los Angeles smog yet may be an asset. For one thing, it cleaned out my sinus condition.

Politics and Space

Scientists Beginning to Look for New Fields

From Our National Bureau

WASHINGTON — Last week's resignation of Dr. Robert Seamans from the National Aeronautics & Space Administration was symptomatic of how the space agency's morale has sunk to the lowest perigee in its history.

Seamans, the highly regarded second in command of the agency, announced he is leaving Jan. 1 to return to private life.

He was non-committal as to his reasons, but persons close to Seamans HAYMAN H. Bookbinder is going to wind up his career at the Office of Economic Opportunity with what undoubtedly is the poshest assignment ever made by the antipoverty agency. Bookbinder will spend his final three weeks with OEO on a tour of seven European nations, where he will explain America's programs to aid the poor.

THE PENTAGON seldom thinks small, even when ordering such mundane items as sandbags.

The defense supply agency recently purchased, for $7.5 million, nearly 40 million plastic sandbags.

Filled with sand and stacked, these would be 4000 miles tall. Or, made into a wall, they could be a rather formidable barrier along the demilitarized zone of Vietnam.

DEMOCRATIC doves who are critical of Sen. Gale McGee's role as a strong supporter of President Johnson's Vietnam policy are recalling that he wasn't always all the way with L.B.J.

One senator even went on to say that the Wyoming Democrat gave Johnson reason to frown on July 13, 1960, when the Wyoming delegation cast 15 votes that gave John F. Kennedy the presidential nomination at Los Angeles.

Johnson had been counting on the Wyoming votes. McGee didn't personally cast his state's votes, although he was leader of the delegation.

Many roll calls have passed since then, though, and McGee gradually gravitated to Johnson, in whose defense he gave a mighty speech last week.

CAPITAL CHATTER

say he got fed up with the short shrift the nation's space program has been getting lately.

What has particularly hurt Seamans and others is that the administration did virtually nothing to back NASA against the deep parings in Congress this year. These have left the agency with little in the way of major projects to look forward to beyond the next few years.

Seamans' departure may be followed by many more in lower ranks, particularly among scientists who may see a more challenging future in areas where politics isn't such a vital factor.

IN NEARBY Virginia, a candidate for local office named Parris urged voters to support "Parris in the fall." A rival promptly countered by proclaiming himself to be "a man for all seasons."

AS THE FORD Motor Co. strike by the UAW union drags on millions of dollars a day are lost by the union members. It goes far beyond the Ford workers as it affects its parts suppliers, transportation workers, and the merchants who serve Ford workers in many cities. Already among the highest paid workers in the world, the auto workers demand not only higher wage and fringe benefits, but also demand a share of industry profits.

There is the threat that when the Ford strike is settled General Motors will face a national strike idling over 500,000 workers. If this occurs there will be a serious stagnation of the economy as other millions of workers, industries, and retailers are affected. The end result will mean fewer new cars will be bought — when the strike is over — and fewer jobs available throughout the industry and its suppliers.

These are the outstanding examples of the devastation caused by big industry strikes. An idea of what is demanded by some other unions is that for vacation time. The reasoning is that it costs more to pay expenses on vacation trips — so the employer should make up the difference.

ONE UNION found its high pay scale priced it out of jobs. So it is now attempting to correct the situation to overcome the condition that cost it more than half its membership. This is told in a Wall Street Journal article as follows:

"Slowly, ever so slowly, some members of organized labor show signs of learning what the fellow who operates a business for profit learned long ago: If you run up the price of goods or services beyond a certain point, you may be in big trouble.

"The sort of trouble, for instance, in which Philadelphia's Local 8, Plasterers Union AFL-CIO, finds itself. A few years ago business manager Thomas McCormick was presiding over a local with 1,200 dues-paying members. Like most other building trades unions, the plasterers kept de-

Big City Needs Ignored by GOP-Dixiecrat Bloc

WASHINGTON — The public was not admitted to the closed-door caucus of House Democrats last week, but this column can report that it featured a revealing debate over the basic issue of more money to prevent big city riots or money for rural highways, river and harbor dredging, and subsidies for cotton, rice, cane sugar, peanuts and tobacco.

The debate cast significant light on the alliance between Northern Republicans and Dixiecrat Democrats which has dominated this session of Congress. After the Democratic caucus,

DREW PEARSON

Republican Congressmen voted as a solid bloc with the Mississippi-Alabama bloc to curtail funds for education, housing, city improvement, job training, while funds for Southern and rural projects were scheduled to get off with slight slashes.

Even such Republican moderates as Silvio Conte and Bradford Morse, both of Massachusetts; Charles Mathias, Md.; Odgen Reid and Frank Horton, both of New York, bowed to the 'GOP whips, and lined up for deep cuts in education, antipoverty and slum clearance.

Earlier at the closed-door Democratic caucus, Chairman George Mahon, D-Tex., of the Appropriations Committee gave an impartial blackboard talk on how the GOP-Dixiecrat $5 billion cut would affect the budget. He explained that he had already cut $3.8 billion from the President's budget request and planned to cut $1.2 billion more.

"That isn't enough," disputed Rep. Tom Abernethy of Mississippi.

FURTHER PROPOSED cutbacks would include $240 million from the Post Office Department, which would eliminate all Saturday deliveries and cut business deliveries to one per day; $400 million in education; $125 million in foreign aid; $450 million in antipoverty; $200 million in space; $175 million in Farmers Home Administration; $66 million in public works; $103 million in parks; $200 million in Health, Education and Welfare in addition to education.

It was explained that only $66 million could be cut out of the public works pork barrel, so dear to Congressional hearts, because contracts were already let.

The cut in the Department of Agriculture was chiefly made at the expense of the Farmers Home Administration, and getting, more pay until they were earning $5.23 an hour.

"Today Mr. McCormick discovers he has only 458 members in his local. What happened? It isn't that building activity in Philadelphia is in a slump, for it isn't, and renovation of old homes is going along briskly.

"What happened is that the plasterers' high rates stimulated competition. Builders increasingly began to turn to drywall, or wallboard, construction bypassing the need for plasterers. The same sort of thing occurs in manufacturing and processing all the time; thus, a canner, faced with a price rise in steel, may look for a less costly substitute.

"What's the use of bragging about your high rate of pay," reasoned Mr. McCormick, "if you're standing in an unemployment line?" Impressed by that logic, his local voted to cut its rates to $4.98 per hour, or by about $10 per week, hoping to counter the wallboard's competition.

"Whether or not the cut will have its intended effect, the move at least reflects a belated awareness that wage rates do not exist in some rosy vacuum but are an inseparable part of the price the buyer of an article or service will be asked to pay."

THE UNIONS insisted on the government's new minimum wage increase from $1.35 to $1.60 an hour. It is estimated this will cause the loss of over a million jobs as unskilled workers are let go and new automatic devices are used to replace these workers. It will fall hardest on teenagers, Negroes, and other unskilled part-time and other workers.

The UAW Union head makes much of demanding greater pay because of increased production per man hour. But he fails to accept the fact that increased production is almost entirely due to automated machines — not greater skills or efforts by the workers. But if the Ford settlement sets the pay and fringe benefit standards demanded by the union it will set off a spiral of increased costs which will mean fewer workers enjoying the benefits.

tration which has chiefly benefited small farmers. Little was cut from the subsidies for tobacco, cane sugar, rice, peanuts and cotton, which benefit the Southern plantation owner. A breakdown of these figures also showed that programs for the poor benefiting the cities were being cut at the rate of 20 to 40 per cent, while pork barrel programs were being cut about 5 per cent.

Most eloquent diagnosis of these figures was given by Chet Hollifield of California, who showed that the $5 billion cut demanded by the GOP-Dixiecrat coalition would cripple government to a point of paralysis. Hollifield showed that after exempting such fixed spending charges as defense, Social Security, interest on the public debt, and veterans pensions, $21 billion remained to finance the entire federal government. Of this, $9 billion is for salaries, which cannot be touched since government salaries are already low.

Hollifield didn't mention it, but previously Congress had romped over objections by the President and the Secretary of Defense by voting a $1 billion salary increase for all the armed services; and next month Congress plans to vote another $1 billion salary increase for other federal employees.

HOLLIFIELD SHOWED that if you deduct the $9 billion for government salaries from the $21 billion, you are left only $12 billion from which to make the $5 billion Republican-recommended cut. And a $5 billion cut out of $12 billion leaves a paltry $7 billion, which is peanuts to run the entire civilian machinery of the federal government.

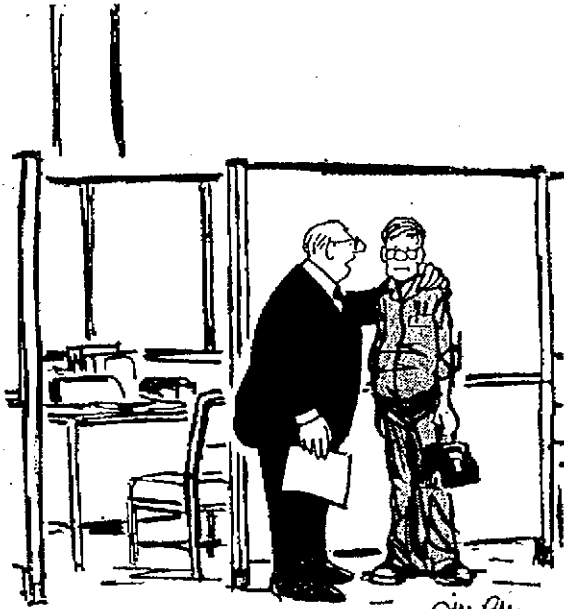

Suggested Rep. John Dingell of Detroit:

"Let's take the $5 billion additional cut proposed by the Republicans out of public works — dams, schools, etc. — in their own districts.

"Republicans who caused this controversy are fakers," exploded Dingell. "They want it both ways. They scramble to get money for projects in their districts, and then they vote for economy at the expense of the poor and school children."

Remarked Rep. James Scheuer, D-N.Y., after the debate, "The Gross National Product of the United States is now $800 billion. Our increase in GNP this year is $35 billion and that increase alone is bigger than the total GNP for Africa, India or South America. Our corporate profits after taxes last year were $47 billion. To say that we can't afford a few demonstration programs for better housing, better health, as the Republicans do, is a vote of no confidence in America.

Women in Congress

EDITOR:

What this country really needs, contrary to the traditional "five-cent cigar that sells for a nickel" is a Congress dominated numerically by women. With a preponderance of feminine congressional voting power, who, in his right mind, could visualize our country ever having so lamentably deteriorated into its present almost incredible mess? Not me — and I pass for a man!

No Arms for Firemen

EDITOR:

Regarding James McCauley's column, "Firemen Refuting 'Brutality Charges': McCauley has brought to light charges made by ghetto inhabitants of fire brutality which have previously been hidden by similar charges of police brutality. He said that Detroit and San Bernardino fire departments have begun to arm firemen for protection against "hecklers" and snipers. I feel this move is bad.

Arming firemen would only put vast numbers of persons on the defensive. Fire fighting would no longer be man against fire, but instead man against man. There would also be great personal and property risk for all those involved. Where would this so called armament end?

Such accusations by the ghetto people seem totally unfounded. They should realize that the firemen are there for the ghetto benefit; and that their accusations and the results could only lead to grave civil unrest. Firemen are needed to fight fires, not people.

Barbarous Movie

EDITOR:

The release by American International Pictures of a shockingly barbarous movie "Sadismo" has been brought to my attention.

The display of unspeakable cruelties to animals in this picture is truly revolting to any persons calling themselves Christians. To add to the horror of the exhibition of cruelty for "entertainment" is the callousness of the commentators, a man and a woman, as they narrate the film, as flippantly as if it was merely a fashion show or a dull sports event.

I submit examples of what "Sadismo" portrays:

A young pig is picked up by his hind legs and held upside down, head pinned between his captors' legs. The camera zooms in for a close-up as a plier-like instrument snips the skinned testes from the animal's body. As the pig is carried squealing back to his pen and another caught, a man stands smiling into the camera, the pig's testes displayed in his open palm.

A group of people stand in a circle gleefully clapping their hands as they watch their children shoot arrows into the shivering body of a chained bear. The adults close in, stretching the struggling animal out in the snow and securing his paws with thick leather straps. After skinning him alive, they split his body open pulling out entrails which smoke in the snowy air.

The fact that "Sadismo" is being shown in theatres catering to the family shows the depth of depravity to which fiendish people have sunk in exhibiting cowardly tortures on helpless animals. Though, as a snip to the public, the film feebly attempts to condemn these incidents of savagery to animals as sublimated examples of sadism, rather than a test of animal cruelty as "entertainment."

Two Sides

EDITOR:

We of the Citizens for Peace and Quiet Committee realize there are always two sides to any question. If 100 per cent of the population felt as we do we would not have this fight on our hands. However, our rapidly filling petitions tend to show that Mrs. Fowler's view point is in the minority.

We suggest to Mrs. Fowler a visit to Minnie Gant or Bixby School and observe these jets going over our crowded school yards. It takes little imagination to visualize the results of a crash. Of course, this is just one of the problems with which we are concerned.

We are more concerned with the beating of the human heart than the clicking of the cash registers.

Clean Up Arena

EDITOR:

A few days ago another writer took the city fathers to task over the dirty steps and aisles of the Arena. I also attended the Ice Rinkies and I heartily agree that the Arena could stand a good scrubbing.

The city fathers have spent millions for the Queen Mary and last Tuesday voted to give $29,000 to the IBC fund, a high class cattle show. I'm for the councilmen who voted against this allocation.

If the city fathers can squander its funds in this manner, then surely they can allocate the necessary funds to keep the Arena clean. This building costs plenty to build and it certainly is not in the best interests of the City of Long Beach to have visitors see the dirty condition the Arena is in.

Frontlash and Backlash

New York Times Service

IF GEORGE WALLACE is in the 1968 presidential race as a third-party candidate and if there is more rioting in the cities next summer, white backlash is sure to be a major factor in the 1968 political campaign.

This has been said before. In 1964, however, what Lyndon Johnson called the "frontlash" against Barry Goldwater proved much more powerful; and in 1966, while backlash obviously to get it by appealing more obviously to the backlashes. More than anything else, that probably would unite her opponents, and the record suggests, anyway, that the public does not respond to a candidate who deliberately seeks to stir up the backlash and profit by it.

Therefore, it does not yet appear that backlash alone is enough to elect candidates to significant office, in Boston or anywhere else. But the danger in the undeniable presence of backlash is something else, anyway.

TOM WICKER

helped Ronald Reagan win in California, its most blatant candidate, George P. Mahoney, lost the governorship of Maryland.

Backlash, of course, is nothing more nor less than white resentment of Negroes, usually expressed in a choice between candidates. The mixed results of 1966 suggested that backlash alone could not elect an obviously unappealing candidate like Mahoney; but that if handled with some discretion it could give powerful assistance on one like Reagan, who would have been dangerous in any case.

In Boston's recent preliminary mayoralty election, this pattern was repeated. Mrs. Louise Day Hicks led an 11-man field by taking 28 per cent of the vote. Mrs. Hicks, although campaigning without obvious bigotry, had made her reputation in Boston by standing pat for neighborhood schools (despite the de facto segregation that results) and her unofficial slogan was "You know where I stand, boys."

THEY DID INDEED, and that is why she led the ticket and might still become Boston's first woman mayor. In the Reagan tradition, she handled the race issue with some subtlety, rather than as a blatant racist might have, and she proved an effective campaigner.

But Mrs. Hicks still has not been elected mayor and her 28 per cent of the vote will have to be expanded considerably. If the defeated candidates, together with Sen. Edward Kennedy, can cooperate even loosely they should be able to elect her opponent, Kevin White, with ease. If that happens, backlash — in Boston at least — and by inference in other racially mixed cities — will not seem so powerful.

Mrs. Hicks is in a difficult position. She needs almost twice the vote she got in the preliminary, but if past experience is any guide she is unlikely

IT IS THAT, fearing the existence of backlash and of the candidate who, like Reagan, knows how to use it to advantage, politicians tend to trim their sails before a campaign even begins. President Johnson, for instance, has the most remarkable record of achievement in civil rights of any president; yet, at Kansas City, he felt compelled to give the nation's police chiefs a rousing tirade against those who stir up violence in the streets — an obvious bid for the votes of those who were outraged by last summer's riots.

Similarly, in 1966, Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of New York, an impeccable liberal on race matters, bore down so heavily on the issue of "crime in the streets" that he was accused by some of tacitly playing to the backlash vote.

That suggests why, in the troubled political climate of 1968, and no matter whom the Republicans nominate against Johnson, white backlash is sure to be a major factor in the campaign. It is not so much that any candidate — even Wallace — will seek to win on an openly racist platform; it is rather that both the major candidates will fear to offend the white majority and therefore will be reluctant to challenge, castigate or lead it.

What's happening at The Lafayette?

Not much. And a lot.

It depends on how you look at it.

The Campbell family, as you may know, bought the place back from the Hilton chain. And they're making some very big changes.

A top-to-bottom remodeling and redecorating program is underway.

Some very nice apartments are now available for month-to-month rental, with daily maid service if you wish it.

And soon, a number of fine condominium apartments will be offered for purchase at remarkably low prices.

All residents will be able to take advantage of the many new facilities, including an arts-and-crafts center, library, reading and billiards rooms and laundry.

But some things haven't changed.

The delightful Fife & Drum room is still open for luncheon and cocktails, the new coffee shop is open, hotel accommodations are still available in the Lanai suites and all the party and banquet facilities are still going strong.

In short, starting right now there's a new look to the Lafayette. And it will get a little bit better every day.

Opera Enters 20th Year—May Be Last

Long Beach Civic Light Opera will celebrate its 20th anniversary this season. But the celebration may turn into a wake.

Three Civic Light Opera Association productions lost $20,000 in 1966-67. If the association loses half that much — even one-fourth that much — in 1967-68, there will be no civic light opera in 1968-69.

"We've gone as far as we can go without substantial help from business and industry," Walter Groshong said Saturday.

The Civic Light Opera Association was able to meet expenses without soliciting business and industry until last season. Then, faced with rising production costs, they asked for help.

"We got $6,500," Groshong said.

GROSHONG, a member of the association board and chairman of the Major Business contributions committee, said Civic Light Opera "should get at least $30,000 in a city this size."

"The difference between $6,500 and $30,000 is about what we lost last year. We're now down to our last $5,000. If we don't get an absolute minimum of $30,000 from business and industry this year, we'll be out of business."

To launch the fund drive, Groshong wrote letters to 200 businesses. He told them of the Civic Light Opera's high caliber productions, and said, "They need a boost in capital to maintain quality, for quality is their only means of survival."

The business community "has a responsibility to support culture," Groshong said, but businessmen should also support it to help themselves.

"LONG BEACH spends millions of dollars to bring conventions to this city. Many convention delegates bring their families. If there is no live entertainment here, you can be sure they will go elsewhere. In all probability they will go to Los Angeles in the afternoon to shop, then stay there for dinner and a show," he wrote.

Long Beach loses all that business.

Groshong quoted Harry Krusz, outgoing Chamber of Commerce executive vice president:

"I have not known any community where it was harder to obtain and retain financial support for cultural enterprise than here. . . . Every cultural enterprise you can mention struggles for existence, and some of the best face extinction if financial support is not forthcoming."

Civic Light Opera is, indeed, facing extinction, Groshong wrote, "but we are sure once the local business community is convinced of the need, it will respond favorably."

Groshong said the association board seriously considered closing up before this season, "but we decided to make one last try."

"ALL WE have to do is break even," he said. "If we can do that for three years, we'll be all right. Once Municipal Auditorium is remodeled, we'll be able to sell enough tickets to pay expenses."

Civic Light Opera expenses last year were $135,000.

Ticket revenue normally would have underwritten almost all of that, but the International Beauty contest forced a cutback from four productions to three and dropped revenue drastically to $85,000. Other income included $17,000 from business, industry, organization and individual contributions, $10,000 from the city and $3,000 from the county.

This year, with four productions, expenses are expected to climb to $175,000. As the association gains greater and greater recognition, ticket revenue will also increase.

BUT GROSHONG and Harvey Waggoner, association manager, don't think ticket sales will carry the company until cramped 1,300-seat Municipal Auditorium is modernized and expanded to 2,200 seats.

"Then we'll have a facility to match the quality of our productions — and enough seats for everyone," Waggoner said.

Civic Light Opera productions the past few years have been regarded by critics as some of the best amateur theater in the United States.

When the company staged "Music Man" in early summer, 1966, author-composer Meredith Wilson saw it and said it was the best production of his play he had ever seen, with the exception of the original Broadway show.

SIMILAR rave notices have accompanied such big-name civic light opera productions as "My Fair Lady," "Kiss Me Kate," "Camelot," "Damn Yankees," "West Side Story," "Gypsy," "Kismet," "The King and I," "Guys and Dolls" and "How to Succeed in Business Without Really Trying."

The 1967-68 season opens Nov. 2 with "Little Me," the Broadway show that starred Sid Caesar.

Other plays on the '67-68 calendar include "Finian's Rainbow," "Oliver!" and "Sound of Music."

What in '68-69? "Nothing," Groshong says, "unless business and industry 'contribute their share.'"

2nd Racial Survey Set for Schools

The second annual racial and ethnic survey of pupils and staff within the Long Beach Unified School District will be compiled this week.

School administrators counted the number of Spanish surnames, other whites, Negroes, Chinese-Japanese, Koreans, American Indians and other non-Caucasians.

Ethnic breakdowns will be shown on a grade-by-grade basis this year and staff members listed according to sex, a school spokesman said.

The statewide census first was taken last fall to aid in determining increases, decreases or shifts in the distribution of ethnic groups within the schools.

It then showed the Long Beach school population was about 6 per cent Negro and 5 per cent with Spanish surnames.

Naval Architect Knows the Mary

Long Beach naval architect Donald Hall knows the Queen Mary inside out. He has taken it apart over the years and reassembled it many times.

Hall's Queen Mary is an unusual, foot long, 2-inch-tall model of the graceful 31-year-old ship he received in 1936 from an aunt, Miss Helen Morrison, who returned to England aboard the Queen Mary on its return maiden voyage.

The cardboard model is in layers. By disconnecting two tiny nuts from bolts situated fore and aft of the Mary's three funnels, Hall can disassemble the ship layer by layer — all 14 decks.

The interior of the model is printed in fine detail, showing every stateroom, ball room, dining room, right down to the fuel storage areas.

HALL SAILED on the Queen Mary himself, in 1936 to return to Germany when he was 7 years old to attend the wedding of another aunt. He was born in Seaham Harbour, England and came to America when he was 1 year old.

He got another glimpse of the liner last week — from 45,000 feet altitude. Hall was flying to Germany on a business trip and saw the Mary sailing off the Irish Coast on her final New York to Southampton voyage.

"From that altitude she looked about the size of my model, but the mighty ship was leaving a wide wake behind her. It was a nostalgic sight," he said.

He remembers his voyage aboard the Queen Mary and that he thought (as a boy) the ship was something out of Jules Verne. The Queen Mary was ultra-modern then," he said.

The Queen Mary was somewhat responsible for Hall's career. He was so impressed by the ship as a boy that he decided to follow his father's footsteps and make the seas and the vessels that sail them his life's work. His father, the late James Hall, of Lakewood, designed tankers for Standard Oil Co. Five uncles are also seagoing chief engineers.

The firm also designed the giant 70-ton semi-automatic gantry crane that will be used aboard the Navy's Sealab support vessel when exercises begin off Long Beach next year.

Speaking of the Queen Mary coming to Long Beach, Hall said the machinery aboard the vessel should be mothballed. "The Navy should undertake this project," he said. "The Queen Mary could be pressed into service again during an emergency."

Hall has a strong feeling for the sea and ships, but added: "There is a certain warmth about British ships, especially the Queen Mary, that American ships don't seem to have. Maybe it's just the British in them."

Employers Required to Deposit Wage Taxes

California employers who have more than $2,500 in Social Security taxes and withheld federal income tax for any month in a calendar quarter are required to deposit such taxes twice a month in the succeeding quarter. This is required whether or not the employment taxes for such succeeding quarter reach the $2,500 level.

Frank S. Schmidt, district director of Internal Revenue in Southern California, said the deposits must be made within three banking days after the close of each semimonthly period, that is, three banking days after the 15th of each month and the end of each month.

The deadline for making the semimonthly deposit of payroll taxes on wages paid Oct. 1-15, is Oct. 18, 1967.

Schmidt said that employers who have less than $2,500 in payroll taxes for each month in the preceding quarter should continue to make deposits on a monthly basis for each month in which the taxes payable exceed $100.

Slums: Squalid But Personal, Youth Claims

INDEPENDENT PRESS-TELEGRAM—B-5
Long Beach 13, Calif., Sunday, Oct. 1, 1967

ROBERT STEPHENS

By MOLLY BURRELL
"The slum is a culture all its own. It may be impossible to understand unless you've lived there," says a young VISTA volunteer back from a summer in Spanish Harlem.
Robert Stephens, 21, California State College at Fullerton senior, exchanged the comforts of Orange County suburbia for 10 weeks amid squalor of a New York city ghetto.
"There were rats, dope, and all kinds of crime. But alongside all the bad things I found a community cohesion, a concern for fellow humans, a closeness, warmth, and humor, a sort of tribal feeling of responsibility to try to help those in trouble. By comparison our culture seems almost sterile in personal relationships," he says.

"When I signed up for the Peace Corps last year I had no idea what to expect. I only knew I wanted to try to help those who need it. When I got the assignment for the domestic Peace Corps' 'Operation Pavement,' I had no idea I'd be working from 8 a.m. to 11 p.m. six days a week and be glad of it. It was rough, unsettling, challenging and the most gratifying thing I've ever done."
His summer job was in a block at Madison and 127th inhabited by Negroes and Puerto Ricans, where volunteers had been thrown out or beaten up last summer and the summer before. It was one of 60 blocks in Harlem barricaded from traffic for the summer program of recreation, community improvement, remedial education.

Stephens and his two West Coast co-volunteers lived with rats and cockroaches in a one room walk up and shared the one bath and toilet with 32 other tenants. Rent was $117 a month, hot water was a sometime thing and theirs was one of the nicest apartments in the block, says Stephens.

"The first day I walked around my block I wasn't sure I would make it back — it was that bad. For the first two weeks we weren't sure the people would accept us, but by the time we left we felt we had done a job. Junkies, old people, mothers, kids came to say goodbye, fixed us food to take, some of them cried," he says.
"There were three of us for the block — about 20 buildings, five of them about 50 youngsters, some addicts, some dope ped-dlars, prostitutes and homosexuals. The rest were long-time, law abiding residents who tried every day, against all the odds, to live decent lives and help their neighbors.

"We organized street games and excursions out of Harlem for the children. We and the residents raked and hauled away tons of trash and garbage. We taught some junior high age youngsters how to tell time and the months of the year — things they hadn't picked up in a crowded classroom. We went through all the channels from the Mayor's Commission to the Harlem Housing Assn. and finally got one of the empty buildings razed. That removed one fire trap, one setting for crime and filth.

"Most of the people have stopped trying to improve their situation because they're tired of fighting a losing battle. Most of them aren't trying to make it out of the ghetto because nobody has for so long. I've seen Watts and Detroit slums but there's no comparison with Harlem — it's the biggest and the worst."
"Yet people there regard the children as very special. The older girls all look out for the little kids, even the junkies and the drunks look out for them. It's a matriarchal society which may be one reason for the closeness, the knowing-every-one's-business and the fondness for children," he says.

Stephens and his co-workers left Harlem in a $30 sedan and crossed the continent without trouble. Their spare tire was a gift from one of the black residents as were boxes of chicken and potato salad, a St. Christopher medal, tool box and maps.

Builders Exchange Raps Secret Subcontract Bids

Some general contractors are violating at least the spirit of the city law which requires them to list their subcontractors when bidding on public works, the Builders Exchange of Long Beach has announced.
Jack Horner, manager of the Builders Exchange, urged the City Council, by letter, to "clear the atmosphere" by asking the city engineer's office to verify that general contractors are complying with the law.

The code requires such contractors to list all subcontractors who will be doing work amounting to more than one-half of 1 per cent of the total bid.
Horner asked if councilmen are "aware of the growing feeling among a substantial segment of the Exchange membership that the intent, if not the actual letter of the law, is being and has been circumvented."

Horner said general contractors do not have to list a subcontractor for any work they intend to do themselves. He charged, however, that some contractors are believed to be using subcontractors on work which they indicated in their bid they would do themselves.

IF THE COUNCIL does not take action, Horner said, the Builders Exchange "will be forced to conduct its own investigation and insist on appropriate action by the council if any violations of the law are uncovered."

Last week, a Huntington Beach contractor contended that the successful bidder on a city project had used subcontractors he had not listed, and councilmen held up awarding a contract pending an inquiry.
Failure to list subcontractors, the complainants said, gives such a general contractor an unfair advantage over other bidders.

Five Teens Escape Fire on Whale Boat

Five Santa Ana teenagers and the owner of a converted motor whale boat leaped to the safety of a San Pedro fuel dock when a fire burst out of the vessel's engine compartment Saturday.

Danes On Drugs

COPENHAGEN (UPI) — Police Saturday announced a crackdown on Copenhagen's flourishing underground marijuana trade, apparently after receiving information that professional drug peddlers are treating marijuana with opium to induce addiction.

Harbor Division police said one girl, Cindy Graeber, 13, was treated for minor leg burns at the dock at Berth 78.

The 26-foot wood-hulled vessel, owned by Roy W. Morris, of 2025 W. 11th St., Santa Ana, received $400 damage in the blaze.

Fire Capt. Donald Russi said the blaze ignited when the engine backfired during fueling.

Poverty Agency Planning for an Election

target areas also may participate, he said.
Eure conceded that the open-end rule could render the vote meaningless if the poor do not ballot themselves, but he said every possible step will be taken to get the poverty vote out, and to get candidates who — low income or not — have some sort of backing among the poor.

WHAT'S MORE, he added, he's not entirely pessimistic about the chances of having a lively campaign in the weeks ahead.

"I think issues can be raised," Eure said. "In all parts of the city where there is poverty, there are problems which can be raised to the level of issues."

"Now's the time for people who feel there are matters worth discussing to step up and take part. That's why the slogan for the election is, 'Don't Squawk, Vote.'"

And Carl Wallace, executive director of the poverty agency, pointed out that the west area already had "a built-in issue" in a proposed neighborhood service center for the area.

Wallace was alluding to the bitter dispute being waged between critical residents of the area on the one side and poverty officials and proponents on the other.

THE FORTHCOMING election is not without precedent in the city. In the poverty program's early stages here — when the Community Welfare Council was operating the program within the framework of the countywide anti-poverty effort — similar but less ambitious election meetings were held to select the present low-income representatives to two-year terms on the board.

Candidacies then were restricted to low-income persons only.

Since that time — the spring of 1966 — many of the low-income representatives have either withdrawn from the board or died.

Today there are nine vacancies on the board, and the election it is hoped, will fill those seats and name 11 alternates, as well. The alternates will be chosen from the second-runners.

As in other communities, the Long Beach poverty board is composed of representatives from three broad groupings: the poor, the private and public agencies that deal with the poor, and community groups such as churches, labor unions and civil rights organizations.

THE FACT that the poor are limited generally to a third of a poverty board's membership, though, has been a sore point with minority groups all across the country.

In Los Angeles, it was blamed in part for the meager turnout of the poor in the county election.

"Having people (out of 23 on the county board) really doesn't mean much," Rev. H. H. Brookins had said at the time. Brookins spoke for a coalition of civil rights and neighborhood groups which earlier had demanded majority control of the board.

Whether the same view will take hold here remains to be seen.

In the central area, where criticism of the poverty board has been both sharp and frequent among Negro militants, the voices of opposition have been still of late. And there's no reason to believe the militants will ignore or boycott the election there. Should they become actively engaged, in fact, the chances are good that some sort of political rivalry — obvious or subtle — will develop.

THE QUESTION in the minds of some observers, though, is whether enough time has been allowed for electioneering. The deadline for the filing of candidacy papers is Oct. 23, only a week before the actual election.

One poverty official has pointed out, however, that there's nothing to prevent an early-filing candidate from getting off to a quick start.

The election machinery will be largely in the hands of the League of Women Voters, which volunteered its services to the poverty agency.

Poverty officials said they plan to use sound trucks, posters and fliers to bring the election to the attention of potential voters.

Person wishing to become candidates have been asked to submit their names with a list of 25 backers. And officials said they'll insist the backers be drawn largely from the poor.

At the moment, the filing sites in the various neighborhoods haven't all been established, although any eligible person can file at the office of the poverty agency at 339 Pacific Ave. In the central area, Eure said, the filing posts are at the Community Improvement League, 222 Olive Ave., and at the office of the Neighborhood Adult Participation Project, 1180 E. Anaheim St.

ling pointed out, "that many people are working on jobs now only because there is a pay check at the end of the week. They may be better suited and talented for better paying jobs. We strive to get them out of the rut."

The Council of Organizations began quietly a year ago when Spurling and other volunteers contacted interested citizens and businessmen in Long Beach, mostly in the central district, and proposed the idea of forming an organization to fill employment needs of the community by creating a labor pool of skilled and semi-skilled workers.

THE COMMUNITY response, Spurling said, has been "very good, so far. Our primary purpose is to service the labor needs of members of the organization with skilled workers."

In some cases, he has been able to convince businesses to hire unskilled or semi-skilled workers for an on-the-job training program.

"We need more support in this area," he commented.

In a peak month the organization has found jobs for 45 who had previously been unemployed. During the summer, Spurling's organization ran a tutorial program for 65 youngsters from grades 6 through 12 who were lacking basic skills. All are back in school this year "richer in basic skills," he said.

These 65 youngsters need part-time jobs to keep them in school, he said. "We're looking for any type of work so that they can earn money for school clothes and supplies," Spurling said.

IN ADDITION to finding jobs, the council is spreading its activities to a training program. It is setting up a culinary training school to train cooks and waitresses. The training kitchens will double as a place where needy families can get food, he stressed.

"This is a self-help program, and although we need finances to continue we don't want businesses just to throw money in to the organization for pacification purposes," he said. "We want businesses to use our service and when they need help, just call."

When a job applicant comes to the Council of Organizations, he or she goes through an interview with Spurling or his executive assistant, Terry Crenshaw, to discover if there is some latent talent suppressed through years of getting dead end jobs.

ALLOCATIONS 'UNFAIR'
City Protests Hit at Cigarette Tax

By JIM GOODRICH

Those who smoke more may enjoy it less, but property taxpayers are not supposed to mind.

After all, California's new tax bite on cigarette smokers, effective since Sunday, was blueprinted to ease the burden on Joe Citizen through allocations from the tax fund to local governments.

Long Beach's projected income: $1,408,040.

Cities and counties expect to receive almost a third of the anticipated annual $240 million revenue from the added 3 cents tax on a pack of cigarettes.

TROUBLE IS, not all taxpayers trust the new tax edict to bring them tax relief.

It is the method of allocation that is being criticized by property owners in such small Los Angeles County communities as Norwalk, Artesia, Lomita, Bell Gardens, Hawaiian Gardens and La Mirada.

Money will be allocated to cities and counties in ratio to their sales and use tax collections.

Taxpayers in some communities insist that the sales tax formula gives unfair advantage to cities such as Long Beach, Los Angeles, Pasadena and Burbank that had high sales tax revenues before the cigarette toll became law.

CALLING THE distribution plan "silly and unjust," the disgruntled taxpayers demand that the system be revised to provide allocations based on population.

Said Upland City manager Elwin Alder:

"If the courts have ruled one man, one vote, the same principle should apply to tax dollars — the distribution should be based on people."

Some 35 Los Angeles County cities would gain more money in a switch from the sales tax to the per capita formula, according to the faction campaigning for a revision.

Spearheading the drive for the change is Baldwin Park, "a bedroom city," whose population is 44,080. Mayor Charles Morched declared the formula provides a windfall for a few cities.

"We feel that we're getting the short end of the stick," commented Baldwin Park city manager Clifford Nordby.

NORWALK'S City Administrator Frederick Bien, whose community loses money under the sales tax formula, says: "We've expressed our dissatisfaction to our state legislators."

Sought by the "general law" communities is a complete reexamination of the cigarette tax distribution formula. State legislators have promised to give consideration to the demand when sessions resume in Sacramento in January.

Assemblyman Frank Lanterman (R-La Canada) introduced a bill in 1965 that would have provided for allocation on the basis of population, but AB1615 failed to pass when Gov. Brown exercised his right to pocket veto the proposal.

Present provisions for the allocations based on the sales tax formula were authorized in State Senate Bill 556, which became law this year.

An endorsement of the switch from a per capita to a sales tax distribution plan came from the League of California Cities.

RAYMOND REMY, Southern California manager for the league, said two reasons prompted the action: 1. Cities generally will gain a larger total sum from the sales tax formula; and 2. Charter cities which had their own cigarette taxes would have lost revenue under the per capita formula.

For Long Beach, it is a difference of $94,838 more under the present projected income of $1,408,040 as contrasted to the old proposed per capita apportionment of $1,313,812.

Los Angeles gains $2,679,165 under the sales tax formula; Pasadena $317,603; and Burbank $148,715.

PROPOSERS for change seek to substantiate their argument by referring to cases they believe prove inequities in the distribution formula. Among the cases cited are these:

—Irwindale, population 1,000, will receive almost as much money as Baldwin Park, Temple City and Duarte, whose combined population is more than 88,000.

—Norwalk (95,115) figures to lose $133,747 under the sales tax formula; Lomita (29,022) $37,857.

—Rolling Hills (2,026) will get only $142 from the revenue allocation, while Vernon (218) is due to receive $912,000 because of its heavy industrial sales tax returns.

Critics estimate, "The residents of Vernon would have to smoke 92,000 packs of cigarettes a year to justify the projected allocation."

Matthews in Cuba

HAVANA (UPI) — Herbert L. Matthews, a retired American newspaperman, arrived Saturday to gather material for a book about Fidel Castro. Matthews recently retired as an editorial writer for the New York Times.

Half-Million in Recreation

More than a half million persons of all ages took part in the various summer activities offered by Long Beach's joint city-school recreation program.

Under the Recreation Department's breakdown of attendance, the largest participating group was the senior citizens, who accounted for 148,110 of the total participants.

This included 24,009 taking part in activities of the Bixby Park Shuffleboard Club, another 24,923 who attended the 10 "Programs Under the Stars" performances, 19,046 at the Lincoln Park Card Club and others participating in horsehoes, chess and checkers, dances and tours.

Aquatics drew the second largest attendance: 137,351. During the approximately eight-week program at the Poly. Wilson, Jordan, Millikan, City College and Silverado Park pools, there were 87,266 persons "in the swim," according to A. D. Hoskin, director of municipal and school recreation.

Another 35,882 took part in instructional activity at four beach areas: 59th Place, Bay Shore, Colorado Lagoon and the Youth Sailing Center.

Leeway Sailing Club offered six classes daily for nine weeks and drew 7,082 participants, while 6,430 attended classes at the Model Boat Shop.

The Long Beach Novice Invitational Swim Championships drew 565 persons on 23 teams, and the All City Closed Playground Championships registered 126 swimmers.

Hoskin said 70,801 persons, both adults and children attended classes in arts and crafts, while another 33,968 participated in drama, music and puppetry groups. The Junior Theater staged 10 performances for audiences of 484.

Special activities, such as the girls' district playdays, girls' and boys' beach days, Tackle Busters, and camping at Woodland and Camp Sea Hawk had 9,462 persons in attendance.

Sports events recorded a total participation of 116,063 persons, Hoskin said.

The major category was men's softball, with 220 teams taking part. Participants totaled 31,680, and there were 59,225 spectators at the games according to the report.

Softball leagues also were held for boys and girls and, including players and spectators, drew 4,840 persons. Basketball tournaments in four categories added another 998 persons, while 1,805 participated in a boys football tournament.

A 10-week course in tennis instruction was given to 225 adults and 445 children, while two tennis tournaments drew 565 players and spectators.

VICE ADM. ROEDER

11 L.B. Warships Set for Exercise

Eleven Long Beach warships will be taking part in a major 1st Fleet exercise Monday through Oct. 17, Vice Adm. Bernard F. Roeder, commander, announced Saturday.

"Counting the San Diego ships, we will have 30 warships in 'Exercise Moon Festival,' advanced training for Vietnam duty," the admiral said.

Roeder will be running the 'Festival' from his flagship, the missile cruiser USS Oklahoma City. And he will undoubtedly "surprise" his forces with operations not in the "Moon Festival" plans book.

On an antisubmarine warfare exercise in July, Roeder dispatched a nuclear attack submarine into an exercise that was programmed for only two conventional boats.

On the schedule are surface and air gunnery exercises, mine sweeper activity, anti-PT boat operations and shore bombardment against San Clemente Island.

ASKED ABOUT readiness training for the gunners on the battleship USS New Jersey when she comes around to Long Beach late next spring, the admiral said:

"New Jersey will do lots of shooting before she goes to the gunline in the Tonkin Gulf.

Air units from carrier wings based in Miramar, Lemoore, Calif., and Whidbey Island, Wash., will operate along with a reconnaissance squadron from Sanford NAS, Fla.

Long Beach ships are the missile frigate USS Gridley, destroyer USS Higbee, oiler USS Tappahannock, ocean minesweepers USS Energy, Pivot, Constant, Pluck, Advance, Dynamic and inshore sweeps USS Cove and Cape.

Don Ellis Thrills Fans at Pacific Jazz Bash

By RALPH HINMAN JR.

"Big Band" leader Don Ellis got a standing, whistling ovation during Friday night's opener of the second annual Pacific Jazz Festival in Costa Mesa.

He deserved it.

One original selection just played had given jazz a brilliant new dimension, steering it boldly into uncharted realms.

It was a well-balanced festival program at the Orange County Fairground before — and after — Ellis unleashed his work. Commemorative for almost everyone: Kenton progressivism (but nothing earlier), "San Francisco somber," jazz loud, hot, cool and often commercial.

Ellis, who controls a trumpet like Harry James in his prime, led off his brassy, well-tromboned band with the progressive "Opus 5," followed by a smooth "Alfie."

Then the big one, aptly called "Epic," proved long and complex, defying description and classification. It would seem to be unlike anything written yet for the jazz literature.

FOR INSTANCE, at least six — and probably more — time signature changes are made, with the tempo ranging from very fast to funeral. One section full of haunting, howling discords sounded strangely like Mahler's First Symphony in the hands of a fey conductor.

But finally, the maestro's trumpet steered a clear course, rising and falling, slurring and sluffing at precisely the right moments. In all, it was an exhausting but exhilarating emotional experience.

In a sense it was too bad Ellis chose to do "Epic" Friday. It tended to overshadow may exceptionally able performances by four other groups.

The first of these was the Vince Guaraldi three-man combo with a San Francisco style of sad little songs. Best of the bunch, I thought, was "Autumn Leaves" done in a four-way combination of sad jazz, old style hot, traditional progressive and, believe it or not, classical.

ELEVEN SONGS flowed from the "Four Freshmen," brash as ever. Particularly good were a parody of "Winchester Cathedral" and "The Shadow of Your Smile."

A solidly progressive bunch was the veteran Modern Jazz Quartet, steered by John Lewis. They did a great pair from "Porgy" — "It Ain't Necessarily So" and "Summertime" with a flair.

Winding up the 4-hour show at midnight was an East Coast "big band" seeking recognition in these parts. The Thad Jones-Mel Lewis aggregation seemingly followed a strict progressive idiom, and was excellent in "Lover Man" and "The Second Race."

In concluding sessions that afternoon at 1:30 and tonight at 8:15, such personalities as the Dukes of Dixieland, "Big Mama" Thornton, Wes Montgomery and the Jimmy Smith Trio will be featured.

Saturday's headliners were the Duke Ellington Orchestra, Miles Davis Quintet, George Shearing, Cal Tjader Quintet, Gary Burton Quartet and Red Norvo.

DIRECTOR ADLER'S DREAM S.F. Opera to Stage Wagner 'Ring'

By RODNEY FULLFOIL

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — When Kurt Heger Adler became general director of the San Francisco Opera 13 years ago he had a dream — to stage the complete cycle of Wagner's "Ring of the Nibelungen."

This fall he begins to realize that dream: The San Francisco Opera will give the first opera in the ring, "Das Rheingold." The other three operas will be produced during the next three years.

Any production of the ring calls for heroic voices, but one of the most vital elements is the over-all size in the United States only New York's Metropolitan, has entrusted these elements to stage director Paul Hager and stage designer Wolfram Skalicki.

HAGER was an assistant to Wieland Wagner in the early stages of his career, while Skalicki is well known in such operatic centers as Vienna, Graz and Turin.

Their job in San Francisco is to create a "ring," as they put it, that will "dazzle the eye as well as the ear." Skalicki describes the forthcoming production of "Rheingold" as "sensational symbolism."

Asked how the San Francisco "ring" will differ from Bayreuth's, Skalicki says emphatically, "We will not try to make it abstract."

"Our approach will be to suggest imaginatively the dramatic effects to be found in the score. It is our belief that the senses must be given something to accompany what is in the tre-

Fall HOME FURNISHING Fashion News

INDEPENDENT PRESS-TELEGRAM SUNDAY, OCTOBER 8, 1967

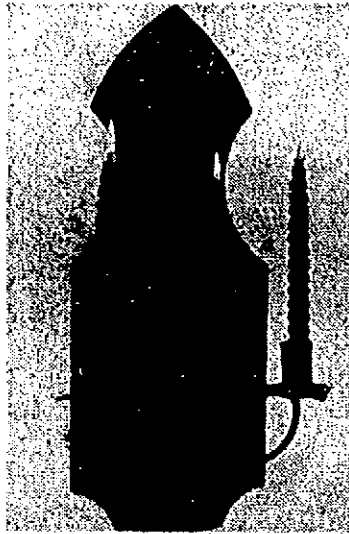

Timely accessory

Swirling acanthus leaves in a hand-finished patina gold form a deep-relief sunburst to frame a Chambord gallery clock. Battery operated, the three-inch clock has a rose-decorated face and is mounted on a 16-inch frame of simulated wood.

Accessories key decor

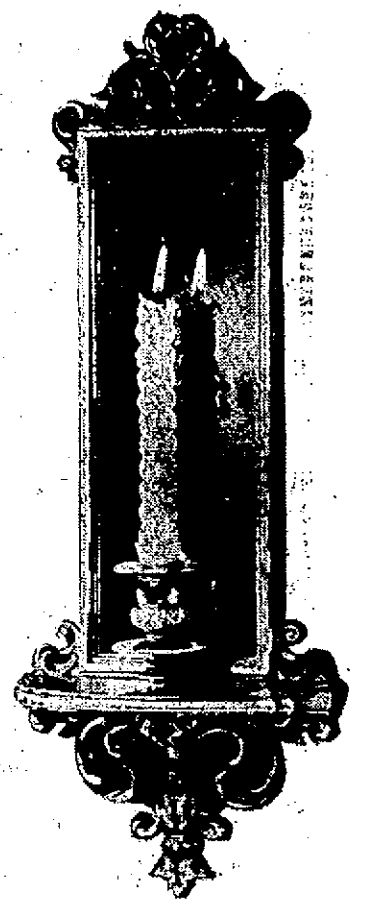

Wall-eyed designers

create gallery groupings with jewelry, keys, clocks

Glowing effect

Dark areas are transformed into cozy nooks when illuminated by a three-candle wall sconce of heavy, hand-forged iron on weathered wood.

Stately look

Interesting grouping combines a smoked glass mirror panel with a Venetian sconce and candelabra in patina gold finish by Arabesque.

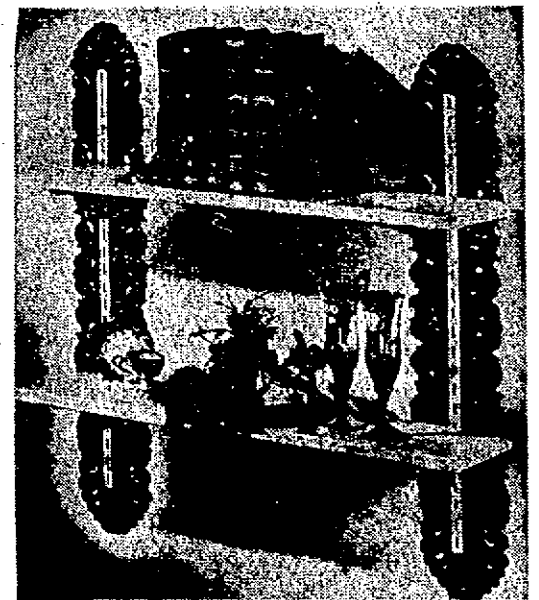

Cameo gallery

Eye-catching arrangement of classic cameos and used by decorators to bejewel walls. Filigree-mounted pink cameos are resplendent on gold velveteen in Barblizon frames. Soft blue and white bisque finish of porcelain cameo (lower right) is enhanced by mounting on black velveteen and antiqued metal frame.

Owls take to the walls

Chipper wall plaques strictly for the birds are contemporary owls which stand an impressive 17 inches high. Finished in walnut wood tone, feathers and huge eyes are accented in vibrant colors.

Decorative shelves

Ornamental filigree standards teamed with cultured marble shelves provides a practical and decorative means of displaying objets d'art or fine books. Adjustable shelves are 9 inches deep.

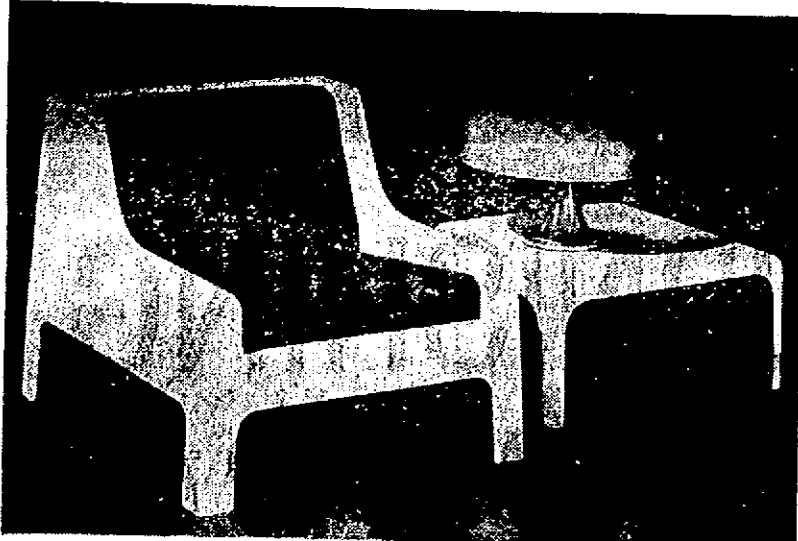

On the Cover

Exotic veneers, handsome brasses and rich fabrics portray the classical revival style of the late 19th Century in the Henredon Folio IV collection featured on the cover of this section.

Warm hues of gold, bronze and avocado further the impression of elegance rendered by African mahogany solids with walnut veneers and occasional boxwood inlays and rosewood accents.

Easy-care qualities of the cinnamon-flecked gold carpet endear it to homemakers mindful of wearability as well as beauty.

Wood-framed chair upholstered in citron velvet and accessories in gold hues are forecasts of a light, bright look in furniture fashions for fall.

Design exhibition features fiberglass furniture

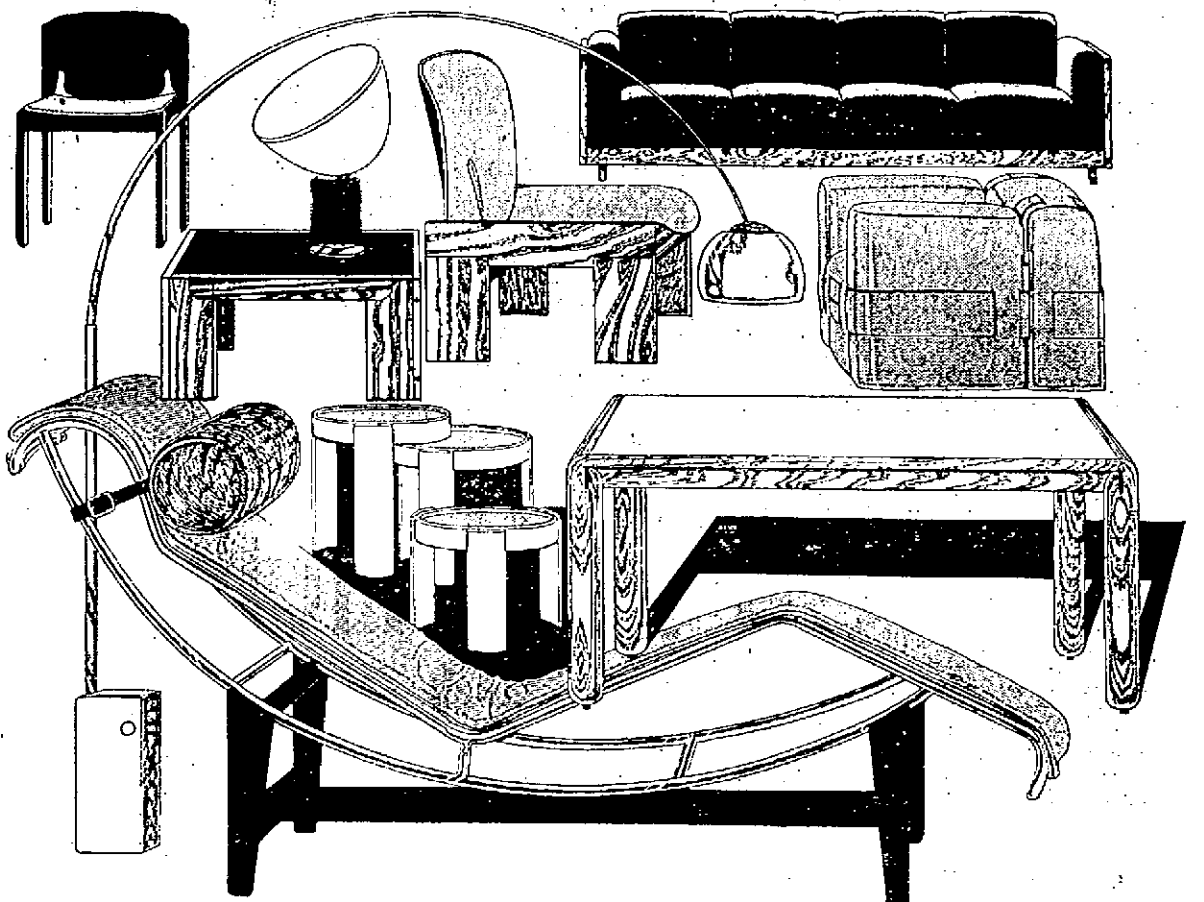

Novel and strikingly different are designs in reinforced fiberglass by Sergio Mazza for Moretti in an exclusive showing of an Italian Design Exhibition at Frank Bros., 2400 Long Beach Blvd. Nesso lamp in white or orange rests on matching Demetrio 70 table available in white, black, red or violet. Medea lounge chair comes in white, black, red, violet, gold or avocado.

ITALIAN DESIGN EXHIBITION and an exclusive showing of Le Corbusier designs

You are invited to see one of the most important exhibitions ever to be staged at Frank Bros. Discover new designs being shown for the first time . . . new uses of scale and form . . . new plastic materials . . . rosewood and genuine leather used in refreshing new ways . . . bold use of color accents . . . most important, a new light-in-color wood . . . and a special "extra"; seldom seen classic designs by the great Le Corbusier. Treat yourself to a trip to Frank Bros., now more than ever before, first with exciting new ideas for your home. Items are priced from $9.99 to $2,199. Fine furniture is easy to own with a new Frank Bros. Preferred Charge Account or Budget Plan. *TRADEMARK

Multi-purpose furniture improves space-shy rooms

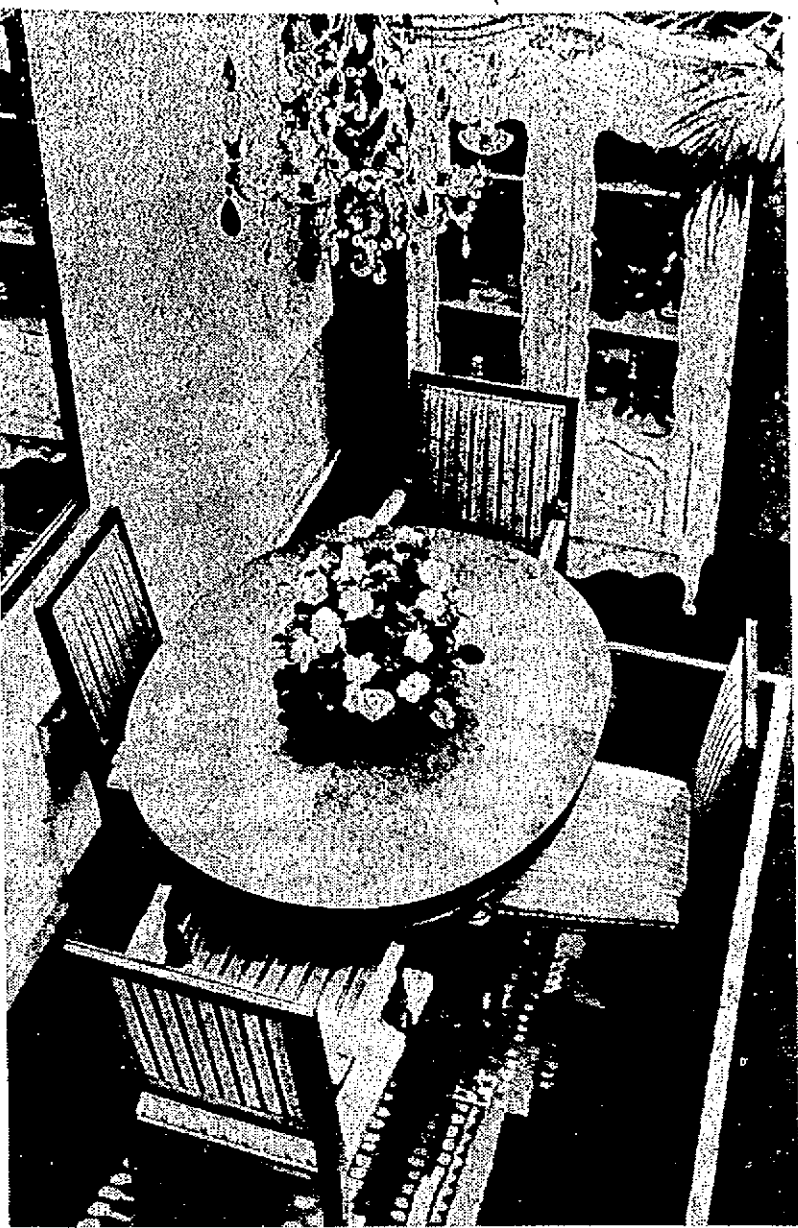

Interesting innovations to be noted in furniture stores this year include sofas that double as attractive love seats or sofas, opening to any size beds for extra sleeping space.

Breathable vinyl Modular furniture adaptable style

Vinyl fabrics — in leather-like grains and embossed prints — are seen in a "breathable" material, allowing for cooler seating comfort.

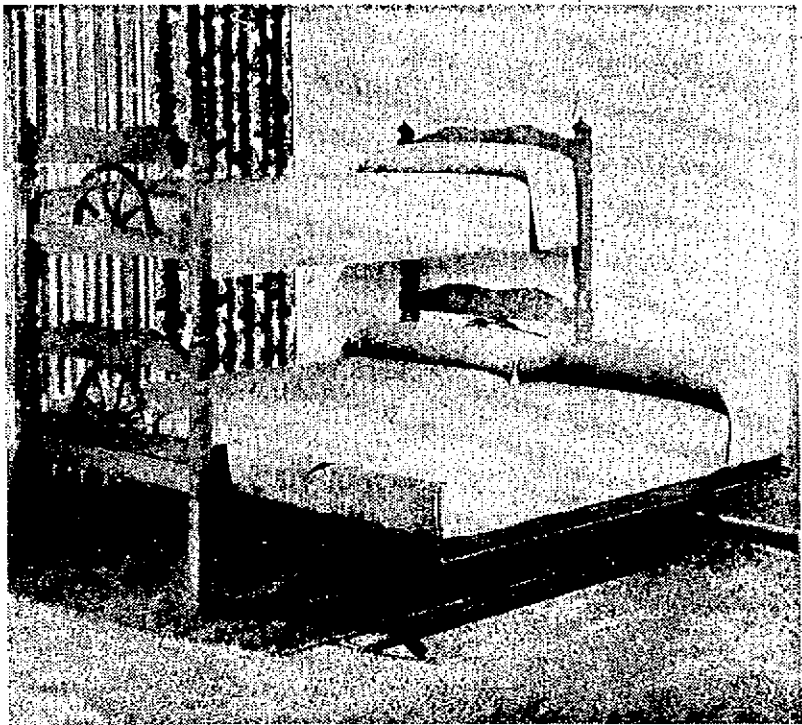

Modular furniture takes many forms, all of them flexible enough to merit consideration in furnishing a room in any part of the home. You can have wall-to-wall seating, storage or stack pieces and upholstered furniture units to rearrange or grow with. By adding dual or multi-purpose pieces in the modular setup, decorating possibilities are almost unlimited.

Custom interiors for the discriminating

Italian provincial dining set in selected cherrywood is complemented by an antique armoire and Belgian chandelier in a setting designed by Buffums' Interiors, downtown Long Beach, Broadway at Pacific Avenue. Buffums' decorators are available for consultation and to shop for one-of-a-kind furnishings and accessories that bring a personalized touch of elegance to the home.

POP-UP TRUNDLE FOR INSTANT EXTRA SLEEP SPACE

... when a self-rising spring mechanism is released, a third sleeping unit pops up from under bottom bunk in new trundle by Kemp Furniture Co.

Pop-up trundle bed ideal for teen slumber parties

The latest convenience for American homes adapts an idea borrowed from the automatic toaster.

But it's not for kitchens—it's for bedrooms.

It's the pop-up bed, and it's particularly designed for teeny-boppers and all-night slumber party students in high school or college.

A new spring apparatus gives the trundle its self-rising ability. When the mechanism is released, the trundle bed needs only a slight pull, and it pops up level with its teammate.

Pop-ups are available in two models, a single bed convertible for side-by-side sleeping, and a two-level bunk bed which increases to three sleeping surfaces. They are being shown in panel, spindle or wagon-wheel head and footboard designs and in five finishes: nutmeg, ivory, walnut, mahogany or red maple.

Part of a new 30-piece Colonial bedroom collection, the new line features decorative consoles with matching mirrors.

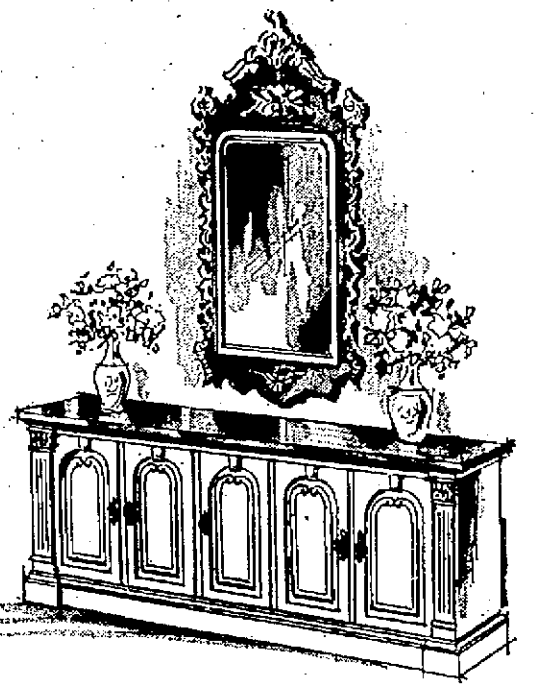

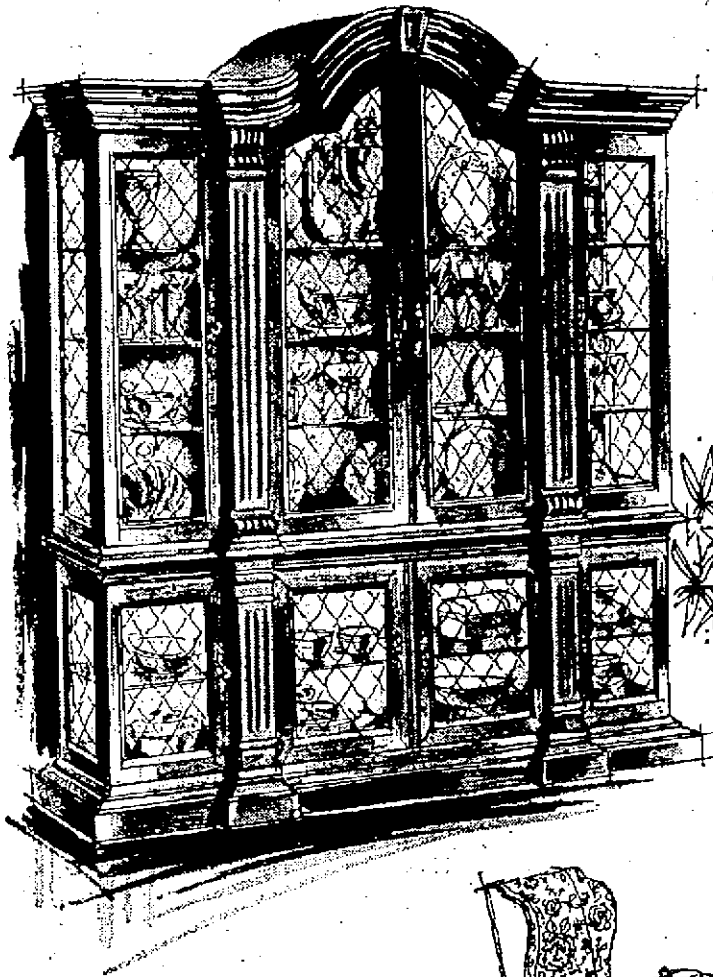

Ivory-finished pieces have been designed specifically for pre-teen and teen-age girls.

The collection is accented by a delicate dusty rose floral design with two-toned green leaves, touched with blue. An oval-shaped mirror has been designed to coordinate, and is mounted in a rectangular frame.

Keynoting the new bedroom collection are corner desks, designed to double as dressing tables, and an array of beds, including a canopy bed for the sweet swinger.

Do-it-yourself

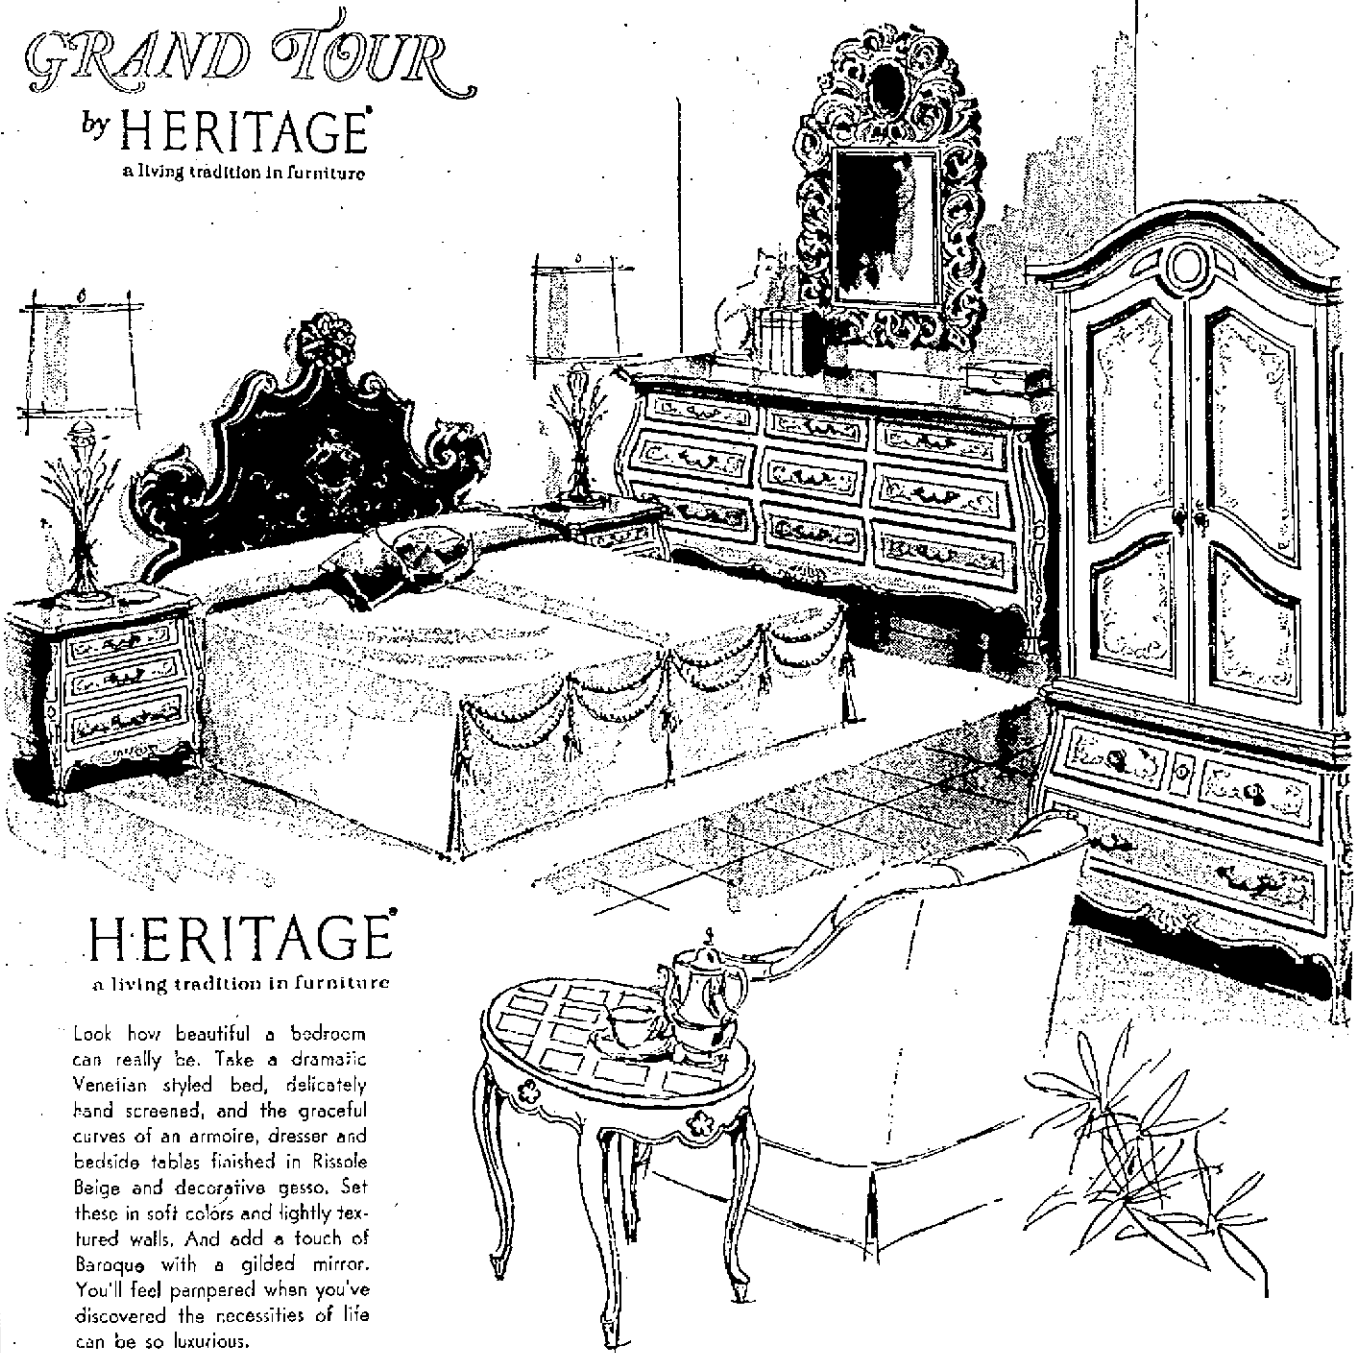

Ready-to-finish furnishings are seen in a wide range of Mediterranean, Italian and Early American styles, as well as modern and contemporary.

From history's tour of the romantic continental countries comes inspiration for this exciting new collection of dining room, bedroom and occasional furniture. Grand Tour is an elegant collection of individually styled but appropriately related designs.

Look how beautiful a bedroom can really be. Set these in soft colors and lightly textured walls. And add a touch of Baroque with a gilded mirror. You'll feel pampered when you've discovered the necessities of life can be so luxurious.

Pros, cons on renting, owning

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Many couples who have been house or apartment renters are not able to keep up their standard of living on retirement income.

But retirement doesn't create the difficulties faced by couples who must forfeit a way of life when they grow old. It is usually a case of unwise money planning in youth.

Years ago a New York attorney kept track of expenses of rented and owned homes. His conclusion was that it was more profitable to rent, if one was realistic about the proportion of income that should be expended for rent and invested a portion of the remainder.

And that is where the home renter errs in judgment. He sets his standard of living too high for his income and neglects to save money.

On the other hand, a house owner is locked in enforced investment. He must make his mortgage payment and repairs come what may.

Crazy, mixed-up mod designs wake up rooms

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeature Writer

Fall decorating will not be easy, with the crazy mixed-up mod and op designs around this year. But design and color of offbeat styles has sparked the entire furniture industry out of its stodginess.

Furniture runs from one extreme to the other—ranging from a chrome chair that resembles an upholstered wire cage to a solid, stolid deacon's bench.

Offbeat design is around, to be sure, exemplified in the sinuous furniture designs of the young Frenchman, Olivier Mourgue. Undulating shapes of chaises, settees, and chairs are built for comfort, molded of latex foam, rubber and covered with stretch fabric in purple, orange and cerise.

There is plenty of see-through furniture, in addition to standard glass-topped tables. There are clean, elegant bases of lucite for cabinets and sofas, and sculptured seats in Vladimir Kagan's custom line. Laverne has a plexiglass desk. Another designer uses lucite as an all-over shell for upholstery.

HANDSOME AND inexpensive designs can be found in wood, metal, vinyl and leather. Modern design has been reduced to its simplest form by minimizing upholstery.

But there is also lots of "quiet" furniture available, such as Sam Moore's tranquil look-highlighted by a sofa upholstered in blue striated velvet.

There is blonde furniture in ash and oak. Bamboo is available in dark finishes.

Roger Sprunger stresses back interest in a sofa with laminated teak splats shaped to give pitch to loose foam cushions.

Upholstery used alone is likely to be big, smashing, tufted. When it is combined with woods or metals there is less of it, so traditional chairs are slimmer.

IN ACCESSORIES, manufacturers are still on safari, with the zoo look in full rugs and other furnishings swing. There are pillows, such as hassocks in furry fabrics that resemble everything from chinchilla to zebra.

Lots of these furs have become so strictly fake it is an insult to the animal kingdom, and the souped-up design can only fall into a "camp" classification.

A mini-look has come to all-over patterns in soft and resilient floor coverings, wallpapers and fabrics. Other fabrics are done in giant-size designs.

Those who want to freshen up last year's upholstery will find new ready-made slipcovers, identically sized by all manufacturers.

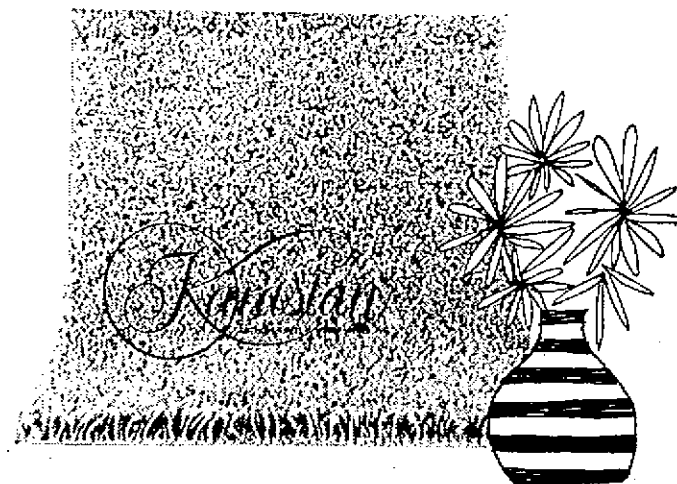

Each maker shows his own designs in a large assortment of covers, including woven cottons and stretch nylons in solids and patterns for use in every room of the house.

Regal proportions and splendid detailing in chambered tops and dramatic patterns key Thomasville's "Sovereign" bedroom series available at Carl's Furniture, 1250 E. Pacific Coast Hwy. Heavy bead moldings frame raised and shaped plaques on drawer panels. Headboards, reminiscent of Gothic arches, are paneled in cane. Solids and veneers are of rugged Appalachian oak in Castilian brown and distressed Flemish umber. Custom type paint finishes are in antique green and antique parchment. The weighty, important-looking pieces feature center guided drawers with dustproof interiors. Pin tray and shirt divider are in one drawer of each dresser and chest.

DECORATOR TRICKS

Tiny rooms can look spacious

By using a few decorator tricks and some optical illusion, it's possible to create a feeling of elegance and spaciousness even in a room just large enough to hold one twin-sized bed.

A wall-size mirror which optically doubles the size of the room and makes a twin bed appear as large as a king-size.

While a mirrored wall creates the most dramatic effect, you can use a large-size wall-hung mirror, framed or unframed, to accomplish much the same purpose.

To create a feeling of curtained elegance, use a floor-to-ceiling drapery panel to screen the head of the bed. Reflect in mirror, looped-back drapery to create the effect of a canopied bed, but without the cumbersome frame.

To conserve space in a small room, you use only a metal frame for your mattress and box spring, since this takes up less space than a bed with a conventional headboard, footboard, and siderails.

Select a tall chest of drawers, instead of the usual dresser, because it takes less precious floor area in a small room.

As another space-saver, use a suspended pole lamp at the side of the bed, with a marble-topped wrought iron table beneath the lamp. Using a suspended lamp frees the table top for other things, such as a vase of flowers, clock, or radio.

Bi-fold or sliding closet doors are used instead of the swing-out kind to save more space. A large potted plant (real or synthetic, as you prefer) in the corner, and a Queen Anne bench complete the picture.

Wallcoverings key to updating rooms

Fortunately for most people who enjoy individuality, it's very much the thing to mix styles in home furnishings. For instance, in a dining room, chairs from one period are compatible with a table from another period and a buffet from still another.

Pattern and design on walls are catalysts for a total look in the room. Wallcoverings become the focal point by adding the balancing element necessary in the well articulated room of many parts.

Traditional designs in wallcoverings are enjoying a revival because an elegant feeling is more often desired than not. Baroque and damask patterns with a Mediterranean influence have a wonderful facility of blending with various styles.

When furniture is purchased over several years, it represents changing tastes in decoration. Color tastes change too. Since wallcoverings represent all periods, and an individual pattern is usually available in a variety of color combinations, it is the one decorative material that can set an entire mood and give continuity to eclectic rooms.

Wallcoverings create a desired mood. For instance, in a big room, additional spaciousness is gained by selecting a large pattern with much background showing.

If you prefer to make the room cozier, a smaller all-over pattern can give this effect. Stripes in either two or three color combinations will add formality and increase ceiling heights.

A scenic on one wall and texture on the other three will push out walls and lend vista.

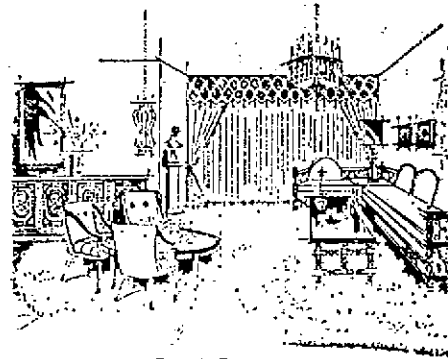

If you have been a traditionalist for the most part and have had a feeling of elegance, you may want a change. This can be accomplished by selecting a wallcovering that has a more modern appeal. Bright, clear colors can be found in geometrics, in textures such as grass cloths or striated effects, in grille-work, in contemporary floral effects, and in textured tweeds and stripes.

It is easier to change walls to acquire a new look than to buy all new furniture.

Most wallcoverings are easy to maintain, as they are treated for washability and are fade-resistant. Some are trimmed and posted for the "do-it-yourselfer."

Many grandfathers—

chime time in tune

Hickory, dickory dock! Any mouse would have a ball running up a clock at California Time Service, 2194 Lakewood Blvd., where one of the largest collection of grandfather clocks perpetually is on display. Traditional, contemporary and Mediterranean designs in a variety of veneers and hardwoods are available. Most movements have been made by craftsmen in Germany, all have Westminster chimes, some have dials to record phases of the moon. A skilled staff trained in clock-making is on hand to advise selection of nationally known brands and handle service required after purchase.

Furnishings double as conversation pieces

Birch spinning wheel-lamp combination, curlup rocker and Grafonola stereo-radio-phonograph add up to a charming rustic grouping. Early American wall plaques, art work, bedroom, dining and living room sets are available at Old Mill Maple Shop, 16512 Bellflower Blvd., Bellflower.

Tables not easy to select

For most homemakers, finding the right size and shape table for the dining area is a relatively simple task. But when the area is small or oddly shaped, selecting the proper grouping can be a real challenge.

Whatever the space problem, new ideas in wrought iron offer an answer.

Sizes range from a 30-inch round ice cream table — ideal for a small kitchenette — to an expanded banquet table — great for formal dining rooms or extra large family rooms. Shapes include circular, square, rectangular and octagonal tops.

While many wrought iron sets are found in formal dining rooms, the majority is used in the kitchen, breakfast area and family eating room.

A strong reason for the popularity of wrought iron for indoor use is the open feeling it gives a room. Especially in tight, crowded areas, it meets functional requirements of a dining set without creating an overpowering impact.

Another reason for its acceptance indoors is new developments in table tops. In addition to tempered safety glass, materials now include genuine wood, plastic laminates and fiberglass.

HERE ARE some experts' guidelines for selecting a dining set best-suited to your needs:

- Adds 2 feet to table dimensions to determine how much space the dining set requires. Also allow 30 inches between chair backs and walls or other objects.

- Allow for extra space if your table expands. The needed space equals width of the leaves.

- If space is particularly restricted, consider round tables. Most models have pedestal bases, omitting legs which obstruct seating placement.

- Assuming space is no problem, figure on 2 feet per person for regular dining chairs. If you use chairs with arms, allow another 4 inches per person.

- To determine how many can be seated at different table shapes, use these approximations:

- Square tables, 32 to 36 inches will seat four.

- Rectangular shapes, 30 to 50 inches, will seat six, while eight are comfortable at a 34 by 72 inch table.

- Extension tables will increase seating capacity by two persons with addition of one extension leaf.

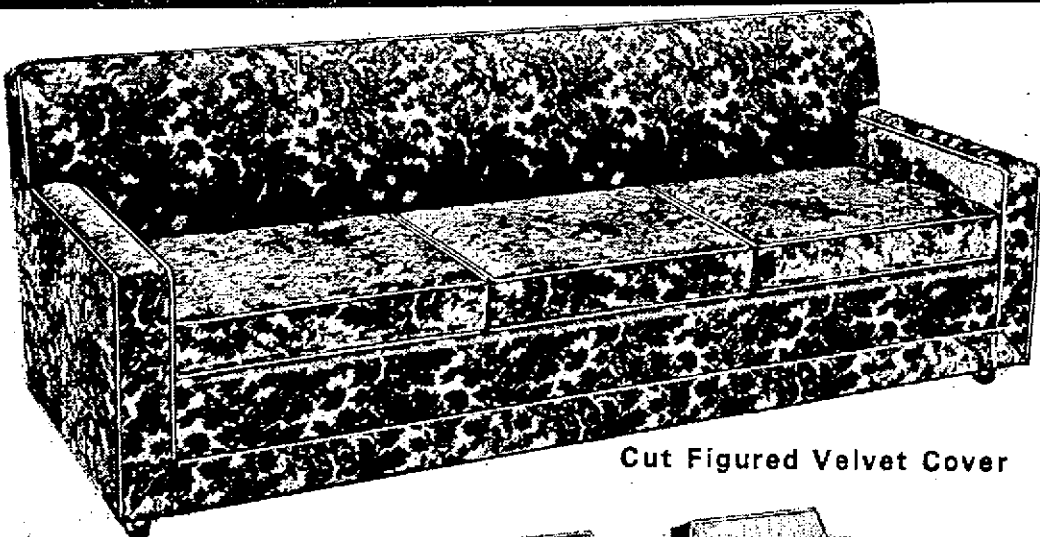

Sofa size varies

Today's sofas seem to come in two sizes — the over-long and over-stuffed version and the smaller, scaled-down models featuring slim arms, designed especially for small apartments and mobile homes.

shaggy wool and wall coverings.

Home furnishing designers who keep their ears to the ground have picked up the primitive beat of Africa. The result is an explosion of savage richness in strong native designs.

Drama and boldness of this new look is illustrated in primitive colors executed in pure wood pile vibrating the dark, vivid tones of mysterious Africa.

Because wool accepts such a wide range of dyes so faithfully, carpeting and area rugs glow with black and brown, sepia, carnelian red and olive green.

Complementing primitive palettes for floor coverings are authentic Nigerian prints used as banners to repeat rug colors and add sunny yellow and navy in small patterns.

Rough-hewn simple furniture goes well with native fabrics and weaves, particularly Spanish, Mexican or Early American pieces with a peasant quality and dark woods.

BUYING A PIANO?

Tone keys sound choice

Thinking of buying a piano? Many people are these days as the school year begins and parents think of beginning piano instruction for their children or for themselves.

It's impossible to tell much about a piano simply by looking at it. And unless you're an expert, you really can't tell too much about a piano by sitting down and running your fingers over the keys or listening to someone run through a few bars of music.

"Most pianos sound pretty good, especially to untrained ears, and look pretty good, too, especially to untrained eyes," said Robert Bull, vice president of the Story & Clark Piano Co., Lincolnwood, Ill.

"Inner construction is what counts," said Bull, "that's essentially what determines a piano's tone."

The tone of a piano should be mellow, sweet, and resonant. A poor instrument will give harsh, brittle, clanging or raucous sounds.

"The sounding board is the heart of a piano," said Bull, "because it amplifies the sound of the strings and gives a piano its tone."

THE SOUNDING board is a large, curved sheet of thin wood. Pressing a key causes a felt hammer to strike a string. The string's vibration is transmitted to the sounding board where the sound is greatly amplified. The voice of the piano is produced by the sounding board, and the stability of the board largely determines the musical quality of the piano.

In some pianos, the sounding board is a solid spruce board, about a quarter-inch thick. Like all solid wood, it is certain to swell and shrink as the humidity rises and falls, and then to warp and split if the shrinking and swelling is great.

"When buying a piano, be sure to look for a laminated mahogany sounding board," said Bull. "It's made by bonding precious woods together in a modern hot-plate process with waterproof glue. Grains of the various pieces run at right angles to each other. "This type of construction minimizes and controls expansion and contraction, improves tone, and, can be guaranteed for 50 years against cracking and splitting."

OTHER INDICATORS of a fine piano:

Length of the longest bass string: If it's 48-inches long, you'll get good sound. The longer the strings, the better the tone.

Piano action: Ask to see a piano with direct action. In this type of piano, keys and hammers respond quicker to touch, have fewer moving parts, and are more durable and dependable.

Tuning pins: Make sure the tuning pins are made of blued steel, and that they are threaded properly so they will maintain the proper string tension

FLUID LINES mark goblet style swivel pedestal chairs of chalk white metal and vinyl. Round extension table is surfaced with melamine laminate in warm cinnamon pecan pattern.

Metal designs bring light, bright look to dining furniture

Metal dinettes made fashion news a few years ago when they shed their practical-kitchen-appliance look and made their debut in family rooms and casual dining areas.

Now the transition has been carried even further with metal designs that are setting their own high-style pace, particularly in the area of elegant contemporary design.

Metal and modern plastics lend themselves to exciting new colors of the mod decorating trend. These shades include sharp citron yellow, electric blue and hot azalea pink.

Their kooky charm is displayed to best advantage against the contrasting sparkle of chrome or gleam of white-enamelled metal.

Homemakers of all ages seem to prefer the light, bright approach and metal matches the desired

Chrome, enamel, vivid hues fit mod moods mood. Best of all, the new high-style furniture is every bit as practical as the kitchen dinette set of a few years ago.

Technical advances in plastic laminates and fabric-supported vinyls have made dining furniture more durable and easy to maintain.

HALF DOUGHNUT backs of molded foam make for a striking new look in mod-influenced dining sets. Styled in gleaming chrome and fabric-supported vinyl, chairs complement table with frost white melamine plastic top. Double pedestal base harks back to colonial trestle table.

Blue's the hue in fall carpets --there's something new, too

The traditional bridal formula of "something old, something new, something borrowed, something blue" offers a capsule description of wool carpeting being introduced on the fall market.

Homemakers will be able to enjoy wool carpets that may be shocking in colors but complete SHOCK-FREE from static build-up. That's the something new.

In the past, low-humidity conditions during cold months and extra dry climates produced annoying sparks in carpet. Now, a minute quantity of very fine stainless steel fiber blended into wool yarn removes static build-up, yet is undetectable to the hand or eye.

THE SOMETHING old is a return of gray and beige as neutrals. Their rise as popular sellers is due to architects who have discovered natural undyed wools are a sophisticated and warm counterpoint for clean lined Bauhaus modern. Also appearing in strength are chocolate and cocoa which look so well with strong English and Spanish.

The something borrowed is from the furniture industry's trend to Spanish and English. Proper balance for the heavier styles are the carpet mills' offering of strong textures and colors in rugged wools.

Avocado and olive greens, golds and clear reds and those new blues in rough loops and shags will be shown with Spanish and English. A winery hue called "Spanish Leather" is one of the newest and freshest entrants in the group.

Carpet makers also are bringing out a wider variety of pastels to mate with lighter, more graceful French period styles. Leaf green and aqua are just two of the colors styled with French in mind.

THE SOMETHING blue is the new carpet forecast which indicates blue is the hue to watch on sales charts.

Blue — in all its wide glory from aqua all the way to peacock and even navy — promises to be the hit of the fall season.

Many of the most exciting introductions are in solid color broadlooms, but blue and green combinations are present.

Sociologists and psychologists agree women are playing a dominant role in American society. Perhaps that's why there's a harking back to furnishings of Louis XV, another female-oriented age.

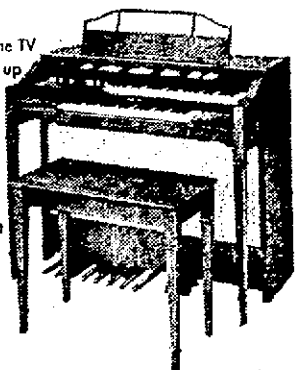

Gulistan's "Renaissance" pattern in a soft jade hue is a carpeting that would have pleased Mme. Pompadour. The versatile pure wool pile has been tufted into a loop and cut-pile design that gives an 18th century damask effect.

Black is 'In' with teens

... it's practical, too, for youngsters' bedrooms

A touch of black can be both practical and attractive in a youngster's bedroom. Or lots of black, especially for teens, can be sparked with bursts of bright color for a bedroom modern youngsters will adore.

For a small child, choose a colorful, washable, printed fabric for bedspread and curtains. Trim them with washable black cotton braid or fringe, and repeat the trimming on walls, using it as a ceiling border or dado.

Apply trimming to walls with double-faced masking tape or with spray-on rubber cement, both available at art supply stores.

If window shades are used, they can be trimmed with the same fringe, perhaps combined with figures or flowers cut from the bedspread fabric.

Walls, floor and furniture can be white or a pale color, but be sure they are washable. Fluff, machine-washable rugs in colors to match the bedspread and curtains make playing on the floor more fun. And a big blackboard at child height adds a useful touch to the decor.

In a teen-ager's room, cool black can predominate, but be sure there's plenty of jumping color for contrast.

Teens like the shiny look of black vinyl—use it for bed covers, cornices, ottomans, or even window shades. For the new shiny look, trim the vinyl with glossy white polypropylene tassels on window shades and throw pillows.

Black, white and silver can be combined to make a very feminine bedroom for a young sophisticate. There is a wide variety of silver braids, tassel fringes, ribbons and cords that can be used with black rayon trim to give a white spread, canopy, curtains and vanity skirt a fabulous look.

Choosing a mattress is easy... when you keep these points in mind

ACME MATTRESS FACTORY GIVES you the basic information you need to make sound investments in sleep equipment. However, you still have to go to the store to buy it. Bedding is about as personal as anything you can buy. If you buy a chair that is pretty but not the right size or shape for comfort, you can sit in a comfortable chair and get some satisfaction out of looking at the other one. But if you buy the wrong bed, you have to lie on it. These fine points of bedding buymanship should practically assure success to your shopping trip.

- * Do choose a store you like and have confidence in. Acme Mattress Factory has been manufacturing their own quality bedding for over 35 years and have been the overwhelming choice of Long Beach families for all their bedding needs.
- * Don't be shy about displaying your knowledge of bedding. Acme's salesmen are delighted that a customer is knowledgeable about their product and will rise to the challenge of providing the best choice possible at the price you want to pay.
- * Do invest in its companion box springs when you buy an inner-spring mattress. It's not even penny-wise to try to make do with the used unit.
- * Don't base a bedding buying decision on price alone. The difference between the best and cheapest inner-spring mattress you can buy is about a penny a night over the life expectancy. And with the better unit you'll enjoy the benefits of a first-class mattress right from the start.
- * Don't just edge-sit or hand-test. There's no substitute for actually lying down on the bedding set to see how it suits you.
- * Don't hesitate to use the store's credit terms. People-size bedding is a long-term investment in good living.
- * Do take advantage of complete king-size sleepset offers. At one all-inclusive price a typical set consists of a king-size mattress, two box springs, mattress pad, one fitted sheet, one flat sheet and two pillow cases. You can save money on the complete package. See the advertised specials on the right.

Sofa, loveseat combination geared for all decor

A marvelous team that blends in with Mediterranean or Early American furnishings features matching sofa and loveseat at Long Beach Furniture Co., Sixth Street and Long Beach Boulevard. Homemakers delight over brass shepherd casters, loose pillow backs and T-cushions. Available in a wide array of fabrics and colors.

Homespun aristocrat of maple

There's something new at Betsy Ross Maple Shop, 1152 E. Pacific Coast Hwy., where an exciting Early American group by Williams now is available. Mellow warmth of white pine creates an idyllic dining setting. Trestle table extends to 94 inches. Matching bench is five-feet long. Glass door hutch sits on a separate base for china. Handsome ladder back side and arm chairs complete grouping.

PAPER IN THE BEDROOM

Now it's throwaway linens

It may be only a paper bedroom, but it may be worth more than its weight in gold — to the housewife. After all, when she becomes bored with pattern, colors or style of the paper bedcover, draperies or pillow cases, she can put them in a paper bag and dispose of it.

There is no washing or dry cleaning necessary, but you can sew the paper, if you like. Three New York designers have combined their talents to bring out a handsome assortment of paper products for beds, windows, tables. They have been operating a highly successful retail operation, the Woolworks that specializes in needle work designs that may be made for use on walls, chairs, floors, beds, windows.

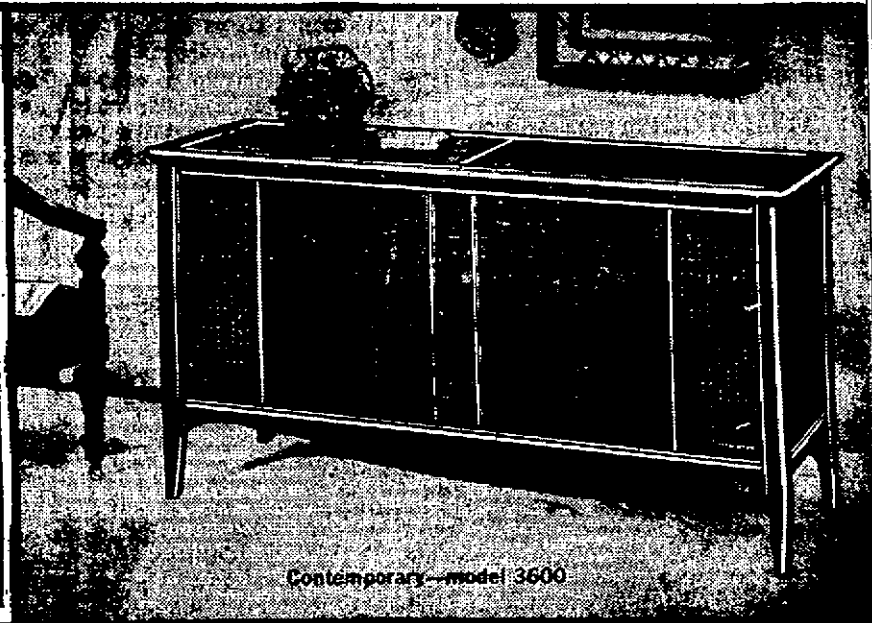

A very attractive all over design of pink and peach on a pale green paper background is their first paper venture. You can sew the paper, but if it is just a question of length, it can be shortened

POUR-A-FLOOR process is carried out by pouring liquid-marble directly on pre-cleaned surface in one continuous flow.

Liquid marble adds beauty to floors

FINAL TOUCH to seamless flooring is to gently spread material together with narrow wallpaper brush.

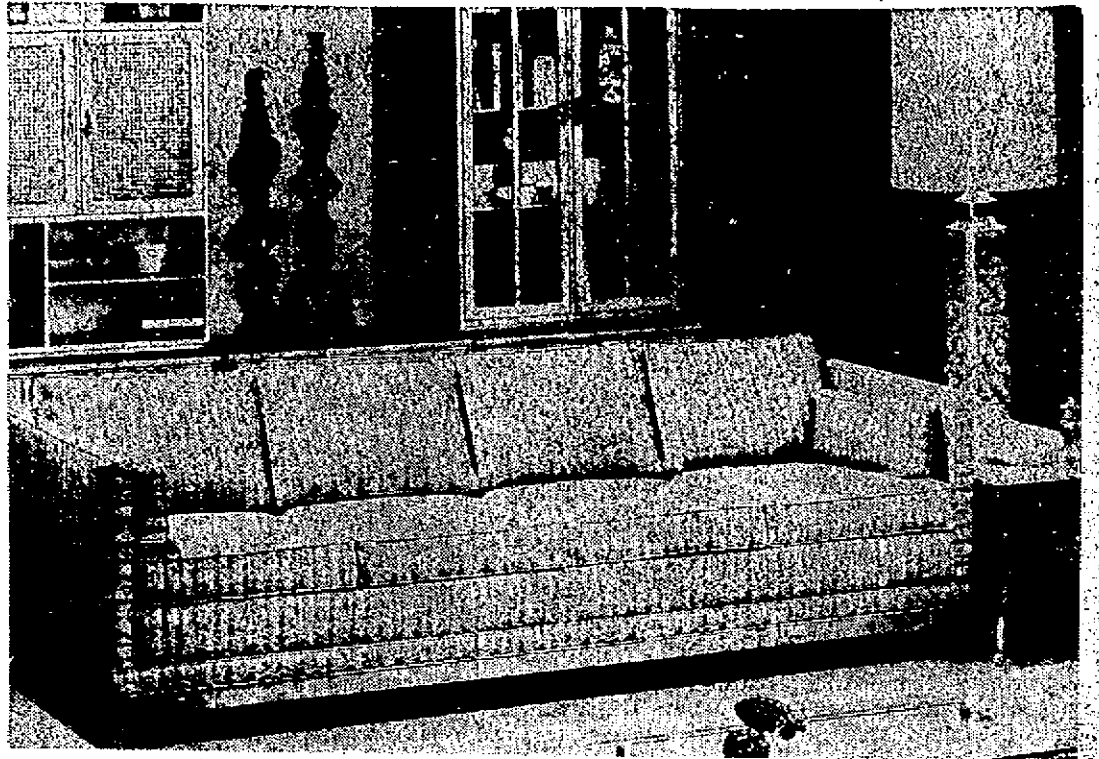

Only a millionaire can afford to have floors of marble?

Not so, thanks to a revolutionary seamless flooring soon to be introduced on the market this month as Liquid-Marble.

The new product is easy to mix, pours on in a single application and dries in hours. It can be applied to wood, cement, asphalt tile, linoleum and other horizontal surfaces such as table and counter tops, bookcases and divider panels.

Preparations are to remove all dirt from the surface, then mix base with catalyst and colorant in an unlined paper bucket. After pouring liquid-marble, it is spread with a narrow wallpaper brush.

Available in a wide variety of colors, it is soil resistant and does not require waxing.

This sofa really is a guest bed

Gone is the bulky look in hide-a-bed sofas of yesteryear with the appearance of new Beautyrest creations at the Sleep Shoppe, Sixth Street and Long Beach Boulevard. The Mediterranean-styled sofa above features a king size mattress and is available in queen, full and loveseat sizes.

In and out decor keys entry halls

The entrance hall of your home should be both "in" and "out." It should blend outdoors with interior decor, be inviting yet move one along, suggest both nature and artifice. The transition can be greatly aided by using a natural flooring material like quarry tile which will not only add decorative interest but be easy to maintain.

Decorative tile ageold process

Some of man's notable early attempts at decorating his home were made with ceramic tile 70 centuries ago in Egypt. Ornate and decorated tiles have been a part of the artistic history of the world ever since. Today, the surging American interest in art and decoration has produced striking new interest in decorative tiles, and American manufacturers are producing them in a constantly increasing variety of colors, shapes and sizes.

Exotic woods

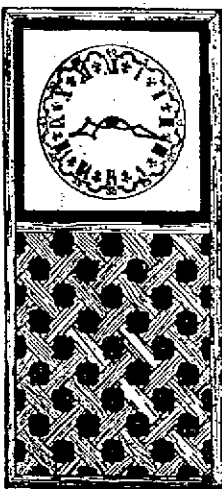

Exotic and richly grained and patterned woods, such as rosewood, elm and ash, are finding increased use as decorator accents on table tops and cabinet fronts.

Swag lamps

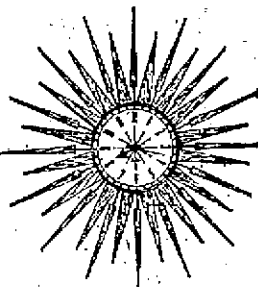

Hanging lamps are still riding high on the style parade, but tree lamps are played by Basic-Witz in its "Pour Vous" collection. Studio bed, in a recessed alcove, becomes a daytime sofa; desk, with drop-leaf side, doubles as a table for snacking. Large chests with hutchies atop provide storage and open shelves for ornaments cherished by most teen-agers.

Hospitality abounds in Mediterranean interiors

Pillows give pizzazz to colorless rooms

Too often the neatly appointed room seems to be lacking in something. That something it turns out, may be more color, more accessories, more comfort — or just maybe more punch that is needed.

Decorative pillows are often just the touch that highlight the sofa, chair or too-neat corner in the living room, family room or bedroom.

A grouping of pillows, it turns out, can add that bit of extra glamour and interest to spark the room.

Pillows, like people come in all shapes and sizes. The small, soft, end-of-sofa pillow can complement the entire room setting in a fabric and color encompassing all colors of the room.

Pillows grouped against the back of the couch add not only to the beauty but to the comfort of the sofa itself.

Rocking chairs and curved back wooden chairs look a bit lonely in their woodenness, but come to life when a throw pillow is put against the back part or seat.

If you're worried that your corner floral print chair will clash with the plaid or striped pillow on the couch, forget it—the strict rules of not mixing florals, stripes and patterns have been dispensed with. Does it clash with your eye—is the important question.

New this season is the plastic pillow, fun for the child's room, the informal living room and patio, and of course the beach.

Silks, corduroys, cottons or nubby fabrics — all make pillows objects of interest and comfort in the home that needs that extra spark.

Wig stands get potted in Space Age

George Washington most likely would be surprised, but stands much like the ones he used to store his powdered wig have been adapted to serve as planters in the 20th Century. A plastic bowl contains fern in the spot where a wooden form to hold the wig formerly was placed. Designed by Butler Specialty Co., it is in a Georgetown or fruitwood finish.

Matched fabrics prevail

Although the recent trend to mix periods and styles in room settings still prevails, the word for fabrics is "match." Especially in bedrooms, where mattress ticking will match linens and even draperies and upholstery material.

Color schemes go south-of-border

For a warm color scheme you can have furniture finished in Caliente red and a dahlia-flowered rug in red, orange and brown. It gets Mexican-pepper hot when you add rough stained barn siding in Caliente red for architectural interest.

WEEK IN REVIEW

Sparring on Spending Intensifies

THE NATION

The stubborn fight between President Lyndon B. Johnson and Congress over government spending intensified last week.

It all hinged on Johnson's request for a 10 per cent income tax surcharge, but it also involved the future of many of the Great Society programs.

Despite Johnson's prodding, however, Congress seems to be in no mood to approve the surcharge unless there is a sharp cutback in government spending. On Thursday, the powerful House Ways and Means Committee, chaired by Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., blocked action on the tax bill until Congress and the President agreed on the spending cuts.

The next day the Senate rejected a $2.8 billion emergency program in the anti-poverty bill that would have provided 200,000 jobs in the next two years. And the House on the same day turned down a $13 billion domestic appropriations bill.

THE ECONOMY WAVE SWEEPING through Congress was echoed on Thursday by the administration, which ordered a tight lid clamped on the "pork barrel."

The administration cutback, which came in the form of a Defense Department ban on all nonessential military construction projects, was seen as a pressure move designed to get Congress to loosen the purse strings.

THE CONTINUING POLITICAL debate over President Johnson's conduct of the Vietnam war escalated into a sharp exchange in the Senate on Tuesday between Republican leader Everett Dirksen and Democrat J. William Fulbright, a leading critic of Johnson's war policies.

The verbal fireworks were touched off when Dirksen — reportedly at the White House's urging — appealed to fellow Republicans to soften what he called their "demeaning" attacks against Johnson's handling of the war. Fulbright, standing only three desks away, promptly shot back that the administration's war effort was a threat to the long-term security of the nation. For the next two hours the Senate witnessed a bristling, acerbic argument over U.S. security.

"I wasn't made a senator to liquidate the holy fabric of freedom," said Dirksen, who argued that the administration's policy was designed to protect "freedom" in Vietnam.

Fulbright countered that the American commitment in Vietnam would "liquidate" national security and that "the price we are paying is all out of proportion to the gains."

THE FIRST ROUND IN HIS CAMPAIGN to become mayor of Cleveland, one of America's 10 largest cities, was won by Ohio State Rep. Carl B. Stokes.

Stokes won the Democratic nomination over incumbent Ralph S. Locher in voting Tuesday. He will face Republican Seth B. Taft, a lawyer and grandson of President William Howard Taft. Observers gave Stokes a slight edge to defeat Taft in the general election Nov. 7.

THE WAR

THE U.S. MARINES have another name to add to those of such glorified battle sites as Belleau Wood, Iwo Jima and Inchon. It is Con Thien.

Since July, the barren, muddy hill 500 feet above the soggy Vietnamese coastal plain has been the deadliest, most miserable place in the war for Marines.

In an attempt to open the invasion route, the North Vietnamese rained mortar and artillery fire on the hill. The Marines returned the daily barrages with thousands of rounds of their own and U.S. warplanes swept in for strike after strike on the North Vietnamese gun emplacements.

ON THURSDAY, U.S. AUTHORITIES said the battle Con Thien had been won. Aerial photos showed the North Vietnamese had abandoned their gun trenches and fled northward, taking what was left of their artillery with them.

"It looks as if we broke their back this time," said one military source.

THE WORLD

A wartime aide of Adolph Eichmann, who The Netherlands says, sent 100,000 Dutch nationals to German concentration camps, barely managed to escape arrest last week after he was tracked down in a Yugoslav seaside resort.

The Dutch had tipped off the Yugoslav police that Erich Rajakovic, a 61-year-old Austrian, was vacationing in the resort town. But when police warned him not to leave the town, Rajakovic sensed imminent arrest and escaped back to the safety of Austria where he had served a 2½-year sentence for wartime crimes and thus, under Austrian law, was immune from extradition proceedings based on those crimes.

THE FORMER CHIEF NUCLEAR scientist at the Ukrainian Academy of Science in Kiev defected to Canada.

Dr. Boris Dotsenko, 41, went to the University of Alberta a year ago on a research grant. On Thursday he said that after much "soul searching" he had asked the Canadian government for permanent residence status, saying he could not find academic and political freedom in Russia.

THE WEST

The California Supreme Court told the Legislature to reapportion congressional districts by Dec. 7 on the basis of one man, one vote or the court will do the job itself.

Gov. Ronald Reagan immediately called legislative leaders to meet with him Monday in Sacramento to decide whether to call a special session.

The court ordered such a reapportionment two years ago, based on the 1960 census. Legislative action with a resolution postponing reapportionment to 1970 on the theory that California's growth made it impossible to use 1960 figures for fair apportionment of the 38 congressional seats, was blocked in the last session of the Legislature.

THE SCHEDULED EXECUTION of Robert Lee Massie in San Quentin's gas chamber next Tuesday was stayed by Gov. Reagan until at least Nov. 1.

Massie, 25, was convicted in Los Angeles of murdering Mrs. Mildred Weiss during an armed robbery on Jan. 7, 1965. Massie had written a letter to Reagan saying he had no desire for "intervention from the governor's office regarding my sentence of death. I have dismissed my attorney and all legal proceedings in my behalf."

However, attorneys for another man, John Robert Vetter, had asked for the stay so Massie could testify at a current trial in Los Angeles involving Vetter.

SLAVES OF MACHINE?

Britain Gets Tough With Drunk Drivers

By GRANVILLE WATTS
Cartoons by I. P. T. Artist Parker Markle

LONDON (AP)—Monday is D Day for British motorists—the start of a tough new law aimed to trap and punish drivers who drink to excess. H Hour is midnight tonight.

The regulations enable police to carry out spot roadside tests with breathalysers—a term now used in Britain for various types of breath testers.

If the tests show positive, drivers can be hauled off to a police station for blood and urine analysis.

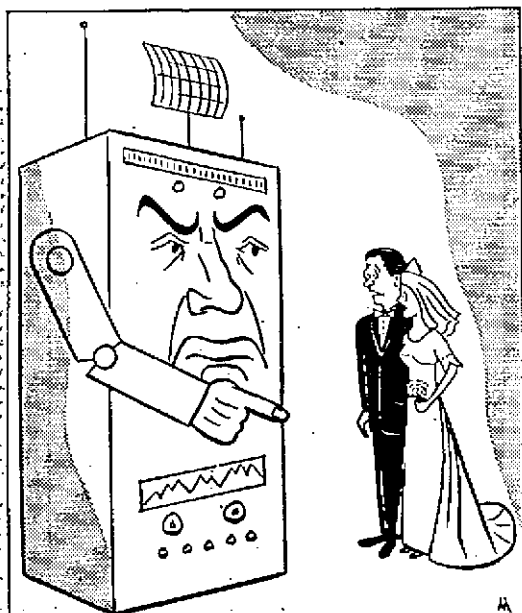

Anyone found with more than 80 milligrams of alco-

The crystals, like the ones in the police breathalysers, turn green on contact with alcoholic fumes. If the level of green rises above a certain mark, you're in trouble.

The reaction of Britain's 14 million drivers to the new law varies from one of dark gloom to a wait-and-see attitude.

Historian A. J. P. Taylor looks on the breathalyser as a sinister machine to be regarded with suspicion and alarm.

"Drunkness must be crushed, but not at the hol in 100 milliliters of his blood faces a 100-pound ($280) fine or a four-month jail sentence, or both.

In an effort to protect motorists, tavern keepers are selling a do-it-yourself breathalyser. For the price of a large gin, 70 cents, a drive may be able to find out whether he's sober enough to pass the new regulations.

The motorist breathes into a tube filled with chemically treated crystals.

price of enslaving men to a machine, and this is what the breathalyser means," he says.

"IF WE ARE to become the slaves of a machine for the purpose of road safety, why should it stop there? We shall be told by a calculator what it is best for us to eat and drink. Our marriage partners will be chosen by a bridealyser. And some of us will not be allowed to marry at all."

One brewery is taking a less dismal view of the law.

"It could well mean that people will drink more at home, so we don't really lose," said a spokesman for the Watney brewery group. Its salesmen are under orders to carry pocket breathalysers and to switch to other forms of transport when they pass the danger mark in drinks.

What is the danger mark?

"It's difficult to decide," said a spokesman for Bass-Charrington, the biggest brewery group.

"We carried out an experiment among some of our own chaps. The danger mark is supposed to be about four pints of beer. One bloke drank 31 pints in a day and still passed the test. Of course, he was a bit unusual, but that shows how it varies."

Architect of the new law is a woman who doesn't even drive — Barbara Castle, transport minister.

Mrs. Castle, who is 55, contends that the breath tests can prevent 18,000 to 32,000 road casualties a year. The total last year was 392,457.

N.Y. Pupils Get Formal Sex Education for 1st Time

NEW YORK (AP) — With the pre-kindergarten checking the weight of an expectant hamster, and the 12th grader in a "buzz session" on why girls become promiscuous, children in the nation's largest school system are getting formal sex education this year for the first time.

The program, artfully buried in a wide-ranging projection called the "Family Living Curriculum Area," represents a revolutionary approach to the subject that has been given only "casual" treatment in New York City, which has 1.1 million pupils in public schools.

SINCE THE school system discharges 1,800 girls a year because of pregnancy — many of them 12 and 13-year-olds — and suspects that's the reason why several thousand more drop out, sex education has its purely pragmatic value to the city.

"The pregnancy rate has been going up fairly steadily," says Asst. Supt. of Schools Jacob Zack, "in part because the eligible population is growing and in part because the problems that produce pregnancy are growing."

"We hope with the new program to see a reversal of this trend. We can at least remove the factor of ignorance — some of these children don't even know what has happened to them."

This fall, only 55,000 children in 166 of the city's 90 schools will come under the sex education program. Many of them live in slum areas where sex problems among children are most widespread.

But by the end of the year, 100,000 are expected to be studying sex. As more teachers get special training for the course, it will be extended through the entire system.

The "awakening" will be gradual. Pre-kindergarten and kindergarten children will learn that babies grow from eggs in the mother's body — just like the hamster mother, who gets fatter each week.

IN THE first grade they will be taught that a sperm must join an egg to produce a baby — that eggs don't make chicks without, in the words of the curriculum, "something added by the rooster."

By the second grade the children will be bathing dolls and learning "to use the correct terminology for body parts."

This part of the program, which is hammered at through the whole curriculum right up to the 12th grade, is to be carried out by example and substitution, says Mrs. Helen Lloyd, deputy superintendent who has charge of the new program.

"It's in the same way that we don't tell a child not to say 'ain't' when he hears it in the home," she said. "The teacher won't correct the child — she will just say it right."

By the fourth grade, the emphasis will be on the differences between boy and girl individuals.

By the fifth grade, the children will be prepared for preadolescent body changes — first by studying how a cocoon becomes an insect, a tadpole a frog; later by describing how their older brothers' voices are changing and their older sisters' figures are taking shape.

In "separate classes for boys and girls, where desirable," fifth graders also will begin to learn through books and film about the production of sperm and eggs, as well as about acne, hygiene and "how I Can Control My Temper."

THE PLAN SUGGESTS that when the fifth grader has been taught that "the sperm cell must come into direct contact with the egg cell" the teacher will install a question box, where the children can put questions they want the class to discuss. The teacher is advised to screen the questions.

Sixth graders will be invited to submit questions about menstruation and ovulation, and will hold panel discussions. They also will be taught that activities like sports, dancing, hobbies and hikes are good for emotional release as well as physical fitness.

While sixth graders see slides on "how Babies are Made," seventh graders will be learning about endocrine glands, sex glands and their hormones, and will be looking at transparent models of male and female bodies to locate the glands.

Getting along with others of both sexes, what to do about crushes on older persons and puppy love, how to turn down an offer of a cigarette, how to behave on a date — these let the emphasis in the eighth grade — the curriculum also will call for discussion of "how to say 'No'" and how to "vary the tempo when on a date."

EIGHTH GRADE boys and girls will tape their reaction to "indiscriminate behavior" in other youngsters, and the tapes will be played back — to different classes. They will write compositions on "What My Reputation Means to Me."

Near the end of the eighth grade curriculum comes a subject to be introduced "with great sensitivity" — that of homosexuality.

"Be careful," teachers are warned, "to avoid giving pupils guilt feelings because they prefer a best boy friend or best girl friend to being one of a group or with someone of the opposite sex. Distinguish between the lifelong need of having best friends of the same sex and homosexuality."

Ninth grade teachers will have the task of dispelling "common fallacies about sex" — that sowing wild oats is a good preparation for marriage; that sexual intercourse is necessary for development, health and happiness; that "inhibition and control are harmful," and pregnancies can be avoided with precautionary measures.

Bomber Downed Over Nigeria

LAGOS, Nigeria (AP) — A bombing plane attempting attacks on a Nigerian naval base and government headquarters blew up amid anti-aircraft fire over a residential section of Lagos early Saturday, damaging two foreign embassies but missing its prime targets.

The Nigerian government charged the plane came under orders of the government of Biafra, which seceded from Nigeria last May. Four white men and four Africans were found dead among the debris of the plane. Officials said they wore Biafran military uniforms.

neighborhoods, where drop-out rates are high, study of marriage and parenthood will be telescoped into the 10th grade from the 11th and 12th grade curricula.

TENTH GRADERS also will be given intensive instruction on the through charts, transparencies, manikins, and will be asked to do independent research on "old wives' tales" about prenatal care.

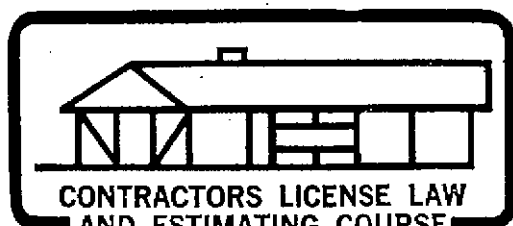

Eleventh graders will discuss everything from virginity and the double standard of morality for men and women to why engagements are broken and how to plan a honeymoon.

In the 12th grade the "buzz sessions" on such subjects as promiscuity, prostitution, venereal disease, homosexuality, contraception, abortion, and divorce will be backed up by books, studies of the work of family planning agencies and studies of "happy couples . . . neighbors, cousins, friends."

Says the booklet in the family planning section:

"Develop from factual point of view only. Opinions of teacher, which may be counter to those held by the students, church or home, are not presented."

2 Arrested in Killing of Plant Guard

LAUREL, Miss (AP) — State agents and deputy sheriffs arrested two strikers Saturday on charges of murdering an unarmed Masonite Corp. guard killed by shotgun blasts as he patrolled inside a fence Aug. 14.

V. L. "Dubie" Lee, 44, of Laurel, and Andre Hendry, 30, of Waynesboro, were taken to the county jail here.

They were charged with murdering Anthony Billiot of Metairie, La., a guard for a private security firm retained by Masonite after members of the International Woodworkers of America struck last April.

Billiot, 23, was struck in the face by two shotgun blasts. He had recently returned from Vietnam, where he was a member of the Army's elite Special Forces. His young wife was expecting a child.

"I Read This Book In Only 2½ Hours"

"I started the Evelyn Wood Reading Dynamics course just 5 weeks ago," says Dennis Hunt, "and in that short time I've increased my reading efficiency from less than 300 words per minute to over 2,500 words per minute with increased comprehension and recall."

"I spend no more time reading now," Dennis continues, "but I find myself reading over 8 times as much material. I'm suddenly reading more books, more magazines, more periodicals than I ever did before and I'm really enjoying reading for the first time in my life."

"I read the average novel in an hour, or so; magazines in 20-25 minutes. Books I once avoided I now can't wait to get my hands on," Dennis reports. "Now that I'm reading rapidly, it's hard to imagine anyone wanting to read slowly."

Dennis will soon be among the more than 300,000 Evelyn Wood Reading Dynamics Institute graduates who have increased their reading efficiency an average of 470%.

Other graduates include members of the White House Staff under the late President Kennedy, members of Congress, business executives, educators, high school and college students and housewives.

Traditional heavy enrollment for October and Fall sessions, both adult and student, is now in full swing. Avoid disappointment. Enroll now for a new series of classes beginning in 10 convenient locations.

Downey-Made Crankcase Unit Could Be Smog Cloud's Silver Lining

LONG BEACH 12, CALIF., SUNDAY, OCT. 8, 1967

A smog control system that doesn't clog and malfunction?

From Detroit to the furthest reaches of the country's inhabited areas, scientists could only shake their heads negatively to the question.

But, last week, K&B Manufacturing at 12152 S.

By ROBERT BECKMAN
Progress Section Editor

Woodruff Ave., Downey, announced the refinement of a new device — one that doesn't clog up or malfunction.

John Broadbeck Sr., manager of the division of Aurora Plastics, and Chief Engineer Frederick W. Dunn took the wraps off a newly patented Vac-U-Tron system.

"What we've done," Dunn said, "is what the massive automobile industry could not: develop a truly universal under-the-hood smog control system."

THE VAC-U-TRON, result of six years' of testing, is about to go on the market.

Fleet evaluations (United Parcel Service trucks all were equipped with the device four years ago) prove, Dunn said, the device is ready for public use. C. L. Shockley heads field engineering.

Announcement of its perfection, too, was delayed until the device had been approved by the States of California and New York, Dunn added.

It also has earned the seal of approval of the United States Auto Club.

"K&B Manufacturing," the chief engineer said proudly, "is the only manufacturer of smog-control devices that guarantees its device against failure and warrants the engine against mishap."

THE VAC-U-TRON IS SMALL ENOUGH TO FIT IN THE HAND... Fits Any Car, Any Year

THE SYSTEM, according to sales manager Arnold Silverman, is adjustable and will fit any car and will last the lifetime of the engine.

As the engine breaks in — and wears with age — the Vac-U-Tron can be adjusted to accommodate the increased blow-by gasses.

Other claims by the company include an increase in gasoline mileage, a decrease in oil consumption and an increase in the lifetime of the engine.

And, Dunn added, the engine will start faster, reach maximum efficiency quicker and run smoother.

"As far as that goes," Dunn quickly mentioned, "if any device is working properly and effectively, gasoline consumption will go down, not up."

THE ENGINEERING PRINCIPLE behind the system is different from other state-approved devices.

"In our system," Dunn said, "the entire engine is sealed off. A negative pressure — a vacuum — is established in the crankcase.

"This vacuum increases the flow of the blow-by gasses from the crankcase to the combustion chamber where they are burned.

"Because the blow-by gasses do not stay as long in the crankcase, the oil stays cleaner. Because the blow-by gasses are removed more efficiently and burned, the owner enjoys better gas mileage."

Staff Photos

By CHUCK SUNDQUIST

Five thousand dealer-installers will be licensed to install and adjust Vac-U-Tron, K&B officials said.

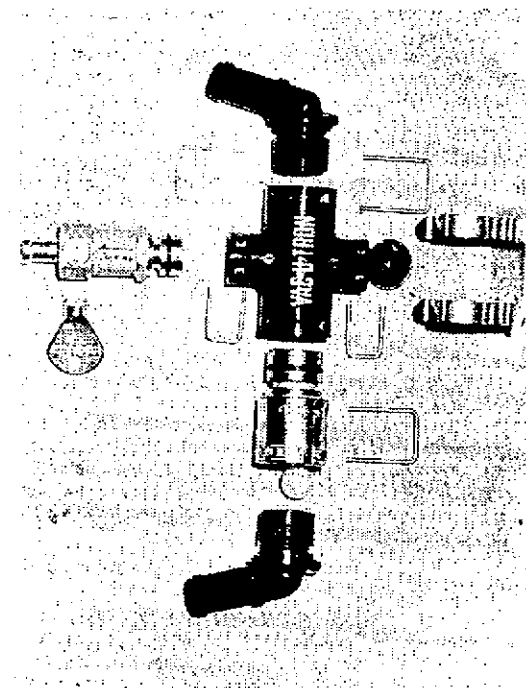

The cost for the device for the average car: between $15 and $20, Dunn said.

Market Testing of Nitrogen-Inflated Tires Begins

Special to the Progress Section

Market testing of nitrogen inflation of automobile tires has begun at 41 Gulf Oil Corporation service stations in Houston.

The program has been instituted in recognition of increasing contention that exclusion of the normal 20 per cent oxygen content of air in tires through virtually total nitrogen inflation removes a major cause of tire failure and preserves tire strength.

According to researchers, a principal reason for deterioration of tires is internal oxidation caused by the effect of oxygen on tire rubber and fabric, especially as heat rises.

Oxidation also takes place on the outside of the tire, although the effect is regarded as much less significant due to the absence of pressures present internally.

TIRE MAKERS normally treat tire rubber compounds with chemical antioxidants to combat oxidation, although this is only partially successful.

Researchers, accordingly, contend that a more effective deterrent of internal oxidation is the purging of virtually all oxygen-bearing air from the tire by inflating with pure nitrogen.

Nitrogen, which normally makes up 79 per cent of air, is an inert, non-combustible and much less chemically active gas.

Question: Price Increases Result of Things Past—or Portent of Future?

New York Times Service

The rash of price increases now taking place is stirring a heated debate over whether it is the portent of things to come or the product of things past.

There is no simple answer because both psychological and economic influences are sparking price rises.

The tangible economic evidence supports those who argue that the upward push of prices stems more from inflationary pressures

Three-T-Fleet, Inc., an El Paso tire testing concern has reported that oxygen-free inflating gases substantially improve both passenger car and truck tire mileage, while also providing stronger and safer tires.

Similar conclusions have been reached by the Tire

Retreading Institute and by various producers of nitrogen after considerable study.

GROWING interest in the potential of nitrogen inflation by racing drivers, airlines, the government, and various groups concerned with tire safety, is

Council of Economic Advisers is leading the fight for tax increases, is willing to concede that "the general price level will continue to rise in response to inflationary forces... set in motion during the rapid expansion of late 1965 and early 1966."

IN ADMITTING that the present outbreak of price increases is largely the result of past inflationary pressures, Ackley seems to be on the side of those who are opponents of the tax increase.

He differs from them, though, in predicting that inflationary pressures will continue to make themselves felt unless the tax surcharge is employed to restrain them.

Ackley may be short of solid fact to back up his view of the future. But there is plenty of intangible — or psychological — evidence on his side.

used will bear Big Three's brand name, "Tire-Life".

Gulf's suggested price to dealers for inflation of new tires with nitrogen will be 50c per tire. Since oxygen-bearing air must first be purged from used tires, suggested dealer price will be $1.00 per tire.

ALTHOUGH nitrogen inflated tires maintain normal pressure somewhat better, subsequent slight drops in tire pressure which do occur can be built up several times with normal air without significantly diluting the effect of the nitrogen. Nitrogen buildups of lost pressure will have a suggested dealer price of 25 cents during the test.

Gulf stations providing nitrogen inflation will also make available to motorists, for the first time, visual pressure caps for tires, another Big Three Industrial Gas and Equipment product.

Each preset at the factory for a standard tire pressure of 22, 26, 28 or 30 pounds per square inch, the visual caps show a red indicator if pressure drops.

They are also available for higher pressures up to 90 pounds per square inch carried by many truck tires.

Failure to Hike Surtax Means Spiraling Interest Rates

By KEN CHILCOTE
Business Editor

With Congress now demanding a sharp decrease in other lines of government spending to offset the hike in Vietnam war costs, it leaves the government's fiscal policies up in the air.

If Congress fails to adopt the President's request for a 10 per cent surtax one thing is certain: there will be decided upward spiraling in interest rates and money to finance new homes and business expansions will be more scarce than in the past year.

We now are in our third year since this country's decision was made to enlarge, considerably, the scope of its commitment in Vietnam. And it is certain that few could have foreseen the consequences which that step would have in reshaping the defense budget. Even now it is difficult to realize the full extent of the change effected the past two years.

In fiscal 1965—the last year that U.S. military personnel served primarily as "advisers" to Saigon's army, U.S. Military expenditures attributed to Vietnam amounted to only $103 million. This was less than one-quarter of 1 per cent of that year's defense budget of $47.4 billion.

WITH THE SUBSTANTIAL INCREASE in troop commitment and with the progressive escalation of both ground and air warfare, budget figures indicate that "special Vietnam" expenditures rose to almost $6 billion in 1966, and then climbed to more than $19 billion in fiscal 1967.

This $19 billion estimate is from last January's budget and, according to the Morgan Guaranty Trust Co., of New York it can be presumed that special Vietnam costs in fiscal 1967 exceeded this level.

The $19 billion figure was roughly 28 per cent of last year's estimated $68 billion military budget.

Before President Johnson announced his intention last month to authorize an increase of at least 45,000 in the number of men to be sent to Vietnam this fiscal year, Vietnam expenditures were projected by the Administration to rise to $22 billion in fiscal 1968.

In his August tax message, the President observed that the "costs of conflict can never be precisely estimated nor fully foreseen, and thus, the possibility remains that defense spending in fiscal 1968, based on present plans, may exceed the January budget by up to $4 billion."

THE COST OF U.S. INVOLVEMENT in Vietnam amounted to more than $25 billion in three fiscal years of 1965, 66 and 67. By the end of the current fiscal year the cumulative figure is likely to have risen beyond $50 billion.

While military procurement costs have escalated sharply due to the war escalation, there are some noticeable changes in this sector, especially in the types of weapons. Spending for conventional weapons is up sharply. So is the spending on planes and helicopters. But spending on missile systems dropped sharply.

With peace no where in sight today, escalation of the war is probable under plans of the Administration. And the defense budget is sure to soar.

But now Congress, getting much pressure from home groups to slow down Vietnam activity, must make a big decision. Either they will escalate tax collections by adopting the President's surtax request, or they will make the President retard all other expenditures to offset increased war costs.

Meanwhile, we can expect to see interest charges creep upwards and the outlook for such things as a housing boom darkens.

WITH 350,000 PEOPLE EMPLOYED, the communications industry ranks as Southern California's second biggest industry, right after aerospace which employs about 425,000. A special salute will be paid the communications industry Tuesday by the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce.

"Communications, which covers the acquisition, processing and distribution of knowledge, is a $6½ billion industry in this area," said Richard W. King, chairman of the chamber salute.

The communications industry includes such seemingly disparate industries as education, entertainment, radio and television, printing and publishing, telephone and telegraph, professional communication services such as advertising and public relations, the computer industries and aerospace communications.

THERE'S SOMETHING NEW TO AID the man who is handy around the house. Now he can trim trees and bushes without saws and shears sticking. Saws can be left in a damp place without rusting. And for those in colder climates they can leave snow off sidewalks without it sticking to the shovel.

The new tools—available now—are the Teflon-coated ones being rushed to hardware stores.

Hardware Age magazine predicts Teflon-coated tools will be one of the biggest breakthroughs to help do-it-yourselfers and professional craftsmen do jobs better, easier and faster.

Teflon coating for tools is a development from Teflon-coated house wares like fry pans, skillet and irons. Teflon is sprayed on the tools and then baked.

WHITAKER CORP., headquartered at 9229 Sunset Blvd., Los Angeles, has been awarded a $15.9 million contract by Bell Helicopter Co., Fort Worth for the production of helicopter blades.

Whittaker's contractual backlog in helicopter blades now exceeds $25 million. The blades will be produced at the firm's Monrovia plant. They will be for Bell Model UH-1D "Huey" and commercial model 47. They will be delivered during 1968.

DEATH HAS CLAIMED ANOTHER veteran of the oil industry. O. W. (Bud) March, director of Signal Oil and Gas Co., and a pioneer in the company's management and marketing operations succumbed in Santa Monica at the age of 66.

March had retired in 1964 after 43 years with Signal. He joined the original Signal Gasoline Co., in Signal Hill, Management at that time consisted of Samuel B. Mosher, Mr. March and a bookkeeper. One of his early assignments was to obtain contracts for the Signal Hill plant which he extracted natural gasoline from gas produced with oil from the hill.

In 1925, he became head of land and lease operations and expanded the company activities into Oklahoma and Texas.

As director of marketing operations, beginning in 1931, he developed Signal's retail gasoline sales program and guided its expansion into 16 Pacific Coast and south-eastern states. In 1959 Mr. March introduced the blender pump, dispensing seven different grades of gasoline from regular to the highest octane.

COAST FEDERAL SAVINGS HAS COMPLETED construction on additional space at its Long Beach office at Third Street and Locust Avenue. With the acquisition of the office formerly occupied by the Long Beach Blue Print Co., of Locust, the savings firm increased its square footage by 50 per cent.

CHANGING POSTS

E. E. Wilson (left), former Orange Division manager for General Telephone, recently was promoted to plant director for General of Wisconsin. E. R. Wellman (right), East Long Beach Division manager, has been named to succeed Wilson at Orange.

IN TERMS OF TOTAL BANK deposits, the Southern California area continues to be one of the leading financial centers in the nation.

In a report by Security First National Bank's Economic Research Department, the 14-county area, with more than $19.3 billion in bank deposits, accounts for 5.6 per cent of the national total.

According to security, the hub of financial activity in the Southland centers in the Los Angeles-Long Beach Metropolitan area. This region accounts for nearly $13.2 billion in total deposits or 68 per cent of the Southern California total.

The Southland area ranks third among all U.S. metropolitan areas. New York remains in first place with $58.9 billion in deposits, followed by Chicago with $19.7 billion.

The San Francisco-Oakland metropolitan area ranked fourth with 11.1 billion in total deposits.

Truck Strike Hurts More Than Ford

The Index inched forward again last week in the face of serious labor disputes in the automobile and trucking industries.

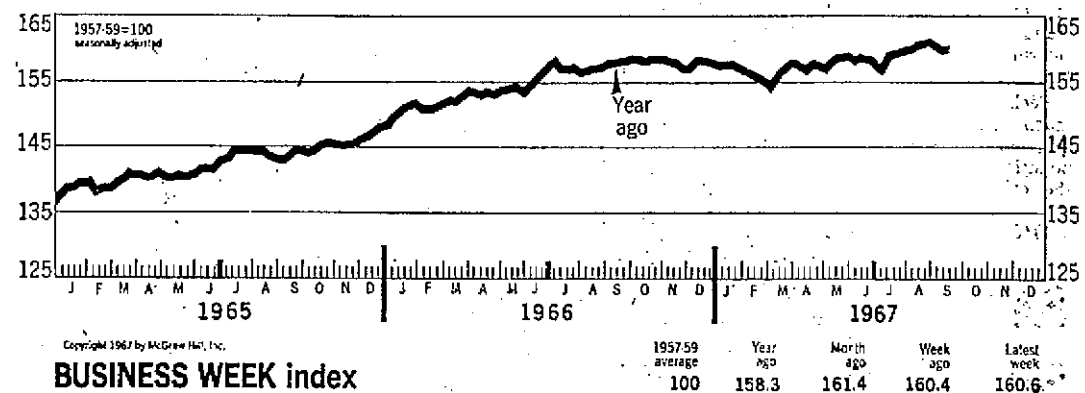

While negotiations on the United Auto Workers' strike at Ford Motor Co. remain at a standstill, other auto producers upped their work-week to six days and pushed production ahead a whopping 19 per cent in the latest week.

The increased output is a result of pre-strike scheduling, rather than an attempt to take advantage of Ford's absence from the market.

The other labor dispute in this week's picture — a seven-state walkout of truckers who haul steel — is exhibiting more negative effects on the Index than the auto dispute.

Although steel is in strong demand, production was cut 1.4 per cent in the latest week, due to producers' inability to deliver.

AFTER 33 YEARS—MOVING Barnes & Delaney Occupies New 'Home'

It was to be expected — this outgrowing the old home after 33 years.

The firm of Barnes & Delaney, distributing Goodyear tires and industrial rubber products, was organized in 1935 and opened its doors at Atlantic Avenue and Willow Street, Long Beach.

Organizers were the late Paul B. Barnes, former manager of the Goodyear Service Store in Long Beach, and A. J. Delaney, pioneer in the oil industry in this area and at that time head of the Delaney Petroleum Corporation.

DELANEY did not take an active part in the management and retired prior to 1943 when a partnership was formed by Barnes, James P. McCay and James S. Morrison.

The present corporation was formed in 1960.

All health forced Barnes to sell his interest in 1964 and upon his retirement Morrison assumed the presidency. He has been active in Long Beach civic endeavors.

Morrison also has served as president of the southern California Tire Dealers & Retreaders Association and was head of the National Tire Dealers & Retreaders Association in 1960.

THE COMPANY enjoyed a steady growth through the years. When Morrison joined the firm in 1939, annual volume was $150,000. Last year, it had climbed to $2½ million with 50 employees on the payroll.

With this increase, the company outgrew its old location and property was purchased at Cherry Avenue and Dixie Road.

Now occupied is the new, modern 10-bay auto service center. Managing the new store is Gary Morrison, son of the president.

The company is remodeling the old store and will continue to house there the industrial division.

NEW 10-BAY CENTER... Now In Operation In Long Beach

UNLIKE ANY OTHERS Revolutionary Cooking Devices on Market

NOTE: Richard N. Thunes is public service director for the American Building Contractors Association and Western Regional Home Improvement Council.

By RICHARD N. THUNES

Two revolutionary cooking devices are now on the market. One is an electric range, designed as a built-in. This is brand new. The other is an electronic oven. It also is a built-in and although the prototype model is more than 10 years old, the oven is now in modest production.

The electric range is unlike any other. In appearance, it consists of a flat panel of white glass-ceramic. There are no burner or heating elements visible, only some etching on the surface that defines each of the four cooking areas.

When the control knob is set to a low temperature, the cooking area changes color from white to pale yellow.

At the highest temperature, the color changes to a deep amber. There are an infinite variety of temperature selections between minimum and maximum.

THE GREAT advantage of this range is that there is absolutely no way for it to get dirty. The cooking surface is flat and smooth and the pane is sealed around all the edges and banded in metal.

If there are spills, drips or burns, they are wiped up easily because the surface is treated regularly with a silicone cleaner.

How does this range work? Electric heating strips press against the underside of each of the cooking areas. The heat is transmitted through the panel.

The heat transfer is so efficient that you can place your finger on the panel only a half-inch away from the cooking area without getting burned.

You may need special cookware for use with this range because maximum efficiency is developed only with pots and pans having flat bottoms.

THE ELECTRONIC oven is extremely simple. It looks like any other except that the glass window is replaced by a metal screen. Inside, a special unit in the top of the oven generates electro-magnetic waves. These waves do the cooking.

An electromagnetic wave is like a radio or TV picture signal, but in another frequency range. They pass through most substances including glass and foods, but they are stopped by metal.

The cook foods because they agitate the individual molecules as they pass completely through. The agitation causes friction between the molecules and the resulting heat cooks the food.

One consequence of this is that the food cooks evenly all the way through. The other is that foods cook very quickly. A baked potato is done in 20 minutes. A cake is baked in 15 minutes.

A day-old hot dog bun and a cold Weiner come out deliciously hot in about four minutes. Frozen peas and most other vegetables take only six minutes.

A RARE steak, though, would come out rare all the way through, and this isn't what most people want. So the oven also has regular heating strips that are used for "browning" steaks, bread, cakes, etc.

Don't expect either the electronic oven or the new counter-top range to be found in new homes very soon. They are moderately expensive (although much less expensive than you might think) and will probably be installed in the near future mostly in remodeled kitchens.

QUESTION: What is ceramic tile made from. Why is it so resistant to heat?

ANSWER: Tile is made from clay. The powder is pressed into its desired shape and then fired in a kiln at tremendously high temperatures. Thereafter, only even higher temperatures can affect it.

WINNER'S CIRCLE AT SPAROW REALTY

Bob Friedberg, on the right, Sales Manager for Sparow Realty, congratulates Eleanor Wier, Top Salesman of the quarter, and Fred Aune, Top Salesman for August, at their monthly breakfast meeting. This was Wier's third trip to the Winner's Circle this year and the second time for Aune.

While congratulating the monthly winners Friedberg was in turn surprised with the gift of a week-end trip to San Francisco as recognition for his superior listing and selling job for the third quarter.

Oliver Speraw of Sparow Realty also released the news that sales for the first three quarters had reached a total of 179 properties representing a gross of $6,354,282. Speraw credited their Valuation Show of Homes franchise for much of the company success. He pointed out that Valu-Vision was a communication aid which made it easier for the salesman to understand the buyer's needs as well as desires. Salesmen or prospective salesmen interested in proper on-the-job sales training will be interviewed Monday through Friday.

Beckman Instruments Smogmobiles Rumble Through Areas of Country

INDEPENDENT, PRESS-TELEGRAM AND EVENING NEWS— SUNDAY, OCT. 8, 1967—R-3

Special to the Progress Section

An unusual vehicle is playing a definite, though generally unrecognized, role in the lives of millions of people throughout the world.

It's the "Smogmobile"—a $50,000 motorized van or trailer-type vehicle, instrumented to the gills and capable of doing battle with many of the air pollution problems that haunt over 7,000 communities in this country alone.

Officially named the Mobile Air Quality Monitoring Laboratory by its developer, the "Smogmobile" is manufactured by Beckman Instruments, Inc., Fullerton.

Beckman also supplies much of the instrumentation used in stationary air pollution labs throughout the country.

THESE VEHICLES are rumbling through city streets and highways in a number of states already, and more can be expected soon. Customers have come from as far away as Munich, Germany, proving that impure air is a problem of international proportions.

When the need for air pollution control was first recognized, it became evident that instruments would be needed to identify and define the seriousness of a pollution problem before anything could be done about it.

POLLUTANTS vary greatly from one region to another. Industrial and metropolitan areas pollute the air with hydrocarbons, oxidants, sulfur dioxide and many other undesirable compounds.

Automobiles contribute carbon monoxide, hydrocarbons, and oxides of nitrogen when unburned fuel passes out of the tail pipe.

Climate also plays a year-round hazard.

Stationary air monitoring facilities have long been used to identify air pollutants by local, state and federal agencies, as well as by private industry.

TODAY, however, these agencies and industries are beginning to recognize that the stationary facilities, in some cases, have limitations. Beckman's "Smogmobiles," in many instances, are providing the solution.

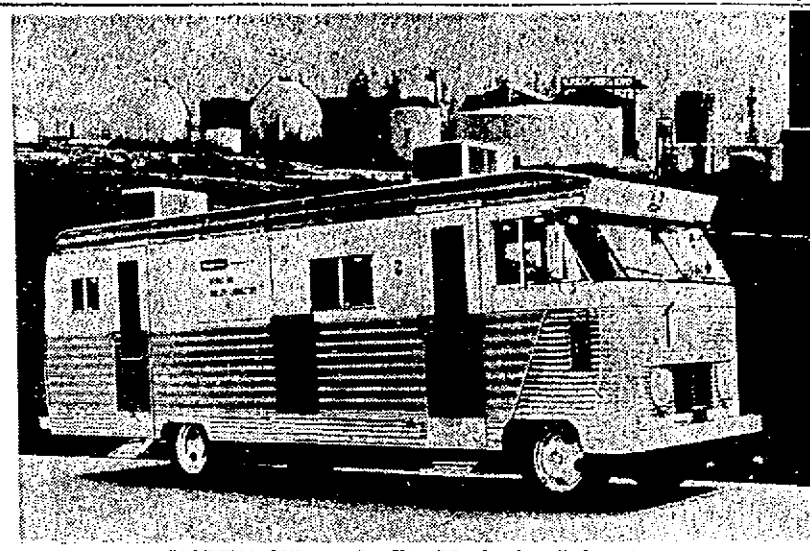

The mobile vans can monitor specific locations and gather data on individual sources of pollution that may change with the seasons or even with the time of day. They can be used to determine if a need exists for permanent air monitoring facilities in a given area.

"SMOGMOBILES" increasingly are used to gather air quality data for a large area by moving about within that area. They prove particularly useful in outlying locations, beyond the reach of stationary facilities.

Once set, instruments in the motorized vans operate automatically, with their readings being continuously recorded.

In addition to standard analytical instruments which can measure all the common air pollutants, the vans come equipped with sinks, cupboards, light, heat and air conditioning. They are, literally, complete scientific laboratories on wheels.

SAMPE Symposium Scheduled in Anaheim

Leading scientists, engineers and executives from more than a dozen Los Angeles and Orange County corporations are completing final arrangements for this year's three-day national SAMPE Symposium and Exhibition.

SAMPE (Society of Aerospace Material and Process Engineers) will attract nationwide participation from aerospace and industrial fields general chairman, R. O. Burton reports.

The meeting Oct. 10-12, will be in the new Anaheim Convention Center.

Gen. Bernard A. Schriever, U.S.A.R. (Ret), currently head of Aerojet-General's Advanced planning board, will speak Oct. 11.

cient performances in current and future industrial and space programs.

Some 72 papers will be presented airing new ideas on materials with applications from space vehicles to underwater devices to the highways of tomorrow.

On exhibit will be products and new concepts representing more than a hundred companies from throughout the United States.

COMMITTEE heads and the engineering-manufacturing firms they represent are:

R. O. Burton, U.S. Polymeric, Inc., general chairman; Dr. J. A. Erikson, North American-Autonetics, program; Dr. W. D. English, Douglas Aircraft, assistant program; David O. Dittman, North American-Autonetics, arrangements; Ed Brands, North American-Autonetics, assistant arrangements.

Our homes are made to grow into. Not out of.

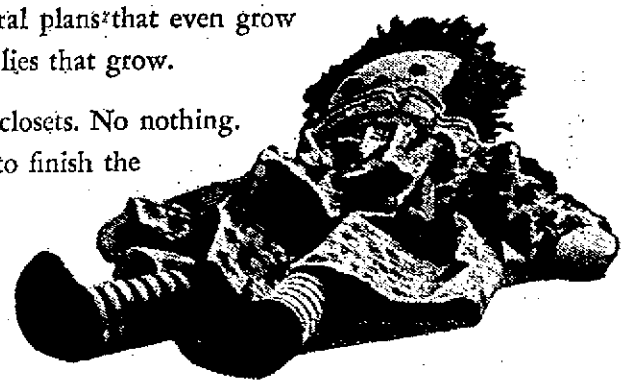

All of our homes are really big. We have big garden view kitchens, big family rooms, big bedrooms and big master bedroom suites (enormous, in fact).

But we thought we'd be even bigger about it. We've designed several plans that even grow bigger with the years. We call them Spacemakers. They're for families that grow.

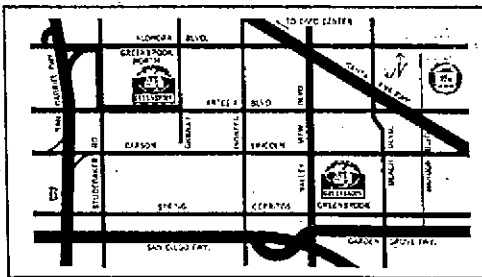

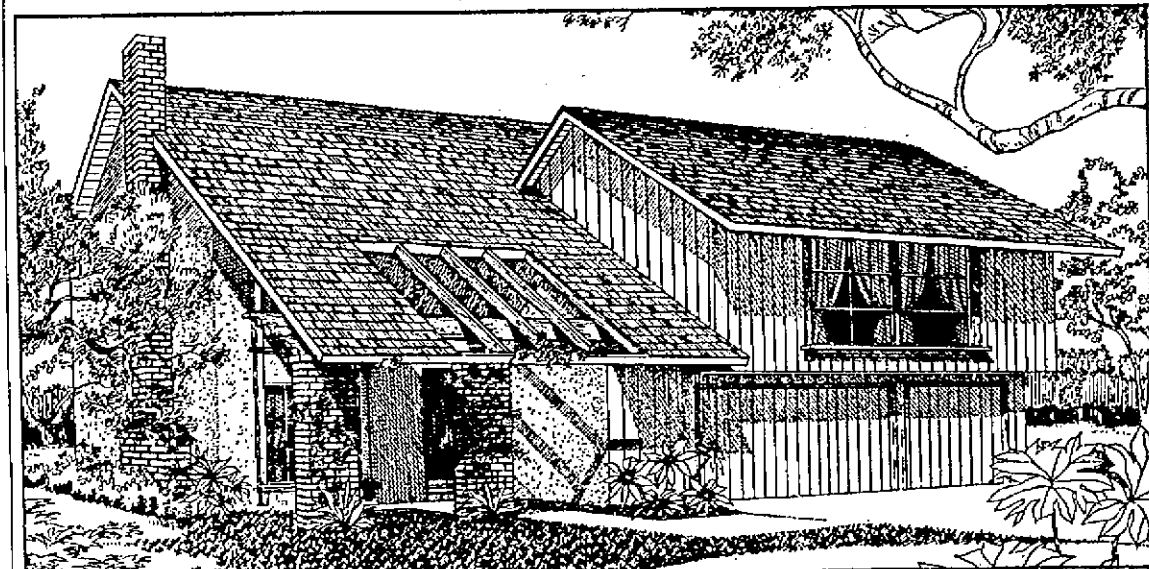

The Spacemaker is a big home. We leave the entire upstairs unfinished. No rooms. No closets. No nothing. Just a big blank space nobody ever sees. Then, as your family grows, you can begin to finish the unfinished area. What really counts is the space is there when you need it.

We suggest you come out to see the Spacemakers right away.

You'll see why our homes are made to grow into, not out of.

Del Amo Homeowners Are Feted at Luau

South Bay hospitality was at its best when John Stevenson, salesman at Macco Leadership Homes Del Amo, entertained 10 new Del Amo homeowners and their wives for cocktails, dinner and bridge.

Mildred and John Stevenson chose an Hawaiian theme for their "aloha" party, which began on the patio of their Del Amo home. Exotic island drinks were served by lantern light and a buffet featured spitted fillet mignon and barbecued ham.

Following dinner, the new neighbors became better acquainted during a mixed couples bridge match.

GETTING TO KNOW each other were couples from a variety of Southern California cities with a wide range of occupational backgrounds. Guests, who attended with their wives, included U.S. Air Force Capt. Richard G. Wolff; Merle L. George, a Hughes Aircraft electrical engineer; Wouter Peeman, Standard Oil heavy equipment operator; and Edward Kraus from Playa del Rey.

Also, Peter Mahler, an Air Search test technician; James Carbone, with Volsan Manufacturing; Scientist specialist Lynn Van Camp; and Karl Schmidt with Capitol Brush.

EMPLOYED by the Los Angeles Department of Water and Power, Oliver Morrison met another homeowner who uses a lot of his water — horticulturist Masao Okine.

Most of the Stevensons' guests already call Del Amo home. Others will move in shortly. All are agreed that the quality of Macco's community-planned homes and Del Amo's close-in location were responsible for their joining the 2,500 happy Del Amo homeowners.

Two, three and four bedroom homes range from $21,900 to $24,950.

Model homes are on South Avalon Boulevard at the San Diego Freeway.

L.B. BOMA Is Meet Co-Sponsor

Computers Used in Design of High-Rise Structures

Special to the Progress Section

Computers will play a major role in the design of apartment buildings, hotels and office buildings of the future, W. Donald Calomiris of Washington, D.C., indicated recently in Los Angeles.

Calomiris, president of the Institute of Real Estate Management, discussed this and other emerging trends in property management at a conference on management techniques during the annual convention of the California Real Estate Association at the Biltmore Hotel.

IREM is an affiliate of the National Association of Real Estate Boards.

COMPUTERS are presently being utilized in making market analyses and economic projections for income property, he pointed out.

The primary problem in building design, Calomiris explained, is relatively simple in theory—taller buildings spread high land costs over more square footage of construction, while lower buildings cost less per square foot and building efficiency is usually greater.

Architects, with some very significant assistance from professional property managers, blended their skills to create a design which combined the best esthetics in the face of existing economic conditions, Calomiris continued.

OF INTEREST is a project involving an office building design in Houston carried out with the aid of a computer.

In this particular instance, he continued, given all the pertinent data, the computer ran through to arrive at the highest return on investment for a building from 15 to 50 floors high.

"The computer 'recommended' 32 floors for the highest percentage of return on investment. . . . However, the conclusion of this exercise . . . was not what you might expect."

"In addition to the computer process giving the designers additional freedom in their design of the building, the analysis showed that the best economic return came from a building which was not the most efficient, was not the cheapest per square foot, and did not cover the entire site.

CALOMIRIS explained that these three factors were shown to be "only part of a very complex picture with a great number of flexibilities . . . presenting themselves through this complex analysis."

Going one step further, Calomiris said it will not be too long before computers can be programmed to design a structure totally. A program of this type is being developed by an architectural engineering firm in Memphis.

"These innovators" he concluded, hope shortly to have a system using . . . punch cards in conjunction with micro-filmed detailed drawings which would permit them to produce complete working drawings for a 400-600 room facility in a matter of hours rather than months."

BILL CARROLL... Cyclone Adventure

By ART STEPHAN
Auto Editor

Preparing to begin the second phase of "Adventura Alaska-Brasil," Bill Carroll, noted Hollywood automotive writer, already has logged some 670 hours on the engine of his new 1968 Mercury Cyclone—and according to Carroll that's about the time the average motorist's engine is run in two-and-a-half years.

Carroll is in Los Angeles on his way to Rio de Janeiro from Anchorage, Alaska.

What's more, Carroll says that when he and his wife, Renee, reach Rio to conclude "Adventura Alaska-Brasil" on Jan. 12, the special motor meter timer will show that the engine was kept running constantly for some 2,880 hours—equivalent to the number of hours the average car engine is run in 11 years, according to Carroll's calculations.

THE CARROLLS WILL BE driving over some of the most rugged roads in the Western Hemisphere and over land ranging from desert valleys below sea level to mountain passes at 13,000 feet.

Carroll picked up his new car factory-fresh at Lorain, Ohio, on Aug. 30 and took a couple days to install special locking devices and two five-gallon auxiliary gas cans. The drive from Detroit to Anchorage served as a break-in run, and there Carroll serviced the engine.

That's when the ignition was started again, never to stop for four months. It will be running during overnight stops when the Carrolls are sleeping at the end of one grueling day's drive before starting the next day's adventure.

AND IT WILL STILL BE RUNNING when Bill and Renee lash the car to the deck of the Grace Lines' S.S. Santa Flavia at Balboa, Canal Zone, for a 200-mile crossing to LaGuaira, Venezuela, the port city of Caracas. That should be about November 10. This water lift is necessary because the Inter-American Highway runs out in the jungles of Panama, a section not yet passable by car.

And for the following two months while the Carrolls make their way through Venezuela, Colombia, Ecuador, Peru, Chile, Argentina and Uruguay and up to Brazil the Cyclone V-8 engine will be running 24 hours a day.

The Carrolls planned the rugged journey to gather information with which they plan to encourage American motorists to visit nations in their own hemisphere. The trip also will serve as a mobile proving ground for their 1968 Mercury Cyclone, STP petroleum products, Firestone tires and Simoniz Master Wax.

Orange County's first publication outlining subdivision building trends was released last week by the Orange County Title Division of First American Title Insurance & Trust Company, Santa Ana.

The copyrighted report, entitled "Recorded Facts," contains detailed information about each subdivision recorded in the county since Jan. 1, 1966—a total of 187 tracts. The initial issue is for the period ended Aug. 31, 1967.

The report will be kept up to date and published monthly by the firm's marketing research department, headed by Dale J. Post. It is designed chiefly for the building and lending industries.

TENACIOUS AIR CLEANER

Smoke, with particles measuring as small as a hundredth of a micron, is one of most visible and most elusive of household contaminants. But it doesn't get through new electronic air cleaner made by Payne Company, City of Industry. Cigar smoke is puffed directly into unit equipped with exhaust fan for demonstration purposes. Cleaner traps particles and holds them so tenaciously fan is unable to pull them free.

Greenbrook Homes Have Top Quality

"We have found that homebuyers look beyond superficial trimmings in a new home," says Bud Meyer, sales manager of Larwin Co.'s Greenbrook single family residential community in Cypress.

"We're convinced that's one solid reason why our new Greenbrook homes have been so enthusiastically accepted. We have termite-proof foundations, plaster acoustic ceilings, fiberglass insulation, separate 220 electrical circuits, maintenance-free aluminum windows, treated aluminum interlocking thresholds, concrete walks and garage floors.

There are gold anodized sliding glass doors, pre-finished paneling, cultured marble pullmans, gold anodized shower enclosures, lifetime window screens, underground utilities throughout and many, many more special touches not often found in homes in this price range," Meyer concluded.

Greenbrook models include the popular Space-maker series and a huge five-bedroom, three-bath, split-level design. Prices start at $26,950 with no down payment to vets, easy FHA, Cal-Vet and conventional terms. Greenbrook is on Valley View Boulevard between Lincoln and Cerritos in Cypress.

WHAT'S YOUR PROBLEM?

Cheap Houses in Good Ol' Days Just Weren't So Cheap, After All

By BERNARD MELTZER

I'm constantly receiving mail reminding me how cheap houses used to be, in the old days. This may come as a shock to many old-timers, but today we are getting much more housing value.

Dear Mr. Meltzer:

I had to send my wife out to work to help pay for our new house (cost—$18,000.) Wages may be high, but prices are higher. In the old days, even though wages were low, prices were still lower and you could get more house for your money. It's true — isn't it?

LOOKING BACKWARD

Answer:

No, it is not! From the standpoint of housing values, we are much better off today. Let me prove it to our readers.

In 1900, a typical blue-collar worker (skilled mechanic) had to labor about 10,000 hours to pay for his house. In 1967, only about 4,000 hours of work are required to buy a house.

The 1900 house did not have electricity, no indoor bathroom — or very skimpy at best, no central heat, minimum kitchen fixtures, no ceramic tile, etc. What I'm trying to say is that if houses had not been improved and they were being built to the same construction specifications today as in 1900, a skilled mechanic could buy the house for about 2,000 hours of labor. Therefore, depending on how you look at it, in a period of 67 years, we are getting 2½ to 5 times as much housing for comparable effort.

Dear Mr. Meltzer:

I am trying to find out how my husband gets around the law. A recent speaker at our civic group who is an eminent legal authority, stated that in our state a married man cannot sell or mortgage a property without his wife's signature and consent. Yet for years my husband has been buying and selling properties, making mortgages without even consulting with me. How does he do it?

IGNORED

Answer:

Some men are known by their deeds; others by their mortgages; your husband obviously is known by his corporations. Your spouse apparently is buying, selling and mortgaging through various corporations, which he controls. This is one way that a married man can keep his wife out of his real estate affairs.

Dear Mr. Meltzer:

Do I need a license to sell my house?

ASKING

Answer:

No, not as long as you sell your own property. If you get ambitious, and want to sell someone else's property, then you will have to be licensed, either as a real estate salesman or broker.

Dear Mr. Meltzer:

I am heartbroken! Nothing used to show on my old six dollar a yard carpeting, but my new twelve dollar a yard high pile carpeting shows a mark at the least imprint. Although I use cups under the legs of all furniture, these marks don't come out, if the furniture remains in place for sometime. A neighbor tells me she had the same problem, and solved it by moving her furniture at least once a week. Is this the only solution to my problem?

MARKED UP

Answer:

If you follow your neighbor's advice, you'll be trading your broken heart for a broken back. I have found that the following is the best method for removing carpet indentations that will not disappear by themselves after a couple days. Cover the dent with a damp cloth and press with a steam iron. The moist heat will cause the nap to spring back. Follow this with a good brushing.

Dear Mr. Meltzer:

This spring, I installed new wood siding on my house. During the summer, several boards have developed bulges and have curled up. What do I do?

MR. B. L. R.

Answer:

Here is a secret used by old-time carpenters to straighten out bulged or curled siding. First soak the boards thoroughly with your garden hose. This is to make them pliable. Then drill a few small holes in the center of the bulge. Insert wood screws and tighten. Then, countersink screws and finish off with wood putty or plastic wood.

Dear Mr. Meltzer:

Almost every hamlet, village, town and city has a Main Street. I say it's the most popular street name in America. Is it?

CURIOUS

Answer:

No! Main Street is sixth in popularity. According to R. L. Polk and Co., publishers of street directories, the most popular street name in America is Second Street. The second most popular name is Park. Third Street is third. Fourth Street is fourth and Fifth Street is fifth.

PARENT-SAVER RETREAT... In Fairmount Place Home

Many Family Privacy Features

William Lyon's Fairmount Place homes in Fountain Valley on Brookhurst between Warner Avenue and Heil Avenue offer several important "family privacy features."

"With today's stresses and strains placed on every member of our family, from school age to the head of the family," builder Lyon points out, "it is more important than ever for each member of the family to have some place in which he or she can retreat into privacy at some time during the day or evening."

Lyon developed Fairmount Place Homes which are priced from $27,990 with no down payment to veterans or low FHA terms. The first area in which he worked with privacy was with the basic lot size. "Tiny minimum-size lots tend to stress the congestion of today's population, thus stripping us of the feeling of privacy even in our own backyard," Lyon continued. The minimum lot size for Fairmount Place homes is 71x100 feet. This allows ample space between the homes to relieve any feeling of mass-produced housing.

Expansions Underway at L.B. B.F. Goodrich Chemical Co.

B. F. Goodrich Chemical Company's Long Beach plant paid $954,000 in wages and salaries in 1966, compared with $816,000 in 1965, it was reported by A. R. Webber, manager of the plant, 2104 E. 223rd St.

The total includes holiday and vacation pay but no other employee benefits, he said.

BFG expenditures in connection with the Long Beach plant last year amounted to $10,424,000 for payroll, capital expenditures, materials, parts and fuel, he said, compared with $8,391,000 the previous year.

SALES OF many of the company's products and materials were limited in 1966 by capacity shortages, Ward Keener, president of the company, said. "To overcome such limitations and to provide facilities for new products and materials, distribution and research and development installations, the company made capital expenditures and investments in 1966 of $69,275,838 — by far the highest total in history.

"This compares with capital expenditures and investments of $59,753,311 in 1965 and $40,899,419 in 1964."

A SUBSTANTIAL number of additional expansions are under way and will be completed in 1967 or early 1968, he said, and more are budgeted for approval in 1967 to begin operations in 1968 and later.

PRICES START AT $29,000... On Landmark Homes

All New Models of Landmark Homes Now Open for Viewing

According to Bob James, Landmark Homes marketing director, the all new model homes at La Palma are open for viewing.

Choice sites and homes are available immediately with price starting at $29,000. The complete Landmark family-ready package offered includes: carpeting, landscaping, custom fencing, sprinklers, patio kitchens and concrete driveways. By taking advantage of these extras that are all included in the purchase price, the buyer can actually save thousands of dollars on "after move-in expenses," he said.

ACCORDING TO James, a number of factors are responsible for the current fast sales pace at the site. He points out that many of the buyers are attracted by the low 5 per cent down payment plan. The new 30-year loan financing is another key factor.

One of the additional features really appreciated is the three-car garage. Buyers are finding a multitude of uses for the additional space afforded by the big garages.

OTHER features include underground utilities, magnificent entries, spacious family rooms, deluxe built-ins, fireplaces, custom entry flooring, cultured pullmans, separate service areas, step-down living and family rooms, massive master bed-

'Hotel' for Livestock Is Closing

BALTIMORE (AP) — The 86-year-old Baltimore Union Stock Yards, largest terminal livestock market on the East Coast, will be closed Oct. 1.

"The stock yards are really a 'hotel' for cattle, sheep and hogs," said Frank G. Fitz-Roy, president of the Stock Yards Co. "and you might say that we have just too many vacant rooms in recent years."

Last year, 240,668 head of livestock moved through the yards, as compared with 573,500 ten years ago.

Fitz-Roy said the 46-acre site would be closed because of increasing urbanization of the 14-state market area served by the stock yards, and because of technological changes in the meat industry.

The analyst says primary trends remain upward, with possible "technical unsettlement" immediately ahead before the "underlying forces of strength" reassert themselves.

Faulkner, Dawkins & Sullivan says the basic overall trend of stock prices still appears headed up, but notes that some leading growth issues seems to be under pressure. The company suggests that market watchers remain fully invested and concentrate mainly on the more attractive cyclical stocks, many conservative growth issues and some aggressive growth issues.

The company says such indications may not preclude a major correction but it anticipates a more selective market developing on the near term.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Eastman Dillon, Union Securities & Co., says a huge federal deficit looms in the near future despite strong prospects for higher taxes. The investment house, in its publication, Economic Perspective, says that since economic stability no longer is the chief aim in incurring a deficit, the proposed tax hike "will accomplish little" in easing inflationary pressures. It notes that the government is now involved in financing military and political programs "without regard to the level of business activity."

FORT WASHINGTON, Pa. (UPI) — William H. Rorer Inc., a pharmaceutical house, said it had ended merger discussions with Chesebrough-Pond's Inc., a manufacturer of drug items. The company said it would produce the chemicals at its Channelview, Tex., plant next year.

Cerritos Woods Home Sales Continue Heavy

Rapid sales pace of the new Cerritos Woods development has prompted expansion to a total of 221 homes, according to builder Warren Bauer of Sterling Development.

One of the most significant sales boosting features at Cerritos Woods is reportedly the recent introduction of a new guaranteed trade-in program.

"This is the most solid, workable program in the industry. It literally guarantees the buyer the sale of his previous home, and gives him immediate occupancy of his Cerritos Woods residence," Bauer commented.

Ground breaking ceremonies for a second 30-home unit are scheduled within the next 30 days. Due to rising construction costs, prices are expected to be slightly higher on the new units, according to Bauer.

Three to five bedroom homes with four distinct floor plans are offered with as much as 2,300 square feet of living area.

Prices range from $27,650 to $33,850 with FHA and VA-no-down financing.

In the heart of a prestige suburban location, Cerritos Woods models are located on 195th Street between Pioneer Boulevard and Norwalk Boulevard in Cerritos.

Cosmodyne Sells SMI Preferred

The Cosmodyne Corporation, Torrance, has sold its holdings in the convertible preferred stock and certain option rights of Mark Systems, Inc. of Santa Clara.

The total consideration involves cash and MSI warrants valued in excess of $1 million.

James L. Bartlett Jr., Cosmodyne chairman, said cash proceeds from the sale will be used in the company's expansion and diversification program.

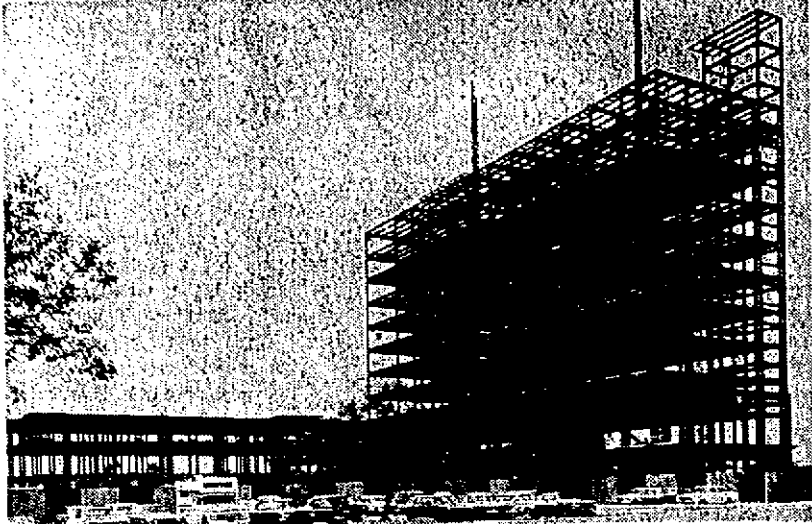

"At the same time," he said, "Cosmodyne will continue to maintain an interest in Mark Systems through our ownership of warrants to purchase MSI's common stock."

MARK SYSTEMS produces high speed film processing and optical stabilization equipment. Cosmodyne is a major producer of cryogenic equipment, and is active in the water purification and marine materials handling equipment fields.

Last week, Cosmodyne announced it had signed definitive agreements to acquire Thermal Research and Engineering Corp., Conshohocken, Pa.

Thermal manufactures high intensity combustion equipment and industrial waste control systems.

Cosmodyne shares are listed on the American and Pacific Coast Stock Exchanges.

Chuck Davis, agency owner, announced the moving of agency offices to 120 East Ocean Blvd., Suite 727, from Pine Avenue.

NEW YORK (UPI) — American Chain & Cable Co. Inc. says merger negotiations with Raybestos-Manhattan Inc. had been called off because the two firms failed to agree on terms. They had announced merger plans only two weeks ago.

Sol Vista Staging Second Big Opening

It has always been the custom in residential developments to let model homes go unchanged in decor and decorating schemes from the opening day until all homes in the development are sold. But, the builders of Sol-Vista Homes in Fountain Valley have come up with an idea to capture and retain the enthusiasm of the sophisticated home buyer, and to attract persons who have previously visited their homes.

As Sol-Vista terms it — "touched with fresh new magic."

During the past four weeks, Sol-Vista's "Designs for Living" models have been completely redecorated and refurnished. New color schemes have been incorporated into the interiors through the introduction of new floor coverings, the changing of furniture styles, and new wall coverings and color schemes.

Vista begins its "Second Grand Opening" this week-end.

First time visitors will find many things to delight them, including the 17-foot by 33-foot "idea" room located on the second floor of one of the model homes.

In every home, the living area highlights a floor-to-ceiling fireplace of stone, brick or concrete block.

All kitchen areas are equipped with built-in appliances including customized oven, range, dishwasher, disposals and range hoods. There are chair-height breakfast bars.

THESE QUALITY constructed homes feature three and four bedrooms and range in price from $27,950 to $33,575. VA, FHA and Conventional financing is available. The homes vary in square footage up to 2,300 and both one and two-story models are offered.

The homes are conveniently located at 16300 Magnolia in Fountain Valley, one-half mile north of the San Diego Freeway and 2 miles south of the Garden Grove Freeway.

State Notifies Californians Oct. 31 Deadline for Taxes

Some 363,218 California taxpayers will receive statements indicating the amount of 1967 personal income tax prepayment required on the basis of their 1966 income, Martin Huff, executive officer of the Franchise Tax Board, said last week.

The time constraint imposed by passage of S.B. 556 will necessitate a subsequent mailing to a small supplemental group.

The notices are in the mail, Huff said, and are being sent to all California taxpayers who had a 1966 state income tax liability of $200 or more. The prepayment, due under the terms of Senate Bill 556 which was adopted by the state legislature this year, must be paid prior to Oct. 31.

THE PERSONAL income tax prepayment is a means of bringing cash into the state's general fund at a time when it is normally low, Huff said.

All resident individuals who had 1966 tax liability of $200 or more (100 for married individuals filing separate returns) must file the estimate and pay 50 per cent of their 1966 tax as a prepayment for 1967.

Taxpayers whose income for 1967 will not be as large as the 1966 income must still file an estimate if they fall within the requirements, but they need not make a prepayment unless the tax computed at the 1966 rates would be $200 or more, Huff said.

TAXPAYERS who are required to make the prepayment will take a credit for the amount paid when they file their 1967 State income tax returns next April 15.

The statements being mailed to taxpayers will show the taxpayer's 1966 tax and the amount of prepayment due by Oct. 31.

Taxpayers who paid $200 or more in state income taxes last year and who do not receive a statement in the mail should contact the nearest office of the Franchise Tax Board.

Starlet prefers action behind camera

By PAT McDONNELL
Staff Writer

"You have to keep trying to break down doors or you'll never get anywhere in show business."

That's how pert Kelly Ross views her budding career as a film actress and producer.

She answered questions about the life of a starlet between takes on the stage set of "The Ice House," an independently produced film starring Scott Brady.

It was 7:30 p.m. The gracious honey blonde from Shreveport, La., had been at the Hollywood studio since 6 a.m. She would spend the remainder of the evening editing a film at another company where she is a fledgling producer.

When she isn't working in front of or behind a camera, Kelly likely is in Huntington Beach visiting her sister, Nancy, and brother-in-law, Billy Truax, star end of the Los Angeles Rams.

"I was bitten by the theater bug at an early age," said the 24-year-old actress.

"It was quite accidental, but Nancy and I both appeared in a movie when we were 11 and 13. Our parents had taken us on a trip and en route to Canada, we stopped in Jackson Hole, Wyo.

"Columbia Pictures was filming 'Jubal' there and a studio representative asked our parents if Nancy and I could be extras. The next two weeks were spent working on the film."

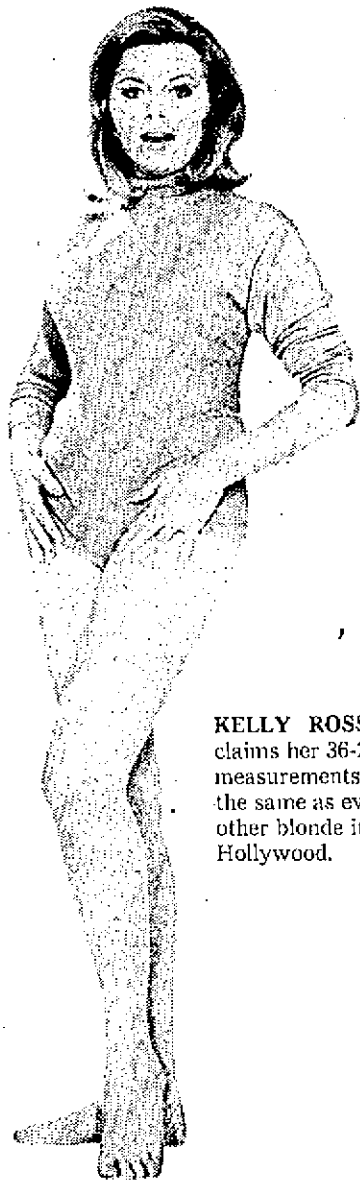

Studio officials were so impressed by the sisters they offered to send them to California to try out for parts in TV films.

"I was being considered for the role of Betty in 'Father Knows Best,'" Kelly recalled. "After a week in Hollywood, my father put his foot down. He said he wanted us to lead normal lives as teenagers, that we were too young to make the decision to work in movies."

"Believe me, that was a miserable return trip. Nancy and I cried all the way home to Shreveport."

After attending Louisiana State University for three years as an English major, Kelly decided in 1962 to try her luck on Broadway.

"I managed to get a job as a receptionist at NBC, met a lot of important people and made a pest of myself asking them how I could break into show business," she said.

"It doesn't matter who you know, you've got to follow through once the arrangements for an audition are made."

"If anything burns me, it's shopworn comments about morals of actresses. People who claim there's a shady way to succeed in show business ought to go through the struggles, rehearsals, long hours and disappointments. But then, they're probably stupid enough to try the bedroom route if they think that's what leads to stardom."

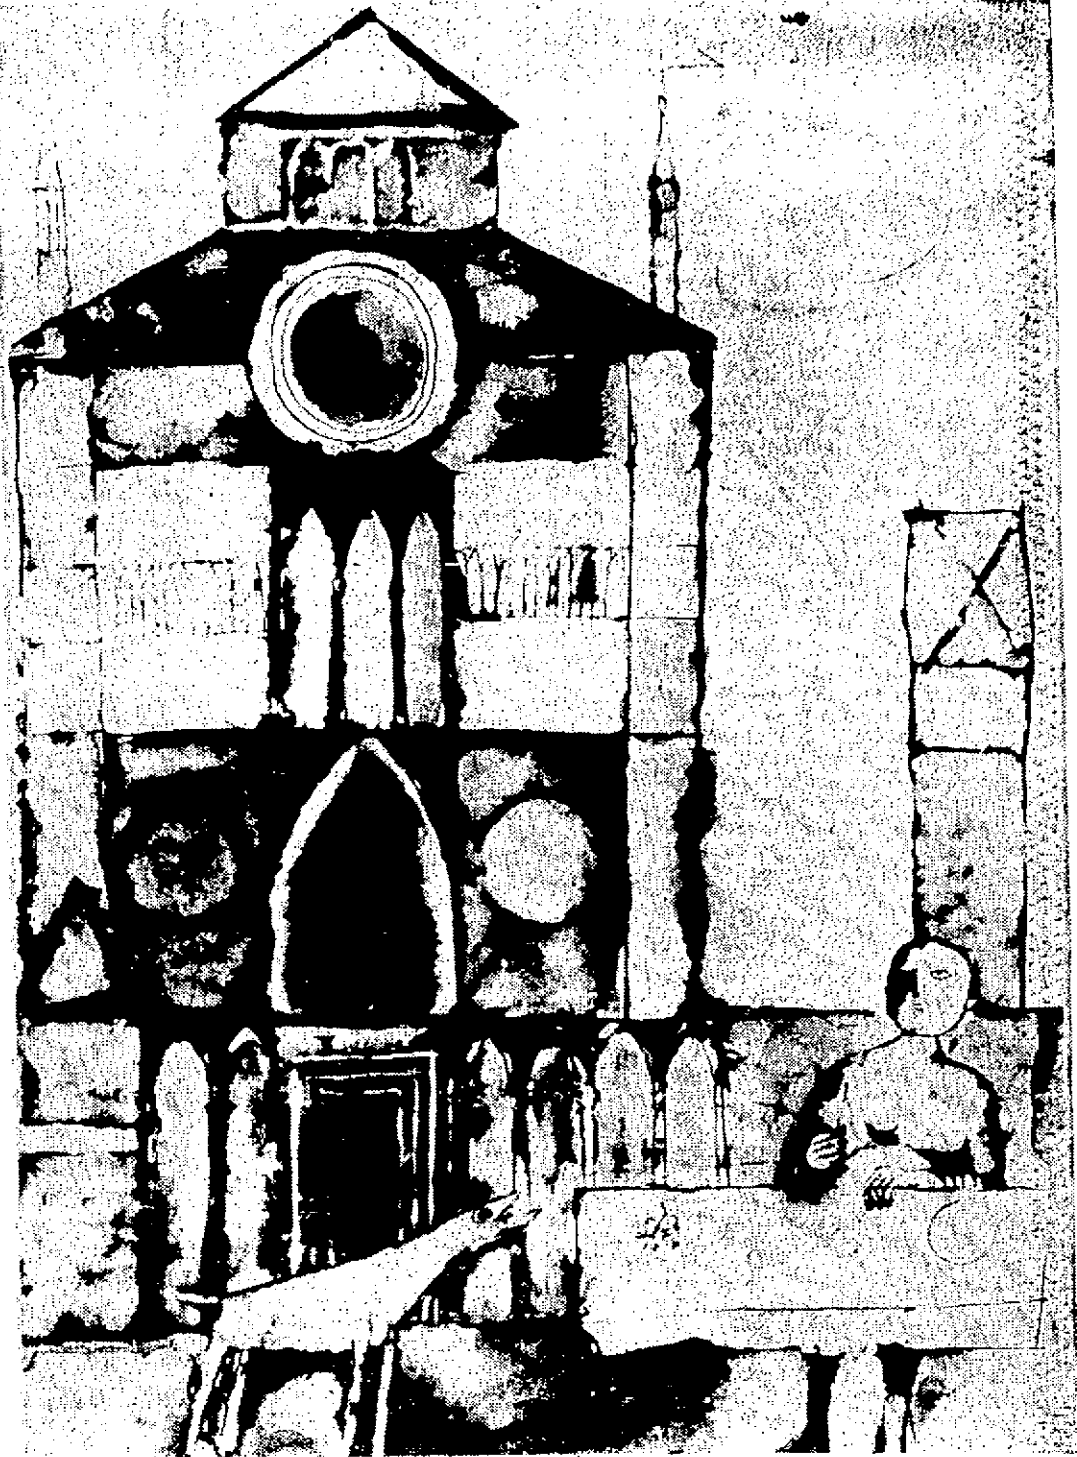

Kelly followed the advice she received, enrolled in an acting school and found a reputable agent who booked her as an actress for commercials.

In 1962 she appeared on several nationally televised commercials and found it a lucrative field paying as high as $800 a day.

"At first, as many as 60 girls audition for a job. It takes two to three weeks of eliminations before a final selection is made."

"One of the most difficult things was to lose my Southern drawl. Sometimes, I'd need a Scottish lilt

Festa Italiana art

"Cathedral" by artist Franco Gentilini is one of 47 fine reproductions on loan from the Smithsonian Institution to be exhibited at the fourth annual Festa Italiana Wednesday through next Sunday at the Hollywood Palladium.

More than 150,000 Southland residents are expected to attend the Festa to see displays and exhibits by some 75 exhibitors from all over the world. Many shows and special events are scheduled during the five-day exposition.

The art exhibit was prepared from a portfolio of prints collected by Garibaldi Marussi and published in Italy. It presents a broad perspective of developments in Italian art during the 20th century. Some of the artists included are Balla, Boccioni, Burri, Carra, Casorati, de Chirico, Gentilini, Manzu, Martini, Modigliani, Morandi, Santomaso, Sassu and Severini.

Festa Italiana was established in 1964 for the building fund of Casa Italiana, the Italian cultural center for the performing and visual arts in Los Angeles.

WILD WAVES SAY

Wheels of town—many on buses

By Iola Masterson
Society Editor

IN A GAY little red double-decker English bus, they tootled up the freeway to the Century Plaza. "They" are members of the Long Beach Auxiliary and Symphony Juniors to Southern California Symphony-Hollywood Bowl Association. If that title isn't a jawbreaker, I'll throw my hat right into that bowl.

Event was a benefit luncheon and fashion show attended by more than 400 members and guests. Only a fortunate 44 were able to be seated on the bus, with others going up by private car.

Cornelia (Mrs. John) Booth was bus chairman and I asked her how they arranged for the English vehicle. It is available for hire through Barbara Kronin at the Newport National Bank, Newport Beach. It costs—complete with driver—$12 an hour up to five hours and then $10 an hour for the balance of time used.

The dashing little double-decker import only goes 45 miles an hour so it's slow but lots of fun, she said. Among passengers were Linda (Mrs. Richard) Blanks, Diane (Mrs. Charles) Jenkins, Kathy (Mrs. Benjamin) Pierson, Shirley (Mrs. Don) Coscarelli, Betty (Mrs. Edgar) Hamer, Maryanne (Mrs. Gilbert) Reese, Margaret (Mrs. John) Kinzer and Beth (Mrs. Stewart) Sale.

Affair, which took place Tuesday, was co-chaired by Tabi (Mrs. Lewis) Dorgan for the seniors and by Peggy (Mrs. Gerald) Johnson for the juniors. Florence (Mrs. Stephen) Dodge had the big chore of handling reservations.

SEEMS TO BE THE week to leave the driving to those other guys. Ebell Juniors also got their freeway kicks on a charter bus trip to Greek Theater. They had cocktails and box lunches enroute so when they became involved in a giant traffic snarl they were unperturbed.

Unofficial host aboard was Bob Reid, husband of member Dottie Reid. Fred and Janet Holmsen were aboard, having come back from a cruise to Bermuda just in time to make trip. Good thing, too, because as cultural chairman she was mainly in charge.

Pre-party party was enjoyed at Ewing and Jerrie Turner's home, 3242 Rowena Drive, Rossmore. A few in the 50 on trek were Harry and Elaine Laughinghouse, Bob and Gay McKernie, Rich and Mary Lou Harrell, Tom and Pam Smith, Bernie and Vonda Frydman, Bob and Bev Carver, Steve and Louise Gantz, Norris and Lynn Idov and John and Alice Olson.

FOR THE PAST TWO weeks, days and nights have been packed with parties for popular Anne Barrows. Anne has just resigned her post as one of the top executive secretaries at the Independent Press-Telegram after 18 years on staff. She moved here 20 years ago from Carmel where she was with the USO during the war.

Anne and Rachel Morton, who have shared a home here for these many years, have purchased a new home in Carmel Valley and will move there as soon as their L.B. house is sold. Rachel, Anne's former music teacher and longtime friend of the Barrows' family, and Anne will both throw themselves back into an enjoyment of the arts in arty Carmel with new freedom from daily routine.

So, fare thee well, Annie, me-girl—paint, sculpt, sing and never look back, which may be hard because I know you consider the 18 years spent here among the most gratifying of your life.

SHADES OF UMPTEEN long ago! Betty (nee Woollores) Dupes and husband, Barney, have moved to Long Beach from New Cuyama, Calif. For Betty it's the first return to stay since she graduated from Poly High.

Lois and Odie Wright welcomed them with a dinner. Lois and Betty were classmates and the gals served back-to-back terms as president of Girls' League. Betty and Barney (he is a petroleum engineer working for Thums) are currently apartment dwelling at 1425 E. Ocean Blvd., but are looking around for a house to buy.

HOW DID THEY DO? Don't know, but heard that Keith and Clarion Drew, "Red" and Mary Whisenant and Joe and Frieda Bishop flew to San Juan, Puerto Rico, where the men played in an invitational golf tourney. The Bishops and Whisenants should be back as of now but the Drews planned to fly from Puerto Rico to Ireland for three weeks.

The Drews are vacationing with a happy heart because son, John, has just tacked up his new DDS diploma in his first dental office in Napa. He and wife, Carol, and two-year-old son, Chris, moved to their newly adopted city just two weeks ago.

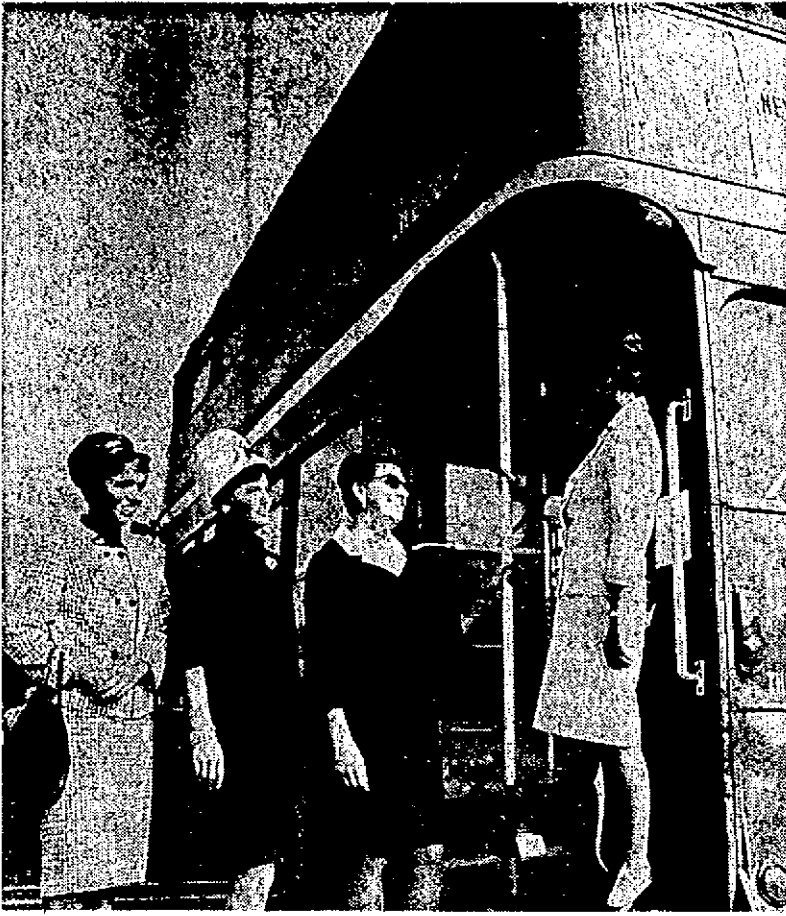

PREPARING TO tie off on their third major trip in four years are John and Marge Marks who will jet to the Orient Oct. 16 for six weeks.

Their daughter and son-in-law, Mary Ann and John Matthews of 3219 Conquistador Ave., gave them an early bon voyage this past week. An Oriental punch with the authority of Fu Manchu put everyone in a merry mood in a hurry. It was made by Mable Rydell, friend of the hosts and a guest of evening.

Among the 40 well wishers present were Carl and Netta Proche, Dorothy Updike, Verl and Norma Onken, Ed and Elva Sears, Rose Watson, Ed and Kathy Colfield, Dick and Bernice Arnold and Lowell and Oris Balderston.

"STUPID PLACE has 200 rooms," snorted Kitty Utterback. She was referring to a little "trinket" husband, Bob, bought for her during business trip to the east. He bought her what is reported to be the second oldest hotel in the United States near Cumberland, Md., in the area where he grew up.

It's a resort hotel more than 200 years old and is about nine miles between Harper's Ferry and Fort Necessity. It's known as Mountain Lake Park Resort, and legend has it that George Washington stayed there when he was a young colonel. On eight acres of land, it will require quite a bit of restoration.

When Bob visited his old stomping grounds he found the place for sale. Fearing someone would buy the land and tear down the hotel to make way for something new and glossy, sentiment got the best of him. When last I talked with Kitty, however, the only sentiment she felt had something to do with how to use a rolling pin.

THE SEISMOGRAPH thingamabob registered earthquake for several days in San Francisco recently. But the tremors subsided as soon as Ed and Betty McClendon left town. They were in the Bay City for a rendezvous with Thomas and Virginia Melin, formerly of Long Beach and now residents of Longview, Wash.

They really did the town, from Nob Hill to Fisherman's Wharf, so no wonder the city bounced. After S.F. Ed and Betty returned via Pebble Beach for a stay at Del Monte Lodge and lots of golf on surrounding courses.

AFTER 13 YEARS in the public relations department of National Broadcasting Company in Hollywood, Jane Ober (was Jane Westover when she lived here) decided to retire. She and husband, Phil, well known character actor in both television and movies, want to spend more time at their home in Puerto Vallarta. This home, incidentally, is directly adjacent to Liz Taylor and Richard Burton's place in an area known as "Gringo Gulch."

They'll divide their time between Vallarta and Guadalajara where they'll maintain an apartment to occupy when their resort home is leased to others.

JUST CALL Mara Graham "Ramblin' Rose." She left for Yugoslavia this week on what must be about her third extended global-type tour of the year. After revisiting her homeland she'll go to Vienna to meet Doug and together they'll go to London to celebrate their 34th wedding anniversary with friends.

On Oct. 31 they board the Queen Mary at Southampton for its final voyage around the Horn to Long Beach.

Karen Croissant wed to Gerald Deppe Jr.

Honeymooning at Lake Isabella, Big Sur and Carmel are Mr. and Mrs. Gerald T. Deppe Jr. (Karen L. Croissant) whose wedding took place Saturday in St. Barnabas Catholic Church.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl W. Croissant of 833 Gardenia Ave., the bride wore an off-white cotton and rayon A-line gown with train lined in magneta.

Matron of honor in magneta was Mrs. Robert Kay, while attendants, wearing orange, were Mrs. William Smitheran, Michael Herman and Janice Rose.

Tom Deppe was his brother's best man, and ushers were Tom Eagen, Ron Marshall and Michael Lavia. A niece and nephew of the bride, Debbie and Gordon Croissant, were flower girl and ring bearer.

THE RECEPTION, followed by a buffet luncheon, took place in the home of the bridegroom's parents, 4256 Rose Ave. The couple will be at home in Naples. The new Mrs. Deppe was graduated from Jordan High School, Long Beach City College where she was a member of Kassai, and California State College, Long Beach, where she affiliated with Sinawik.

The bridegroom was graduated from St. Anthony's High School and attended LBCC and CSLE where he was a member of the crew team.

Shopping the town

Hill Let me introduce myself through this column of helpful shopping hints. I hope that my shopping can be of real help to you in your needs and wants, and that you'll join me here every Sunday. Let's shop the town.

Ronnie Bell tells me "it isn't rude to call it nude." You may also call it unfinished furniture, but whatever you call it, Bell's Bixby Knolls Furniture Co. has 8500 square feet of space filled with it. The attractive shop at 3855 Atlantic, Long Beach, has all kinds of interesting pieces, including pool and patio furniture, plus a new line of Holland wall system imports. A do-it-yourselfer's paradise, Bell's will deliver with a smile.

Giddy and gaudy, wild and wonderful, are just a few of my words for the Sebica of California shoes at Serhan-Jacobs Shoe Fashions, 5016 E. Second, Belmont Shore, and 2106 Bellflower Blvd. They really tickle the toes. Of course, Serhan-Jacobs also has a wide variety of ALL the very latest shoe styles.

Faraway places with strange sounding names sound like a song, but it's really Los Altos Travel Service, 3314 E. Seventh St. Actually, as I found in arranging a little trip to Las Vegas, it doesn't have to be far. Jo Maes Knorr will plan your trip for you in toto, whether it be to Tahiti or Mars. [My brother-in-law lives in Mars.] Call 439-0251 when you're thinking about your next trip.

There's a real art exhibit in the glorious gallery of fabrics on display at Fashion Fabrics, 5009 Hazelbrook, Lakewood Center. I saw many beautiful woolsens in stripes, plaids and solids, perfect for fall sewing. And there's more than a little wow in the uninhibited colors in prints.

Our pool has really gotten a workout this summer, and I'll wager yours has, too. For professional care at a realistic price, call Tradewind Pools. This growing young outfit with the enthusiasm of youth will keep your pool blue and happy, as important in winter as in summer. Call John Borrego, TE 5-8869, or George Smith, GA 7-7171.

Everyone's up in the air these days—flying, that is. How about you? Sky Riders Unlimited, 2700 E. Wardlow Rd., Long Beach, would like to put you in the pilot's seat. Their school has been in operation for two years and has six qualified instructors. If you want to fly through the air with the greatest of ease, talk to one of the birdmen there.

Contemporary greeting cards are one of my minor vices. I spend hours selecting just the right ones. I picked up a batch the other day at Tuttle's Cameras, where they really stock a complete line. Of course their real business is cameras, but I found myself intrigued with The Hallmark Editions, a new line of books that range from the inspirational to the humorous. Stop in at 5025 E. Second St. for all your party goods, too.

Do you know the new auto insurance laws? There've been some changes made that will affect many of us. Basic liability limits are up, and you should be up on what they mean. I talked to Paul Worthington of Worthington-Wright Agency, 5230 Clark Ave., Lakewood; about this, and he'll be happy to help you, too. Phone 425-1201.

Color television requires tender, loving care to show it like it really is. If your set is suffering from internal or internal problems, trust it to Allegro Electronics, 5259 E. Second St. If you don't have a color set, let Bill Pitman show you what you're missing.

Buy a part of your community. I truly believe that every single person in the community receives countless dividends from the United Crusade; directly or indirectly, you are affected. So when your block worker comes by, greet her with a smile and an open purse.

And that's fini for today. Hope it's been helpful, and I'll be with you again next week. If I can be of any help to you, call me at HE 5-1161, Ext. 249.

MOLLY MAYFIELD

What are shy girls to do?

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD: "What did you do Saturday night?" Mary and I hear that question often and we never have an answer. We don't do anything on Saturday nights! Neither of us have ever had a date.

We're both 16, not too unattractive, but very shy. We each have a certain guy we'd like to know better but they don't make a move to get better acquainted.

It all seems so hopeless. What are we doing wrong? Do girls have to make the first move? And how can a shy girl do that?

DEPRESSED

DEAR DEPRESSED: Being 16 and not dating is, I know, somewhat of a major disaster, but you can find something to do on Saturday nights.

Movies, bowling, and skating are just a few activities where girls do not need dates. And, besides, it's such a good way to meet people.

I've seen kids around soft drink and hamburger stands. Everyone talks to everyone else and they seem to be having a ball.

Maybe these "certain guys" aren't too interested by I'll bet there are others who would be, if you'd let them.

M.M.

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD: We live on a block where the neighbors are all "senior citizens." I guess it's the wrong place for us because there are seven kids in our family and I suppose we are pretty noisy. I hear we irritate these old people — two old ladies in particular.

We had pigeons that we kept on the roof. The first thing we knew, the Health Department ordered us to get rid of them. The old ladies had complained.

Then we had to get rid of our dog because he barked. You know as well as I do dogs will bark, but these ladies said our dog was "disturbing" them, so the dog had to go.

We don't want people mad at us, but can't we act like kids without getting everyone down on us? It's getting so we can't do anything without getting jumped on. Is there any solution? TEEN-AGERS

DEAR TEEN-AGERS: It's unfortunate your parents saw fit to move into this neighborhood. Oldsters tend to forget their own childhood and become impatient when their peace and quiet is disturbed.

There are rules covering dogs and pigeons and the ladies obviously were within their rights when they complained. Not only "old ladies" make these complaints, you know.

Abide by the rules and try to tone down your exuberance. Get on the "good side" of these ladies by doing favors and little odd jobs and maybe they'll be a little more lenient.

M.M.

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD: My mother reads my mail, goes through my purses and my dresser drawers. She's always telling me that she "trusts" me, but does it sound like it to you?

I'm 15 and I tell Mom almost everything but I do have a few secrets. Sometimes she'll find a letter or note about something I've kept to myself and she gets real mad — like I'd done something wrong.

Well, I think she's the one who did something wrong — snooping in my private things!

What's your opinion. Don't I have a right to a few secrets and a little bit of privacy?

MISERABLE

DEAR MISERABLE: Everyone has a right to some privacy — and that includes you. Whether your mother trusts you or not, snooping is out.

I doubt if you're as angelic as you'd like me to believe, but nevertheless, you do have a point.

DEAR ABBY

It's John's move to make peace

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
DEAR ABBY:

I went with John (fake name) for four years and my mother hated him. In fact she told me she would rather see me dead than married to John. Well, when I became of age I married John against my mother's wishes and you should have heard the terrible things she said about him. I couldn't even put them in this letter. She did her best to ruin his reputation.

Now that we are going to have a baby my mother is trying to make up with John. John says he will never set foot in her house and if she wants to see me or the baby she will have to come here during the day time while he is not at home. My mother even wanted to have a birthday party for me, and John said I could go if I wanted to, but he wasn't going. What can I do, Abby? I can't blame John for feeling the way he does, but she is still my mother and this is making it awfully hard on me.

JOHN'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE:
If in time John finds it in his heart to make peace with your mother — and I hope he does, fine. But until he does, continue to see your mother while John's at work.

DEAR ABBY:
I feel so silly — a grown woman with three children asking for help with this problem, but here goes. I have a sister who brings her friends to my home to give them what she laughingly calls "The 50-Cent Tour."

I wouldn't mind so much if only she would give me a little notice, but she has brought people over here as early as 9 in the morning when my beds are unmade and I'm looking a wreck, sorting laundry.

I do have a nice home,

Abby, but it's not always in condition for inspection. Don't you think my sister should give me a chance to fix it up before showing it off? How can I get this across to her without getting her angry with me?

DROPPED IN ON
DEAR DROPPED:

You sound like the type who would greet unwelcome guests at the door with a big smile and open arms, and then wonder why they continue to drop in on you. If you haven't told your sister to PLEASE call in advance so you can set a mutually convenient time for her "50-cent tour," I suggest that you put in your two cents.

DEAR ABBY:
My son is 11 years old. He is a very shy and protected child. He sleeps in the same room with his 10-year-old sister, and I tuck them both into bed every night.

The boy knows nothing of the facts of life and I think it is time he was told. Shouldn't his father be the one to tell him? I will be glad to help the girl when the time comes, but I think a father should tell his son. His father says the boy is much too young to have his head filled with things like that and to give him time yet. How much time should I give him? WORRIED

DEAR WORRIED:
First, about your sleeping arrangements. Your son should have his privacy and your daughter hers. Even if one of them has to sleep in the kitchen or the hall — or on the floor.

It doesn't matter who tells a boy (or girl) the facts of life as long as they are told as soon as they become curious. Try to cultivate a relaxed family atmosphere so that if either of your children has a question he will not hesitate to ask. (P.S. And tell your husband to hurry with his "facts" or it will be like giving a fish a bath.)

Preparing fall show at Knott's

Take an old fashioned background and place in it modern day fashions and you have a contrast to remember. With that thought in mind, Young Sophisticates Women's Club selected Knott's Berry Farm for its show Saturday noon.

After luncheon in the Garden Room, members will model fashions from evening to maternity wear. Models include Mmes. Mitchell Rouse and William Misner, Long Beach; Harvey Fischer, La Mirada and Kay Delcours and Peter Russell, Huntington Beach. Mrs. Bruce Mason of Costa Mesa will commentate.

Further information about reservations may be made with Mrs. John Stevenson, chairman, 1357 E. 23rd St., Jack Robertson and Allan Molloy, Long Beach; Nels Truelson, Cypress, and Delcours, Huntington Beach.

Later this month Young Sophisticates will embark on a project to aid the Kidney Foundation. Members will sell Halloween hand puppets filled with candy. Proceeds are earmarked for research grants and dialysis programs of the foundation. The club points out that treatments using the artificial kidney is a minimum of $15,000 a year per patient.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fishbeck, 4858 Canemill St., Lakewood, wore a Chantilly lace gown with chapel train.

Her maid of honor was Patricia Young, and attendants were Mrs. Donald Dunn, Mrs. Crawford Hutchenson and Nancy Stratton.

Thomas Corbett was the bridegroom's best man, while ushers included Thomas Van Deusen, Philip Lambert, William Colling, Mark Colling and Ralph Rodgers.

After a reception in American Legion Post 496, the couple departed for Balboa.

Both were graduated from Lakewood High School. The bride was graduated from Long Beach City College. Son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene V. Colling, 11251 Kelly Lane, Los Alamitos, the bridegroom attended California State College, Long Beach.

Wife wins first place; mother-in-law is second

LONDON (AP) — Who is right — the wife or the mother-in-law?

The age-old battle flared in Britain again last weekend. A bridegroom called off his wedding only a few hours before the ceremony Saturday because he said the bride's mother insisted on picking his best man.

And a Roman Catholic priest ruled that in clashes between wife and mother, a husband must always take his wife's side. David Powis, 24, an insurance agent of Ditton Priors, Shropshire, was the man who decided he wouldn't have his future mother-in-law "stage-managing the whole affair."

Just before he was due to go the local Anglican Parish clerk Dorothy Childs, 20, he called the whole thing off.

"I know mothers-in-law are notoriously difficult to get on with, but there's a principle involved here," said Powis. "I wanted a pal as my best man and wanted to draw lots between four of the lads at the office. She wanted her son-in-law to do it."

Mary Childs, the bride's mother, denied she stage-managed everything. "When I asked him who his best man should be, he said he'd not really thought about it."

DAVID and Dorothy will meet in a week to talk it over.

In a parish letter, the Rev. Joseph Jones, Roman Catholic priest at Southwell, Nottinghamshire, told his parishioners: "The mother must go if someone has to go. The mother must be silenced if someone must be silenced."

Father Jones, who is 34, wrote in his weekly parish bulletin: "Man's wife comes first, after God, until death. This is in accord with the solemn oath the young man took on the day of his marriage. He made no such promise to his mother."

"A son's first obligation after marriage is to his wife. A wise mother recognizes this and does not set herself up in competition with her daughter-in-law for the affection of her son."

JACOBY Falsecard is too revealing

Earlier this week we gave an example of an obligatory falsecard by a defender. Of course, no one twists his arm to make him falsecard but the situation is such that he can't lose and can gain if he falsecards.

South is in a normal three no-trump contract and is delighted with the spade opening. He can't do any finessing in that suit but he does have it stopped three times.

He is an inveterate falsecarder and wins East's nine with his ace. Then he tries the diamond finesse. It loses and East stops to think.

South waits nervously and is upset when East plays the five of hearts. He is even more upset when his king loses to West's ace and the defense rattles off five heart tricks.

South complains about bad luck and points out to all and sundry that he has to be the unluckiest bridge player in the world. All his finesses lose.

But we must credit South with helping his own downfall.

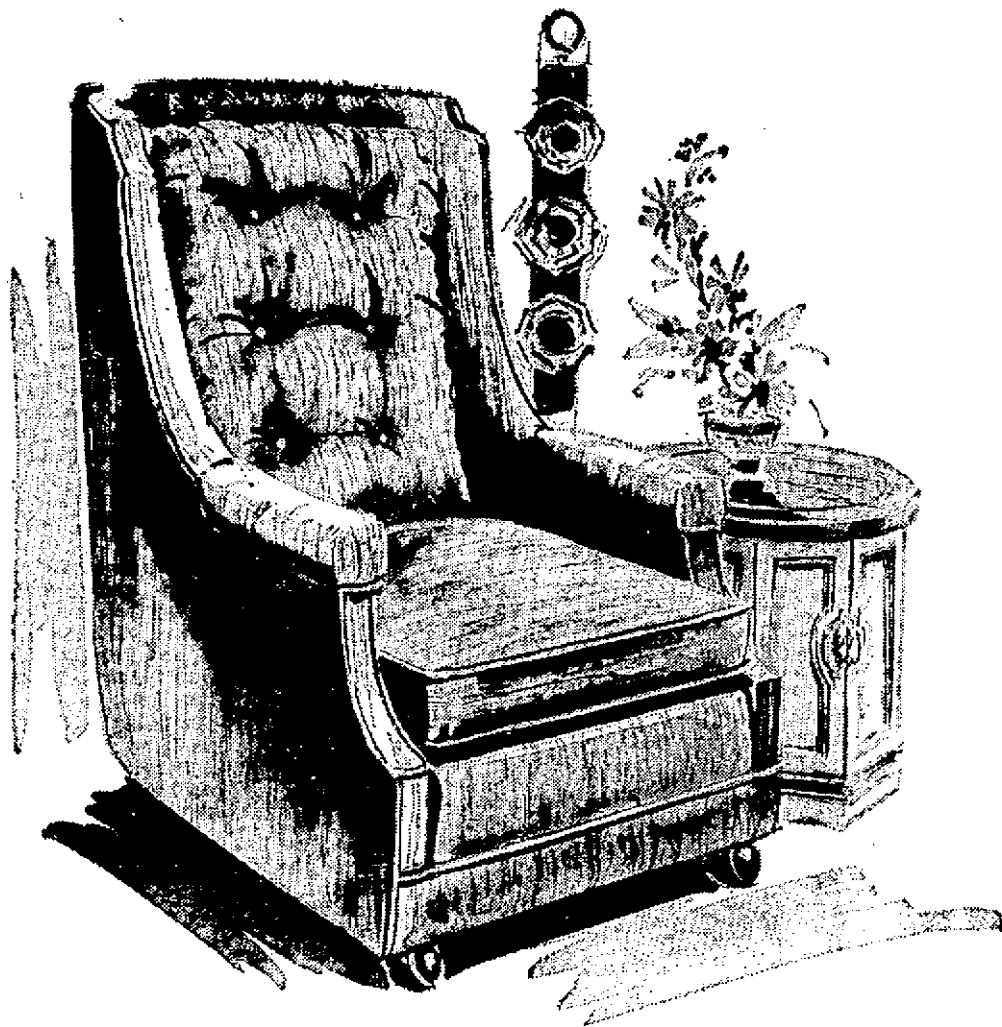

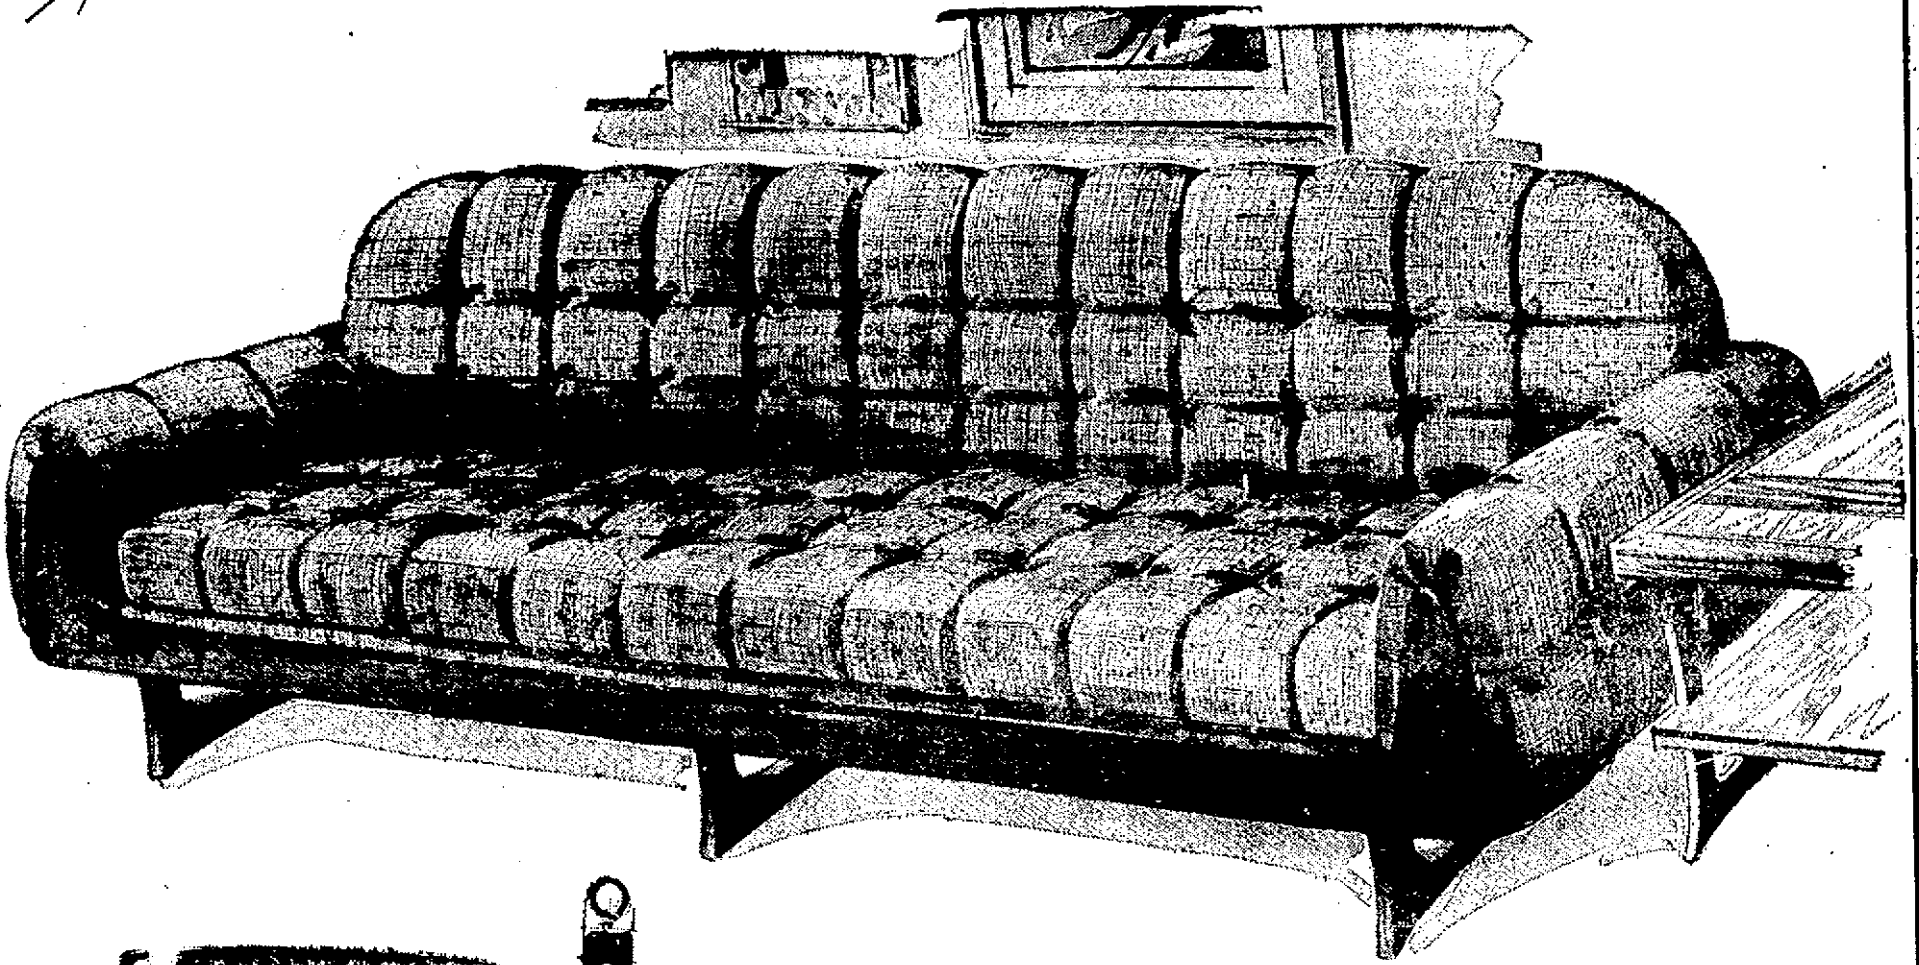

South should have won the first spade with the queen. When he won with the ace he drew a diagram for East. East knew that his partner didn't hold king, queen and jack. Therefore South's ace play marked him with the king. Hence East looked for greener pastures.

Wilson cited for superior art in exhibit

Friday morning in school assembly James Milroy, head of the art department, accepted a proud honor for Wilson High School.

Mrs. Dorothy Buerger, supervisor of art for Long Beach Unified School District, presented a citation which the school won for superior work in the 1967 National High School Art Exhibition sponsored by Scholastic Magazines, Inc. This is the 41st year that the Scholastic Art Awards have been made. Only two Long Beach students have won national honors — both were Milroy's students.

Bob Goudy, a Wilson graduate of 1965, won a special cash award donated by Hallmark Cards in the competition.

In her senior year this spring, Cheryl West had the second highest number of winners in Scholastic's regional contest which included the six Southern California counties. She entered in eight categories, competing with 200,000 entries. All of her work won awards and three went on to national competition.

Two of these won awards.

Because of her excellent high school record, Cheryl was offered full scholarships by Carnegie Institute of Technology and by UCLA. She accepted the latter.

FRIDAY, after presentation of the citation which noted "that this important national honor was won by the school in competition with thousands of secondary schools across the country," Milroy said, "It's nice to have something like this happen when you work hard."

When his last class of the day left his room, Milroy looked around at the neatly placed paint pots, the cleaned brushes, drawings, paintings, chalkboard demonstrations, and talked of his 21 years as an art teacher.

"You have to use evocative techniques," he said.

"You try to raise the level of each student, to evoke class spirit. Enthusiasm is the biggest weapon in the art teacher's arsenal."

"TEACHING art is teach-

'I PRIZE THE UNIQUENESS OF THE INDIVIDUAL'

ing new perceptions, new ways of seeing things, freeing students from hide-bound attitudes. Some very talented students are in a rut. The art teacher must spring them out.

"Maybe it's by encouraging them to use more color or trying different techniques — cubism, surrealism, impressionism, expressionism. There have been so many changes in art in the past 100 years!"

On his last sabbatical, Milroy, with his artist wife and son, then a high school student, went to Europe. They bought a camper and spent a year driving 25,000 miles, visiting art galleries and museums constantly. Milroy is a working artist.

"YOU HAVE to be to teach," he said. "I can show students 15 totally different ways to draw the human figure. When a student has a problem, I can show him directly, explicitly how to work not just explain the theory."

Boys tend to be a little more dynamic in their painting, the teacher noted. "But you can't generalize; some girls paint boldly. Attitudes have changed in the last 10 years. Boys used to be a bit ashamed to take an art class. To ease their feelings, sometimes they would pick on me — make slighting remarks. But not today. Today the galleries are full of people; people are interested in art as never before in this country."

'TEACHING ART IS TEACHING NEW PRECEPTS'

ART IS HIS subject but not Milroy's main concern.

"I prize most the uniqueness of the individual. I pry into the students' own selves to find their personalities, to help each discover his own capabilities. Some are withdrawn; some are pain-in-the-neck extroverts, but I don't mind."

"Art is a form of therapy. For teen-agers there is stability and security in being able to express themselves through art. They develop flexible attitudes, more understanding, broader appreciation of man from his cave days to today. They learn to discriminate. Even if they never paint again, their enjoyment of simple things is increased. They learn to communicate.

"I try to reach every student, not just the outstanding ones. There are many lonely kids from lonely homes today. I want my students to get involved and to look back on this as a happy time in their lives."

Milroy looks on his years of teaching as "strenuous fun."

"I've had hundreds of hours of wonderful satisfaction teaching art. Of course, you have to like kids. I love them. I love people!" — ELISE EMERY

'Be proud of California artists!'

By ELISE EMERY
Arts Page Editor

On exhibit at California State College at Long Beach through Oct. 15 is the Lytton Collection of California Contemporary Art.

Concurrently, at Lytton Center of the Visual Arts, where it will run through November, is "California Art Festival." The center is located at 8150 Sunset Blvd., Los Angeles.

For this exhibit, Bart Lytton, financier, art patron and founder of the center, borrowed more than 70 works from 38 museums and university art galleries throughout the United States. They represent the scope and character of paintings and sculpture by Californians.

Said Lytton, "For years I have been an advocate of an attitude: That contemporary art by California artists is as fine as can be found anywhere in the world, and that we who live in this lively State ought to go to great lengths to recognize the contributions our artists make to our lives."

Art historian and author Irving Stone wrote in the exhibit's catalogue, "Mr. Lytton believes that California should know about and be proud of its creators in the arts. He feels that the people of California are perhaps not sufficiently informed as to what an enormous impact California artists have made on the rest of our country. He therefore conceived the idea of writing to every important art museum in America and to all of the galleries attached to our universities to find out just how well represented California artists might be in America's major collections.

"The results were staggering. Some 472 pieces of painting and sculpture created by California artists are in the finest museums of America."

Admission is free to Lytton Center. Hours are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Mondays through Thursdays and until 6 p.m. Fridays.

DALLAS CONKLIN, president of the Museum Association, will be the first speaker for the American Association of University Women's lecture season.

Tuesday at 10 a.m. coffee will be served at the museum, 2300 E. Ocean Blvd., and at 10:30 a.m.

Miss Conklin will talk on "Adventures With Arts." The public is invited; there is no admission charge.

FRIENDS of the Long Beach Museum of Art announce openings in fall art classes to be held at the museum Oct. 16 through Feb. 3.

As in the past, Mrs. Doris Ballou will conduct the children's workshop with classes for youngsters from 6 to 12 years of age on Saturdays and for pre-schoolers on Tuesdays from 10 to 11 a.m.

Instructor for the newly-formed adults' workshop will be Faith Zink Porter. Classes will include drawing and painting, creative stitching and the art of glass.

Brochures and registration forms are available at all branches of the Long Beach Public Library or by calling the museum.

A PUBLIC reception today from 4 to 6 p.m. at Gallery Carnot, 142 Main St., Seal Beach, will introduce Israeli artist Rachel Miller and her work.

Mrs. Miller, currently working on her master's degree in ceramics at USC, came to this country to study art in 1959. She studied first at the Boston Museum of Art, then enrolled in Chouinard Art Institute in 1962, receiving her B.A. in 1965. She will return to Israel to work and teach when she completes requirements for her degree. Her work was exhibited earlier this year at Fleischer-Anhalt Gallery, Los Angeles and her ceramics are in private collections in Los Angeles, Pasadena and Santa Barbara.

TWO LONG BEACH women have had work accepted for the traveling exhibit of the California National Water Color Society which will tour for one year.

Lenore Stribley, who studies with Fran Soldini and is a member of Long Beach Art Association, has done a collage, "Barcelona."

Virginia Cords' semi-figurative painting is titled "The Star-Makers." She received her B.A. in art this year at California State College, Long Beach.

Downey introduces Spanish artist's work

By VIRGINIA LADDEY

The distinctive works of leading Spanish artist Francisco Ferreras are having their West Coast debut at the Downey Museum of Art until Oct. 29.

Ferreras was introduced to the American public by his huge collage mural in the Spanish Pavilion at the New York World's Fair, 1964-65. Since, shows in New York and Canada have added to his exposure in Europe.

These collages on plywood are unlike any done locally, though his shapes and earth hues are closely related to others of the modern Spanish school. Unlike his countrymen, however, Ferreras does not use the heavy grained impastos, the bold graffiti.

APPLICATION of torn, burned, or crushed papers is done with such technical perfection that they weld to the wood base completely.

From rich, somber depths of browns and blacks, overlays of papers and tissues glow. The surface is ambivalent, vacillating from the flat two-dimensional to the third in front of the viewer's eyes.

Both background and papers are stained and painted. The abstract forms mysteriously suggest visual forms. Each work is organically symmetrical, that is, it is bifurcated, but the two sides are not mirror images.

TOP LAYERS are "painting" in white tissues which are crushed, pleated, shredded, and laid on like wraiths of smoke. Amazingly, this frail device achieves dynamic movement.

Viewing hours in the three galleries are from one to five p.m., Tuesdays through Sundays, at 10419 S. Rives Ave. (Furnan Park), Downey.

LBCC film bills begin this week

Long Beach City College's 1967-68 International Series of film-lectures opens this week with "Russia, Union of Ethnic Extremes" scheduled at five high school auditoriums. Narrator is Clay Francisco.

Starting at 8 p.m. Monday in Wilson auditorium, the program will be repeated Tuesday at Jordan, Wednesday at Millikan, Thursday at Polytechnic and Friday at Lakewood High School.

Season tickets will be available at the box office each night or daily at the Forums office on the Business and Technology Campus, 1305 E. Pacific Coast Highway.

Other film-lectures in the 1967-68 series will explore South Vietnam, Norway and Spitzbergen, the Mediterranean, Lebanon, Mexico and the Philippines.

FIEDLER, VERSATILE CONDUCTOR

Everyone listens to him!

Arthur Fiedler, who will conduct the Yomiuri Nippon Symphony Orchestra Tuesday evening in the Convention Hall of Municipal Auditorium, can conduct a fine performance of classics or popular hits, as the worldwide demand for his recordings with the Boston Pops proves.

Explaining this, the great conductor once said, "A Strauss waltz is as good a thing of its kind as a Beethoven symphony. It's nice to eat a good chunk of beef, but you want a slice of light dessert, too."

The Long Beach concert, beginning at 8 p.m. will combine both kinds of music. Compositions by Rossini, Chopin, Prokofiev, Offenbach and Leonard Bernstein are on the program.

John Collins Bossidy gave his famous toast, "And this is good old Boston, the home of the bean and the cod, where the Lovells talk only to Cabots and the Cabots talk only to God," in 1915, before Fiedler, with his spectacular success as a conductor became the person everyone in Boston speaks — and listens — to.

The great maestro has conducted all the great orchestras of the world and he is the only native Bostonian ever to conduct the Boston Symphony Orchestra.

ON AUG. 25, 1965, in the year of his 50th anniversary as a member of the Boston Symphony, Fiedler visited Japan to guest conduct the Yomiuri Nippon Symphony Orchestra. Previously, he had conducted the Tokyo Radio Orchestra and the Tokyo Symphony Orchestra.

ARTHUR FIEDLER

The Yomiuri Symphony of 100 first-rank male musicians was formed in 1962, backed financially by the major mass communication organizations — the Yomiuri Shimbun (Japan's largest newspaper), the Nippon Television Network and the Yomiuri Television Company.

Fiedler was so impressed by the orchestra when he directed it in nine concerts in 1965 that he suggested this debut tour to the United States. A young Japanese pianist, Miss Hiro Imamura, is soloist.

THE UNITED STATES tour began last Sunday in San Francisco. Today the orchestra plays in Fresno, Monday it will perform in Bakersfield, arriving in Long Beach Tuesday. It will go to San Diego Wednesday, then leave the state for other engagements. Its next California performance will be Nov. 23, Thanksgiving Day, in Los Angeles Music Center where prices will be appreciably higher than they are for the Long Beach concert. The identical program will be played at all concerts.

Tickets for the Tuesday performance, ranging from $2 to $5, now are on sale at the auditorium box office. Hours today are from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m., Monday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. and Tuesday from 10 a.m. to curtain time.

They also are available at the Symphony Association office, 121 Linden Ave.; Humphrey's Music Store, Wallichs Music City, Herons Sportsweat in Seal Beach and at mutual agencies.

Knotty problems wait closing of Expo 67

By FRED TAYLOR KRAFT
Travel Editor

MONTREAL — Expo 67, probably the greatest world's fair ever conceived, will close its gates forever Oct. 29, but the job of the far-seeing Canadians who conceived it will not be finished.

First, they must then pay off a $150-million deficit; second, decide what is to be done with the 1,000-acre site only a few blocks from the shiny steel-and-glass towers that have changed the face of this — Canada's biggest — downtown complex during the last five years; and third, transform the area into something that will do the 2.5 million inhabitants of metropolitan Montreal the most good.

Zooming into this "Little Bit of France" on an Air Canada DC-8 jetliner inaugurating service from Los Angeles, I discovered that most Canadians, while still flocking to the fair in droves, already are thinking of their biggest show yet in retrospect.

Expo is something to tell their grandchildren about, but what's next?

THE CANADIAN government will pay 50 per cent of the deficit, the Province of Quebec, 37½ per cent, and the municipality of Montreal, 12½ per cent.

Nobody knows yet what will be done with the site, on which $10 million was spent on landscaping alone; but all agree that something pretty special must come of it.

Some think it should become a giant park that would leave an indelible imprint in the memory of visitors and at the same time be highly functional to residents. However, Montreal already has 240 parks, more than any other city in North America except Washington, D.C.

Others believe the site should accommodate a new institution of higher learning, but opponents of the idea point out that the city already has two fine universities.

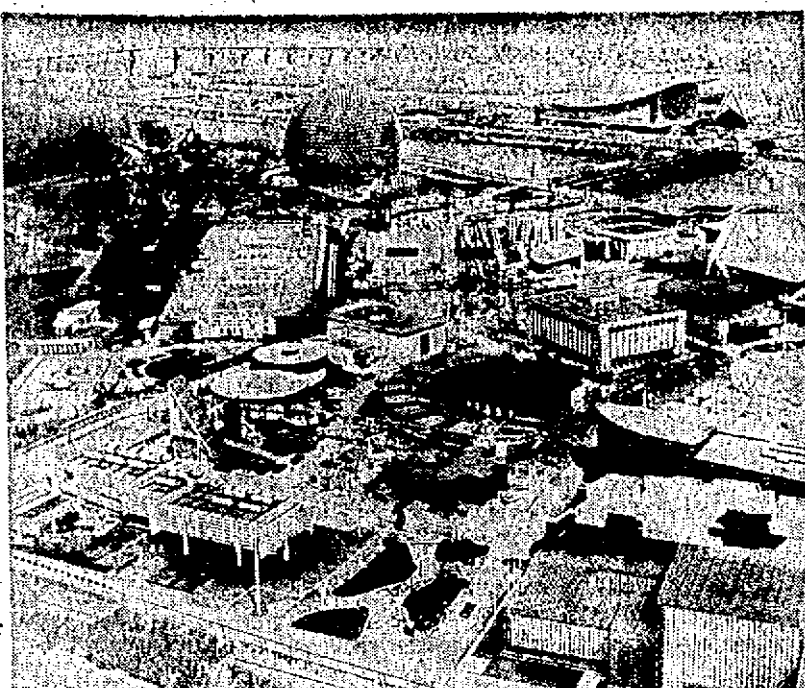

What else, then? Should the land be sold to pay off the deficit? That, some say, would depend on who wished to buy it and what they planned to do with it.

"We'll think of something," said one confident official.

UP TO LAST weekend (when I was here) Expo had attracted 43 million visitors, about half of them Americans. But a city-wide transportation strike was running Expo in the red at the rate of $1 million a week, the concessionaires $3 million or more. On Sept. 28 attendance hit a new low of 108,490 compared with 560,000 on April 28, the second day the big exposition was open.

My first day at Expo was enough to convince me that not a single good thing I had heard from Americans about the fair was over-enthusiasm, or from Canadians a grandiose delusion. It is simply tremendous, an experience of a lifetime. It would take a solid week to savor all of it, with the theme "Man and His World" carried out beautifully throughout, including the 100 pavilions.

In these closing days, Montreal residents are returning time and again to ride the miles of monorails and La Ballades, as the trailer trains are called, view the countless wonders, and eat hot dogs and cotton candy.

CENTER OF interest for most visitors from the States is, of course, the controversial $16 million American Pavilion whose great geodesic dome practically dominates the exposition. Among other things it shows off the Gemini and Apollo spacecraft and how they operated, but most U.S. visitors like it because it identifies itself in a nostalgic way with their individual past. As a past-middle-aged South Dakotan expressed it to me:

"It definitely has something that is the America I have always known. At every turn I am reminded of a pleasant experience in my life. This is important to me, especially at a fair outside of my own country."

The American Pavilion, in contrast with the Soviet and French pavilions in particular, makes no attempt at the hard sell. It is light, airy and refreshing, perhaps too much so to those who disgustedly call it trivial.

In a final gesture of friendship, the U.S. has deeded the pavilion to the city of Montreal for $1.

AS A CITY, Montreal has much to attract visitors besides now being one of Air Canada's two gateways (with Toronto) to Europe. A stopover permits visits to outstanding museums that tie in with some fascinating chapters in U.S. history while telling the story of Canada, fine theaters, superb restaurants, elegant boutiques and department stores. Montreal's fame as the center of Canadian fashions is reflected in store windows. Her streets are sparkling clean and her people — 65 per cent French — as friendly as you'll find anywhere.

French food predominates at the restaurants, although every taste can be sated. One of the truly fine French restaurants is Au-herge Le Vieux Saint-Gabriel. Founded in 1642, it claims to be the oldest inn in North America. Certainly it revives the area's French atmosphere of a century ago, about the time that John Wilkes Booth brooded over one of its tables, planning the assassination of Abraham Lincoln.

I was impressed, too, with the view from the windows of Altitude 737, a restaurant 737 feet above the street on the top — 47th — floor of Montreal's tallest building, Place Victoria. On a clear day, my hosts told me, you can see as far as Vermont and Upper New York, more than 50 miles away.

ON MY return flight from Montreal, I gazed down on America at the change of seasons. As our big bird hurtled over the Rockies, where aspen trees are turning the higher slopes into a patchwork of gold, I was handed a menu of the airline's famed Connoisseur Service offering pheasant consommé, lobster, breast of chicken or roast beef carved to my taste; a choice of vegetables, a salad mixed on a serving trolley at my side, imported wines, and a wide assortment of pastries, cheeses, coffee and liqueurs.

By the time my tray had been cleared we had left the Grand Canyon and the Colorado River behind and were descending into Los Angeles International Airport.

It had been a good trip.

She'd rather be producer than actress to my voice, other times it was necessary to speak in Bostonian tones.

It was due to the Los Angeles Rams that Kelly decided to try her luck in Hollywood. When the Truaxes moved to California in fall of 1964, Kelly decided to visit them.

Two days after her arrival, she swaggered into a studio which was casting the feminine lead in TV's F Troop series.

"The room was filled with little 'dainties' waiting their turn for an interview," she said. "I'd dressed in levis, a checkered shirt, boots, a holster and two guns.

"When it came my turn, I propped my feet on the producer's desk and in my broadest Louisiana accent told him how Grandma had been a personal friend of Calmity Jane.

"At least my act got me a chance to be one of four to audition for the part the next day," she said. "But I didn't make it."

"I still was smarting over the disappointment of not getting the TV job," she said. "In 1965, I decided I'd make it in Hollywood or bust."

Her second attempt was more successful after she auditioned and was accepted by Film Industry Workshop at Columbia Pictures. This led to parts in numerous films, including "Hurry Sundown," starring Jane Fonda and Michael Caine.

"I learned a lesson from 'Hurry Sundown,'" she grimaced. "You work in a major production, tell all your friends, they go to see you in the movie and you learn the film editor has neatly chopped you out of everything."

What does she think are the qualities that make a good actress?

"Compassion, the ability not only to understand, but FEEL another person's problems, tragedies and happinesses," she replied.

"I don't think beauty has a thing to do with it. Sure there are glamor girl personalities, but to endure, be more than a fad, an actress has to have that down-to-earth quality.

"This is something I'm fighting like mad. Everyday, a new 17-year-old, who's prettier and maybe more talented than me, gets off a bus in Hollywood.

Rather than wage war against an anonymous army of beautiful 17-year-olds, Kelly accepted the more stimulating challenge of making a name for herself as a producer and formed a company last August.

Bewitching plans underway for Playhouse banquet

Miss Agnes Moorehead is to be the guest of honor at 11th annual awards banquet of the Long Beach Community Players at 7 p.m. next Sunday at Petroleum Club, 3636 Linden Ave. Members, patrons and friends of the Playhouse are invited. Agnes Moorehead has achieved stardom in television, radio, motion pictures and the legitimate stage, and has been an Academy Award nominee five times. She currently can be seen on TV's "Bewitched."

One of radio's most active performers, she was heard on thousands of programs including "March of Time," "Calvalcade of America" and "Mayor of the Town."

With Joseph Cotton and Orson Wells, she was a founder and charter member of the famed Mercury Theater Players.

Miss Moorehead's Beverly Hills home, "Mediterranean" but Venetian in character, is decorated with antiques that she brought from her world travels. She also collects memorabilia of famous actors and actresses.

Is child's emotional injury just going across the finish line?

By PATRICIA McCORMACK
NEW YORK (UPI) — Little Johnny Hero, through tournament play, graduates from kindergarten with a school letter—awarded for coming out best in yo-yo.
In the next few years, he wins letters — all in a row — for best in hopping on one foot, hop-scotch and darts.
By the time he's out of elementary school, he's got so many ribbons or letters that he's dubbed a natural athlete. He is processed by people who want to make him a star — Little League, intra-mural basketball and all the rest.
By the time he sets foot in high school, he's marked a natural for All-American in whatever sport he elects.
So Johnny, the potential All-American, gets a king-size share of attention from coaches who push him, from parents who cheer him on, from neighbors who want a hero in the bigtime of their block.

BUT A LOT of boys who start out this way get benched along the hero trail. They crack a bone, pull a muscle, rip a joint out of socket — all in the name of training and playing, almost like some kind of race horse driven too hard. Or they suffer emotional injury.
Dr. Nicholas J. Giannestras, member of the American College of Surgeons (ACS) trauma committee and consulting orthopedic surgeon of the University of Cincinnati Athletic Department, is concerned.
In a report in the ACS bulletin he puts it this way: "To win or to play—that is the problem."
He believes that in lower and middle grades and early high school groups, the emphasis in sports is too much on the idea of the winning team and not enough on the participation by all children.
According to his analysis, an awful lot of money is spent on the few while many children lose out on the play time. The losers are something like penniless children in days goneby, standing at the penny candy counter and pressing noses against the glass.

"Too great a burden is placed on these few who excel, and a certain number pay the penalty, either physically or psychologically," he says. "This is unfair to these youngsters."
And he believes it unfair to youngsters who don't make the team.
"EACH FEARS," he said, "that he will not excel because of competition and that parents, the coach and friends will be disappointed in him. This is too great a burden to place on even an able youngster."
Dr. Giannestras estimates that the problem involves at least 30,000 youngsters—all physically and emotionally impaired simply because they happen to be particularly gifted athletically.

Ahead, he sees a choice. Either outstanding young athletes can continue to be taken along the downward path physically and emotionally by permitting parents and some coaches to compensate for their own frustrations and build up their own egos with teams composed of only the best participants, or demand that all children learn, practice, participate, have fun.
"In the bygone days," he said, "of choosing up sides for a game, the two best players, as judged by the youngsters, were selected as captains."
"The best players were chosen one by one down to the line... until finally, the poorest players were the last to be chosen."
"But all of them participated in the game."

Let's Feed Lions to West's Christians

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. — The case is not unusual, but the project is disturbing. What is in mind is the constant mission of those people from the Midwest and East to push their college football teams at the expense of those on the West Coast.

The latest blast came from this village, which hardly could be considered a den of stardom.

According to Penn State's publicist, UCLA — which was ranked No. 2 and No. 3 on the wire service polls this past week — has only one strength, at quarterback.

A seer wouldn't be required for this judgment because the entire nation realizes that Gary Beban was front-and-center the No. 1 man for the Heisman Trophy award going into Saturday's encounter vs. Penn State — and this, because of deadline problems we've told you about before, is being pounded out prior to the engagement.

Penn State's Jim Tarmen is a decent chap, but when he proclaims UCLA's defensive line and receiving corps as "possibles," then pin-points the Bruins' "weakness" at ball-carrying then I would suggest he see a psychologist immediately.

Apparently at this outpost, nobody has heard of such people as defensive lineman Hal Griffin, our city's Larry Agajanian, Vic Lepisto, Floyd Reese, Kim Griffith, and Alan Claman.

Nor have they read about Long Beach's Rich Spindler, Dave Nuttall, Hal Busby, and Greg Jones as receivers.

And, further, neither have these unindoctrinated peasants been told of the outstanding ball-carrying ability of Beban, Jones, Rick Purdy, Mike Garrett, Steve Price, Paul Derflinger, Steve Stanley and several others who would sail into a starting assignment with Penn State as easily as if they were knocking off those sitting ducks on the Long Beach Pike.

The East-West issue has been battled before, but when someone goes to extremes to make his point — and is thoroughly incorrect or uninformed — that's the time for the outnumbered Western outsider to make a stand.

ANOTHER EASTERN ANGLE is interesting, if you'd choose to use that word. Street and Smith's annual football yearbook, published from New York, listed a Penn State opponent, UCLA, as the 13th best team in the nation.

That's as silly as thinking an Eskimo can't build an igloo.

On the other hand, the Easterners object — with cause — a plume of the Southerners. Wrote one Floridian: "Miami was horrible in losing to Northwestern from the falling-down Big Ten. They were no better in bowing to Penn State, which comes from the mostly unproductive East."

Snapped back Tarmen: "That jerk should talk. Miami's roster includes 12 players from the unproductive East. In fact, three of Miami's starting backs against Penn State were from Pennsylvania."

Well, let the little boys battle. We'll check out OUR teams on the weekly polls.

WHOLESALE BOOMERANG: "Our Mike Reid has been named to another all-America team — by Dell Magazine," reported Tarmen. His quotes from Dell:

"A crew-cut, 238-pounder with long-haired tastes in music, Reid played a merry tune at middle guard for Penn State last season, beginning with his first varsity game in which he won lineman-of-the-week acclaim for the havoc he wreaked on Maryland."

(Comment: Big deal.)

Continuing: "He carried on from there to lead the Lions defense with 63 unassisted tackles and 44 assists. His sophomore heroics far exceeded such Penn State predecessors as Rosey Grier, Dave Robinson and Glenn Resler."

"One would think that such a virtuoso performance would demand an encore. It doesn't, though. Penn State's ingenious coach, Joe Paterno, has other plans for his prize pupil: He's moving Reid to inside linebacker, on the theory that Mike will get even a bigger piece of the action."

The boomerang: Mike didn't pan out. He's now unlisted on the two-deep squad.

ONE OF PENN STATE'S top players, tight end Ted Kwalick, is called the "character" of the club simply because he has hands the size of Gil Hodges, who gained a claim to fame as a Dodger first baseman. Gil could glove everything within sight because his paws were so huge that no errant toss could bypass them.

Kwalick, a product of the Pennsylvania coal mines, is far-and-away Penn State's top receiver, but he has a problem. The 20-year-old doesn't mind being quoted thusly:

During the winter I have to keep my hands in my pockets because I can't find gloves around here to fit me."

His coach, Joe Paterno, had this reaction:

"Football pants don't have pockets, so Kwalick won't be tempted to warm his hands that way later in the season when the weather really gets cold. He's got great hands — they're big enough, anyway — so I use him also as a punt return man. Once he gets the ball, he just runs over people."

PENN STATE halfback Bob Campbell, who wears spectacles on campus, is the idol of this whistle-stop. His 50-yard run against Miami was described thusly:

By his coach: "Spectacular, astonishing, unbelievable and incredible."

By a Miami writer: "If he'd have gone much further, he'd have been halfway down the runway at International Airport. It was the greatest run we've ever seen in the Orange Bowl."

It's a shame that the man from Apalachin, N.Y., never will show his prowess in the Rose Bowl.

DENIES BOSTON ACCUSATIONS

Briles: 'One Just Got Away'

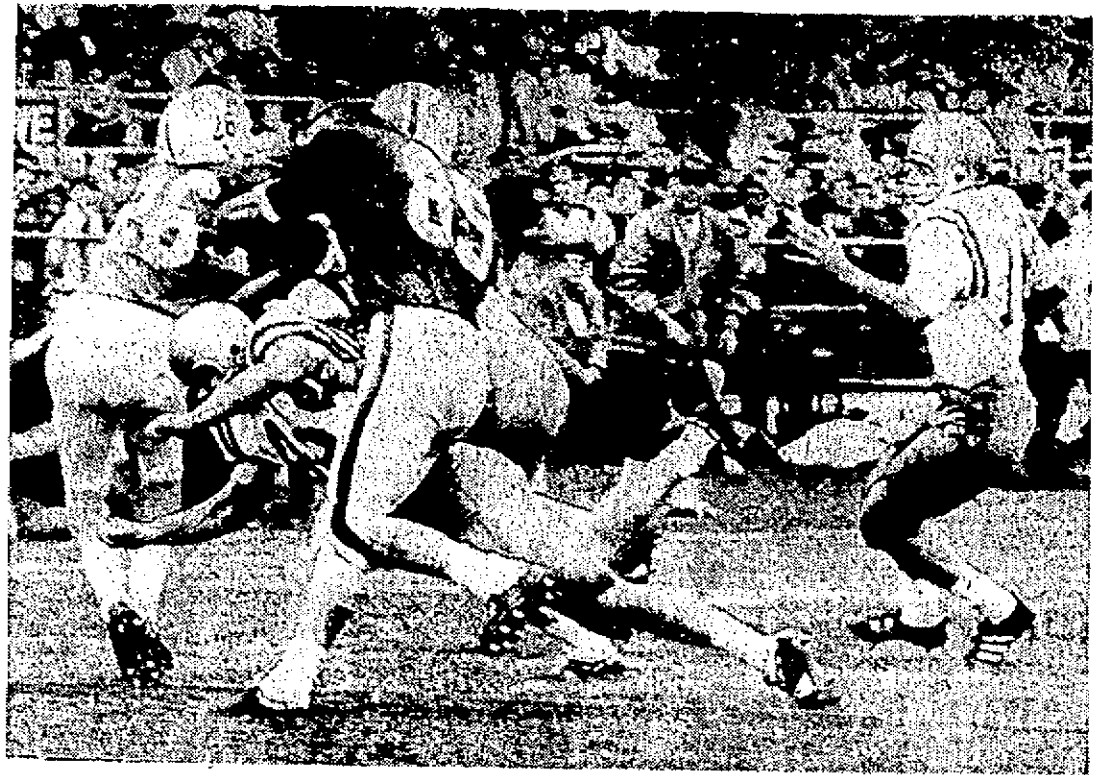

St. LOUIS (UPI) — Nelson Briles, fresh from the most rewarding victory of his pitching career, Saturday denied the charge that he had deliberately thrown at Boston slugger Carl Yastrzemski.

"It was a fast ball and it just got away," bristled Briles when informed that Boston manager Dick Williams had accused him of trying to intimidate Yastrzemski by throwing the first pitch behind him.

"Williams' complaint is his business," said Briles, who retired Yaz on soft rollers in his last three appearances while pitching the Cardinals to a 5-2 victory.

"I can't tell you how we pitched to Yaz because we have to face him again," he said. "I got him twice on fast balls. I tried to keep them in on him, but the first one got away."

Briles, a 24-year-old right-hander, was elated over his UCLA's brilliant Gary Beban sweeps to fourth-period touchdown which insured narrow 17-15 victory over Penn State Saturday. Beban follows block by Greg Jones which clears out both Neal Smith and Jim Litterale.

BAD BLOOD? IT'S CARL'S!

Yaz: 'Was Hit Intentionally'

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — The first bad blood of the World Series popped to the surface Saturday when Boston manager Dick Williams openly accused Nelson Briles of "deliberately throwing" at Red Sox star Carl Yastrzemski.

Whether it was deliberate or not, Briles hit the Boston left fielder on the back of his left calf in the first inning and that brought Williams out of the dugout on the double.

"Are we going to have a knockdown battle or what?" he inquired of Frank Umont, the American League umpire behind the plate.

"What do you mean by that?" Umont snapped.

"It's my opinion" that he (Briles) deliberately threw at him," Williams went on. "I'll handle it," said Umont, who then summoned Red Schoendienst, the St. Louis manager, from the Cardinal's dugout. "I've been reading in the paper how (Jim) Lonborg brushed back our hitters," declared the St. Louis skipper. "There's a lotta difference between a brush-back pitch and a deliberate pitch to hit a man," countered Williams, an interested listener to the conference between Umont and Schoendienst.

"A brush back pitch is part of baseball," the Red Sox manager said following his team's 5-2 loss at the hands of Briles. "Hitting someone deliberately with a pitch is not."

Yastrzemski, whose two homers and a single helped the Red Sox to a 5-0 victory in the second series game at Boston Thursday, seemed far more concerned by his failure to get the ball out of the infield in three official trips than by his sore calf.

"I've been thrown at before," he said quietly. "It doesn't bother me."

"Do you think it could have been a mistake on Briles' part?" Yastrzemski was asked.

The Red Sox outfielder smiled before replying. "It was no mistake," he said. "The pitch was behind me."

Yastrzemski took a big bite into a salami sandwich and downed it with a healthy gulp of beer, the Cardinals' brand at that.

"Were you angry after Briles hit you with that pitch?" they asked him.

"Did you say anything to him?"

"Yeah," he said, suddenly remembering. "I said 'thank you' to him."

Without putting down Briles, Yastrzemski made it rather obvious he didn't consider the young Cardinal right-hander in the same pitching class with Gibson.

"He doesn't throw extremely hard," said Yaz, "but he keeps the ball down. We may have had a chance to get him in the early innings but we couldn't do anything about it. Near the end, I thought he was throwing better."

Maris beat out a single on a checked swing as the ball rolled between first and second. Orlando Cepeda, hitless in his first 10 Series at bats after a fine regular season, broke out of his slump with a double off the wall in right center, scoring Maris.

Tim McCarver, hitless in the first two games, started the second inning with a single and rode home free

CARDS LEAD WORLD SERIES--

Briles handled Yastrzemski three times with men on base after hitting him in the first inning. In the fourth, Yaz rapped into a double.

play. In the sixth and eighth he grounded harmlessly to second base.

The Cards jumped away to an early lead against loser Gary Bell as Briles, a 24-year-old Santa Clara product in his fourth year as a pro, backed up his 14-5 regular season record with a steady performance.

Briles finished the season with nine straight wins after taking Gibson's spot in the starting rotation after the July 15 accident. The handsome dark-haired youngster coddled the early lead and pitched his way out of minor threats in six of the last seven innings.

Six of the seven Red Sox hits were singles and the only extra baser was Reggie Smith's 360-foot home run leading off the seventh.

Brock's opening triple and Curt Flood's single gave the Cards their first run off the 30-year-old Bell in the first inning.

Tim McCarver, hitless in the first two games, started the second inning with a single and rode home free

Cal Holds Off Falcons, 14-12

BERKELEY (UPI) — Quarterback Barry Bronk ran for one touchdown and passed for another Saturday to give California a 14-12 victory over an Air Force Academy team which gambled in a bid for two points and lost.

Bronk, battling to hang on to his starting quarterback job, tallied on an eight yard run midway through the second period and then with 4:43 left in the third quarter he hit Jim Calkins in the end zone from nine yards out for what proved to be the clinching TD.

It was California's third with 2:09 left in the contest one loss and gave the Bears their best start since 1952 when they won their first five under Pappy Waldorf. The Air Force now is 0-3-1.

A pair of field goals which covered 38 and 26 yards by Dennis Leuthauer kept the Falcons in the game. Then they scored with 2:09 left in the contest when Mike Guth vaulted over from the one-yard line to climax a 62-yard march.

RICH ROBERTS

It Can't Happen Here

"Probably the majority have just been curiosity seekers . . . people who wanted to watch practice. They're welcome to try, but they won't be successful."—Ed Boynton, Rams counterspy.

The little old lady watching her first football game wondered aloud as the players huddled together. "Why do they have so many secrets?"

Well, football teams do have secrets, and it is the express purpose of Ed (The Enforcer) Boynton to see that the Rams keep theirs.

Boynton, Long Beach Police Dept. (ret.), is George Allen's personally hired watchdog at Blair Field, the club's in-season training base in Long Beach. The enemy is out there watching, Ed feels. His job: stop them.

"I'm certain there's been five or six instances where they have attempted to watch practice for the purpose of learning what we're doing," Boynton says, his cold, steely eyes scanning the trees beyond the outfield wall. "I've had occasion to check out various vehicles, although I haven't identified anybody positively."

The Dallas Cowboys also had occasion to check out a certain vehicle last week, although it's incredible to believe that professional sportsmen could be so sneaky.

Apparently, Allen must feel that there are clubs in the National Football League, who, in their utter desperation, would stoop to spying on one another. Otherwise, why would he hire Boynton?

"The coach is a perfectionist," Ed explains. "He doesn't overlook the minutest detail in trying to come up with a winner. So he feels, 'Why take a chance?'"

THE COWBOYS hardly overlooked a detail, either—the license number, the rental agency, the names, etc., all denied by our local pros who nevertheless will be a while living down the embarrassing stigma of the accusation.

That's the thing with the typical football spy: seldom caught, just accused.

"He'll go to any lengths to keep from it," Ed says, "because he doesn't want them to know what he's doing or where he's from."

Just last week about the time the Cowboys were crying "spy" in Dallas, the Rams spotted a free-climber at Blair Field, supposedly studying the flora, fauna and formations. Unfortunately, Boynton was off running an errand for Allen, but he offered an idea as to how he would have handled the matter.

"That's trespassing. The Rams have the field leased and, as such, it's their property—the walls and the light poles and the stands and so forth. As for the trees outside, that's trespassing on city property, and the city doesn't want people in the trees."

Trespassing, Ed explains, is a misdemeanor and "anyone can make an arrest of a person committing a misdemeanor in their presence. It's a citizen's arrest."

AT BLAIR FIELD nothing can be seen from ground level outside, like from a parked car, so a potential spy is virtually forced to commit a crime to get the scoop on the Rams.

"We have the gates locked during practice," Ed says, "and if anybody wants to come over the fence they can't be inside here without being seen. There's nowhere they can be."

Boynton has carefully blocked off all vents with visibility onto the field and has placed yellow boards over the 40 drain holes in the concrete wall around the outfield.

The Wilson High chemistry lab presents a rather panoramic view of the field, but Ed points out, "It's a felony for anybody to be loitering on those school grounds over there."

Nevertheless, he adds, "I have a pass and can go through there anytime I want. I do it quite often."

Naturally, he isn't going to say when.

"I don't have a certain set routine because that's the worst thing you can do on a job like this. So I intentionally vary it in order that I can pop up anywhere at any time."

OFFHAND, THEN, Boynton seems to have the situation pretty well secured . . . but we wonder.

Has he checked all the blocking bags to see if midget agents from San Francisco are hiding inside, unzipping themselves and slipping out at night to pass secrets over the walls?

And how does Ed know that those are all REAL trees out there? Has he ever counted them or checked their positions day-to-day? Has he ever knocked on them to see if they're hollow? George Halas himself could be hiding in one with a periscope coming out the top.

Has Ed probed the grass for camouflaged trapdoors leading to Green Bay, Wis.?

And, you know, there's another building besides the high school providing, with good binoculars, a fair view inside Blair Field. And there's never anybody there during practice.

But who would have the gall to spy from Allen's own office in the clubhouse at Recreation Park? On the other hand, Ed . . .

HANRATTY HOT, AS USUAL

Irish Bounce Back Big, 56-6

SOUTH BEND (AP) — Notre Dame, knocked from first to sixth in the national football rankings, unleashed its fury to bury the Iowa Hawkeyes 56-6 Saturday behind the passing of Terry Hanratty and the running of Bob Bleier and Dan Harshman.

The game had turned into a rout by halftime with the Irish, beaten by Purdue last week, hammering a 35-0 lead.

In this time, Hanratty hit on nine of 10 passes for 81 yards.

yards including a 22-yard touchdown flip to Bleier. The Irish strung scoring drives of 42, 61, 48 and 36 yards in a total of 22 plays for 8.5 average and Hanratty had a streak of five completions in five tries for 61 yards.

Safety Tom Schoen was a defensive demon, running back an Ed Podolak pass interception 34 yards for a touchdown during a 21-point second period spurge and returning a quick kick 21 yards to set up another touchdown in the first.

The first half scoring threats were capped by Hanratty on a 2-yard keeper, sophomore Jeff Zimmerman on a 2-yard smash and a 14-yard run and Bleier's pass catch. Joe Azzaro booted all the extra points.

Iowa stopped a 21-yard

Irish drive on its one-yard line in the game's opening minutes on a great tackle of Ron Dushney by linebacker Rod Barnhart.

The Hawkeyes didn't have much else to show until scoring early in the third on a 59-yard march. Silas McKinnie barreled over from the 3-yard line.

With Coley O'Brien replacing Hanratty in the third quarter and reserves sprinkling the lineup, the Irish momentum continued. Zimmerman scored his third touchdown on a one-yard crash ending a 24-yard rumble carried by O'Brien's 12 and 11-yard aeriels.

Gophers Shake Off Fumbles, Rout SMU

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Sophomore Phil Hagen rallied Minnesota from a first half of fumbling frustration, firing the Gophers to three second-half touchdowns in a 23-3 victory over Southern Methodist on rain-slick turf of Memorial Stadium Saturday.

The Gophers, who bobbled away two scoring opportunities in the first half while scoring a safety for a 2-0 lead, converted SMU fumbles into touchdowns in the third and fourth periods. Minnesota then put the victory away with a 63-yard touchdown march in the final minutes.

Hagen's passing was a key in all of Minnesota's touchdowns.

The Gophers' Del Jensen recovered a fumble by SMU's Eddie Valdez late in the third quarter and Hagen moved Minnesota 36 yards in five plays. His 21-yard pass to Charley Sanders was the big gainer before sophomore Jim Carter rammed over from a yard out.

Colorado Bags 34-0 Triumph

BOULDER, Colo. (AP) — Eighth-ranked Colorado scored 14 points with ease in the first quarter, lost two glittering chances in the second period but settled down in the second half for a 34-0 victory over Iowa State in a Big Eight Conference opener Saturday.

Quarterback Bob Anderson and his brother, defensive safety Dick, teamed to give Colorado the fifth touchdown. Dick intercepted John Warder's pass on the goal line, running out to the 22. Bob drove the Buffaloes to a touchdown in six plays with his three runs totaling 58 yards covering most of the drive.

William Harris' 48-yard return of the opening kickoff to Iowa State's 42 sept Colorado rolling to its first touchdown in eight plays with Wilmer Cooks powering over from the three.

Anderson's 16-yard pass to Cooks on Iowa State's 13 was the big gainer.

Colorado fumbled the ball the second time it gained possession, but on its third offensive drive in the first quarter the Buffaloes put together an 80-yard touchdown march with Anderson's 35-yard scoring pass to Monte Huber raising the Colorado margin to 14-0.

SLUMBERING GIANT EXPLODES

Keyes Key to Purdue Rally

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (UPI) — Fourth-ranked Purdue, a slumbering giant for three periods, exploded for three touchdowns in the final period on the brilliant receiving and running of Leroy Keyes Saturday to edge Northwestern, 25-16, in their Big Ten opener.

It wasn't the same crew that upset then top-rated national champion Notre Dame a week ago, but Purdue had enough finesse and an aroused line to pull out the victory in the final period.

Keyes, used on both offense and defense, scored three touchdowns, two on long bombs from sophomore quarterback Mike Phipps and the third on a seven-yard run.

Keyes took six passes for a record 184 yards, eclipsing the previous single-game school mark of 159 yards by Jim Finley against Michigan two years ago.

Phipps, one of the heroes in last week's upset of the Irish, completed 10 of 24 passes for 245 yards. His touchdown losses to Keyes went for 79 and 65 yards.

Purdue, perennially in trouble after winning a "big one," was 13-0 in the hole in the second period before Keyes took Phipps' 79-yard pitch only seconds before the half ended to cut the margin to 13-6.

The victory was the ninth in a row at home for Purdue and its eighth straight over-all.

Goat Turns Hero, Saves Tigers Win

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — John Meyer, a near goal in the second quarter, scored on a 39-yard pass interception with 1:33 left in the game to sew up a 17-3 victory for the undefeated Missouri Tigers over the Arizona Wildcats here Saturday.

Down 10-3, Arizona, bidding for its second upset in two weeks, went to the air in the closing minutes. Marc Reed, the nation's No. 1 passer last year, heaved a long one from his end zone. Meyer grabbed, raced for the sidelines, reversed, picked up blockers and raced back to score.

With the Tigers leading 7-0 in the second period, Meyer bobbled a Reed punt at the Missouri 7 and Arizona center Tom Brennan recovered at the three.

Three plays later the Wildcats found themselves on the seven and Ken Sarnoski booted a 24-yard field goal to cut the margin to 7-3.

Arizona's big front line kept Missouri bottled up in its own territory throughout the first half.

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Michigan State, bouncing back from two straight non-conference losses, cashes in on the speed of Dwight Lee and Lamarr Thomas Saturday as it overpowered Wisconsin 35-7 in a Big Ten football opener for both teams.

MSU, bidding for its third straight conference title, stuck mainly to the ground as it ripped the Wisconsin line.

State's first three touchdowns came on long drives of 63, 89 and 80 yards before Thomas tossed a surprise 44-yard pass to Al Brenner for State's fourth touchdown. Frank Waters capped a 61-yard substitute loaded scoring drive as he dove over from the two in the final seconds for State's fifth touchdown.

MASTERY CONTINUES

Hogs Clobber TCU, 26-0

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (UPI) — Arkansas, smarting under two consecutive losses, took out its frustrations Saturday by mauling Southwest Conference foe Texas Christian, 26-0, beating the Horned Frogs for the ninth year in a row.

Scrambling Arkansas quarterback John Eichler led the onslaught which gave TCU its third loss of the year. The SWC opener for both teams was played before a rain-soaked crowd of 40,000 persons.

The game ended on the

TCU one-yard line as reserve quarterback Gordon

Norwood fumbled at the final gun.

Wingback David Dickey scored the first two Razorback touchdowns in the second period and Bob White followed with a 37-yard field goal for a 17-0 halftime lead.

Hoosiers Whip Illini on Lucky TD

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP) — Unbeaten Indiana quickly exploited two Illinois errors and was steered by brilliant sophomore Harry Gonso to a 20-7 victory in the Big Ten football opener for both clubs Saturday.

The Hoosiers became the first Indiana team since 1928 to win its first three games. The victory came on a lucky touchdown on the fourth play of the game.

The two first-half touchdowns were enough to stave off Illinois which lost its first two quarterbacks early in the first half but scored in the final quarter when Terry Miller blocked a Hoosier quick kick from its own three. Larry Jordan fell on the ball in the end zone for the Illinois touchdown.

The game was only 86 seconds old when Indiana struck for its first touchdown as Indiana's John Isenberger fumbled driving for the goal line and 225-pound Hoosier tackle Rick Stickard fell on the ball in the end zone for a touchdown.

Kings Arrive to Open First NHL Campaign

By RICH ROBERTS

The Southland's first big league hockey team today becomes more than a temporary office, an unfinished arena and a conversation piece for Jack Kent Cooke. It will be 18 real live Canadian athletes when the big bird hits the L.A. International airstrip at 9:35 this morning.

The Kings — what the heck, you'll get used to the name — are due to be christened into the elite company of the National Hockey League Saturday night when they meet the Philadelphia Flyers, followed the next night by the Minnesota North Stars.

Later on there will be the Pittsburgh Penguins, St. Louis Blues and an upgraded version of the California Seals, all members of the new "Western" Division.

Strange-sounding names from faraway places, but essential parts of the NHL's overdue scheme to spread hockey across the land, not to mention the network television tubes.

Hockey is the last major sport to expand nationally and none has been as certain of success. Rich men or eager cities have built new arenas in Inglewood, Philadelphia, Minneapolis and Oakland and have completely overhauled an existing one in St. Louis. Pittsburgh was already in good shape.

Through three weeks of exhibition play, the new clubs have avoided the old ones like the bride avoids the groom before the wedding, because judgment day will come soon enough.

The first confrontation between the old and the new will be one of five league openers Wednesday night when the Montreal Canadiens charge into Pittsburgh. The Kings' first big test will be two weeks from today at Chicago.

Each club will play 74 games, including 24 against teams from the old "Eastern" Division. Considering the disparity of strength wrought by a stingy player draft, the new clubs will be hard-pressed to win half of their games over the route.

The Kings will play six games in Long Beach — two next weekend and four in December; 11 in the L.A. Sports Arena and will open at the Forum, come hell or overtime, on Dec. 30 in the full glory of national color TV.

Meanwhile, they'll practice in Long Beach all this week but fans will have to wait until Saturday to see them. All practices will be closed to the public.

Tickets have not been placed on sale. Reports are that they are being held up at the printers.

The Kings arrive in town with one of the highest priced players in the new division, goalie Terry Sawchuk, the Toronto Maple Leafs' Stanley Cup star who is getting something like $47,500 for each of the next two seasons.

Chances are he will earn every cent of it, too. His supporting cast is definitely not major league... but then, in the new division, whose is?

Football Coaches Are Copy-Cats

Clark Shaughnessy, one of football's most creative minds down through the years, has maintained for some time now that the game is standing still. It needs something new, especially in the offensive department.

"Everybody is copying everybody else," he says, but explains that "this is a matter of self-preservation. A coach's position is so precarious in most cases that they just follow the line of least resistance and go with the pack."

"If a coach dares try something new and it flops, he gets fired because he's a screwball because only a stupid person would attempt such a thing. But if he tries something that's been successful for another team and it fails, he's got a perfect 'out,'" Clark points out.

Defense has made much greater strides than offense in recent years, but Shaughnessy is partly to blame for that. He was an even greater genius at setting up intricate defensive alignments than he was offensive maneuvers.

Shaughnessy, of course, refined the modern T-formation while working with George Halas of the Bears on the side while he was still at the University of Chicago. He then popularized the system when he unleashed it on rivals at Stanford in 1939 with the immortal backfield of Frankie Albert, Norm Standlee, Hugh Gallerneau and Pete Kmetovic.

There have been a lot of new offensive wrinkles in recent seasons, but they have been merely window dressing for the basic "T." That goes for the "I" formation, too.

Shaughnessy always was impressed with the inventive mind of Red Hickey, who came up with the "Shotgun Offense" while coaching the San Francisco 49ers.

HICKEY SAVED A SEEMINGLY hopeless season when he installed the "Shotgun" in 1960 as the 49ers captured four of their last five games with the new formation to tie for second in their division.

The huge and rugged defensive line of the Baltimore Colts — the "Fearsome Foursome" of its day — was the primary reason for the "Shotgun."

Hickey hit upon the formation while thinking of ways and means to nullify the Colt defensive wall — particularly its vicious pass rush. He put his quarterback six or seven yards behind the line of scrimmage rather than behind the center. This not only gave him more time to pass, but gave him a better angle to run.

It worked to perfection as the 49ers upset Baltimore, 30-22, in the final two minutes. The defeat cost the Colts, who had won the NFL title two years running, the division title as Green Bay came on to grab first place.

The early success of the "Shotgun" amazed the football world, especially when the 49ers came right back to plaster a 49-0 defeat on the Detroit Lions.

But one guess as to who devised the way to stop it — yes, Shaughnessy. He mapped the Bear defense the next year which stopped the "Shotgun" cold as Chicago beat the 49ers, 31-0. San Francisco then went back to the "T" ... and John Brodie.

HOWEVER, THE "SHOTGUN" had served its purpose... and Shaughnessy later said he was a little sorry that he had found a way to contain such a revolutionary offense.

It may take a little "way out" thinking to come up with something that will throw the Rams' "smothering defense" off-balance this season.

One of the most inventive coaches in the game today is Hank Stram of the Kansas City Chiefs, who is credited with many innovations including the moving pocket. It was this maneuver which gave the Ram defense its roughest time so far this season.

The Chiefs scored 24 points in the first half as the moving pocket — actually a rollout option with one or two man blocking — offset the rush of the Fearsome Foursome. In the second half, however, the defensive ends forced Kansas City's Pete Beathard to remain in the pocket... and the rest of the foursome along with blitzing linebackers took care of the rest.

THE 49ERS, WHO MOVE into the Coliseum today to play the Rams, are expected to play it straight this year with their orthodox game. However, Lamar Lundy, one of the veterans of the Rams' great "Fearsome Foursome" admits it could be a rough afternoon for them.

"The No. 1 objective of the defensive line is to get the passer," Lundy points out, "but the 49ers give their quarterback real good protection. Last year, Brodie was thrown for losses the least number of times in our division outside Bart Starr of Green Bay."

Throwing the quarterback for a loss is often more significant than getting an interception, Lundy maintains. "If you flatter him often enough, he'll start throwing wildly and interceptions are sure to come then. And something else that doesn't show in the statistics is that if we keep crowding the passer, he'll often throw off-balance and even if he gets the pass off, it most likely will be off target."

LUNDY, WHO WAS AN OFFENSIVE END in college and in his early seasons with the Rams, agrees with Shaughnessy's view that the defense has changed much more than offense. "The offensive plays aren't much different than they were when I started in pro ball 11 years ago," Lamar says. "But the changes on defense have been tremendous."

"I can remember that when I first switched over to defense, we only had a few defensive patterns and if the other team ran an offensive play that didn't fit our pattern, we were dead."

"Now we have 40 defensive formations and, with variations off them, we can utilize approximately 170 different defensive alignments. No matter what the play is, we have a defense for it."

LAKER COACH ANALYZES TEAM

Van Breda Kolff: 'I Expect Us to Play for NBA Title'

By DOUG IVES

Every NBA coach is asked, prior to Oct. 15, to evaluate his team and analyze the rest of the league, with the comments to be released to news media throughout the league cities.

Bill van Breda Kolff, the Laker skipper, uttered the most astute remarks among the five rookie coaches, and also made perhaps the most surprising statement when he said:

"I expect VAN BREDA KOLFF to be playing for the world championship next spring."

After a dismal year, few expect the Lakers to gain the challenge round, let alone pay back to the form they enjoyed two seasons ago when they extended Boston seven games before losing the title.

Van Breda Kolff apparently thinks different, and here are his capsule comments that he must live with the rest of the season: "Each fall, as speculation begins over the potential rookie stars of the season ahead, you frequently hear concern over the difficult transition from college to pro basketball."

"As a coach who is making that transition, I'm going to have to disagree. I contended as a college, and even more so after the months I have spent with the Lakers, that the basic fundamentals are the most important part of the game."

Longoria Really a Hungry Fighter

By DAVE DANIEL

Tony Longoria's story is not unlike that of many other famous boxers — a rags-to-riches ballyhoo in classic Damon Runyon style.

But, no one will believe it.

The 18-year-old heavy-weight, who fights Monday night in the Municipal Auditorium's main event against Floyd Joyner, has a colorful street fighting history dating back to his Austin, Tex. schoolboy days.

"I had to fight to get home," recalls Longoria, who, naturally is dubbed "The Kid" by fight fans.

When he was 14, he was pulled off the streets of the Mexican quarter slums of Austin by his manager and now adopted father, Pat O'Grady, and rapidly developed into a top prospect, beginning as a lightweight.

"He fought at 135 pounds, mainly because he wasn't eating three meals a day," O'Grady said. Eight months later, the Kid jumped to 185 pounds, just from eating regularly.

After 20 amateur bouts, all of which he won and 14 of those by knockouts, he pulled a Texas-style Mando Ramos stunt and started his pro career at age 16, two years under the legal limit.

And he hasn't stopped fighting since. He has had 15 fights in little more than a year, and that includes a six-month layoff after suffering a broken jaw at the hands of Charlie Hall in Las Vegas last November. He still KO'd Hall in six rounds.

Of his 15 fights, he has 14 wins and one draw, including 11 knockouts. He is the only undefeated heavy-weight on the West Coast and plans to keep it that way Monday night. He has to — he wants to be world champion by the time he's 21.

If the Kid keeps putting away his opposition — Joe Orsillo follows Joyner in November — he'll make it.

Gardena Drops Softball Team

The Gardena Merchants, 1963 and '66 International Softball Congress world tournament champions, have disbanded.

Lack of sponsorship and the retirement of several key players have forced manager Dean Corbitt to relinquish the Western Softball Congress franchise.

Phoenix, La Mesa and Pomona are possible additions to the league next season.

Casper Falters; 3 Tied

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland (UPI) — Favored Billy Casper bogeyed the last two holes Sunday to wind up with a third round 36-37—73 and finish in a three-way tie for the lead with Masters champion Gary Brewer and Brian Barnes of England in the wind-blown $129,000 Alcan Gopher of the Year tournament.

Brewer finished with 39-34—73 and Barnes 36-35—71 as winds of up to 45 miles an hour sent scores soaring.

The erratic round left Casper, who has led or been tied for the lead throughout the tournament, with a 54-hole total of 212. He shot a 68 on the first round but dropped to 71 Friday before faltering on Saturday's last two holes.

Brewer shot a 69 in the opening round and carded a 70 on Friday's second round before dropping to 73 Saturday while Barnes, who trailed the leaders by two strokes after the second, made up ground with a 71 after rounds of 68 and 73.

Casper was shooting for undisputed leadership as he teed off from the 17th, but his second shot hit the road and he was saddled with a bogey five. Casper then blew a simple approach to the 18th hole, lifting the ball a mere 70 yards.

Cards in 'Solo' Lineup Change

The Cardinal management shuffled its "National anthem" singing lineup Saturday, moving Mary Schoendienst to the Monday clean-up spot.

The wife of Cardinal manager Red Schoendienst was slated to sing the anthem at the outset of the first World Series game in St. Louis but couldn't do it. She was suffering from a mild case of laryngitis because she rooted too hard at Boston.

"There was such a small number of St. Louis rotters," said the attractive mother of four who sang

Bulldogs Put BENGALS' THIRD WIN

1st Bite on So. Carolina

ATHENS, Ga. (AP) — Quarterback Kirby Moore dashed 87 yards on the second-longest scoring run in Georgia history Saturday, igniting the fifth-ranked Georgia Bulldogs to a 21-0 victory over stubborn, but punchless South Carolina.

Moore, scampering 189-pound senior, set up another touchdown with a 29-yard run and rushed for a total of 147 yards as he fired Georgia to its third straight football victory.

Moore's long scoring jaunt in the second quarter when he broke off tackle and was never touched by the startled Gamecocks, was the longest ever at home by a Georgian and only two yards shy of the all-time Bulldog best.

LSU Shocks Florida, 37-6

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Nifty Nelson Stokley and a pair of sophomore kickers drove resurgent Louisiana State to its third straight football victory Saturday, manhandling the University of Florida, 37-6, in a Southeastern Conference game.

ed out of bounds at the Florida one-yard line to set up the first touchdown as LSU moved in front 16-0 at half-time and went on to hand Florida its worst defeat in 17 years.

The oft-injured Stokley, healthy through the unbeaten Bengal victory, ran 10 and 50 yards for touchdowns and completed six passes for 69 yards.

YESTERDAY'S HEROES...

Shaughnessy: Football 'Boring'

One of the sport's leading innovators is becoming bored with what he sees on the nation's football fields.

"The sameness of what is displayed — especially by the pros and many of the major colleges — is downright monotonous," says Clark Shaughnessy, who has the credentials of more than half a century of football to support his contention.

"You see more new things at small college and high school games," adds Shaughnessy. "The big schools are afraid to lose, so they just copy each other."

Shaughnessy coached at both the college and professional levels, and is generally credited with modernizing the "T" formation and developing the three-receiver offense.

His 1940 Stanford team, employing the modern T, roared through a perfect season, including a victory over Nebraska in the Rose Bowl. Shaughnessy first employed the three-receiver offense while coaching at Tulane in 1925. But he refined it and reintroduced it in 1949 while head coach of the Rams. It's still the basic offense for all pro teams.

Shaughnessy severed official connection with football in 1962 when he quit the Chicago Bears after serving them on and off for 29 years. But the 75-year-old Shaughnessy still serves as a consultant and operates Football Projects, an equipment firm in West Los Angeles.

"Two of our three children live in Mississippi and I often think about moving back to the South," Shaughnessy reveals. "But Mrs. Shaughnessy tells me I brought her to Santa Monica to live and that's where we're going to stay."

Shaughnessy isn't awed by the current crop of athletes.

"Don't make the mistake of thinking that Jay Bawanger (Chicago U half-back and 1935 Heisman Trophy winner), Norm Standlee (Stanford full-back), Bronko Nagurski (legendary Minnesota and Chicago Bear fullback and tackle) and men such as they couldn't keep up with these kids," he says. "The great athlete would always fit in. And these men were great athletes."

First Waterfowl Season Tuesday

Just so that the duck hunters won't get all mixed up and have to pay big fat fines to the state, let's review the way the seasons line up. The waterfowl season begins Tuesday at 6:11 a.m. in the Colorado River area and in the northeastern part of the state. Those dates are set to coincide with those of Oregon and Arizona.

Just remember that the Colorado River area does not include the Salton Sea nor the federal and state waterfowl management areas of Imperial Valley. There and in the rest of the state the general waterfowl season begins next Saturday.

There is also a difference in the limits, with five birds per day in the Colorado River Strip and 10 in possession. In the general state season the limit will be six ducks per day and in possession.

Rather than try to review every detail of the waterfowl-hunting seasons, stop and see your license dealer. First of all, get your hunting license if you don't have one already. Get a duck stamp, and that's $3. The department of the interior tried to raise it to $5 but Congress wouldn't go for that.

Next, pick up the state and federal regulations on waterfowl shooting, shooting hours, transportation, etc., and you will find maps of the season areas.

IT ALMOST TAKES A STAFF of lawyers to expalin the goose season limits, but not having that staff, I'll try to give you what the Fish and Game Commission says. It goes like this:

The Colorado River Strip goose season begins Tuesday, along with the ducks. There is a limit of six birds per day, six in possession, but the limit must contain not fewer than three white geese and not more than three of the dark species, of which only two may be Canada geese or its subspecies.

In the balance of Fish and Game District 22 (Imperial County, eastern Riverside County and southeastern San Bernardino County) only one bird may be a Canada goose or its subspecies, and hunting for Canada geese in that area must stop at sunset Dec. 24, even though the general season lasts through Jan. 7.

Not more than one Ross' goose may be taken in any bag in any part of the state at any time throughout the early and general seasons.

In the northeast, the limit on geese is three per day and six in possession, but the daily limit may be increased to six provided three of those are white geese.

Shooting hours will be from one-half hour before sunrise to sunset, and it will be well to check a tide book timetable for such hours.

DON'T BLAME THE STATE Fish and Game Commission for all those regulations because it has to act within the framework as set by the Department of Interior. If you have a regular California Hunting Regulations pamphlet, forget it as far as waterfowl shooting is concerned. Duck and goose regulations were set after the pamphlet was printed.

Public hunting will be allowed for the first time this year in the new California shooting ground, the San Luis Island National Wildlife Refuge, six miles north of Los Banos.

The Gray Lodge Waterfowl Management area in Colusa County and the refuges in Delvan, Colusa, Sutter and Merced Wildlife areas will not be opened to the public until Oct. 21. Other state management areas, such as Imperial, where most of the Southland hunters go, will open on Oct. 14, the date for the general season. Reason for the delay in some areas is because of the late crop harvests.

If you wish to shoot at Imperial, get to your license dealer promptly and fill out the necessary form. It must be in Sacramento 10 days prior to the date you have selected.

Otherwise you can always go down to the IWMA on a Wednesday, Saturday or Sunday, sit in your car and take a chance that somebody won't show; then it will be first-come, first-served.

OCEAN FISHING — That remarkable run of yellowfin tuna continued for the San Diego fleet Thursday, with 602 of the fish hitting the decks of the boats that were fishing in water south of the Coronado Islands. Also, 155 skipjack were in the totals, but the new albacore school suddenly disappeared.

Wally Barsz, manager of the Point Loma Landing, one of the three situated together on the San Diego waterfront, said the yellowfin tuna were hitting live bait mostly, although there were some catches on jibs. The fish were averaging 15 pounds and the schools seem to be staying about one hour's run south of the Coronados. That makes the cruise from San Diego about three hours.

Norm's Landing, San Pedro, listed 50 albacore in Thursday's totals, which appeared in Friday's I, P-T. It was a mistake; it should have read "50 albacore at Morro Bay." However, Norm's Catalina boat got into bluefin tuna, with several hookups.

Queen of the Stage Wins at Aqueduct

NEW YORK (UPI) — Queen of the Stage increased her perfect record to seven victories at Aqueduct Saturday when the 2-year-old daughter of Bold Ruler-Broadway went to the front in the stretch to win the $114,475 Frizette Stakes by about a length.

Queen of the Stage, backed down to 2-5 by the crowd of 43,770, paid $2.80 to win and $2.10 to place and show.

Sulky Wins for 'Faffee, True Duane

Sir Faffee, who made every pole a winning one, and True Duane, who put on a burst of speed seldom seen before at Hollywood Park, accounted for Saturday's twin features, the $15,000 Monrovia Trot and $15,000 Van Nuys Pace, respectively.

After opening up a lead of nearly three lengths at the top of the lane, True Duane was all out to hold off Easy Prom by three-quarters of a length in the Van Nuys, hitting the wire in 1:58.2-5.

Sir Faffee, who was timed in 2:00.1-5 in capturing the Monrovia, talked going away by a length over Real Speed and Huck Finn.

Bob Farrington, coasting along to his first Hollywood driving championship, missed in the features but captured three other races. He now has 32 winners to 16 for Jacques Grenier, his closest challenger.

MISS RULE: Please give brief genealogy on STOCKTON. — A.S., Bellflower.

STOCKTON described this family's home location in 13th century England. It was a "Stoc-tun" or "Enclosure fenced with tree-trunks." There is an English town by this name, Stockton-on-Tees in the county of Durham. Geoffrey de Stockton was a citizen of Worcestershire in 1273. There are several notable descendants including the famous Richard Stockton, a signer of our Declaration of Independence, and Commodore Stockton, associated with California's early history and its separation from Mexico.

MISS RULE: Kindly give data on SCHADE or SCHADT. — G.F., Westminster.

SCHADE and SCHADT both had the same German source. These names developed from the Old High German term "Scadeo" referring to the forefather as "adversary." The Schade armorial shield from Prussia is red, emblazoned with an owl standing on a green mountain peak.

A Door to the Depths

Another entrant in man's continuing battle to learn the secrets of the deep is emerging on nearby Santa Catalina Island where the University of Southern California's Hancock Foundation is establishing the USC Marine Biological Institute in conjunction with a massive Catalina Marine Science Center. The idea? To create an environment at Catalina's Isthmus where the best of the world's marine scientists can labor and teach aspiring young scientists the lore of the sea. In addition, the presence of the cream of the nation's marine-oriented commercial enterprises will also be involved. First element of the physical plant in which the men will labor is shown at the bottom of the cover montage, while one of USC's skin-diving scientists is pictured photographing undersea life in the other photo. For George Laine's story on all this, turn to page four.

Marine Biological Institute building rises at Fisherman's Cove, Catalina.

By George Laine

THE SEA — THAT IMMENSE watery grab bag from which man has been able to take only those prizes which he can lay hands on easily (and sometimes by blindly groping)—may be forced to yield new gifts for mankind when the USC Marine Biological Institute and the Catalina Marine Science Center go into operation early next year.

A fantastic assortment of marine flora and fauna inhabiting Catalina's coastal waters — incredible in their variety, size and abundance — lured USC's Hancock Foundation to the resort island; the same combination also acted as the magnet which attracted North American Aviation's Ocean Systems Division to become the first of an expected drove of commercial firms seeking military and mercantile answers from the depths.

USC, which hasn't had an on-shore base for its Marine Biological Institute since its initial facility at Venice burned to the ground in a 1920s fire, accomplished the mating of its project to Catalina with a simplicity that defies simple retelling.

Four years ago Philip K. Wrigley and the Santa Catalina Island Co. hired William L. Pereira and Associates to master plan the entire island. Pereira neatly isolated those areas which seemed to lend themselves to man's pursuits and suggested stern regulation to keep the rest of the island in its rustic, wilderness state.

When Dr. Norman Topping, president of USC, heard about the plan, he inquired of Wrigley if there might not be a location on the island that USC might be able to use for marine research. Wrigley said he'd check on it.

IT TURNED OUT THAT Pereira could have had a university such as USC in mind when he singled out the northern reaches of the island — including the crystal-watered Two Harbors area — for development as an intellectual, residential and resort community which would "resemble in tone and appearance such communities as Carmel and Sausalito."

Wrigley ordered that a gift of five acres—in secluded Fisherman's Cove—be awarded USC's Hancock Foundation for development as the USC Marine Biological Institute. Dr. Topping learned that another 40 acres surrounding the institute had been set aside for use as the Catalina Marine Science Center and, to cap it off, that an additional 180 acres ringing the 45-acre complex would be retained as a buffer zone to insure the scientific and educational qualities the two sea ventures would produce.

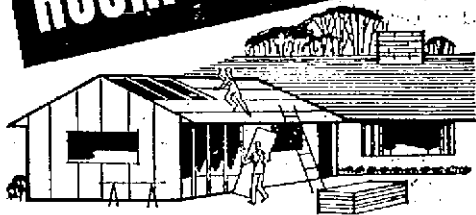

The site, in the northern reaches of the island at its isthmus, is far removed from the hurly-burly of tourist-minded Avalon with its flying-fish ride and glass-bottom boat. It is on the leeward (or California) side of the island, affording ideal conditions and protection from the treacherous waters of the windward side.

PEREIRA'S PLAN looks even better in reality than it did on the planning tables. The first three-story segment of the USC facility is now complete. Two youthful USC marine biologist — Bob Given and Dennis Lees—are readying the premises for the first contingent of scientists and students, expected sometime early in 1968.

The commercial aspect of the project — the North American Aviation Ocean Systems role — is also shaping up quickly with the construction of a hangar and a launching and retrieving ramp for NAA's four-man Beaver IV submersible, which will probe Catalina's depths from its Fisherman's Cove base.

Given and Lees — the two men best qualified to render judgment at this juncture — say that Catalina sea probes can provide man with important new information on the sea, that the combined talents of the academic and business community functioning together at Fisherman's Cove can literally open the long-closed door to the depths.

"It's incredible down there," said Given, who is still admittedly only scratching the surface in his efforts to survey all of Catalina's multitudinous marine plant and animal life. "Every time we go down, we find something we're not supposed to find on Catalina."

He and Lees both described dives as shallow as 50 and 60 feet in which they turned up six varieties of species of which only five types had previously been seen in Southland waters.

"Naturally, we get a little excited," Given said, smiling.

"Naturally," laughed Lees.

The diversity of marine life cannot fail to both elate and stimulate the men and women who will take up the work of the institute and the center, the pair agreed.

"Frankly," said Given, whose boyish good looks belie his serious, intent directions, "we're convinced that once the institute is in operation it will attract some of the world's great minds in the field of the marine sciences."

DR. RICHARD B. TIBBY, assistant director of the institute, sees it the same way.

"Although the national emphasis — regrettably — is on outer space," he said, "we're convinced that the potential at the institute and the center is great."

The combination of educational investigation coupled with commercial inquiry strikes Dr. Tibby — and most of the others involved in the dual-gear program — as a significant asset.

"Naturally," he said, "commercial enterprises are going to be attracted by the presence of a group of research scientists who boast national reputations."

"And, at the same time, professors involved in marine studies cannot fail to be stimulated by the presence of scientists representing the major corporate entities in sea sciences."

"It's made to order."

The Hancock Foundation, which is fl-nancing the $1 million project on a 50-50 basis with the National Science Foundation, predicts that more firms such as North American will flock to the Fisherman's Cove facility. A foundation spokesman indicated this past week that the announcement of one such company was imminent.

In addition, the spokesman added, there is a strong probability that some governmental agencies — possibly the Fish and Wildlife Service or perhaps some of the Navy's more specialized branches — will seek working area in the Fisherman's Cove area.

"WE EXPECT A RATHER diverse series of studies at the institute," said Dr. Tibby. He said that these would include — at the outset — marine biology and ecology, invertebrate embryology, marine mantles, experimental taxonomy, molecular biology, oceanography and marine geology. Later, he added, the studies may include cellular biology, ocean resources studies and special, specific courses for graduate students seeking higher degrees.

By spring, more than 50 professors and students will be making scuba dives in the Fisherman's Cove area; by fall the enrollment should be doubled. At saturation, the total could reach 1,000 students and their instructors. The manpower involved in the commercial operations working alongside the collegians could double that figure.

The USC Marine Biological Institute and the Catalina Marine Science Center cannot fail to have an impact on the northern reaches of the picturesque island, most observers believe. Some fear the change that the educational-scientific presence on the island forecasts but, for the most part, islanders welcome the new arrival.

"I can understand how a lot of people will be skeptical about the facility," said Doug Bombard, of Catalina's Cove and Camp Agency. "It will change things plenty."

Bombard, born on Catalina and a lifelong resident of the island, said that citizens were "shook up" over the USC and North American arrivals without realizing that they are only the beginning of what could prove to be a significant change in the island.

"Up to now we've had our regulars," said Bombard, who held the island record for white sea bass taken on regulation line when he was just 11. "People come over on boats, they fish or skin dive or swim or just relax. The movie people come over and make films here, especially if they've got underwater sequences to shoot; they can't get clearer water anywhere."

"THEY'VE NEVER MINDED this because it has been seasonal and the visitors never stayed."

"The marine center is going to stay. It'll be here. The regular island people think it will change things and some of them are afraid of it."

"It can't fail to make the island a better place."

"After all, they're dealing in something that the island has always been proud of, its natural attributes. They'll provide the northern end of the island with a direct contrast to the tourist activity in Avalon; they'll bring a stable, year-round environment to this end of the island. It'll help. It'll make Catalina more than a pleasure spot. It'll make the island a really important part of the nation."

Bombard, whose sheepish smile indicated he is not often given to such flights of oratory, qualified it all.

"I don't think it will change the general atmosphere of the island at all. The USC people who are here now (Given and Lees) are more Catalina than some of the people who were born here."

The compliment was returned by Given.

"The way that Catalina has opened its arms to us is the friendliest thing I've ever seen. You almost feel like you're home," he said.

Home can be a harrowing experience if any of the amenities are lacking. That's what has held Catalina back in its drive for development. But now, with both the Southern California Edison Co. and the island's home-owned water district gearing for the new arrivals, there is a portent of new and exciting progress abroad on the 21-mile island.

THE FEELING is shared on the mainland as well. At California State College, Long Beach, and at other Southland educational institutions (including Caltech, UCLA, UC-Irvine, Occidental and others) plans are under way to join with USC in the marine studies program at Fisherman's Cove. Many of the schools plan to offer classes — largely in graduate studies — in the fall, 1968, handbooks.

The emergence of the first buildings — a three-story module with extended beams to carry the additions already in planning — added to the luster of the Isthmus and its Fisherman's Cove locale. The red-stuccoed roofs gleam brightly under the Catalina sun, a ready landmark for its professors and students.

The Bechtel Co., builders of the first increment, are now readying the working drawings for the second cluster of buildings. Nearby, the firm will also construct housing for the men and women — and their families — who will labor in the depths. Bechtel will also build a cafeteria, administrative offices, a library and conference centers around a centrally located mall.

Pereira's planning estimate predicts that Avalon will always be "primarily a tourist attraction."

But the northern end of the fabled island is another matter.

Two Harbors will eventually become a year-round community occupied by the best marine science minds in the nation, the most ambitious oceanographic research firms in the land, the caliber of additional home-owning citizens who relish the environment those factors provide and the townspeople required to keep such a project moving.

Catalina's party-time days may be waning; the island may be recalled some day as the place where America got its start on fathoming the mysteries of the deep.

Acapulco, the Riviera of the Western Hemisphere, would rate high on most everyone's list of places they'd like to visit. Some, though, may have the idea that it's a great place for a vacation only if your name happens to be Ford, Rockefeller, Kennedy, Sinatra, Taylor, Burton or the like.

If that was ever the case, it won't be any longer. Four enterprising Texans have decided that resorts like Acapulco are too good to be wasted upon the rich. After all, this is the century of the common man, isn't it? Luckily, Acapulco possesses so many natural advantages that even tourism probably won't be able to spoil it.

The four Texans are the founders of Club Caribbean, a low-cost, back-to-nature-in-a-thatched-roof-hut travel organization being announced to the public this month. In late November, Acapulco Village is scheduled to open as the first of a number of bargain-basement vacation facilities planned by the club — even if Acapulco isn't on the Caribbean.

CLUB CARIBBEAN is — its organizers readily admit — patterned after the successful Club Mediterranee which was started 17 years ago by a former Belgian diamond cutter, Olympic water-polo player and war hero named Gerard Blitz. In the last few years the story of Club Mediterranee has been told in a number of major American magazines, including Reader's Digest, Life and the August 1967 issue of Holiday. It operates economical vacation facilities at 16 watering holes that dot the Mediterranean from Morocco to Israel, one in Tahiti and eight in the Alps (where skiing is featured).

Club Mediterranee has more than 400,000 members (mostly Europeans and the majority French) and does about $20 million in business a year. Its headquarters are in Paris.

"We figured if a club offering inexpensive, informal-type vacations was such a hit with Europeans a similar one in this hemisphere would prove popular with Americans," says Charles R. Terry Jr., one of the four prime movers behind the Club Caribbean. "Lanis Thompson and I stayed at several of their resorts, saw how they operate, visited their headquarters and talked with their officials. The club draws members from all walks of life, including many professional people such as doctors, lawyers and teachers, but also clerks and secretaries, workers and business executives."

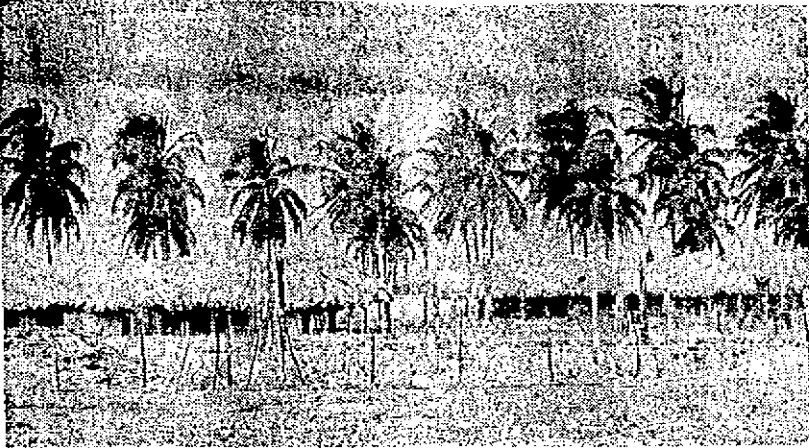

THOMPSON (chairman of the board), Terry (president) and partners Charles C. (Cal) Chambers Jr. and Bob Goodwin feel that Club Caribbean will appeal chiefly to young adults from 21 to about 45. But even children — over 6 — will be accepted at Acapulco Village. Members under Tall palms abound in area of club's low-cost, back-to-nature fun spa.

Young man and girl sit on low fence surrounding open-air dance floor.

Palm trees and thatched huts give village South Seas island atmosphere.

21 going on vacations with the club must obtain written authority from their parents or guardian. Those under 18 must be accompanied by someone over 21. Both married persons and unmarrieds will be welcomed. The popularity in California and some other states of apartments limited to "singles" and offering plenty of informal outdoor fun has not gone unnoticed by the club's organizers.

The vacations - in - paradise - on - a - shoestring will cost members $198 for one week in Acapulco or $279 for two weeks, including round trip air fare from Houston, lodging, three big meals a day, entertainment, the use of sports equipment, etc. From Los Angeles, the fare may be slightly higher. Tipping is forbidden at the village, so additional money would be needed only for such things as souvenirs, possible excursion trips — and drinks at the bar. Instead of carrying money around, vacationers will buy drinks with beads and pay their tab at the end of their stay.

Informality in dress and deportment will be the key to escaping the pressures of the world and finding fun and relaxation at Club Caribbean villages, as it is at Club Mediterranean resorts. Only first names of members will be used, and at such tropical fun spas as Acapulco bikinis and swim trunks will be the most common attire.

Membership in Club Caribbean will cost $13 a year ($20 for a family), compared with Mediterranean's $5. As a member, one may stay at any of the club's facilities at what the organizers feel are rock-bottom prices. Next villages to open after Acapulco are due to be ones in Hawaii and Jamaica, about next June. Similar spas are planned in the Bahamas, Puerto Vallarta, Cozumel, Baja California, the Virgin Islands, Puerto Rico, South America and other places — including California. Ski-type resorts are planned in Colorado and perhaps some other western states. Also, the club is negotiating with Club Mediterranean for an agreement permitting members of one club to use the other's facilities.

The club's headquarters are in Houston, at 3519 Bellaire Blvd. A branch office has just opened in Newport Beach at 1617 Westcliff Drive (Phone: 642-9811).

FOR THEIR FIRST vacation village, the Club Caribbean organizers selected a magnificent setting for "la dolce vita," the easy life: 40 acres straddling one end of a 14-mile-long, quarter-mile-wide isthmus with the Pacific Ocean on the south side and a fresh water lake on the north. The village is about 10 miles west of the city of Acapulco in an area called Pie de la Cuesta (foot of the hills); the Sierra Madre del Sur rises grandly on the northern side of the lake in three tiers. Tall coconut palms, bougainvillea, banana, papaya and mango trees thrive in the area and enhance the South Seas island atmosphere. Not far away are jungle-type regions. The area has been used for location shots of many movie and television shows, from the Jon Hall-Dorothy Lamour South Seas epics of past decades to the current Tarzan TV series.

The ocean side of the club property offers a beautiful, large, white sand beach, but, because of dangerous currents and threat of sharks, the lake and a big swimming pool overlooking the ocean will be the centers of the village's water sports activities. The lake, Laguna Coyuca, provides a narrower beach, and a 150-foot pier, just a minute's walk from the main bar, juts out into the lagoon. ("A lot of folks will be falling off the pier at about 4 in the morning," one observer prophesied.) The lake, 26 square miles in area, is fed by springs and mountain streams. It supports five fishing villages, none close enough to bother or be bothered by the vacationers.

Swimming, skin diving, sailing, fishing (either deep sea or fresh water), water skiing, horseback riding, pool, table tennis and volleyball are among the activities that will be offered. For members who prefer to just laze around in the sun or shade and watch the bikini-clad girls or bronzed, muscular young men, there'll be no pressure on them to do otherwise. But transistor radios and newspapers (not books) are banned. Remember, this is paradise.

Early each evening members may gather at the beach to listen to a concert of recorded classical music and watch the spectacular sunset. There'll be cookouts on the beach, luau style. And there'll be dancing each night — until dawn, if the swingers want to keep at it that late. Occasional lectures will be offered at the village, and guests may arrange for excursions to various places of interest in Mexico, if they desire.

THE LIVING accommodations won't be on a par with those of Las Brisas (private swimming pool and jeep with nearly every unit), the Hilton, El Presidente, Pierre Marques or other Acapulco luxury hotels, but who would expect it at the price? Members will live in one-room cabanas which don't provide bathroom facilities. The cabanas are grouped in eights in circles around central lavatory facilities serving those eight cabanas, with half of the central facility for men and half for women. There is, however, individual privacy within the central facility.

Each cabana is a duplex, with a floor-to-ceiling wall serving as the back to the two units. Each unit holds two or three persons, and there's a door (which locks) between the two units in case a family or group wants to take over an entire duplex. The cabanas have thatched roofs, adobe brick walls, concrete floors, open but screened windows, electric light, a wash stand and a roofed patio at their entrance end.

When the village opens, it'll be able to accommodate 400 to 450 members. By next June, there'll be quarters for about 1,000.

Two of club's founders have moved from Texas to Acapulco with their families. That's Chambers' house at left, Thompson's on the right.

The village's dining hall and kitchen are part of a central, multi-purpose pavilion. This structure, like the cabanas, has a thatched Polynesian roof. Its interior design is such that it can be partitioned to form small areas for language study, craft lessons, lectures and other small group activities.

Eating will be family style, with eight guests at a table. When a table is filled, waitresses will begin serving the various courses. Seating may change for each meal.

Probably the most used of the village's other structures (including bank, post office, a boutique and sundry shop, a beauty and barber shop, a boathouse and administration building) will be two thatched-roof bars (open on three sides), so situated as to give their patrons the best possible views. One faces out over Laguna Coyuca to the Sierra Madre del Sur, which rises in tiers to 12,000 feet. The other opens seaward. The bars have facilities for dancing, and the one by the lake has a loft for musicians.

THE FOUR TEXANS launching the Club Caribbean enterprise are Thompson, a successful Houston attorney who has given up his practice there; Terry, a Houston businessman; Chambers, who has quit as sales manager of the family-owned Texas Foundries in Lufkin, and Goodwin, who founded Air Ventures, a private travel club in Houston which operates a Super Constellation airliner on weekend and weeklong vacation trips.

Often when Texans start talking about their home state, you get the idea they reckon they're living in just about the closest thing to paradise. But two of these four gentlemen think they've found the real thing now. Thompson, 34, has moved with his wife, Pat, and their 3½-year-old daughter to Acapulco, as has Chambers, 40, with his wife, Katie, and their five youngsters. Both have large, beautiful, cliff-hanging homes in Acapulco overlooking the Pacific with million-dollar views. Thompson even can go deep sea fishing from a short steel pier jutting out from a lower level of his many-tiered property.

"I'm a man who makes up his mind fast," Thompson says. "I was engaged to my wife 10 days after meeting her and married soon after that. We spent our honeymoon in Acapulco six years ago and I knew when I first saw the place that I'd make this my home someday."

Chambers, 40, a fun-loving outdoorsman who's as much at ease doing the latest dance steps at Acapulco's most "in" nightclubs as he is skin diving with his wife or oldest son, is almost as sold on the area as Thompson is.

They both figure Acapulco Village is a cinch to be a success. Any place that would make a guy leave Texas has gotta be paradise.

'Si, Senor, We'll Be Ready'

A Proud Mexico Maps Memorable Olympic Games

By John Dixon

MEXICO CITY — "Put some more water in the beans, old lady, here come the Olympic guests."

A gastronomic delight. Not the new Mexico — it's a gastronomic delight. Commencing Oct. 12, 1968, the Olympic Games tourist will be one of the most pampered people on earth.

Hotels, restaurants, cabs, buses, ballets will be just for him. And, best of all, the government is price-fixing — at 1967 levels. Not one of Mexico City's 500 hotels will be permitted to boost its tariff one centavo during the XIX Olimpiada. And neither will any of the 18,000 cabs.

"You Americans think of Mexicans as peasants sleeping under a big sombrero," an Olympic Games official pointed out. "But under that sombrero we are busy planning how to do the job, and then we scramble like squirrels in the sand."

The scramble is well under way, and all facilities, from the architectural splendor of the new Sports Palace to the 1,000-year-old floating gardens of Xochimilco, will be ready for the invasion despite a peso-pinching program.

Caught between unflinching national pride and imperative national needs, President Gustavo Diaz Ordaz made his decision:

"All the money absolutely necessary will be spent — and not one centavo more."

The weightlifting competition will be conducted in a downtown movie theater, wrestling at an indoor ice rink. Each new building will be constructed so that it can fill other needs when the Games conclude.

Hotel space and transportation are the trouble spots for any Olympic city. Mexico thinks it has solved both problems.

The government has commandeered every hotel within 100 miles of Mexico City for the month of October.

After surveying other high-congestion events, with a particularly penetrating study of the Montreal exposition, Mexican officials wisely decided to endeavor to make 95,000 Olympic fans happy, rather than risk making 250,000 unhappy.

RAMON ALATORRE, a former presidential assistant, is in charge of a special Olympic lodging committee. Not even Conrad Hilton will have a bed in Mexico City in October 1968 without Alatorre's approval.

"Including private homes, we will have 61,000 beds," detailed Alatorre. "We believe the average visitor stay will be nine nights; therefore each bed can be used at least one and one-half times, and we can bed 95,000 visitors."

"We know that we cannot accommodate all who would like to come to Mexico City. The fans from the United States would fill everything. Any Texan with $100 and a car can make it to Mexico City.

"Our policy is this: no bed without an Olympic ticket, no ticket without a bed."

To make certain that each country gets a fair opportunity to procure tickets and housing, Alatorre developed a quota scheme, taking into account population, standard of living, and distance from Mexico. The United States will draw approximately 20 per cent of the tickets and accommodations.

Luxury hotels, rivaling Las Vegas, start at $12. Prices will run from about $4 to $40 a night.

Mexico City streets are bustling with Sketch of Sports Palace, being built. It'll seat 20,000 for basketball.

Massive and beautiful, Aztec Stadium seats 100,000. Completed in 1966, it was built for soccer and will be used solely for that sport.

Olympic Stadium at University City will seat 80,000 for track and field events and opening and closing ceremonies of 1968 Olympics.

buses, taxis and private automobiles, daily transporting a populace of 6,500,000 from home to job, shopping and entertainment. Its taxis are among the least expensive in the world, but as in most large cities, the cabbies seem to be in hibernation when they are needed most.

So the Olympic Organizing Committee's office of program control plans to add 800 buses and 2,500 taxis to serve only Olympic visitors. Each tourist will wear a badge permitting him to board a special cab, which will cruise an Olympic route at a fixed fee. And, thank goodness — no taxi tipping in Mexico.

TWO NEW FREEWAYS will connect the widespread athletic sites.

Although the competition is roughly a year away — it starts Oct. 12 — a staff of 500 has been preparing for the Olympic onslaught for more than a year.

Plans cover everything from guides to garbage, from the sizes of mustaches to the possibility of putting horses in prison.

Tourist guides will get a going over, and the "Psst, señor, you wanta meet some girls?" type will be hogtied.

The colorful sidewalk salesmen and street vendors will be cleared from the streets, and so — hopefully — will the mountains of rubbish dropped by Olympic celebrators. New equipment has been purchased.

Police, taxi drivers and stadium employees have been herded into language classes, studying German, Italian, English and French.

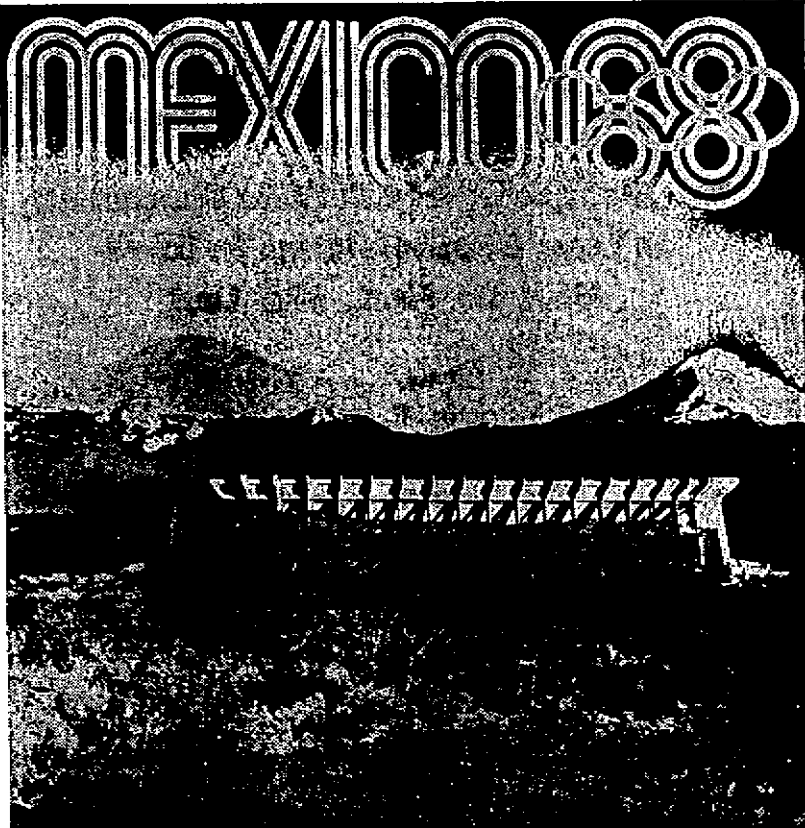

Several hundred young guides, speaking every language except Esperanto, will be scattered throughout the city to aid visitors. The Olympic immigrants should require little aid, for almost everyone can speak a few words of English, and everyone can point.

Already cabbies have been warned that they must be neat for their guests. "Any overly large mustaches must be trimmed," it has been ruled.

MEXICO'S FIRST gold medal winner, Gen. Humberto Mariles, is on trial for murder, accused of shooting a bricklayer following an automobile accident. It has been suggested that if he is judged guilty, he should be sentenced to prison with adequate facilities for him to tutor the Mexican equestrian team.

With 27 foreign coaches on the grounds, Mexican athletes will be properly trained. The Mexican on the street, enthused about the Olympic Games but more interested in earning his daily tortilla, believes his country can win gold medals in boxing, swimming and possibly soccer, which ranks with tequila, bullfighting, rum and siestas as national favorites.

International Olympic Committee members have voiced such exclamations as "ghastly" at Mexico's manana philosophy, but work is progressing satisfactorily on all physical installations.

In line with the austerity program, construction on each project starts only in time for it to be completed by Oct. 12, 1968 — with a margin of a month or so for "unforeseen delays."

"We cannot afford to have that capital tied up in useless buildings," an official declared. "We cannot go putting up these structures just to satisfy people who want to point to them and say, 'Look, it's finished.'"

With 75 per cent of the necessary arenas already in existence, Mexico City was a logical selection as an Olympic Games site.

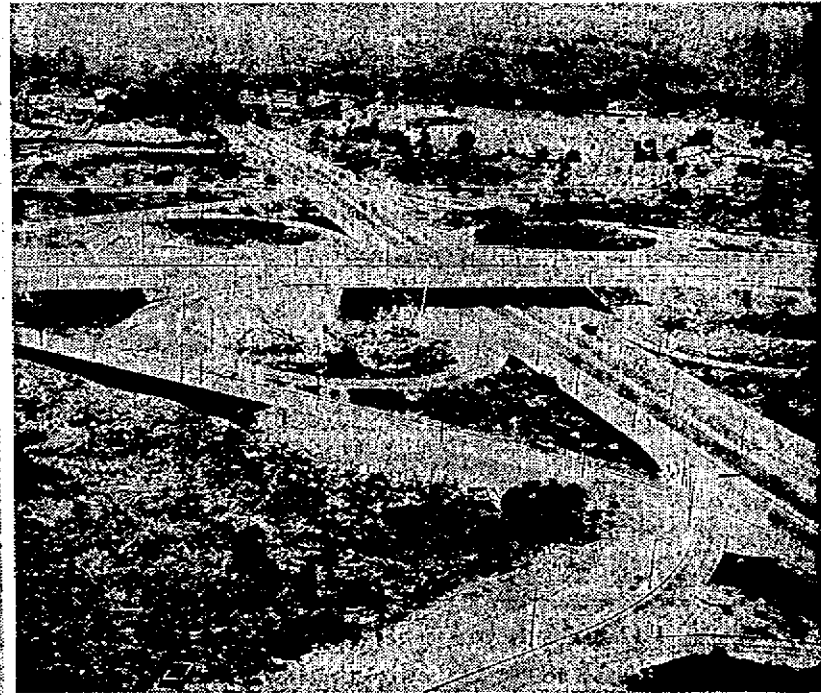

As for new construction, Pedro Ramirez Vazquez, chief of the Olympic Organ-

THESE ARE THE Olympic sites:

Bicycling — Olympic Velodrome, holding 5,000, to be completed in December.

Basketball — Sports Palace, resembling Long Beach's Elks Club in exterior beauty, will seat 20,000. Completion date: September 1968.

Boxing — Mexico Arena, with seating for 14,300.

Canoeing, Rowing — A new windless, rock-shored course, a brother to Marine Stadium, has been carved out of the swampy, vegetable-growing and touristy floating gardens of Xochimilco. Seating for 5,000.

Fencing — Jai Alai courts, capacity 2,819.

Field Hockey — Municipal Stadium, seating 6,181.

Gymnastics — National Auditorium, seating 18,000.

Modern Pentathlon — At five sites.

Olympic Village — Construction just started after delay caused by discovery of 2,500-year-old pyramids on grounds. Will accommodate 15,000 athletes and officials in 29 buildings. The 904 apartments will be sold to Mexican workers at conclusion of Games.

Rifle Range — Campo Militar No. 1, seating 2,000.

Sailing — Beautiful Acapulco Bay, 250 miles from Mexico City.

Soccer — Aztec Stadium, constructed exclusively for soccer, one of world's most attractive stadiums, will seat 100,000 and can be vacated in 18 minutes.

Swimming — Rivaling even Tokyo's Olympic swim stadium in architectural elegance, new arena will house 10,000 spectators beneath roof suspended from 12-story high pillars. Scheduled for July 1968 completion.

Track and Field (Athletics) — All new seats in Olympic Stadium will contain 80,000 spectators and 1,600 writers for opening and closing ceremonies and track and field. A new Tartan all-weather track was completed this month.

Volleyball — Churubusco, seating 5,000.

Water Polo — University City Pool, seats for 5,900.

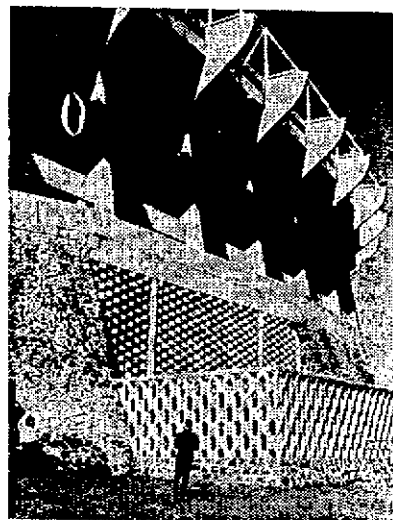

Weightlifting — Insurgentes Theater, capacity 4,200, has facade decorated with Diego Rivera mural.

Wrestling — Insurgentes Skating Rink, 2,500 capacity.

Athletes from 105 nations are expected to participate in the cultural and athletic phases of the 1968 Olympic Games, which, like Mexico City, were born more than 2,700 years ago.

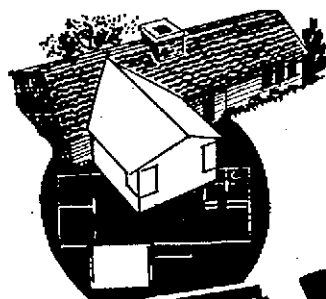

The City of Palaces will be ready. As Mexico's Olympic ambassador, Roberto Casellas, said, "What we are doing is our best, and our best will serve the purpose."

"We hope to make these Olympic Games something memorable — it will be memorable for us. We hope to show you what Mexico is, not what you may think it is."

Goode 'Bachelor Pad'— Inexpensive, Imaginative

WIT, SPIT and a budget of $250 went into the interior design of the "bachelor pad" belonging to Dick Goode.

The four-room guest house was transformed into an interesting low-budget home by the rising young interior designer.

With everything self-accomplished, the changes were made with a minimum of work — and Goode always prefers to accent rather than update. He consistently says: "Each era has a purpose and a charm, so why change it?"

The exterior remains the same in the small bungalow located in East Long Beach, but Goode added a whimsical bathtub, painted bright yellow and planted with geraniums.

Fifteen-year-old beige cotton carpeting was steam cleaned and installed. The same shade of beige paint was used on the walls. However, rather than tear out the old molding, Goode painted the borders and outlined the opening black.

Furniture consists of re-upholstered frames from lounge chairs covered with beige brushed vinyl with a black geometric applique on the seat and pillow back.

The self-designed Tuxedo sofa has orange and gold hand-woven boucle cushions and walnut caps. Matching bolster pillows soften the sharp ends of the sofa.

Error quickly became asset when Goode found four hibachis with upside-down faces. He turned faces up, topped with circles of plywood and bought leopard skin to form into cushions for unusual and interesting seating around another bargain . . . the solid walnut Danish coffee table. The hibachis were $1.25 but the coffee table cut deeply into the budget.

BELGIAN linen draperies have found their fourth home. They have served adequately and attractively in the other apartments and the orange velvet border with black gimp trim seems ideal in the color scheme planned for this home.

With the entry directly into the living room, Goode created a colorful glass bead and wood spindle curtain to give airy privacy.

A $3.50 purchase became a useful accessory. An antique trunk was refinished and an orange outline added to the recessed areas. The flat top made it useful as a table and additional storage space.

Matching occasional chairs have served Goode for many years with embroidered linen cushions still intact. A walnut commode contains a bold ceramic lamp.

Typical small house equipment . . . the Murphy bed . . . was removed to make way for shelves and hi-fi equipment.

Goode chose a single pattern wallpaper to be used throughout, narrow black and white stripes. The purpose was to create a coordinated feeling between the small rooms, but the uncommon usage of the small wallpaper calls attention to otherwise ordinary furnishings.

THE BARE alcove remaining when the bed was removed was covered with wallpaper then white shelves were added and, finally, it was outlined with black. Another outstanding bit of wallpaper usage was the wall-length cabinet made from plywood and black formica for the television. With no room for an important piece of furniture, Goode tried to make the cabinet part of the wall by using the ticking paper on all exposed areas. The formica top serves frequently as a buffet. The black top is a stunning base for the white antique porcelain Fu Dog.

The walls are ideal for collections and Goode completely covered them with balanced art including an amulet from an Egyptian tomb dated 1600 B.C., Civil War swords, weather vane, coin collection, sculptured sailboat, oil paintings and prints . . . many gifts from friends.

The kitchen and dining area are the full width of the small dwelling and wry taste tempted Goode into wallpapering the kitchen sink!

After the sink top was covered, three coats of bar varnish made it practically waterproof. Alternate panels of wallpaper and black paint dot the cabinet doors.

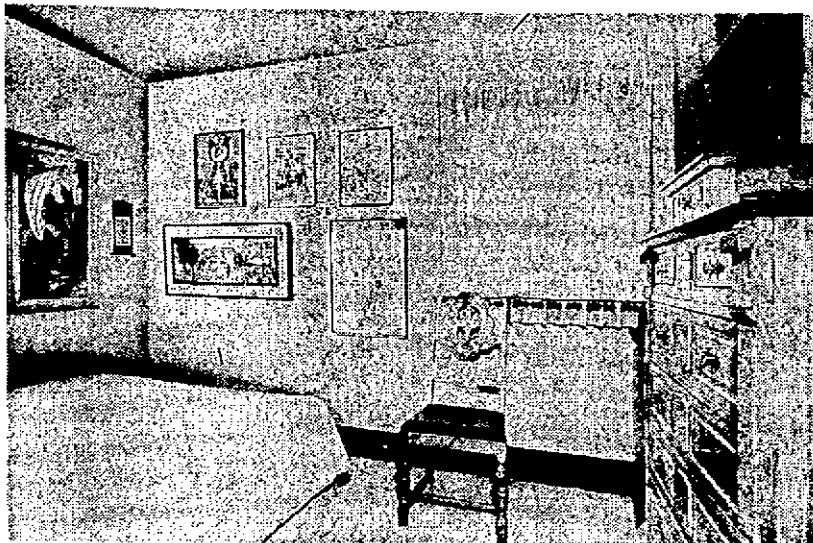

Although a junked stove was rebuilt by Goode, he admits he does little cooking. When he does, he usually cooks outdoors on the small private patio.

To the black and white room a bit of warmth was introduced when Goode Lounge chair with black geometric applique complements black-bordered room. Refurbished trunk becomes table with low antique Tiffany lamp.

THE SOUTHLAND AT HOME

Sharply tailored bedroom in black and beige is accented by bright collection of paintings and lithographs. Gold leaf chair upholstered in red velvet has red rubbed carving for balanced look added the persimmon-outlined, glass-topped table and chairs.

An art poster changes frequently when a friend employed by a brewery brings the current four-foot ad!

Short linen curtains are trimmed with black ball-fringe and cover the above-the-sink windows. The dining area has draperies to match the living room, proving that one room can utilize three types of window covering. Goode chose to use a black and white stripe awning on the door to the patio.

HE SAYS: "When a house is old or in bad condition, most people have no interest. I have chosen to do things in this house I probably would never consider doing for anyone else. I feel the choice of landlord is much more important than the house. In my case the landlord gave me free rein to remove all built-ins and to decorate as I chose."

He says: "Neighbors always find excuses to see what I have accomplished!"

The first view in the morning and the last view at night is a pop art painting on the carport wall. Goode painted a large square of plywood bright red, then stepped in white paint and walked across the board! The striking art form was framed and mounted to be enjoyed from the inside and the outside.

One of the first mass-produced chests of drawers in oak with Carpathian elm burl stars in the bedroom. Identical draperies and carpeting along with the same paint and wallpaper are the decorators base for the room. A severely tailored boxed headboard covers the bed with the salvaged black iron fence headboard.

With little room to spare in the sleeping quarters,

Goode found a spot for a small pedestal table and a "skinny" mirror. Bright notes in the room are a red and gold-leaf chair and the Picasso lithograph.

True to his philosophy, Goode removed nothing from the adjoining bath, leaving the small porcelain sink intact but burnishing the old faucets to the original brass.

The black and white wallpaper was used to cover the walls and the cabinets as well as the shower rod with its coordinating black and white shower curtain.

One wall in the bathroom was reserved for a collection of armed service photographs Goode collected during his hitch as a paratrooper.

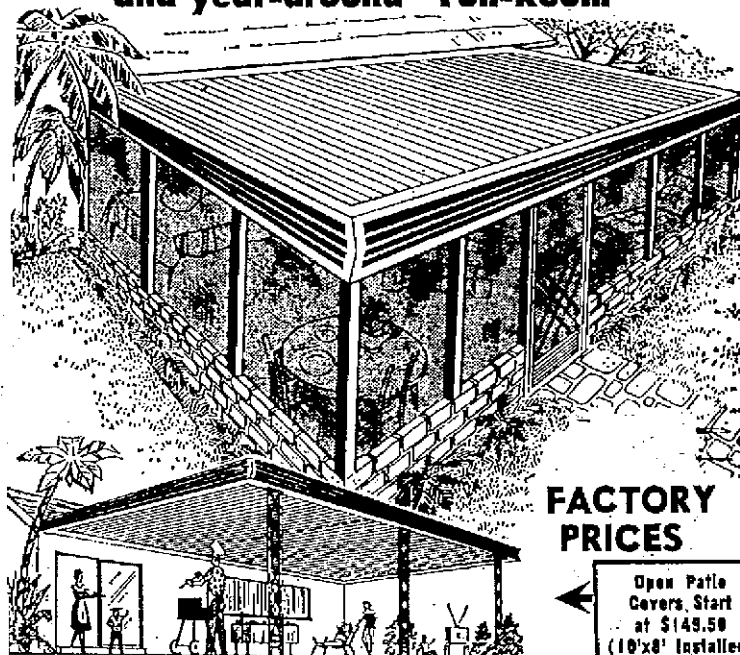

"Simple lines, good quality furniture and fabrics are a must. Then, with effort and ideas, you may change decor very inexpensively," says the man who proved it!

Bold checked floor covering, black and white ticking-covered sink top and black and white cabinets mark pop-op kitchen.

Tempting treats for teen-agers.

Tasty, Tempting Treats for Teen-Agers

By Mildred K. Flanary

Southland Magazine Home Economics Editor

IF YOUR youngster and her pals suddenly decided to follow the fashion of the famous model Twiggy and start crash dieting, here are some tempters they won't want to forgo.

The next time the teenies gather at your home — for a slumber party, birthday celebration or just chatter-and-snacks — try these quick and original party ideas. No teenager (few adults, either!) can resist an ice cream soda and this Rosy Refresher is especially delightful. A quick trick is to start with lemon flavored iced tea mix — the same convenient flavored iced tea mix you use to make your regular summertime thirst quenchers. With milk added, the lemon flavored iced tea mix becomes a base which gives a tangy, full-bodied flavor. Add sherbet, bubbly soda, dollop with whipped cream, and there's a homemade soda that's tops!

For a clever main course, serve easy, economical hamburgers made to resemble little flower pots. First, spark up the meat flavor by adding onion soup mix — just an envelope of it will be all the seasoning you need for delicious taste. Spoon the mixture into muffin cups. When the meat cups are done, place them on toasted round bread and garnish with vegetables for "flowers." Use cucumber rounds, carrot slices, capers or olives for centers, or any combination you wish; hold them together with toothpicks and set atop each meat cup for a colorful, nutritious garnish.

ROSY REFRESHER

- 1 envelope (1.8 oz.) Lemon Flavored Iced Tea Mix
- $\frac{3}{4}$ cup cold milk
- 1 pint raspberry sherbet
- 1 bottle (1 pt. 12 oz.) black raspberry soda, chilled
- Whipped cream

In each of 6 large glasses, combine 2 teaspoons lemon flavored ice tea mix and 2 tablespoons milk; stir well. Add large scoop of sherbet. Fill to top with soda; stir well. Garnish with whipped cream. Makes 6 sodas.

ONION BURGER CUPS

- 1 envelope (1 $\frac{3}{8}$ oz.) Onion Soup Mix
- 1 $\frac{1}{2}$ pounds ground beef
- 1 can (4 oz.) sliced mushrooms
- 1 cup soft bread crumbs

Preheat oven to 400 degrees F. Toss together Lipton Onion Soup Mix, meat, mushrooms with liquid, and bread crumbs. Spoon into 8 medium muffin cups. Bake 25 to 30 minutes, or until done and top is brown. If desired, serve on rounds of toasted bread and garnish with vegetable "flowers." Makes 8 servings.

COIN ROUNDUP

All Is Not Gold That Glitters

By MAURICE GOULD

"ALL IS NOT gold that glitters."

Many readers have written about the small California gold pieces. These were struck from 1852 to 1882 and were in the denominations of $1-4, $1-2 and $1 until the U.S. government passed a law forbidding private coinage.

One of the reasons for their issue was shortage of small change, which has happened a number of times in our history.

These tiny coins came in both round and octagonal shapes, and there are many hundreds of different types.

In recent years many souvenir pieces have been issued, mostly by jewelers, and are usually gold plated or without any gold used at all. Many are copies of the earlier California genuine gold pieces, and a beginner can easily mistake one for an original.

One of the best methods of determining a genuine piece is by the words "dol." or "dollar" with the denomination on the reverse. They usually come with three different heads, Liberty head, Indian head and Washington head.

The Washington head is quite scarce, and all of the $1 pieces are difficult to obtain, especially the round piece, which is the rarest item, selling as high as $300 in proof condition.

Q. I recently inherited a small collection of coins and am at a loss as to how to dispose of it. What do you suggest?

A. There are four major methods of disposing of one's coin collection or duplicates.

1 — Auction: The coins are sold at public or mail auction, or both, and a commission is charged, depending on the type of material and auction.

2 — Teletype: This is the method for investment-type material, such as gold and proof sets. There is usually a close buy-and-sell market, so the seller can obtain the best possible price. Commissions charged by teletype dealers are usually reasonable because of the large volume of business.

3 — Consignment: This method takes longer to dispose of one's material, but usually the highest prices can be obtained, as dealers will list or offer coins at the market prices. They charge a commission, usually 10 to 25 per cent, depending on the material. Because the dealer does not have to invest in the material, he can afford to work on a smaller profit.

4 — Outright cash sale: This is the quickest way to dispose of coins or a coin collection. Several dealers may be tried so that the highest price may be obtained, but in this method the seller is expected to take less for his numismatic material.

If you do not know of a reliable dealer, your local coin club will be glad to assist you in any way possible.

Science for You

By BOB BROWN

PROBLEM:

A Touch Puzzle.

NEEDED:

One glass marble.

DO THIS:

Place the marble in the left hand. Cross the middle finger of the right hand over the pointer finger. Close your eyes, and touch the marble with the tips of the crossed fingers. Roll the marble around with the fingertips — it will feel like two marbles.

HERE'S WHY: Our senses are conditioned by habit, and our brains interpret their signals in the manner to which they are accustomed. The feel of the marble on what would normally be opposite sides of the two fingers is interpreted as two marbles.

They Too Were Liquidated

EMMA GOLDMAN, the American anarchist, in her books on her disillusionment with the Bolsheviks, tells how, after the Revolution, "Anarchists returned from every land to Russia to devote themselves to revolutionary activity. The Bolsheviks had adopted the Anarchist slogan, 'The factories to the workers, the land to the peasants' " and the Anarchists "saw in the Bolsheviks the spokesmen of social and economic emancipation, and joined forces with them."

The unfortunate Anarchists, among them Emma Goldman herself, who also went to Russia, soon learned otherwise. Lenin soon filled the prisons with Anarchists; the Communists organized systematic manhunts of Anarchists, and Lenin, at the 10th Congress of the Russian Communist Party, called for a merciless war against what he called "petty bourgeois Anarchist elements." They were beaten in the prisons, deported to Siberia, and numbers were executed. In April, 1918, by order of Trotsky, then military commissar, the Anarchist headquarters in Moscow were attacked with artillery, and all Anarchist activities liquidated. Prince Peter Kropotkin, the great Russian Anarchist theoretician, who had returned to Russia after the Revolution, was allowed to live in poverty and neglect and died of pneumonia in 1921.

Such was the bitter fate of a movement which had worked so mightily and effectively toward the downfall of czarist tyranny, and in that fate should lie the lesson to liberals and non-Communist radicals repeated over and over wherever Communists have taken power — that they are the first to fall victim to the Communist executioners.

Paul Avrich's study, "THE RUSSIAN ANARCHISTS," Princeton University Press, $7.50, is a long-needed history of a movement, which beginning in the 19th century, reached its peak in the 1905 and 1917 Russian revolutions. Two men — Mikhail Bakunin and Prince Peter Kropotkin — were Russian Anarchism's outstanding leaders, its theoreticians, but through this book also march a host of other men and women, the terrorists, bent on the physical elimination of the czarist oppressors. When captured, they rarely flinched before their executioners. "You yourselves should be sitting on the bench of the accused," exclaimed the doomed Odessa Anarchist Lev Aleshker. "Down with all of you!" Such scenes were repeated from Odessa to Moscow to Riga and Kiev.

Fleckless people have been wont to confuse the Russian Anarchists with the Bolsheviks; such confusion is enough to make the long line of Russian Anarchist philosophers and fighters described in this volume turn in their graves. The Anarchists protested not only the czarist autocracy (which held not a candle in cruelty to that which succeeded it) but the effect of industrialization on society.

They wanted a social revolution abolishing all political and economic authority, and the last thing they could accept was any form of totalitarianism. They saw, as this book points out, long in advance the consequences of "the dictatorship of the proletariat." If many of them returned to Russia after the Revolution it was because they thought they could steer the newly unshackled Russian masses toward the absolute freedom they aimed at. The unshacklement, as we know, lasted very briefly.

Stone-Age Tribesmen in a Modern World

PARLIAMENT OF A THOUSAND TRIBES. By Osmar White. Bobbs-Merrill, $8.

New Guinea is the second largest island in the world (Greenland is the largest).

"It is shaped like a dragon," writes Osmar White. "It lies with its head facing west just under the equator and with its body and tail lying to the north of the eastern half of the Australian continent." (A bit of felicitous description which gives you a fair example of White's skill as a writer.)

Stone-age is the word for the culture of many New Guineans, even to this day. Not for them have been the factors stimulating toward evolutionary change. Geography has played the New Guinea tribes a shabby trick. "The situation, topographical character and climate of the country into which their migrant forebears were forced, probably by pressure of competition in the lands of their origin, offered them a refuge so secure that even today there are tens of thousands of square miles in the western half of the island which have had no contact with the civilizations of the twentieth century." During World War II, Allied planes, flying over isolated parts of the island, observed, for the first time, tribes whose existence had never before been suspected.

Mainland New Guinea is some 1,500 miles long, and at its thickest 500 miles wide; numerous islands are subservient to it. Australia administers 183,500 square miles of New Guinea; Holland, in 1963 ceded 151,700 square miles to Indonesia. Four score years ago British, Dutch and German imperialism divided the great savage land between themselves and sought to tame the hundreds of cannibal tribes which roamed its jungles, swamps and mountains. They explored and they exploited, for New Guinea's natural resources are considerable.

Osmar White's book (he is a New Zealander educated in Australia) deals with a different sort of enterprise in New Guinea, whereby Australia, inheritor of the British portion of the island, is engaged in a remarkable job of political and social evangelism (one is justified in using the expression).

The Australians are trying to make, of the 3 million near-Stone Age tribesmen in the eastern half of New Guinea, a modern nation, culturally and politically independent, homogenous and self-supporting, thoroughly modern. Can a Stone Age society be bridged to modern times? It is as complex and hard a task as any nation has set itself, but Osmar White thinks it will succeed.—N.H.

And Try Not to Miss ...

THREE PLAYS BY MAX FRISCH. A Mermaid Dramabook. Hill and Wang, $1.75 paperback.

These newly translated plays by Switzerland's leading playwright and one of Europe's best constitute an important event for lovers of the drama. The three—"Don Juan (or the Love of Geometry)," "The Great Rage of Phillip Hofz" and "When the War Was Over" keep up the high standard set by Max Frisch in "Andorra," "The Firebugs," and "The Chinese Wall."

THE OTHER SIDE OF THE COIN. By Pierre Boulle. Bantam, 75 cents paperback.

Southeast Asia is again the background for Boulle's skilled pen. This reprint of a thriller set against the Malay-rubber plantations is not the memorable work that "The Bridge Over the River Kwai" was, but it is worth the reading.

THE POEMS OF DOCTOR ZHIVAGO. By Boris Pasternak. Translated by Eugene M. Kayden. Hallmark Editions, $2.50.

The lovely poems appearing at the end of "Doctor Zhivago" were attributed by Pasternak to the novel's chief protagonist, Yuri Zhivago. They are poems of love's joy, of

PRIMITIVE LIFE

Legson Kayira, who walked 2,500 miles through Africa to receive an education and wrote about it in his first book, "I Will Try," has written his first novel, "The Looming Shadow," a chronicle of primitive life in a village in the Malawi bush. It is published by Doubleday, $3.95.

A Sequel to Historic Houses Book

MORE GREAT AMERICAN MANSIONS AND THEIR STORIES. By Merrill Folsom. Hastings House, $11.50.

Not long ago "Great American Mansions and Their Stories," by Merrill Folsom, was reviewed in these columns. The 45 houses pictured in detail, with the stories of their founders and inhabitants, showed that an elegance existed in this country that need not blush in comparison with that of Europe.

"More Great American Mansions," presents 75 more historic houses, each with a story mirroring in its brick, timber and mortar a fascinating person or family.

Here are two of Frank Lloyd Wright's masterpieces of architecture — his own Arizona home, Taliesin West, and the waterfall house Fallingwater in Bear Run, Pa. The Charles Ringling mansion at Sarasota, Fla., which was the circus' winter quarters; the three homes of Marjorie Post, in Palm Beach, Washington and in the sylvan Adirondacks; Teddy Roosevelt's Sagamore Hill in Long Island; the Georgia white-columned mansions and Louisiana plantation homes, the history-filled Morris-Jumel house in New York, once headquarters for both Washington and Aaron Burr, these are among the beautiful structures pictured and described, inside and out.

That Other Russian Revolution

THE RUSSIAN REVOLUTION OF 1905. By Solomon M. Schwarz. University of Chicago Press, $8.95.

This excellent analysis of that other Russian revolution, the one with which most Americans are least familiar is subtitled "The Workers' Movement and the Formation of Bolshevism and Menshevism."

Bolshevism and Menshevism were the two chief wings of Marxist socialism in Russia from 1903 until 1918. The Russian Social Democrats split into the two groups in 1903. The Bolsheviks (which in Russian means those of the majority) were led by Lenin, and they called for immediate revolution and the dictatorship of the proletariat. The Mensheviks (Minority) maintained that Russia must go through a democratic phase, a bourgeois regime, before it attained socialism. The Bolsheviks wanted a small, disciplined party; the Mensheviks sought to cooperate with other parties.

In 1917, with the overthrow of czarism, the Mensheviks supported the Kerensky regime, which Lenin and the Bolsheviks overthrew in November of that year. When the Communist Party (the Bolsheviks) established their dictatorship,

Stamp Exhibit

PHILATELISTS from all sections of the United States will be represented in the display of 300 large frames of rare and colorful stamps to be shown at the three-day exhibit of the Federated Philatelic Clubs of Southern California starting Friday at the Statler-Hilton Hotel in Los Angeles.

The Southern California clubs will be hosts to the 33rd American Philatelic Congress and the Society of Australasian Specialists.

Ten thousand hobbyists, many from the East, are expected to visit the annual show, which will be open from 10 a.m. until 10 p.m. Friday and Saturday and from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Sunday in the hotel's Wilshire and Assembly rooms.

Los Angeles Postmaster Leslie N. Shaw will have a branch post office at the show with all the recent commemorative stamps on sale. Show admission is 50 cents, with children under 15 free.

IF YOU asked the average home gardener about Heuchera (pronounced hew'ker-a), he wouldn't know what you meant. He calls them coral bells.

These perennial herbs are rugged, low growing, mounding plants for edging a walk, a driveway, flower bed, patio, or even hardy shrubs whose roots are soil robbers.

The roundish lobed gray green color leaves are still attractive when the plants are not blooming. During the spring flowering season the foot or taller spikes with branchlets are covered with small red bell-shaped flowers. Some of the plants may continue sending forth occasional blooms during the summer.

Coral bells, "perennial plants," last four or five years in garden.

Set out the small plants now or during the fall season, and they'll flower next spring. They're quite inexpensive, and the effort involved in planting them will reward you annually with lots of color for four or five years before the stout root stocks become woody and hard and the plants bloom sparsely. Its time then to discard them and replant with new young ones.

Coral bells may be planted in shade, partial shade, or sun locations, excepting in the hot, windy, desert areas.

This is the time of the year to set out foxgloves and cup-and-saucer Canterbury bells, too.

YOU'LL help your blooming chrysanthemums develop sturdier clump growth later if you don't cut the flower stalks close to the ground as you cut the blooms. Leave at least a half dozen or so leaves on the remainder stalks.

Your local nurseryman will continue buying gallon cans. Buy some of them each time he gets the later season bloomers. Plant them in your sunny garden either with the mums you have, or set them out here and there throughout your sunny flower bed for next year's thrifty plants. You'll be glad you did because they won't all flower at once, which means you'll have a longer extended blooming season from your collection of those fall into winter blooming mums.

You had better hurry to prune those Martha Washington geraniums if you failed to do it last month. Don't cut those long vine-like branches back to within six inches of the soil, for if you do the remainder branch stubs may die, or the whole plant too.

While you're pruning back the Martha Washington geraniums, prune back hydrangea branches that flowered this summer. Cut the branches back to within two or three buds above last year's cuts.

Snowball bushes, Philadelphia "mock orange," weigella, flowering almond, and spirea that bloomed into the summer season should be pruned back.

IF YOU PREFER to sow sweet pea seeds instead of setting out well started plants from plant bands, soak the seeds a few days between two layers of an old discarded turkish towel or burlap. Keep the towel or burlap moist, but not soggy wet. Four or five days later carefully uncover the top layer covering.

Plant only the barely sprouted out seeds, and throw away the unsprouted ones. It doesn't actually matter which way you set out the seeds because of the little new sprouts. Unless the soil has destructive soil pests in it, you'll have every seed develop into good plants!

Once they become established, don't keep the soil constantly wet or you'll rot them. Water deeply, but only as the soil really dries. Watch the aphids on these plants, and in coastal areas water the plants in the forenoons if possible.

'Wonderful World of Plants, Flowers'

THE SOUTHERN California Horticultural Institute will present its fourth annual "Wonderful World of Plants and Flowers" show in Santa Monica Civic Auditorium next Saturday and Sunday.

The show includes collections of weird and beautiful new plants and flowers, as well as many old-time favorites. There will be demonstrations and exhibitions on pruning, making a lawn, the art of Bonsai, conservation and the like.

"Ask Me" experts will be on hand to answer any questions anyone might have on any phase of gardening.

One section this year will be concerned with the meat-eating plants. There will be demonstrations on how to make a bromeliad tree — to astound your friends, and possibly astonish yourself.

Because members of the Southern California Horticultural Institute carry on plant exchanges with experts all over the world, as well as collecting many plants themselves in various corners of every continent, the "Wonderful World" often has exhibits of materials which the general public won't have a chance to see for several years.

The hours of the show are Saturday, noon to 10 p.m., and Sunday, 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. Admission is $1 for adults and 75 cents for students, with children under 12 admitted free. There is free parking.

Garden Check List

1. Plant all spring-blooming bulbs this month and next. Tulips are better planted on the late side — in November and December.

2. Pick fading blooms from rose bushes and you can encourage prolonged fall bloom.

3. Bait for snails. The cooler weather stirs them to new activity in the garden.

4. Plant annuals for early spring bloom. Some such as pansy, viola, alyssum and Virginia Stock make a good cover for bulb beds.

5. Add autumn color to the garden with berried shrubs such as pyracantha, cotoneaster and barberry. They yield instant color this time of year.

* GARDEN CLUBS *

Long Beach Garden Club will meet Wednesday at 1 p.m. in the Community Room of Glendale Federal Savings and Loan Co. in the Los Altos shopping center. Mrs. Ralph Boggs will speak on "Conservation and Beautification." All who are interested in gardening are welcome to attend.

J. N. (Jimmy) Giridlian of Arcadia, widely known for his collections of rare bulbs, miniature orchids, bromeliads and carnivorous plants, will speak on "Garden Surprises" at the monthly meeting of the Southern California Horticultural Institute. The meeting will be at 7:30 p.m. Thursday at Plummer Park, 7377 Santa Monica Blvd., Los Angeles. His talk will be followed by the monthly plant forum.

Twenty-one

Jackie the Ripper

By Marie H. Wood

GENERALLY speaking, my husband and I get along well, but, as do most couples, we have our arguments — usually about the simplest things. The other day, one developed quite suddenly over the way I opened a package of bacon — the kind that is sealed in an all-cellophane package.

"Honey," he said, "marriage has developed another of your hidden talents; you've become one of the world's best mutilators. How come you ripped open the end of the package instead of the side as per the instructions?"

"To get it out," I said brightly.

"Obviously. But don't you realize the distributors pay big money to experts who spend weeks, maybe months, figuring out the most efficient ways to open packages and boxes? And the instructions are there for your convenience?"

"Well, so what? I opened the bacon in two seconds. If the experts can do better, have them come and get breakfast!"

"Well, Mrs. Do-It-Yourself, never mind getting it at all. I'm not hungry anyway." Then he stalked out.

OF COURSE I was furious. Not only about Harry's interference, but also because I could have spent more profitably another hour in bed planning ways and means to avoid doing the laundry and cleaning the shower stall that morning.

Afterwards, I sat down with my third cup of coffee and tried to analyze calmly and sensibly the whole thing. I had to admit Harry is right about the purpose of the experts' specific instructions on food packages. It's true enough, too, I reasoned, that engineers with master's degrees plan long and diligently for mechanical perfection. And when trained operators push the proper buttons, levers, etc. behold, everything moves like magic with minimum effort and time. But Harry doesn't understand that such things don't always work perfectly for everyone — especially me.

For instance, where there is a perforated thumb slot for you to lift a box lid — if Sunday, October 8, 1967 you have the muscle power of a 6-year-old, or arthritis in your thumb, you simply don't break through to your goal. So you have to grip and rip.

THINKING OF THIS reminded me that I had promised to bake a cake that day for the club's luncheon. After a five-minute struggle, I opened the box of cake mix to find the inside cellophane package had no pull tab. I lugged mightily one way then another. I puffed a little; cursed a little; finally reached for a knife to slit and rip it open. By the time I was through, the whole thing looked like a tangled mass of parachute hanging from the branches of a tree.

This, of course, was the exact moment when Harry came back for his forgotten brief case.

"Well," he said, "I see little Jackie the Ripper is hard at work again."

His remark left me so mad I was speechless (a hitherto unheard-of state of affairs which also left Harry speechless). With great dignity I marched past him to the patio, slamming the door to emphasize the Fahrenheit of my anger.

When he had gone, I pondered what I might do about this situation which was growing progressively worse. I recalled last week's argument over the way I sometimes open cans — with the labels upside down. This, Harry said, drives him stark mad. Now I simply can't understand why that should upset an intelligent man. After all, who is going to stand on his head to read labels? The rubbish collector?

THINKING OF labels then reminded me that Harry would probably blow another fuse when he found three quarts of milk in the refrigerator, most of which would go to the neighbor's cats because he is allergic to same (milk, not cats) and I'm on a diet of grapefruit and hard boiled eggs. Well, the carton read, "MILK." Was it my fault the word "concentrate" appeared below in such small print as to be almost unreadable from the aisle?

Believe me, there will be little use explaining this to Harry. It will only further prove his theory that I don't read instructions thoroughly, if at all.

Actually, I am becoming so self-conscious about opening a package of cinnamon rolls or a box of soap powder that I wait until Harry is in the bathroom shaving or dressing in the bedroom before I'll attempt it, for, despite all the experts' instructions, I still need a knife, scissors or a hacksaw (sometimes all three) to accomplish my mission.

After all, is it my fault that a can of corned beef hash I bring home sometimes has a missing key? Must I be blamed for a package of frozen strawberries having two metal ends on which the experts conspired to hide their instructions from the bi- and tri-focal set by punching out instructions on one dull metal end? Had the letters been bright red like the juice that ran over the counter (with me in mad pursuit) after I had hacksawed it open, we wouldn't have had juiceless shortcake that night.

JUST WHEN I was on the verge of tears over our state-of-the-union affairs, a solution came to me. The blame should be placed where it belonged — on the experts in the packaging business. I decided to write the chairman of the National Packaging Association listing my complaints and suggestions. (I feel sure, once they realize my problems are apt to disrupt an otherwise happy marriage, they will reply promptly). And just to shock them to attention, I will begin:

"Dear Sirs: There are

TWO ways to open a box or package — Mine and Thine and never the twain shall meet."

The way I'm feeling right now, I think I'll add this postscript:

"Since my husband can reduce one of my lemon pies to a mere lonesome crumb in 2½ minutes, wouldn't this possibly qualify him for your Efficiency Expert category? And would you please consider placing him on your payroll — preferably at your Canadian plant, if any?"

are twin births in a litter. But when there is a Caesarian section, which occurs more frequently in some breeds than others, the veterinarian can see for himself. The bulldog puppies pictured today, from a litter of seven, are identical twins, call names Gidget and Bridget. They are owned by the Richard Anderson family, 3505 Farnwood Ave., members of Pacific Coast Bulldog Club. The sire is Ch. Lastonia Mike owned by Marion Insulow, and dam is Debas Fiona of Ashdown.

When surgery is needed for delivery of puppies and kittens, it should be planned for ahead of time if at all possible. The breeding date should be known, as premature pets do not have too good a chance to survive.

Of course, the expectant mother pet should be in good condition. Even then, she will not feel normal right after anesthesia or shock of surgery. The newborn are seldom put with her immediately, for in her unsteady state, she may hurt them.

Many pets can take several Caesarian sections. The surgery will almost always be a flank incision on the side, so that the mother can rest comfortably on the other side and in a short time feed her young without sore nipples.

If you did not plan a Caesarian, and the mother pet is straining to deliver but accomplishing nothing, gently reach up from underneath and place the fingers on one side of her belly and the thumb on the other. If there is a baby pet in birth position, check again in an hour. If the baby is still in the same place in the birth canal, call the veterinarian. He may have you wait and attempt palpation again in another hour. But don't wait too long!

Should the tail and legs of the baby appear, wrap a cloth about the half-born pet and pull carefully. If the mother strains, this will help. Never let a partially born pet stay in that position. Get it delivered, and perhaps the rest may be born easily.

During the time when the mother pet is groggy from anesthesia of Caesarian section, be certain the newborn are dry and warm. Depending on size of babies, each can be placed in a separate wool glove, sock, or sweater sleeve, than all put in a box only large enough to hold them comfortably on a heating pad turned on low or with a hot water bottle. Any bottle will do that doesn't break easily, but you must keep it warm and well covered. Don't put the box in an oven to keep the babies warm. You can place a well padded box over the pilot light on a gas range. Feel to see that it is comfortably warm.

Your veterinarian will suggest a temporary menu. There are excellent products available. Gently massage each pet with cotton so the babies eliminate normally.

TODAY, Citrus Cat Club show, Commercial Building, National Orange Show Grounds; also, Kennel Club of Pasadena unbenched all-breed show and trial at Brookside Park, Pasadena, which will include whippet and dachshund racing.

THE EXPLOITS OF THE INCOMPARABLE MULLA NASRUDDIN. By Idries Shah. Simon and Schuster, $4.95.

A new version of the exploits and the wit of that Near Eastern combination of Munchausen, Mr. Dooley and Brer Fox, who is claimed as native by Turkey (where they even exhibit his grave and hold an annual Nasruddin festival), and virtually every other Mohammedan country. From the Middle Ages on, Nasruddin, in the folklore of many peoples, has been making monkeys of stuffed shirts.

FILMS AND FEELINGS. By Raymond Durnat. M.I.T. Press, $6.95.

Films are a mixture of the mystiques of the theater, the novel, the painting, the opera and formal music, Durnat argues, and therefore an aesthetic is possible. He examines hundreds of films, from "The Birth of a Nation" to those of today, from Hollywood box office hits to obscure avant garde productions to prove his point.

DEEP VALLEY. By Burt and Ethel G. Aginsky. Stein and Day, $5.95.

Two noted anthropologists, after long research, have come up with this reconstruction of what the Indian was really like before the advent of the white man. They have chosen the Pomo of Northern California — a tribe that lived by rigid rules in which the family protected and ruled every individual. They practiced psychotherapy and population control, yet superstition and taboo were powerful. Real names were kept secret, for instance.

THE DYNAMICS OF CHANGE. By Don Fabun. Prentice-Hall, $6.95.

A look at the world of 1986, which Don Fabun concludes, will be as different from today's world as ours is from that in the days of the Civil War.

DANTON: A BIOGRAPHY. By Robert Christophe. Doubleday, $6.95.

Under the leadership of Georges-Jacques Danton the people of Paris stormed the palace of the kings of France and overthrew an ancient monarchy. The young Danton, physically a giant, rose overnight from obscurity, and ended on the guillotine, a victim of his own Revolution. Frenchman Robert Christophe writes an intensely personal biography.

SELECTED ESSAYS ON RHETORIC. By Thomas De Quincey. Edited with a critical introduction by Frederick Burwick. Southern Illinois University Press, $7.

De Quincey's long essay on Style is a classic; his essays on Rhetoric, Language and Conversation, and his appraisal of Greek literature are further examples of English prose at its highest level. All are included here by Frederic Burwick, assistant professor of English at UCLA, whose introduction discusses the source and the development of the theory of rhetoric. The volume is the seventh in Southern Illinois' series Landmarks in Rhetoric and Public Address.

Two on a Diet

By Anne Howe

FIRST CAME the sounds of material ripping, then an "Aw, darn" and finally a man appeared from the bedroom holding a pair of split-seated trousers. Friend husband had done it again.

Now, wash and wear slacks are made for lots of stress and strain, so it wasn't a sympathetic wife who stopped cooking breakfast long enough to rush off and mend the offending wearing apparel.

Not much was said at the breakfast table, but somehow the subject turned to masculine diets. Perhaps a short spell with the diet books would solve the problem of the slacks.

Friend husband seemed interested, even enthusiastic. Realizing that I had been dieting quietly for over a week and still wasn't too grumpy, the idea had all the aspects of a new game for him.

"Let's diet together," he suggested.

REMEMBERING that in the past 20 years my dieting had received such encouraging responses from Bob as "How about just one piece of pie, I don't like to eat alone," or (after a week of careful eating), "Gee, Honey, I really don't see much difference," I thought the experiment might be fun.

Carefully I outlined the required program. Since I never have been able to stick to the two carrot sticks and a half a head of lettuce very long, I usually choose the high protein diet, watching the grams. This is commonly referred to as the Drinking Man's Diet because it allows a before (and sometimes after) dinner cocktail.

Running over the list of foods involved, friend husband was sure this was for him. He'd never dieted before, so the idea was novel, and, besides, there were those ripping pants.

The first breakfast went well. One-half cantaloupe, fried ham, three eggs and one slice of toast seemed like a good start—and all were within the diet.

REALIZING the seriousness of the project, he decided luncheon at home was a logical next step. Unfortunately the diet, while liberal in some senses, does not include three peanut butter and mayonnaise sandwiches, potato chips and a glass of milk, so it was with some trepidation that I prepared the noon meal of one meat and cheese sandwich and a dietetic root beer.

A slight frown of disapproval greeted the feast, but nothing was said. The game went on.

Already my husband had eaten 36 of the possible 60 grams for the day. Things began to get a little more interesting.

I was quite surprised to see Bob arrive home almost an hour early for dinner. Ordinarily he likes a late supper, about seven, which considering my diet status had been little hard to manage the last 10 days. Fortunately, with the aid of a little will power and a lot of dietetic root beer, I managed to wait it out.

ORDINARILY, Bob reads the papers from cover to cover and then makes disinterested queries about dinner. Tonight was different. "When are we eating?" was my first greeting. Noting it was only 4:40, I replied, "Oh, the usual time."

A long silence followed. I wandered into the living room a few minutes later and found friend husband studiously poring over, not the paper, but the gram counter. He looked up guiltily and said, "Just checking how many grams I've got left."

Trying to hide my smile, I cheerfully said, "How about a before dinner pick-me-up while you read the paper?" I was a bit startled to find that I didn't have time to bring out the approved cheese and crackers before mine was mixed, iced and his was partially consumed.

Refreshed and ready to do a couple of things before I fixed dinner, I casually remarked "Feel better?" "Yeh, I'm starved," was the reply. I was getting discouraged.

Summertime meals are usually simple at our house. Kids wander in and out at various times and we usually end up with an extra one at the dinner table.

SUPPER for this particular day was to be a tuna casserole, green salad for Bob (he doesn't like the kids). Deciding I might just as well fix the meal, I proceeded.

To understand the situation it should be noted that my husband, like many others, usually eats a fairly good size lunch in some restaurant during the course of his work day. Since many times he has a really big meal at noon, he could care less about supper.

some extra lettuce to go with the dressing. It was now 6 p.m. Still several hours before bedtime, 60 grams were gone—the day was hot—maybe just one beer?

The entire day was an interesting experiment, perhaps creating a little more tolerance for my diet for a week or so and, besides, they really don't make those pants as strong as they used to and perhaps one tiny size larger would solve the problem.

surname from central France. In archaic dialectical French, Nouguiet described the ancestor as owning "property land-marked by a walnut tree."

MISS RULE: Please give data on SPANOGLE. — M.L., Palm Springs

SPANOGLE combines two early German terms descriptive of this family's progenitor. The source, "Span-Agilo," is an old Teutonic-German dialect, meaning "thin swordsman."

MISS RULE: Kindly inform us on JURKOVICH. — M.J., Long Beach

JURKOVICH is a southern Slavic surname from the region now called Yugoslavia. This name was initiated by combining the given-name Jurko (George in English) and meaning "farmer," with the Slavic suffix "-vich." Jurkovich denotes "son of the farmer."

MISS RULE: Please analyze BAUERNFIEND. — G.B., Garden Grove

BAUERNFIEND is from the German-Austrian 13th century word "Bauernfeind," portraying the forefather as an "opponent of warrior from the country." The Bauernfeind armorial shield from Vienna, Austria, is divided into six sections. Sections one and six are gold, emblazoned with a black eagle. Sections two and four have a rampant lion on a silver backing. The remaining sections are silver, crossed by a blue stripe on which are three gold stars.

MISS RULE: May we learn about BROWNELL? — A.G., Long Beach

BROWNELL is an English surname respelled from the French "Brunell," meaning "little, brown-complexioned one." London marriage records list the wedding of Robert Brownell and Alice Mathews in 1571. The Brownell coat-of-arms from Derbyshire has three silver seashells on a black chevron crossing an ermine coated shield.

MISS RULE: I am anxious to trace OHMAN. — H.B., Long Beach

OHMAN is recorded largely in Germany, although descendants also settled in Scandinavia. The German source was "Aue-Mann," portraying the ancestor as "Man who owned pasture acreage." No shield is discoverable in European annals for this family.

about STILES? F.V., Wilmington.

STILES goes back eight centuries to an English ancestor, owner of a large farm. Styles, the source name, evolved as "Son of the dweller at the stile." A stile was a staircase used for climbing over a wall, common in western Europe. Thirteenth century records list John Atte (at the) Stile of Oxford; Richard de la (of the) Style of Bedford. The Stiles shield is ermine-coated, centered with three gold stork heads on a blue stripe.

MISS RULE: Would like history on FINLEY. — J.F., Long Beach.

FINLEY may be Scottish or Irish. In Scotland this family is a division of Clan Farquharson. Fhionn-Laogh, meaning "fair hero," later Finley, was a medieval chieftain of the Farquharsons. He was royal standard bearer at the Battle of Pinkie, where he died in 1547. In his memory many descendants assumed the name Fhionnlaigh (descendants of Finlay). The clan shield is silver with a gold boar head set between two silver stars on a blue stripe at the top. Below these insignia is a red lion. Irish Finleys, natives of Ormond, originated as O'Fionnlaigh, or "Sons of the fair and valorous one." John Finley of Armagh, North Ireland, settled in Westmoreland County, Pennsylvania in 1734.

look for besides the quality of the food and service. Almost as important are the small touches which are the Outstanding in this de-

TELEVISION LOG OF THE EVENING NEWS AND THE INDEPENDENT-PRESS-TELEGRAM

Television Movies They Steal the Show

By JACK GOULD
New York Times Service

On the basis of the early rating indices by which television puts so much store, the major story of the current season is the expanding popularity of motion pictures with feature-length films now seen six nights a week, the movies have walked off with the preliminary honors in winning attention, challenging the traditional pre-eminence of the regular repetitive TV series in the so-called Top Ten list of programs.

In the opinion of many industry thinkers, the rise of the movie may be the hand-writing on the wall for the medium's future. If the trend continues to rise, as a result of the contagious eagerness of showmen to cash in on whatever format is momentarily successful, it could have expanding ramifications throughout the entertainment world.

To be sure, the movie boom at the start of the TV season requires a measure of qualification. To get off to a running start, the networks generally try to lead from strength by presenting those films that have the strongest appeal. But in the packages which they have bought from the film producers, there are mild successes and celluloid dogs which also will have to be inserted in schedules before winter is over.

THERE APPEARS to be no denying that films of feature-length, even with due allowance for their qualitative variations, have established themselves as the most stable form of TV programming.

Both the National Broadcasting Company and Columbia Broadcasting System are going in for the financing of feature-length films and the American Broadcasting Company, through its basic corporate tie-in with movie exhibition, has always been strongly oriented in the same direction.

In the context of show business as a whole, the growing interest of TV in feature films has many pragmatic and artistic spin-offs.

IF A TV network, through partnership with existing motion picture companies or conceivably as an eventual independent operation of its own, can produce pictures that will hold their own under the sterner test of box-office acceptability in the theaters, there is the vision of an economic expansion of formidable proportions quite apart

PAN AND FAN MAIL

THE COMMENTATORS In the news have regular hair cuts and film well. Would you please tell me why the male actors in the soap operas wear their hair so long in the back? They look so untidy. Is it supposed to look romantic?

W. Webber,
Long Beach

(I don't know why they wear their hair long. Yes, they look untidy. No, I don't find them romantic, but then I don't even think men with short hair are romantic.)

MY HUSBAND and I are very much impressed with "Cimarron Strip." Could you provide us with a little background on Stuart Whitman, please? We have always considered him a very fine actor. Also, where might we contact those responsible for the show—we'd like to tell them how much we enjoy the series.

Mrs. James L. Farrentino
Long Beach

(Write the show, at CBS-TV, 6121 Sunset Blvd., Hollywood, 90028. For a feature on Whitman, see Page 21).

PLEASE settle an argument. I say that "North by Northwest" was shown for the first time on TV Sept. 29. My co-worker says it's been on before. Who's right? Also aren't the Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday night movies all first run for the new season?

G. Atkinson
Long Beach

(CBS says "North by Northwest" was first run for TV and that the policy is first run for network movies until summer; ABC says the same. NBC says most will be first run).

WE WATCHED Hollywood Palace Tuesday

(Sept. 26) and thought Sammy Davis was dynamic and wonderful.

Why didn't David Jansen host the show, as he was supposed to according to the caption beneath the picture in TeleVues Sept. 24?

M.M., Westminster
(We erred).

AFTER VIEWING a couple of the "new" Dean Martin shows this season, we have decided that the Dean Martin Summer Show should have been continued through the fall, winter and spring seasons. The summer shows were much better than the stuff now being shown.

Despite the vast publicity build-up and the great talent on the shows, the format is the same, it has skidded into a rut, and the thing is wearing thin at the elbows.

Publicity releases state the Dean Martin show is not rehearsed. Maybe they should try it sometimes — just for kicks.

J. Paul Gleason,
Long Beach

I'VE JUST watched Kraft Music Hall (Sept. 27) and I've got to tell everyone what a great show it was.

Four stars, three cheers, plaudits and hip, hip, hooray to Rock Hudson, Bobbie Van, Connie Stevens and Michele Lee. What a show! The entertainment one can enjoy for free just by staying home and watching TV is amazing.

By the way, I read Pan & Fan Mail even before the headlines on Sunday mornings. And I must add most all the new shows this season are terrific. My favorites are "Second Hundred Years," and "Hondo." I'm still mad about "Shane" being taken off last year.

cavernous depths of the largest studio at the CBS Broadcast Center on W. 57th St., New York City. It had been constructed as the setting for a nostalgic salute by the star to the golden age of vaudeville, capturing the fun and flavor, the humor and glamour of the American variety stage in the early 1930s.

"THE BELLE OF 14th Street" is a departure from Miss Streisand's two previous one-woman shows, "My

JASON ROBARDS . . . Surrounded by the Beef Trust

Name Is Barbra" and "Color Me Barbra," in that she shares the spotlight this time with guest stars, including dramatic actor Jason Robards, making his debut as a song-and-dance man, and John W. Bubbles, veteran of more than a half-century of hoofing popularity.

But, for her medley of well-known and little-known songs of the era, Miss Streisand stood alone in front of the color cameras. She checked her image on a monitor that had been wheeled into the "orchestra pit" of the "theater."

"Oh, my," she said, "that's not quite right."

THE DISEMBODIED voice of Walter Miller, the television director, came over the loud-speaker from the control room, saying, "we can give you less shadow."

"I like shadow," Miss Streisand said. She narrowed her eyes. "I look sort of . . . blue. How are my lips? I have no lipstick on my upper lip, and a little pink on my lower . . . Why don't you get me from the other side? . . . I have pink eyelids. Do you think I should use false eyelashes? I have some in my dressing room."

The voice assured her that the effect was just right, and not to worry about a thing. Thus convinced, the star launched into her medley for the first "take."

IT IS THIS insistence on perfection in every detail that makes Barbra Streisand's Specials look smooth and polished to the nth degree. There's little doubt, watching her work, that she's a worrier. But it's worrying in a good cause — the cause of getting it absolutely right.

Berle Looks Back on 20 Years

United Press International

Milton Berle, beginning his 20th year in television, looked over the musical-variety field the other day and said, "there's nothing really new. And there probably won't be."

Berle invented the variety show format in television's infancy back in 1948. And almost every comedian and/or host has followed his trail.

"Actually I started the format in 1924 when I was only 16 years old in vaudeville," he said, stoking a large cigar.

"I used to come on stage after the newsreel and walk right through the breakway paper screen. Then I'd intersperse myself with the acts. That was before they called it interrupting.

"My style was perfected through years on the Loew's and Orpheum vaudeville circuits. And when the 'Texaco Star Theater' was dreamed up they wanted my act because they'd seen it for years on the stage."

DURING HIS first year and a half on the air Milton had no writers, relying on his long repertoire of gags and oldtime vaudeville acts to fill the bill.

"We couldn't get movie stars as guests in those days," he recalled. "In 1948 my show cost only $15,000 a week, including my salary and the air time. All I got was $2,500."

"Today a show like that would cost $750,000 and you can't get a top guest star for less than $10,000."

BUT WHY does Berle say variety shows will remain unchanged?

"Because it's a revue style," he explained. "You can't get hurt if you don't stay with any one thing too long. Brevity is very important. A four-minute monologue is better than eight minutes. And an eight-minute sketch is better than a 16."

"There won't be any changes in the format because the acts are standard — musical numbers, acrobats, comedy, visual gags, animal acts, dancers. You don't stay with a single theme, so audiences aren't quickly bored."

BERLE HAS no regular show himself this season, but will be popping up all over the tube in dramatic and comedy guest roles.

He has a dream though. He wants to have a 20th anniversary on television, an hour dedicated to his early shows, hokey gags and clips from the good old days.

"I'm under contract to NBC, but they don't seem to be interested in the idea," he said. "But there are other ways to do it and hope it can be done. It would make a great special."

Berle says comedians with regular shows today are only as good as their writers: "You see the same takes and grimaces every week. No matter how new the jokes are they can never be too new for the viewers because the audience is seeing the same face every week."

"I know," he concluded. "I've been there."

CRITICS CORNER

SVETLANA ALLILUYEVA, interviewed Monday night, Ch. 28.

National Educational Television enjoyed a stimulating and significant program in Paul Niven's interview with Svetlana Alliluyeva, author of "Twenty Letters To A Friend."

Stalin's daughter may be the first international celebrity to scorn lucrative appearances on the commercial networks in favor of an uninterrupted hour of noncommercial TV...

Niven, who probably knew his assignment would mean he would be one of television's most second-guessed interviewers, at times veered into utter trivia, such as his hypothetical question on how the Soviet Union might react to the defection of Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson.

But even if he did overlook a host of questions that could have been asked, he nonetheless extracted a great number of absorbing replies — Jack Gould, N.Y. Times haps that is why they come to Wyeth shows.

Or, putting it another way, one could say that the Wyeth phenomenon is the direct result of abstractionists driving people to him.

The Reasoner show may not have solved the question of Why Wyeth, but it certainly did not solve the question of how to best show art on TV either. There is still the limiting problem of time and the now you see it, now you don't approach just isn't the best way to get acquainted. But, nobody else has solved this question either, and at least, you've been introduced to Wyeth now.

Just how good an introduction it is depends upon how well your TV mixes the colors, too. If you've got one of those sets that will give a true picture of the colors Wyeth used, well and good. But, if you've got bluer blues and redder reds you may be wondering just what sort of color Wyeth did use.

—George Fries, IPT

THE WYETH PHENOMENON, aired Tuesday night, Ch. 2.

The Harry Reasoner half-hour show on painter Andrew Wyeth posed a question that seemed to imply that Wyeth is something of a freak in our times. How does it happen, goes the question, that when all the press notices and all the smart talk in art circles is about abstract art, that a Wyeth show outdraws abstract works by the thousands.

The question is a good one and one could answer it by another: is Wyeth in the mainstream and the abstractionists the freaks?

Critics don't fault Wyeth as an artist. The argument against him seems to be that he "really doesn't belong in the 20th century. He doesn't reflect the times."

Whose times?

If Wyeth doesn't belong in the 20th Century, then neither do the relatively larger number of art viewers who prefer his works. It may be easy to wish all these people out of the century, but the fact is that they are here.

Why people would rather go to a Wyeth show than see abstract works is something people have to answer for themselves.

One could say that Wyeth's work reflects a loneliness that is part of the human experience in any century and that it finds response in viewers who do not find this experience in abstract art. Per-

"OUR ENDANGERED WILDLIFE," aired Sept. 29, Ch. 4.

... The secret of success for many a show is its position in the schedule. One of the most interesting programs of the past week-end, NBC's documentary, "Our Endangered Wildlife," could not have been in a worse position for a program of its kind and probably attracted a comparatively small audience. It came on the end of a program of light entertainment on a Friday night — an evening when many adults stay away from television anyway.

The show, first of an occasional series called "American Profiles," called attention to many species of wildlife facing extinction unless prompt conservation measures are taken. It recalled the vanished passenger pigeon and current, successful effort to preserve the whooping crane.

One interesting sequence showed effort to spare the tiny key deer of Florida which was able to survive under poor conditions that included brackish water but couldn't adapt to man and automobiles.

To save creatures whose environment has changed, the program suggested federal acquisition of natural habitats of the threatened species which range from bald eagles to timber wolves. The program bears repeating — at an earlier hour perhaps...

The Duke On the Road

Duke Ellington will be profiled on "The Bell Telephone Hour" at 10 p.m., Friday, Ch. 4, in a program titled "On the Road With Duke Ellington." Some of his views on his music and his life are given in this interview with a NBC interviewer.

Q. With a musical career that spans more than four decades you show no sign of tiring. You move around the country from one concert date to another. What's your secret of thriving on such a demanding schedule?

A. There's no secret. The road is my home. I'm only comfortable when I'm on the move. I get restless standing still. New York is just where I keep my mailbox. I'm never in the city unless I'm performing there or in town to sign contracts. My real home is the road. Any place where there is an audience.

Q. Your family seems to travel with you, too. Do all the Ellingtons love the road as much as you do?

A. I can't speak for them. But they look healthy. My sister, Ruth Ellington, is my personal manager. My son Mercer plays trumpet in the band. They're always with me.

Q. Did you encourage him to be a musician when he was a child?

A. No. He somehow just drifted into the band and stayed. I was quite surprised. He appears to be happy. I've never tried to encourage anybody in my family to go into this business.

Q. IN ALL your years of traveling, performing and composing, have you noticed any significant changes in jazz?

A. I haven't noticed any. What I have noticed is that the word "jazz" isn't used anymore. Only newspapers and people who call themselves "jazz editors" seem to use it. To me, it's just music.

Q. Well, do you think there have been any big changes in popular music? And if so, have you been affected by them?

A. I'm not aware of any. But then I'm not aware of what other musicians are playing these days. I just don't have time to hear them perform. When I'm not with the band, I'm writing and composing. It's been years since I've even seen a Broadway musical.

Q. But the Ellington music has changed since the days you and Billy Strayhorn introduced "Take the A Train" in 1941. For one listener, your music today appears more complex.

A. If it is, it's because perhaps I'm more complex. I'm a different man from the time I get up and the time I go to bed. As I evolve, so does my music. But I can't say I'm really aware of a conscious change.

Q. WHAT approach do you use when you are writing music for religious services?

A. I've always separated my music. First there is the popular music — the "Mood Indigos" — which we play for dances, nightclubs and pop concerts. That's what pays the bills. And then there is what I call my "personal music." This is what we play in churches and synagogues. I get a great deal of satisfaction out of both of them.

Q. Have you always thought of yourself as a composer?

A. No. I like to think of myself as a playwright. (Here, Ellington laughed.) I've written three plays and I think they're pretty good. Unfortunately, I can't get anybody else to have the same opinion.

Q. What do you think is the future for your type of music?

A. Well, I hope it will be around for awhile. I'm much more optimistic about today's young musicians. Most are very good. Many think for themselves. And they have had excellent training at conservatories like Julliard.

Q. DO YOU think the big bands will come into vogue again?

A. When you say vogue, I think of fashions and fads. Music — not serious popular music — doesn't readily change from season to season. The big dance bands aren't around much because they are too expensive. But I have no trouble gathering a large orchestra for a concert when I need one.

Q. Do you see the day when you will retire?

A. Retire to what?

Movies on Television They're Stealing the Show

from the secondary concern of developing a continuing source of supply for the home screen's own need.

Aesthetically, the gap between the new Hollywood and today's television also appears to be narrowing. When the home screen will carry "Never On Sunday" and "The Apartment," as the networks have done in the last few weeks, the assumption that TV must be all goody-goody and out of step with sophisticated realism is definitely headed for change. TV has found that candor in thematic plot does not result in significant controversy and that the public apparently has an appetite for franker stories — by old TV standards at any rate. The craftsmen of Hollywood have been making this point for years;

Morality and the Front Office

"Never on Sunday" was run and rerun at the network, before airing and in the end a few minutes of film was snipped out, in the interests of good taste and to forestall complaints about excessive sex and nudity.

"We try to edit out material which is offensive," said one network censor. "We're not afraid of any mature themes or strong drama if they are well handled. We don't even mind strong language if it is necessary. But where it is a matter of simple good taste, we try to do something."

now TV officialdom may be agreeing more than before.

The emphasis on movies does not, of course, mean that TV will not always need the shorter program form. Of this season's new attractions "The Flying Nun," "Gentle Ben," "High Chaparral," Carol Burnett and Jerry Lewis may have a significant place in things, not to mention the phenomenal longevity of "Gunsmoke" and "Bonanza."

For an industry more worried about its over-all image and appeal than it sometimes is ready to admit, the good movie carries a dividend difficult to come by.

The discriminating viewer tends to suspend his disdain for the general run of TV where worthwhile movies — and professional sports — are concerned.

Living Dangerously

Wrestling a 400-pound tiger is what trainer Monte Cox is doing for a scene in "Daktari" at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, Ch. 2. It ends bloodlessly.

BARRY GOLDWATER'S

Arizona (2), 10 p.m. (C) —

A picture story of that beautiful state, with its well-known citizen as guide and storyteller for host Harry Reasoner, moves from the Grand Canyon to the parched deserts, from the mountains and canyons to the slums of Phoenix, and from the modern architecture to Navajo villages in the red cliffs. With Goldwater as a non-political civic booster, we visit Tucson, Tombstone and Prescott, talking about Arizona with cowboys and Indians, students and retirees — even a former Arizona Democratic committee chairman. (CBS Reports, plus "Good Morning World," yield next week for a 90-min. "CBS Playhouse.")

The 1968-69 TV Season Programmers Hope for a Better Start

By GEORGE GENT
New York Times Service

The new television season is barely under way and the network programmers already are deeply enmeshed in the cabalistic incantations that, somehow, will result in next year's 30 odd new productions.

By next month, decisions on 95 per cent of the shows deemed suitable for "development" as pilot films, series' commitments, demonstration films or feature-length movies will have been made by the programming departments of the three networks. The final decisions as to which of these early prospects will actually start the 1968-69 season will be made by February. In the meantime, the networks are still facing the consequences of last year's choices.

THE CRITICS have not dealt gently with most of the 26 shows that made it to the starting gate this season, but, as a long-time observer said recently, "The critics are never gentle and every season is the worst." This year, however, even the public seems to agree with the critics.

The national Nielsen figures for the week ending Sept. 17, while admittedly too early to be conclusive, showed that not one of the season's new shows was in the top ten of the ratings and that audience taste, evident since the success of "The Bridge On The River Kwai" last season, continues to run in the direction of feature-length movies.

THE TASK of choosing new TV series is not getting easier. For years the number of Hollywood-produced pilot films has been declining at a spectacular rate. In the 1950's, 60 to 70 different suppliers brought about 200 completed pilot films to the networks for selection. Today, because of rising costs, no pilot is made until a network orders it and has invested heavily in its production. One programming executive estimated that there would probably be no more than 30 pilot films made for the 1968-69 season.

In the 1950's, a half-hour pilot cost about $85,000. Today the cost is $250,000 to $300,000. One-hour pilots which formerly cost $130,000, now run as high as $500,000. Many of the independent producers wouldn't work for television if the networks didn't underwrite a large part of the pilot costs and indemnify them against early cancellation.

TO ESCAPE the prohibitive costs, the networks are turning more to shorter displays called demonstration films, which usually run about 20 minutes and are not as expensively produced, or to expensive two-hour feature-length films, which can run independently and also serve as pilots for new series. Both "Ironside" and the revived "Dragnet" began life as two-hour features.

DOC SOVERINSEN, trumpeter, joins Johnny Carson on "The Tonight Show" as musical director, at 11:30 p.m., Monday, Ch. 4.

TV NOTEBOOK

The Television Board of the National Association of Broadcasters has adopted a new set of regulations that will limit the number and placement of commercials and other non-programming material in television shows.

Approval of the new rules, which go into effect next Sept. 15, constituted the first overall revision and reform in advertising standards since the TV Code, the industry's self-regulating machinery, was adopted in 1952. Adherence to the code is voluntary, but most of the major stations and networks subscribe to it.

The 15-member board approved with only two modifications the proposals of its TV code board last May.

The changes classify only credits in excess of 30 seconds as nonprogram material and permit five interruptions in a one-hour prime-time variety show, against four for all other 60 minute programs in prime time.

The Television Board also proposed that its TV Code Board study the problem of limiting the number of consecutive interruptions (so-called piggyback interruptions) during a program and report back to the parent body by Dec. 15.

Under the new regulations, a program interruption is defined "as any occurrence of non-program material within the main body of a program." Specifically, non-program material would include commercials, billboards (brief announcements of sponsors), all credits that run more than 30 seconds and promotional messages, except public service broadcasts and announcements for the program being shown. News, weather, sports and special events telecasts, because of their special nature in permitting natural breaks, are excluded from the new rules.

A NEW YORK health official has appealed to television heroes to cut out smoking on camera and thus set a good example to youth. While one still finds heroes of old TV series on reruns smoking, in recent seasons it has become almost rare. About the only extensive contemporary smoking in TV, except in the commercials of course, is in the late evening — both Johnny Carson and Joey Bishop are close to chain smokers on their respective shows.

RATINGS INDICATE that the NBC-TV "Telephone Hour," switched from its Sunday ghetto broadcast slot to prime time on Friday, had about three million more viewers for its debut this season than for its premiere last fall ... NBC-TV finally confirmed Nancy Sinatra will have her own hour special Dec. 11 with her father and Dean Martin as guests.

Gov. Ronald Reagan is questioned on ABC-TV's "Issues and Answers" Oct.

15 ... A two-part program about a school where there is no grading, classes are not compulsory and the emphasis is on community meetings airs on CBS-TV's "Camera Three" Oct. 15 and 22 ... Jack Benny's only special of the season, on NBC-TV March 20, will feature Lucille Ball and Johnny Carson.

THE HISTORIC reopening of Ford's Theater in Washington, D. C. — where President Lincoln was shot — and the return to its stage of live theatrical performances will be covered in an hour CBS-TV prime time special Jan. 30. It will

Incentive for TV For Stu Whitman: It's Dough

By VERNON SCOTT
United Press International

Money talks. And it told Stuart Whitman to do a television series.

Whitman has been strictly a movie actor for eight years, usually playing gung-ho masculine roles with his shirt off so the ladies could see his muscles.

And for all those eight years networks, producers and studios pursued Whitman with contracts for a video show.

FINALLY CBS-TV whisped an eye-popping figure in his ear and Whitman gave in. That's why you're seeing him in "Cimarron Strip" this fall.

"There were a lot of inducements," Whitman said.

"I have a percentage of the profits and it is a CBS show, so there won't be any middleman to cut in. And the character I play, Jim Crown, appeals to me. I'm comfortable with a guy like him."

WHITMAN is nothing if not candid.

He's a actor who wants to make as much money from the racket as possible.

Asked what will set "Cimarron Strip" apart from "Bonanza," "Gunsmoke!" "The Virginian" and others of that ilk, Whitman laughed aloud.

"How the hell should I know?" he asked.

"I've never seen 'The Virginian.' I saw 'Bonanza' once, and in recent years I've quit watching 'Gunsmoke!' Television doesn't interest me as a viewer. But it's something else when it comes to work.

"I've never worked so hard in my life. We film 12 pages a day with as many as 50 different camera set-ups. In pictures we were lucky to do three pages a day.

"But at the prices they're paying me I'm not complaining. Not for a minute."

WHITMAN, a ruggedly handsome guy with a shock of black hair and a nose that's been broken a couple of times, appears as if he's moving when he's standing still. During slim periods between movies he drove a bulldozer for his father's construction company.

"You don't have the freedom in TV you do in pictures," he grimaced. "But I'm trying to change that. They try to make scripts pure and sterile. They want this guy Crown to be an angel.

"I see him as a guy who doesn't mind belting a few drinks and making it with the girls. And I'm slowly making headway. There's even a bordello in one episode. And baby, that's progress."

Radio Notes

As each broadcast begins, listeners in the Far East heard an announcer intone: "This is the Voice of America transmitting from Delano, Calif."

Actually, the broadcasts, which include news, special features and music, originate in Washington, D.C., are carried to Delano on telephone lines and then beamed across the Pacific in 15 different languages.

The $8 million transmitting station also carries Armed Forces Radio and Television Service (AFRTS) broadcasts to U.S. servicemen in Vietnam and other parts of Asia. Some of the AFRTS material is broadcast to Caribbean bases from the San Joaquin Valley station.

The station, built in 1944, operates with 500,000 watts of power, making it one of the strongest in the world. A modernization project now underway will increase it to 1,250,000 watts. The most powerful commercial radio stations in the United States operate with 50,000 watts.

Q. Shirley Temple who is running for Congresswoman from California—does she have any educational or political qualifications for the position? Isn't it true that if elected, she will become the Lurleen Wallace of California, that her husband, Charles Black, will become the power behind the drone? — R. D., Atherton, Calif.

A. Shirley Temple, average student, was graduated from the Westlake School for Girls in Los Angeles, in June 1945. Three months later she was married to John Agar. High school is the extent of her formal education. Politically she is a novice. Her present husband, Charles Black, is a graduate of Stanford University and the Harvard School of Business Administration. Shirley has always been a strong-willed, domineering type of young woman. Should she be elected to Congress, her husband, now in the abalone and oyster business, would act as her consort, not as her king, the opposite of the George-Lurleen Wallace situation.

Q. A few questions about the Beatles. Have they given up drugs? How much did they pay Brian Epstein, their late manager? What's happened to Pete Best, the original Beatle drummer? — Ann Goshen, Lubbock, Tex.

A. The Beatles have given up drugs. Epstein received 25 percent of the gross, the four Beatles dividing the remaining 75 percent. Pete Best now works as a bread-slicer in a Liverpool bakery.

Q. Is Time magazine taking over MGM? — Val Timmons, Chicago, Ill.

A. Good possibility the companies will merge.

Q. George Lincoln Rockwell, the American Nazi gunned down by one of his henchmen—who was his father? — S. L. Elson, Atlantic City, N.J.

A. His father, George "Doc" Rockwell, 78, is a retired vaudeville man who lives in Southport, Me. Many years ago "Doc" Rockwell disowned his Nazi son.

Q. I know that Peter Lawford is now divorced from Pat Kennedy, but did he convert to Catholicism to marry her? — R. Adams, Boston, Mass.

A. He did not.

Q. Who said, "Everyone lives by selling something?" — Peter Sartoris, New York, N.Y.

A. Robert Louis Stevenson, 1850-1894, Scottish novelist.

MARIA COOPER AND HUSBAND BYRON JANIS

Q. What's happened to Gary Cooper's daughter, Maria? I know that she and Dolores Hart once wanted to become nuns. — Rolf Hayley, Hartford, Conn.

A. Dolores Hart has entered a nunnery. Maria Cooper, 28, is married to Byron Janis, 38, a pianist, is stepmother to his 12-year-old son by a previous marriage.

JAMES WEBB

Q. I have just finished reading the government pamphlets on the Apollo accident in which three of our astronauts lost their lives. I find the testimony of James Webb, administrator of NASA, shocking, evasive, and incredibly long-winded. Who was responsible for appointing Webb to this position? Is it true that he was owned by the late Sen. Robert Kerr and North American Aviation? — T. E. L., Los Angeles, Calif.

A. Webb's appointment as administrator of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration was engineered by the late Sen. Robert Kerr (D., Okla.), one of the most notorious wheeler-dealers in Senate history. Prior to his appointment, Webb worked for Senator Kerr's corporation, Kerr-McGee in Oklahoma. It has been long held in many quarters that in return for the Apollo contract and others totaling one-fourth of the NASA appropriation, North American Aviation erected two plants in Oklahoma.

The misfeasance of North American and NASA under Webb in the accident which caused the death of the astronauts is now an unfortunate part of the public record. The transcripts of the hearings on the Apollo accident are available in seven parts from the Superintendent of Documents, ranging from 30 cents to $1 per part.

As for Webb's testimony, Webb has long been recognized in Washington as the type of man who when asked what time it is, proceeds immediately to tell the inquirer how to take a watch apart. There is no evidence that Webb was "owned" by Senator Kerr or North American Aviation, but a good deal of fascinating information on his relationship with both.

Q. How old is Fred Astaire? — Jayne Moore Tyler, Phoenix, Ariz.

A. 67.

Q. Is it true that John F. Kennedy wanted Sen. Clinton Anderson of New Mexico to run as his Vice President in 1960? — Robert Carson, Roswell, N.M.

A. Kennedy, holding Anderson in the highest respect, wanted him to make the nominating speech on his behalf at the Democratic Convention in Los Angeles, but Anderson declined, explaining that he was for Lyndon Johnson at the time.

HUNTINGTON

Q. Is it true that Huntington Hartford's wife Diane ran off with singer Bobby Darin? — Helen Fleisher, Newark, N.J.

A. No, they just happened to be visiting the same cities together at the same time.

Q. I find it difficult to get the truth about the July riots in Detroit. Did the National Guard kill a dozen innocent people? Has the National Guard hired a public relations outfit to give it a new image? — F. J. T., Detroit, Mich.

A. An exhaustive investigation by the Detroit Free Press revealed that the Guard was involved in a total of eleven deaths in which nine innocent Detroit people died. A public relations firm has been hired to give the Guard a new image.

My Favorite Jokes

by Jackie Gayle

EDITOR'S NOTE: Jackie Gayle, 40, a drummer boy from Brooklyn, started out as a bandman in show business, playing tank towns from Anaheim to Zeeland. "Some of the towns I played," he recalls, "were so small that if the local waitress was pretty, she was the celebrity."

Gayle's first bigtime booking was at The Show Bar in Boston in 1952. Since that time he has been able to make a comfortable living playing nightclubs throughout the country. His material is witty, timely, and original, and there is talk nowadays of starring him in a half-hour comedy TV series. Gayle is one of the few comics in existence cowardly enough not to have tried marriage. Herewith some of his favorite funnies:

I just played a little town called Hayfield. Its main pastime is getting up. For entertainment the people go down to J. C. Penney's and watch them unload trucks. For special excitement they sit around and change the flint in their lighters.

I read in the news that the Russians have sent the Congolese five atomic missiles. They didn't provide instructions for their use, however, and the Congolese melted the missiles down into 500 spears.

James and Sylvia Symington at their rounds: Here they raise glasses at a reception given by Argentine Ambassador Alvaro C. Asogary for former Japanese Ambassador Ryuji Taketuchi. It's all in a night's work for tireless couple.

Mr. and Mrs. James Symington:

THEY ENTERTAIN THE WORLD'S MOST IMPORTANT PEOPLE

by Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON, D.C.

The nation's two most determined partygoers—they dash to three or four diplomatic soirees every evening except Saturday—are little known outside the diplomatic set. They are Ambassador James Wadsworth Symington, who greets foreign dignitaries in behalf of the United States, and his delicately beautiful wife, Sylvia, who is first lady of Blair House, the nation's official guest house, across the street from the White House.

As chief of protocol, Symington must not only suffer ordeal by cocktail; he is also the President's personal ambassador to the diplomatic corps. "You have a constituency of 117 nations, and I want these people to feel they have access to me," LBJ instructed Symington after swearing him in as protocol chief 18 months ago. This means he must listen to the diplomats' grievances; arrange their visits to the White House, and determine that all presidential affairs are de rigueur.

And as he tours the party circuit, his wife is expected to be constantly at his side, begowned and bejeweled, murmuring greetings to the foreign diplomats, exchanging a Spanish quip with a Latin American ambassador, and smiling prettily at the Turkish ambassador. The Symingtons may pause to nibble on a canapé, then they must depart with all possible dignity, hail their government limousine and speed to the next party.

It's not all glitter

If this sounds like all tinsel and glamour, it is nothing of the sort. The pace becomes grueling—particularly for a young couple who, until they acquired a maid recently, had to rustle up a new baby-sitter every day. They are also kept in a whirl during the day making preparations. In the past 10 months, they have brought the President together with 65 foreign leaders.

The Symingtons are well suited for their assignment. Jim is the son of Sen. Stuart Symington, D., Mo.; grandson of Sen. James Wadsworth, R., N.Y., and great grandson of Abraham Lincoln's secretary, John Hay, who later served as Secretary of State under Presidents William McKinley and Teddy Roosevelt. Sylvia has a fragile, graceful sophistication of her own, polished at Sarah Lawrence College. Both also have an aristocratic look—sky-blue eyes, dark hair, aquiline features.

Yet they are equally at ease among diplomats, debutantes or delinquents. Jim was the President's adviser on juvenile delinquency before he was put in charge of protocol. Sylvia taught music to underprivileged Negro children in the District of Columbia schools.

As the President's protocol adviser, Symington is supposed to arch an eyebrow and cough discreetly if the President should pick up the wrong fork. Jim confesses ruefully that, more often, it works the other way around.

Half an hour after Symington was sworn in, he was assigned to usher in Ambassador Amin Ahmed Hussein of the Sudan to meet President Johnson. Symington entered an unfamiliar White House corridor, swung open a door and gestured for His Excellency to enter. "There was this broom..." recalls Symington. Having extricated the ambassador from the broom closet, he completed the ceremony with aplomb.

On another occasion, he neglected to dispatch the White House limousine on time to pick up Turkish Ambassador Melih Enselbel. There were a few awkward moments as the President waited and his protocol chief sweated.

Sylvia does not think this was as embarrassing as an incident in the White House living quarters. She had returned with the wife of the Mexican ambassador from dedicating a playground donated by Mexico. The two ladies had walked through mud, and Lady Bird Johnson sent their shoes out to be cleaned. They were standing in their stocking feet when the President barged in. Taking no notice of their unshod tootsies, LBJ stopped to visit with them.

Defining protocol, Symington explained it comes from the Greek "protos" meaning "first" and "kollav" meaning "glue." In a "sticky situation," he said, "the protocol chief is supposed to make sure things don't become unglued."

He has tried to take the icy rigidities out of protocol and to apply warm, common courtesy. He sees his job as one of making the dignitaries feel at ease, and he is quick to bend rules to suit the occasion.

When Saudi Arabia's King Faisal stirred up a whirlwind with some remarks about the Jews in New York City, Symington was in the eye of the storm. He would rather tell about a more pleasant incident when the King helped to quiet rather than disturb the peace. Symington had taken him on a tour of the Colonial restorations at Williamsburg, Va. In keeping with the setting, they rode in an 18th-century horse-drawn carriage back to the golf course where a helicopter awaited them.

A long red carpet was laid from the helicopter to the edge of the road where the King was to alight. But as the carriage approached the whirling helicopter, the four horses shied, then kicked and bucked, refusing to proceed. The coachman vainly attempted to reach the red carpet until King Faisal, who knows his Arabian horseflesh, ordered the carriage to stop. "It is a mistake," he said softly, "to push a horse beyond his capabilities. Besides, to a horse, a helicopter resembles a rather large horsefly."

There are no limits to the demands made upon protocol officers. When President Johnson visited Canada recently, a band struck up "Hail to the Chief," followed by the "Star Spangled Banner" as the American flag was hoisted up the pole. To everyone's unspoken horror, the flag had a large gaping hole in the middle. Symington could see the Canadian protocol chief blanching. President Johnson, pretending not to see, went ahead with his remarks. Quietly, the Canadians lowered the flag, and up walked a little old lady with a sewing kit, who neatly stitched up the hole. Then the flag was raised again.

"Where would I have found the little old lady," Symington has wondered.

Symington had a similar embarrassment as he was riding with British Prime Minister Harold Wilson. "I wonder," mused the Prime Minister aloud, "how many of our flags will be flying upside down." Not sure how to distinguish the top from the bottom of a Union Jack, Symington started to reassure Wilson. Then the Prime Minister exclaimed: "ah, there's one now." The embarrassed protocol chief had cards printed thereafter to show the proper way to hang every flag of the 117 nations.

There are, Symington noted, four categories of visits between government heads: state, official, informal and private. The only difference between a "state" and "official" visit, he explained, is that the former calls for a parade. An "informal" visit, he said, may be confined to a White House luncheon instead of a formal dinner. The President also isn't expected to pay a return call at the embassy. In these three instances, however, the same welcoming ceremony is held. Only the "private" visit, often simply a conference between the two heads of state, may omit the ceremony.

The ceremonies are carefully prescribed. After a state dinner, for example, the visiting First Lady takes the President's arm, followed by the visiting potentate and the U.S. First Lady. After photographs are taken at the bottom of the stairs, the two heads of state proceed together, followed by their wives. Symington's duty is to keep these rules straight, though he calls the White House for advice more often than the President consults him.

Jim Symington may be a blueblood, but he has battled his own way to the top. He was undefeated in his weight as a boxer at Yale. At age 17, he joined the Marines. He became an able lawyer, a favorite of the late President Kennedy. For a time, he worked as administrative assistant to Attorney General Robert Kennedy who sent Symington down to Mississippi when the trouble at Ole Miss flared up.

Symington is also a favorite Washington troubadour, a talent he may have picked up from his celebrated great-grandfather, John Hay, who wrote the Pike County Ballads, which are still included in anthologies of early American literature. "My great-grandfather," declares Jim defensively, "was permitted to engage in public service in spite of the known fact he wrote poetry."

The talent may also have been inherited from his mother, Evelyn Wadsworth Symington, who grew up in official Washington in the Hay house and became a society nightclub singer commanding $1000 a night in such plush spots as the St. Regis and Waldorf-Astoria.

Jim strummed his guitar and moaned folk songs as he worked his way through Yale as an English major. He joined a group known as the "Four Gone Conclusions." Later he sang professionally, including a 10-week stint on NBC, while working for his law degree from Columbia University.

In 1953, he married a St. Louis girl, Sylvia Schlapp, a music student. They almost threatened to become a duo act. They still compose songs together, she writing the music and he providing the words. They have played informally before such exalted audiences as Queen Elizabeth. He also sang his folk songs, in Russian, in the parks of Russia during a 1958 visit.

Jim and Sylvia Symington, in their 30's, may have the heaviest social schedule in town. Yet they are a typical 20th-century couple. They struggle to get by on Jim's $27,000 annual salary, live in a white stucco home and have two typical children—Jeremy, 10, and Juli, 12.

They are not the least deterred by the grueling grind. There will continue to be functions to attend, diplomats to present, dignitaries to greet. There will be national days at each of the 117 embassies; these alone will take up one-third of the available evenings in the year ahead. There will also be overseas visits. When President Johnson made his 31,500-mile Asian tour last fall, Symington traveled more than 60,000 miles, covering each place twice, the first time to make advance arrangements for the visits.

But the Symingtons have no complaints. Partying with the world's high and mighty, they agree, is "a ball."

Symington's greatest problem: For the shocking story of crime on Embassy Row, turn the page

Crime on Embassy Row

■ It may come as a shock to Americans that world diplomats, who feel perfectly safe in Tananarive and Tokuyama, regard Washington as a dangerous outpost. Many are issued pistols for protection as standard gear during their stay in the capital of the free world. Foreign embassies are favorite targets for prowlers and punks, and crimes are common against foreign diplomats whose safety is a solemn responsibility of the United States Government.

The failure of the United States to protect the lives and property of our diplomatic guests may have serious international consequences. For foreign embassies are treated as foreign territory, and any violation is a "grave matter, indeed," a high State Department official acknowledged to PARADE.

Apparently the word has spread among hoods that foreign embassies seldom prosecute. Often the burglaries, the hold-ups, even the rapes aren't reported, because diplomats are not eager to stir up ugly publicity. Those complaints that do go through are routed to the dean of the diplomatic corps, Nicaraguan Ambassador Guillermo Sevilla-Sacasa, who has been here 24 years. He reports the incidents to Symington.

In the 18 months that Symington has been protocol chief, he confessed unhappily, there have been "dozens of crimes" committed against embassy personnel and property. He has consulted with the police and the FBI. He is convinced they are doing their best with their undermanned force. But their best clearly is not good enough.

In 40 nations, the American embassies are protected by troops. Police do an adequate job in most of the other countries. It is true that mob outrages against U.S. embassies have become commonplace in the cold war. But with rare exceptions, the mobs have been carefully controlled, and the damage has been reimbursed. Mobs and demonstrations simply have become a way of attracting headlines. In Washington, demonstrations are more carefully controlled, as befitting a civilized country. But crime has not been brought under control.

During Symington's short tenure, a butler was shot and seriously wounded when he challenged two armed robbers who had invaded the Italian embassy. The Kuwait ambassador was held up and robbed in his chancellery bedroom. And the Yugoslav embassy was bombed, an act arising from political motives, yet, nevertheless, a breach of the protection this nation guarantees foreign officials.

The police only rarely are notified of criminal acts that occur on embassy territory. There are a number of reasons: the ambassadors not only dislike this type of publicity, they also fear public notice might lure even more thieves into embassy work. The ambassadors also dislike involvement in court proceedings. There is a natural fear of placing embassy personnel on witness stands under the sharp questioning of American defense lawyers.

Washington's deputy police chief, Howard Covell, in charge of the embassy detail, will not discuss the subject, saying, "It's a State Department problem."

The Washington police use "short beats" along embassy row, so that patrol cars can keep the embassies under closer surveillance than is normal elsewhere in the city. Occasionally, guards have been posted at some embassies. Still, the crimes go on.

If the police and the FBI are too short-handed to provide adequate protection, the armed forces perhaps ought to take over the job. At a time when Republicans are planning to make crime a national issue, President Johnson ought to be interested in guarding against U.S. crime becoming an international scandal.

Symington has considered dramatizing his plight as the go-between in providing U.S. protection to foreign embassies. He won't say who wrote the words, but his lament can be sung to the old folk tune, "Jimmy Crack Corn."

"When I was appointed diplomat
I bought a suit and tall, silk hat.
I lost my suit to a man with a gun,
And a hat ain't enough in Washin'-ton.

Jimmy, my boy,
I sure do care
They'll steal my jewels
When I'm unaware.
They'll rape my maids
And the charge d'affaire,
My life is in your hands.

On embassy row where I now live
I met a citizen with a shiv.
So I bowed to my left
And bowed to my right,
And gave up my money without a fight.

Jimmy, my boy,
I hate to call
But the criminal types
Have me up a wall.
When crimes are big,
Or when they're small,
Our lives depend on protocol.

I was holding a dinner for twenty-three
When a robber came to visit at the embassy.

Between King Faisal and a second-story man,
Was where I had him listed in my seating plan.

Jimmy, my boy,
I'm much annoyed.
They opened my lock
With celluloid
Now my insurance
Policy's void.
My life is in your hands.

I think this year for the diplomatic corps,
The gifts will be pistols of .45 bore.
With silver on the barrels and pearl on the handles

To scare away the burglars, the thieves and vandals.

Jimmy, my boy
That's the way to do
Keep your eye on the tapestry
And the silverware, too.
If J. Edgar Hoover
Can't help you,
Then call on the Army and the Navy men in blue."

A calf on wheels: cowboy on a ranch horse rounds up mechanical calf controlled by radio.

This calf never had a mother

BY JOHN G. ROGERS

BRENHAM, TEX.

What's the Wild West coming to? It now develops that the latest wrinkle in training ranch horses is a mechanical calf made of fiberglass, powered by electric motor and steered by remote control.

When this little dogie gets along it's on rubber tires—in fact, with bad luck, he could be the first calf in world history to have a flat tire. And if you look where his stomach ought to be, you find a radio receiver.

Lee R. Harris, the Texan who invented the mechanical calf, is half-owner of a company that's sold some 200 of them all around the country. And each little critter is hard at work training horses in the maneuver of "cutting."

Actually, on modern ranches the function of "cutting" a calf out of the herd is achieved through chutes and corrals and today's "cutting" horse is largely a contest animal. There is a National Cutting Horse Association and many state and regional ones. Competition is fierce at their rodeo-like get-togethers.

When the mechanical calf is at work, the remote controller is perhaps 400 yards distant, pressing buttons on a hand transmitter. The calf picks up the signals and responds by running, twisting, turning, dodging at high or low speed while a rider on a real live horse trains his mount to "cut" out the calf and take it where he wants to.

What are the advantages of this 600-pound calf that sells for nearly $2500? Harris, the inventor, a 38-year-old part-time rancher and rodeo contestant explains:

"You can train your horse anywhere without worrying about fences to hold the calves in, or helpers to turn them back. The calf doesn't eat anything so you save feed bills. You can train a horse in about a third of the time because you don't have to rest the calf—just plug him in at night to recharge his batteries.

"Another thing, live calves—if you were training six horses you'd need about 20 of 'em—have to be replaced as they grow up or get balky."

Harris began tinkering toward a mechanical calf in 1960 when he felt he was spending too much money on cattle and feed in training two horses of his own. It took him two years to perfect the first calf and, he recalls, "My wife and kids thought I was off my rocker." Today he and a friend own a factory in Brenham that turns out about 50 mechanical calves a year.

Harris is so taken with his little robot dogies that at times his mind plays with carrying the whole concept to its ultimate.

"I get to dreaming," he confides, "about building a mechanical cutting horse to be used with a mechanical calf."

The inventor and his calf: Lee R. Harris worked 2 years perfecting original model.

Why women suffer irregularity, fullness and intolerance to fats.

It's true. These symptoms frequently occur together.

Because they have the same cause: irregular habits and improper diet. The pace of today's modern woman is hectic. With their special pressures and problems, no wonder so many women pay the penalty of irregularity with indigestion.

That is why physicians frequently specify Caroid® and Bile Salts Tablets rather than an ordinary laxative. Caroid and Bile Salts Tablets are unique. They are designed to treat the full complex of symptoms.

Caroid and Bile Salts Tablets act gently in 3 ways: they help improve the digestion and aid in the absorption of proteins, fats and fat-soluble vitamins. They increase the flow of natural bile. They gently, effectively stimulate laxation.

With the help of Caroid and Bile Salts Tablets, you can relieve irregularity, and accompanying bloating, fullness and intolerance to fats.

For fast gentle action, get Caroid and Bile Salts Tablets today. Available at drug counters everywhere.

No prescription needed.

'68 Impala coupes.

Dramatically new!
Fastback or formal.

Now America's most popular coupe, the Chevrolet Impala, comes in your choice of two personalities: (1) sleek and smart; (2) poised and commanding. Of course, if you look at the two straight on, you have trouble telling them apart. Both have Chevrolet's new full-depth grille, sweeping new hood lines, and Hide-A-Way windshield wipers.

A MORE SILENT RIDE

Both are unbelievably smooth and silent-riding cars. Chevrolet engineers have used electronic computers to analyze potential noises and vibrations and nip them in the bud. Exclusive new double-cushioned rubber body mounts, strategically located, result in a library-quiet ride that puts Impala even further ahead of its field.

PROVED SAFETY FEATURES

On all '68 Chevrolets are the famous proved GM-developed energy-absorbing steering column and folding front seat back latches.

Brand-new items include energy-absorbing front seat backs and seat belts with push-button buckles for all passenger positions. The sumptuous new interiors are generously padded and new safety armrests shield door handles. There is even a buzzer to warn you if you've left the keys in the ignition, another thoughtful new Chevrolet feature.

NEW ENGINES, TOO

The cars come with a bigger standard V8 engine—307 cubic inches now. And there's a special 250-hp Eight you can order that gets along just beautifully on regular fuel. Most models equipped with automatic transmissions come with a new carburetor heater that warms the air to give you more efficient performance in cold weather.

You can't top a 1968 Chevrolet Impala Coupe. No matter which roof line you decide to go with.

BE SMART. BE SURE. BUY NOW AT YOUR CHEVROLET DEALER'S.

Why does God allow SUFFERING?

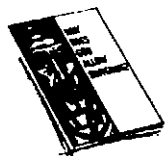

School children die when a bus tire blows. Cancer takes a young mother. A President is shot. Why? Where is God when these things happen?

In the depths of blind anguish, some people lash out that maybe God is a tyrant. Maybe He wants people to suffer. Or maybe human wretchedness is beyond His control!

For many, saying "It is God's will" is enough. For many others it is not. Who's being punished for what? Dogged by misfortune, failure, illness, people often lose faith. Even if you're not personally involved, you wonder, "Why?"

Is there an answer? How can Christians, facing despair, reconcile their misery and God? How can they go on worshipping Him as a loving God? Yet they do. In fact, they find in Christianity an un-failing source of strength.

This free booklet can help you understand this Christian perspective... help you face suffering with the renewed faith and courage it can give.

PARADE'S SPECIAL INTELLIGENCE REPORT

BECAUSE OF LARGE MAIL VOLUME, PARADE CANNOT ANSWER QUERIES.

GET McNAMARA

Political friends of the U.S. military: Sen. Stuart Symington of Missouri, Sen. John Stennis of Mississippi, Rep. Mendel Rivers of South Carolina, Rep. Porter Hardy of Virginia, Sen. Barry Goldwater, a general in the Air Force Reserve, Sen. Strom Thurmond of South Carolina, another Reserve general -- all seem determined to force the resignation of Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara.

Basic reason: These men are essentially Hawks, feel strongly that the military should be allowed control of the war in Vietnam although much of the military strategy to date has been both incorrect and ineffective.

Although he has made errors, in office, McNamara is considered by men who have long covered the Pentagon to be the best, most knowledgeable Defense Secretary this country has ever had. His refusal to knuckle under to the military is responsible for the political infighting now underway.

Although President Johnson recently signed into law the right of the Joint Chiefs of Staff to serve for four years, thus giving them tenure, he doggedly continues to support McNamara, because he knows that a large segment of the military fraternity is prepared to go to war with China now, while McNamara is determined to limit the war in Southeast Asia to South Vietnam.

Rarely in modern history have two such dedicated men as Johnson and McNamara borne such continued contumely and vicious criticism. Both have thankless, killing jobs, and while their policies should be open to criticism and are, it is unfair to subject public servants of their ilk to malicious slander.

In any event, Robert McNamara is not resigning in the near future no matter how mounting the pressure.

PHONY TWENTIES

Australian detectives have uncovered a plan by international counterfeiters to flood various Far Eastern cities with counterfeit American currency.

The plan called for the distribution of the phony bills to coincide with the arrival of American troops on leave from Vietnam in Sydney, Brisbane, Taipei, Tokyo, possibly Honolulu.

More than 50,000 bogus $20 bills were seized by the Australians, who immediately wired details of the plot to Interpol. Two German "tourists," recent returnees from Sydney, were thereupon arrested in Berlin along with an Italian female confederate in Rome.

SOUTHPAWS

A new organization has been founded to protect left-handed people from defamation and discrimination. There are an estimated 200 million southpaws in a world of 3 billion right-handers.

The left-handers association is headed by an Englishman, Michael Barsley, author of The Left-Handed Book, an Investigation into the Sinister History of Left-Handedness. According to Barsley, lefties have been discriminated against since the Bronze Age when man first began to use tools. Most languages and cultures of the world identify "right" with good and "left" with bad. The devil is popularly depicted as left-handed, even though many lefties, from artist Leonardo da Vinci to Beatle Paul McCartney, have achieved fame through their manual dexterity.

Physiologists and pediatricians have long insisted that children who favor their left, should not be compelled to use their right hands, or at least should be trained to use both. But to this day, in many countries, it is forbidden to teach children to write left-handed, although, according to a study by U.S. scientist Bryng Bryngelson, as many as one-third of all children may be predisposed by nature to be left-handed.

Thus far only athletes find any substantial advantage in being left-handed, although one left-handed dictator claimed it didn't handicap him in the least. His name: Julius Caesar.

LITTLE MERCHANTS

One of the biggest groups of small merchants in the nation will be honored on Saturday, Oct. 14, which has been designated International Newspaperboy Day. There are well over 600,000 of these cheerful kids who travel by bike or foot, rain or shine, delivering more than 40 million newspapers each day. They collect more than $1 billion a year from their customers. Most of the boys operate on the "little merchant plan," buying their papers at wholesale from the publisher, selling them to subscribers at a profit. Both boys and publishers prefer this system since it encourages initiative. Publishers gain circulation, boys gain profit. A recent survey showed that 75 percent of boys questioned would like to have a newspaper route. Their reasons rang with the universal needs of boyhood: "I'm saving up for a trumpet." "I want to buy a new bike." "To make money I can call my own." "I have to save toward college." "I help out at home."

SKIN BANK

A team of British scientists and surgeons has learned how to preserve human skin longer than it has ever been preserved before. By storing skin in glycerol at -190 degrees centigrade, these men have been able to keep skin alive for months, hope to increase the storage span to years.

What this means is that plastic surgeons can develop skin banks, can provide badly burned patients with emergency temporary skin cover until permanent grafts can be produced from their own bodies.

The major obstacle in plastic surgery is that a skin graft from one person usually proves incompatible with the body chemistry of another person and is thus rejected. But scientists are hopeful of overcoming this difficulty, have developed several agents to neutralize the incompatibility factor.

TV LINEUP

The network brass who decide what does and does not get on TV are convinced that the average American doesn't want to think. They are convinced that when he watches TV, he wants to be entertained, not challenged. The result is that the networks this fall are offering in prime time 20 situation comedies, 14 westerns, 10 variety series, 5 crime shows, and 12 hours of old movies.

The accent is on escapism, a concept which is driving more and more thinking people to escape from TV.

Goulash with Potato Dumplings

By Beth Merriman

PARADE FOOD EDITOR

From Vienna, city of romance, music and traditionally fine food, comes the inspiration for this recipe—a rich and flavorful goulash mellowed with sour cream and served with fluffy potato dumplings. Much of the work has been eliminated from this modern version without any sacrifice of flavor. The zestful meat marinade does the trick for the goulash, while instant mashed potatoes make quick work of the dumplings. Wunderbar!

Begin dinner with chilled pineapple juice and tiny whole wheat crackers. Choose broccoli to accompany the goulash and dumplings, plus a salad of mixed greens or raw carrot sticks. For dessert, crisp juicy apples, well-chilled, or a rich Viennese pastry.

Vienna Goulash

- | | |
|---------------------------------|------------------------------------|
| 1 package instant meat marinade | 1 teaspoon paprika |
| $\frac{2}{3}$ cup cold water | 3 lbs. stewing beef, cubed |
| 1 medium onion, thinly sliced | $\frac{2}{3}$ cup dairy sour cream |

Blend instant meat marinade, water, onion and paprika in Dutch oven or large casserole. Arrange meat in single layer in marinade. Pierce all surfaces thoroughly and deeply with a fork. Marinate 15 minutes, turning several times. Cover tightly, bake at 325° for 1½ to 2 hours or until meat is tender. Just before serving, blend in sour cream. Serve with Potato Dumplings. Makes 6 servings.

Potato Dumplings

- | | |
|---|--|
| $\frac{3}{4}$ cup instant mashed potatoes | $\frac{1}{4}$ teaspoon nutmeg |
| $1\frac{1}{4}$ cups boiling water | $\frac{1}{2}$ cup unsifted all-purpose |
| 1 teaspoon salt | flour (approx.) |
| 2 eggs | Packaged croûtons |

Combine instant mashed potatoes (just as they come from the package), boiling water and salt. Beat in eggs, nutmeg and flour. Mixture will be soft, but can be handled with floured hands. Shape into small balls with croûton in center of each. Drop into gently simmering salted water. Cook 10 to 12 minutes. Remove with slotted spoon; drain well. Toss with melted butter; sprinkle with chopped parsley. Makes 20 to 24 dumplings.

BIONICS:

A new science helps the blind to 'see'

BY HERBERT KUPFERBERG

CAMBRIDGE, MASS.

On a quiet Cambridge residential street, a man comes out of his house after the sanitation truck has passed to pick up his empty garbage cans. Although it is broad daylight, he is holding a square "flashlight" and he points it in front of him as he moves toward his receptacles, and stashes them alongside his driveway.

On a Canadian lake, a man with a similar instrument confidently navigates his small boat until he comes to a place he knows where the fishing is especially good.

On a downtown Boston street, a girl using still another device steps briskly across a thoroughfare, mounts the sidewalk on the other side, and continues on.

These people are all blind, and in each case the instrument that is helping them perform their daily tasks with such confidence is part of an ultrasonic arsenal that helps them "see" by hearing.

And far more sensitive and sophisticated weapons in the war on sightlessness are being tested in today's laboratories, pointing the way toward a brighter future for the blind than had been anticipated even a few short years ago.

These exciting advances stem from a new science called "bionics," a combination of biology and electronics which aims to develop machines that can perform or supplement the functions of the living organism.

The $200 flashlight

Through bionics, attempts are being made to enable the blind to "see" through the use of ultrasonic impulses, laser beams, and television-like cameras that can be worn on the head like a helmet. Most of these are still in the experimental stage, but scientists expect the first devices to be available to the general public within the near future. About 1000 of the square flashlights—called Kay-Ultra Mobility Aids—are already in use on an experimental and evaluation basis in 20 countries. These aids are expected to cost about $200 each.

"By the 21st century there is absolutely no reason why we won't be able to achieve at least some kind of minimal visual sensation by blind people—whether by hearing, skin sensation or direct stimulation of the brain—that will enable blind people to 'see'." So says John K. Dupress, 45-year-old director of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology's Center for Sensory Aids and Evaluation. Dupress is blind himself, as the result of a battle injury in the last week of World War II. The center is possibly the world's only clearing house for mobility aids to the blind, and Du-press possesses instant, encyclopedic knowledge about everything going on in this highly specialized field.

If there is one point Dupress is insistent upon it is that there is no electronic scheme, device, or gadget now under development that will replace or eliminate the standard cane or guide dog. The new electronic aids provide much more mobility for a blind person, but they cannot be relied upon alone. For instance, while they can detect a hole, they can't tell how deep it is. They can warn of steps ahead, but not how many or how high they are. Furthermore, they require long hours of intensive training in their use.

Nevertheless, blind people who have mastered the new devices report they are of great value in getting around in an unfamiliar environment. Perhaps the most promising is the Kay-Ultra device, which utilizes the principle of echolocation, the method that enables bats to fly about in total darkness by emitting high-frequency sounds and listening to the echoes. It sends out ultrasonic impulses that bounce back to the blind person from the obstacles in his path. He picks up these echoes at various pitches from an earpiece—the farther away the object, the higher the pitch. With sufficient practice, the Kay-Ultra aid can enable the user to distinguish between a dog, a wall, a bush, or a traffic stanchion. Dupress, who has tried out most of the devices himself, says that the Kay-Ultra "is indeed useful to provide supplemental data for things beyond one's reach, but I'd hate to rely on it alone in a busy downtown area."

Prof. Leslie Kay, an Englishman who invented the device, is now working in New Zealand on an improved binaural or "stereo" version called the "Kay-Aid."

Another device that offers great hope is the "Travel Path Sounder," developed by Lindsay Russell, an independent consulting engineer and an alumnus of

M.I.T. This is a comparatively simple mechanism that throws out ultrasonic waves, picks up the echoes, and processes them rapidly to tell whether or not there's anything in the way. It hangs around the blind person's neck and sits on the chest, leaving his hands free so he may carry a cane. When he approaches within six feet of an object he receives a warning signal that grows louder as he moves closer.

Educational consultant Carl Rogers shows how he uses the Kay-Ultra "flashlight."

The most basic and oldest of aids to the blind, the cane, has been adapted by bionics to provide additional service. Under the sponsorship of the Veterans Administration an elongated "laser cane" has been developed which emits three pinpoint light beams—one near eye level, another waist high, the third just above the ground. The device, which so far exists only in prototype, can thus scan the area immediately ahead of a blind person.

The most exciting devices

Most exciting of all, though still in their formative stages, are various devices that utilize TV-style cameras which can be mounted upon the head and transmit to the wearer a rough image of what lies ahead. In one such device, being tested at the Stanford Research Institute in Menlo Park, Calif., the image is felt by the blind person's fingertips as it is received on a "board" with vibrating reeds that is hung upon his chest. By feeling the reeds, a trained subject can, in effect, build up a rough outline, say, of a person's body, a triangle, a square, etc. In another such "optical-to-tactile image converter," at the Smith-Kettlewell Institute of Visual Sciences, Presbyterian Medical Center, San Francisco, the "image" is received through electrical signals that are transmitted directly onto the skin of the subject's back. Even more radical are experiments being conducted at Albert Einstein Medical College at Yeshiva University in New York in which an attempt is being made to transmit visual impressions directly into the cortex of blind people's brains.

With all this, why hasn't anyone tried to develop an artificial replacement for the living eye? Dupress points out that the human visual apparatus is by far the most complex part of the neural system, with about one million fibers running from the eye to the brain. Any such actual substitution is well beyond our present capacities.

"But while we cannot literally replace sight, we can try to get information into the brain by other methods," concludes Dupress. "If you could direct the right kind of particles, coded to the right kind of ion exchanges, there's no reason why these input signals couldn't stimulate the brain in such a way that visual sensitivity would result. Eventually, I feel sure, we will achieve a crude visual system or sensation right in the brain."

Like the scientists who are now working on this ancient human problem, Dupress feels that while the path of the blind may never be cleared completely, the first glimmerings of light are beginning to appear.

DO YOU KNOW ENOUGH TO GET MARRIED?

by Sid Ross

Bill and Sally want to get married. They go down to City Hall for their marriage license. But, first they're handed a 20-question test and told to sit down and pick the correct answers. Swimming in the bliss of young love, they sit down and go to work on such questions as:

What's the best definition of love? What's the single most important decision concerning marriage? Why are sex attitudes changing? How are family finances best handled?

After completing the multiple choice test in about 10 minutes, Bill and Sally turn in their sheets. The marriage license clerk quickly checks their answers. He turns to Bill and Sally and says, gravely:

"Young man, your grade was only 70 and, young lady, you scored only 55. Both of you failed the test. You'll have to go back and study your manual some more and come back and make a passing grade before you can get a marriage license."

That sort of thing, of course, doesn't happen today. Nowhere is a test on fitness for marriage required. But if such concerned men as Dr. John A. Ferris, of Warwick, R.I., had their way, a pre-marriage test would be mandatory and prospective brides and grooms would have to take it as many times as necessary to score a passing grade of 75—or be refused a marriage license.

Dr. Ferris, an obstetrician and gynecologist, came up with his proposal for a mandatory test as the result of a variety of experiences and impressions. It seemed to him that so many people—especially those marrying very young—were so poorly prepared that their unions were almost pre-doomed to unhappiness.

Also, as a physician he found that when troubled husbands and wives used him as "father confessor," he was appalled at their ignorance of marital problems. At the same time, he noticed his college-age daughter studying hard for her driver's license examination.

Why, he asked himself, shouldn't there be a compulsory test for marriage?

After a thorough study of several marriage manuals, principally Personal Understanding of Marriage, written by Dr. Robert N. Rutherford and his wife, Jean, Dr. Ferris prepared a sample test. PARADE presents 15 of these questions here today.

To educate young people to pass such a test, Dr. Ferris would require not only manual study by the license applicants, He'd like to see high schools and colleges offer courses far more broad than "so-called sex education." These should cover such fields as history and significance of the family, emotional compatibility and understanding, family finances and man-woman communication.

Dr. Ferris concedes there are obstacles in the way of his proposal for a mandatory pre-marriage test. Some might argue that it would be unconstitutional, a violation of civil rights. Also, it might be construed to be discriminatory against poorly educated people. But Dr. Ferris sticks to his guns:

"The idea is not to punish people or to prevent them from getting married. The whole idea is to inform them, to better prepare them for marriage. And, of course, even a compulsory test would be no guarantee of perfect marriage. It would be only one small baby step toward better and happier ones."

How You May

Never Take a Laxative Again!

New Miracle Regulator Helps Relief Come Naturally

New York, N.Y. (Special)—Research has discovered a wonder-working substance that helps correct constipation without laxatives!

Doctors say most constipation occurs when waste loses moisture in the colon. To give relief, laxatives have to force action—flush, irritate or distend the intestine.

The new miracle substance works in a completely different way. It helps natural moisture in the colon work more effectively. Thus by working on the problem, not on you, it helps correct constipation as no laxative can.

This discovery is now available under the name REGUTOL. It is not habit-forming. No warning on the label—no prescription needed. Try REGUTOL— you may never take a laxative again!

NOW YOU AND YOUR FAMILY ARE INVITED TO

Enjoy 10 Days Exploring Two Billion Years of Evolution

as guests of the LIFE Nature Library

THE MALE FRIGATE BIRD displays his bright red gular pouch to attract female attention. Attractive sexual characteristics tend to increase success in mating, and are therefore more likely to be passed on.

CONTROLLED EVOLUTION, such as man imposes on his domesticated flowers, fruits, and vegetables, is breathtakingly visible in this view of a Ferry-Morse experimental seed farm.

THE GIANT TORTOISES OF THE GALAPAGOS often have shells as roomy as bathtubs. Because mammals could not survive the long driftwood voyage from South America, the reptiles who made it developed remarkably.

Why does man seem so similar to the ape? Why do ancient rocks contain imprints of creatures now extinct? What causes giants, dwarfs, albinos? Why do some plants bear a startling resemblance to insects, and vice versa? A little over a century ago, no one really knew.

Then an English biologist, Charles Darwin, published one of the most important books in history. The first 1,250 copies of his The Origin of Species sold out in a day, and a storm of controversy broke which has never entirely died.

Today most of us are accustomed to such terms as "survival of the fittest" and "recessive genes." Yet we understand surprisingly little about Darwin's theory and the amazing evidence of its correctness since uncovered by other scientists.

Now, here at last—in the style that TIME-LIFE BOOKS has made famous, so that it makes perfect sense even to school children—is the remarkable story of evolution in this beautiful introductory volume of the LIFE NATURE LIBRARY.

You retrace the historic voyage that young Darwin made on H.M.S. Beagle, and see the very same phenomena that set his mind ablaze. You see the primitive Indians of Tierra del Fuego, at the bottom of the world, so tough they sleep naked on icy ground. You tour the Galápagos Islands, nature's own laboratory of evolution, where complete isolation from the rest of the world has resulted in startling species never seen anywhere else. The world's only seagoing lizards. 500-pound tortoises 100 years old. Thirteen varieties of Galápagos finch, a phenomenon which helped convince Darwin of the evolutionary process.

You see the clues to bygone life—shells, bones, tracks, eggs, imprints or entire mummies—preserved by nature in tar, coal, ice, and stone. You see a frozen baby mammoth perfectly preserved in Arctic ice for 22,000 years. You share the thrill of the couple in Tanganyika as they uncover the bones of the world's earliest known man—over a million years old!

Genetic scientists take you into their laboratories to explain the mysteries of the microscopic genes and chromosomes that determine the inheritance of characteristics. You see a human egg magnified 2,000 times. How a living cell divides.

Obviously so vast and exciting a book cannot be adequately described here. So we invite you to borrow a copy of Evolution from us for 10 days. Then if you wish you may return it and owe nothing. Or you may own it for much less than such an expensively printed and handsomely bound book would ordinarily cost. Thanks to TIME-LIFE BOOKS' vast facilities and large print orders, you pay only $3.95 (plus shipping and handling). Then you will be entitled to receive another volume from the LIFE NATURE LIBRARY for a 10-day free examination every 2 months.

But you make no commitments, promise to buy nothing. And you may cancel this arrangement any time you wish. However, the entire series makes an impressive encyclopedia of nature that your family will increasingly treasure—a superb reference shelf and study aid used in thousands of classrooms from elementary school through college. To examine the first volume, simply mail coupon.

Actual size 8 1/2" x 11" • Permanent hard covers, printed in full color • 190 pages • 192 photographs, paintings, maps, drawings and charts (68 in full color).
